EDITORS' PREFACE.

PROBABLY at no period, since the Reformation, has the national Church occupied the attention of intelligent men in foreign lands and of all classes in our own land, to so large an extent as she does at the present day. Her internal strength has, of late years, been marvellously recruited; and, as a consequence, her energies have rapidly expanded. But her growing activity, encouraging as it is to her faithful members, has stimulated the attacks of opponents, who have exaggerated the peculiarities of her ritual into defects or distorted them into blemishes. On the one hand she has been assailed as inclining too much to the practices and doctrines of the Church of Rome; on the other as having too little sympathy with the primitive usages of Christianity. In each of these cases her Prayer-book is made the chief object of attack. Hence we are of opinion that an intimate acquaintance with the history of the formation of the Prayer-book, as well as with the contents of its Offices, is a most desirable, we had almost said an indispensable, element in the education of all churchmen.

Many volumes, illustrating the different Services of the Prayer-book, are to be found on the shelves of theological libraries. But these stores of knowledge are not, generally, within reach of the ordinary lay members of our Church, and are, sometimes, not easy of access even to the clergyman. Under these circumstances it has appeared to us that a portable edition of the Prayer-book, accompanied by compendious notes, arranged, as far as possible, face to face with the text illustrated, was wanted in our ritualistic literature. We have tried to supply this want by the present work. In the notes we have endeavoured to shew the position which our Service-book holds relatively to the Service-books of other Communion, and also of our own Church at an earlier period of her national life: and, with this end in view, we have given a short account of the origin, development, and alterations of the various Services.

Our commentary does not much affect originality. We have consulted the ritual collections of Martene and Mabillon, the York and Sarum Uses, and the present Service books of the Greek Church; and we have freely used the works of Bingham, Palmer, Keeling, Stephens, Freeman, and Procter. In explaining the rules for finding Easter we have borrowed largely from De Morgan. The emblems of saints have been extracted from the work of Husenbeth.

We are much indebted to the Rev. H. J. Hotham, M.A. Fellow of Trinity College, for many valuable hints, and especially for the tables of Psalms according to the Latin ritual.

In order to render the commentary generally useful, passages, quoted from Greek or Latin authors, have been translated, except where our object was the comparison of the English form with that from which it is said to have been derived.

As a popular explanation of many matters ordinarily apprehended with some vagueness, and also as a sort of syllabus to the student of Church ritual, we ask for an indulgent acceptance of the Interleaved Prayer-book.

PREFACE.

FROM the time of the Exodus to this day, God's people have always had public services of religion and set forms of worship. The learned Lightfoot (Works, Vol. IX. Ed. Pitman, 1823) gives a full account of the Temple worship and of the Synagogue worship at the time of our Saviour, the former consisting of set prayers, Psalms, lessons, sacrifices, and incense, the latter of prayers, praises, and Scriptures, without the sacrificial offerings. The disciples of Jesus, used to such services, desired their Lord that He also would teach them how to pray: and He gave His fullest sanction to set forms of devotion by teaching them that prayer, which has ever since borne His name, and which, with the exception of one single petition in it, was taken by Him from the liturgies then used among the Jews. Indeed herein He followed a custom already familiar to His countrymen according to the flesh, the custom, namely, that their chief teachers should compose short summaries from the longer liturgies in order to facilitate their retention in the memory (Lightfoot, on Matt. vi. 9, Vol. XI. pp. 141—149).

Our blessed Lord farther gave His sanction to such services, first, by His own attendance at the synagogue worship and by taking part in its teaching (Mark i. 39; Luke iv. 15, 16, 44); secondly, by instituting the highest ordinance of devotion for His future Church after the exact pattern of the Paschal solemnity (see Buxtorf, de Cæna Domini, passim; Lightfoot, on Matt. xxvi. 26, 17); apparently using on that occasion all the forms, prayers, and hymns which were then in use among the Jews (Lightfoot, on Mark xiv. 26).

The custom of the Apostolic Church to meet for prayer and the administration of the Holy Communion every Lord's Day (Acts ii. 42, 46; xx. 7), St Paul's direction that all this should be done decorously and according to a regular order (1 Cor. xiv. 40), his directions to Timothy, Bishop of Ephesus, concerning the prayer, thanksgivings and intercessions to be used in that Church (1 Tim. ii. 1 seq.), all seem to point in the same direction, and to shew that the Apostles and the Apostolic Churches had set forms of service for public devotion. It is thought by the most impartial commentators that there are allusions to antiphonal hymns and liturgies, and perhaps quotations from them in the writings of St Paul. See Eph. v. 19 (Bull, Prim. Trad. i. 12; Scholefield, Hints, p. 103; Conybeare and Howson, Alford and Ellicott in loc.), 1 Tim. iii. 16 (Winer, Gram. Pt. III. § 64. 3; Conybeare and Howson, Ellicott in loc.)

The well-known testimony of Pliny, but just after the death of the last Apostle, refers to antiphonal hymns addressed to Christ as God, and probably to the public celebration of the sacraments in the Christian Churches (Plin. Lib. x. Ep. 97); and from that time a chain of evidence has been gathered out of the works of Ignatius, Justin Martyr, Irenæus, Tertullian, Hippolytus, Origen, Cyprian, Gregory Thaumaturgus, and others, extending to the time of the Council of Nice, all witnessing to the same early custom of having forms of prayer (see Bingham, Eccl. Ant. Bk. XIII. ch. v.). The objection, that no very early liturgy has come down to us, is explained by the fact, that in the earliest ages every diocese had its own forms of worship, and even that the wording of its Creed was drawn up by its own bishop. The general principle that "Nothing be done without the bishop," extended even to the arranging of all the services of the diocese (Bingham, Bk. XIII. ch. v. § 1). And, moreover, the care which Christians took to preserve their more sacred ordinances from pollution and contempt among the heathen, appears to have induced them to commit their public prayers to memory rather than suffer them to be preserved in books or writings (Dallæ: de Cultu Relig. Lib. 1. c. 25; Bingham, as above, § 3; Brett, Dissn. on Liturgies, § 2). By the end of the third century, or beginning of the fourth, the evidence becomes more distinct. In the middle of the fourth century St Cyril's second Mystagogical Catechism gives us a clear idea of the ancient baptismal service, and the fifth gives an outline of the form of administering the Holy Communion.

It is scarcely possible to put the date of the Apostolical Constitutions later than the end of the third or beginning of the fourth century, and in them we have at great length services for Baptism, Holy Communion, and Ordination. Apost. Const. Libb. VII. VIII. But what is of more consequence still is this, that we possess a number of liturgies,¹ which without doubt were early used in all the most widely separated portions of the Christian Church: the Liturgy of St James, or of the Church of Jerusalem; that of St Mark, or of the Church of Alexandria; St Chrysostom's, or the Constantinopolitan; the Liturgy of St Basil, or the Cappadocian; the Liturgy of Severus, used in the patriarchate of Antioch; the North African, as described by St Augustine, which corresponds with St Cyprian's; the Roman; the Gothic, which prevailed, with some varieties, among the Gothic Churches of Gaul and Spain; the Mozarabic, used in Africa, and afterwards in Spain; the Nestorian, in use among the followers of Nestorius, who seceded from the Catholic Church in the fifth century. (See Guericke, Antiquities of Christian Church, § XXXII. 3; Brett, on Liturgies, passim.)

All these bear concurrent testimony to the existence of regular liturgies from the time when these different Churches had communion with each other, or with some common centre, and all resemble one another in their most important features; whilst from the wide separation of these churches, the difficulty of communication between them, and the absence of any single authority which could influence them all, we are compelled to infer that the general harmony must have resulted from the handing down and spreading abroad to them all of some primitive form of liturgy which had been in use from Apostolic times. (Palmer's Orig. Liturg. Preliminary Dissertation.)

The primitive liturgies thus preserved to us were evidently in languages understood by the people amongst whom they prevailed. (Bingham, Book XIII. ch. iv.) They contain no invocation of saints, no mention of purgatory, no doctrine of transubstantiation. Even the Roman canon of the Mass has descended to the present day so far free from such admixtures as to be a witness against the corruptions of later days.

The early British Church appears to have adopted the Gallican Liturgy, a form derived from the East; and after the conversion of the Saxons, Pope Gregory gave permission to Augustine to choose either the Gallican or the Roman services, or selections from various forms, as he might find most suitable for the infant Church of England, (Bed, Hist. Eccl. i. 72). Augustine's bias was in favour of the Roman, whilst the bishops of the British Church still retained their predilection for the Gallican Liturgy; the result being, that different dioceses had different modifications of the forms of public worship, the various modes of chanting the services in each being distinguished as the special "Uses" of the various dioceses. Of all these the most esteemed was the Use of Sarum, drawn up in the latter part of the 11th century by Osmund, Bishop of Salisbury; a form, which was at length in great measure adopted in many other dioceses of Great Britain (Procter, Hist. of Com. Prayer, p. 4).

The Missals, Breviaries, and other books of devotion in the middle ages were of course in Latin; but there existed previously to the Reformation what was called a Prymer in English, containing the Pater Noster, Ave, Creed, the Ten Commandments, the Litany, the seven Penitential Psalms and other offices of devotion, intended specially for the private use of the people. One of the first efforts of the early reformers was to substitute English services for those in the Latin tongue. In 1530 Marshall's Prymer was put forth. In 1540 the English Bible was set up in churches. In 1544 the Litany was translated, with an omission of the names of saints which had accumulated in the Latin Litanies. In 1547, the first year of Edward VI., Convocation authorized the administering of the Communion in both kinds, and Parliament issued a commission for the meeting of a body of bishops and other divines to reform the Church services. Their first publication, issued in March 1548, was "the Order of the Communion," a Communion office partly in English, intended to serve until the whole of the projected Service Book should be prepared (see Sparrow's Collection, p. 15, Cardwell's Two Liturgies, p. 425, Two Liturgies, Parker Society, p. 1).

That book, commonly called the First Service Book of Edward VI., is thought to have been approved by Convocation, and was certainly established by authority of Parliament in the year 1549.

The principle on which the reformers acted in the preparation of their book seems to have been as follows. They made use of the service books already existing in the Church, translating the prayers, psalms, epistles and gospels into English, omitting what appeared to have been derived, not from Scripture or primitive practice, but from the increasing superstitions of the medieval Church. They reduced all the different uses to one, simplifying the whole, and making it intelligible to the people. They endeavoured to conform the administration of both sacraments as nearly as they could to the primitive model, and they expunged especially the prayers of invocation to the Blessed Virgin and the saints.

In the same year, or rather in the early part of 1550, according to modern reckoning, the commissioners drew up a new Ordinal, called a "Form for the Ordering of Bishops, Priests, and Deacons" (see Lathbury, Hist. of Convocation, p. 141).

In 1552 what is called the Second Service Book of Edward VI. was put forth, and the Ordinal, slightly modified, was incorporated with it (Ib.).

The difference between the First and Second Books of the reign of Edward VI. consisted chiefly in the following particulars. The First Book began with the Lord's Prayer. All that now stands before that prayer was first added in the Second Book. In the Communion Service the Ten Commandments were added, the Gloria in excelsis having in the First Book occupied the place in which the Commandments now stand; the prayer "for the whole state of Christ's Church," which in the First Book contained a commendation of the departed, was changed in the Second Book into "the Prayer for the whole state of Christ's Church militant here in earth," as we have it now. In the Prayer of Consecration the crossing and the invocation of the Holy Spirit to sanctify the elements "that they may be unto us the Body and Blood" of Christ were omitted. In the administration of the elements wholly different words were used. In Baptism the First Service Book had exorcism, anointing, chrisom and trine immersion, which were omitted in the Second. In the Burial Service the prayers for the dead were changed into thanksgivings. A rubric was prefixed to the order for Morning and Evening Prayer forbidding alb, vestment, or cope, and enjoining the bishop to wear a rochet, and the priest or deacon a surplice.

It appears that the reform of the Services had now somewhat exceeded the desires of the people; for the Act of Parliament which authorized the new book declared that "the doubts which had been raised in the use and exercise" of the First Book "proceeded rather from the curiosity of the ministers and mistakers than from any other worthy cause." Convocation was never allowed to pass its judgment upon it; and indeed the extensive changes introduced in it are thought to have been in great measure due to the zeal for reformation on the part of the young king and his council. Of course, Queen Mary's reign restored the Roman ritual. Soon after the accession of Elizabeth a committee of divines was appointed, the chief of whom appears to have been Guest, who reported in favour of the Second Service Book of Edward VI., apparently objecting to any modification of it ; but the book, as passed by the Parliament, contained the following changes. A new table of lessons was appointed for Sundays ; the words "from the tyranny of the Bishop of Rome and all his detestable enormities" were omitted in the Litany ; the form of words in delivering the consecrated elements was made to consist of the words in the First Service Book, together with those in the Second Book. The question of habits and vestments had long been, and still was, in dispute. The bishops were evidently in favour of the rochet and surplice only, as ordered in the Second Book of Edward VI. ; whilst the queen inclined both to higher doctrine and richer ceremonial. At her instance a rubric was prefixed to the Prayer Book authorizing the minister "to use such ornaments in the Church as were in use by authority of Parliament" in the 2nd year of Edward VI. ; but the Act of Uniformity (1 Eliz. c. 2), which contained the same provisions as that rubric, went on with the words "until other order shall be therein taken by the authority of the Queen's Majesty, with the advice of her commissioners.....or of the metropolitan." This appeared to be making the provision temporary ; and the bishops themselves inferred that the meaning was, "that they should not be forced to use such ornaments, but that others in the meantime should not convey them away, but that they should remain for the queen." (Bp. Sandys to Archbishop Parker, Strype, Ann. Vol. I. P. I. p. 122, Cardwell's Hist. Conferences, p. 36.)

The main substance of the Book of Common Prayer may be said to have continued from that day to this unchanged. In the reign of James I. the form of service for private baptism was so far altered as to give authority to none but lawful ministers to use it, and the Catechism was enlarged by the addition of the portion concerning the sacraments. In the reign of Charles the Second, the demands of the Puritans for reform were thought so unreasonable, that the result of the conference between them and the bishops was in the opposite direction from that desired by the former. The chief changes were the substitution of the word "church" for "congregation," of "priest" for "minister" in the rubric before the absolution; of "bishops, priests, and deacons" for "bishops, pastors, and ministers of the Church" in the Litany; the addition of the clause concerning departed saints to the Prayer for the Church militant; the placing the prayer for the king, and those which follow it, in the Order for Morning and Evening Service; the addition of the "Collect or Prayer for all conditions of men," the general thanksgiving, the Prayers for ember weeks, the Prayer for the Parliament, and some others; the printing of the Epistles and Gospels in the words of the last translation; the omission of the rubric, "And (to the end the people may the better hear) in such places where they do sing there shall the lessons be sung in a plain tune after the manner of distinct reading; and likewise the Gospel and Epistle;" the alteration of the rubric before the Prayer for the Church Militant, so as to order the presentation of the alms and the placing of the bread and wine upon the Lord's Table; the addition of the rubric before the Prayer of Consecration, directing the priest to stand before the Table and so order the bread and wine, that he may with more readiness and decency break the bread before the people. A service also was provided for the baptism of those of riper years, and a form of prayer to be used at sea.

This last review was the completion of the Prayer Book, which from that time (1662) to this has remained unaltered. Its history is the best witness to its worth. Formed upon the models of ancient liturgies, it was yet adapted to the use of later times. Translated from the service books long used in the Church, it was yet reduced to the agreement with "the most sincere and pure Christian religion taught by the Scripture, and with the usages in the primitive Church" (Act of Uniformity, 2 and 3 Edw. VI. c. 1). The liberty, which bishops had originally exercised, of putting forth different liturgies and afterwards different uses in their respective dioceses, was yielded up by them all, when they agreed to one uniform order of Common Prayer and administration of Sacraments. The nation ratified the same by repeated Acts of Uniformity, whereby both clergy and laity accepted the Prayer Book as the standard of public worship for this Church and realm. It is not too much to say of it, that it has been from the first until this day the loved and valued treasury of pious thought, of public and of private devotion to the most godly men in England, and that, wherever known, it has been respected and honoured, even by those of other nations and other communions. It may well be believed to have been drawn up "by the aid of the Holy Ghost" (Act, 2 and 3 Edw. VI. c. 1). May the good Providence of God strengthen, perfect, preserve, and bless it to our use and to His glory, through Jesus Christ.

Amen.

2 and 3 EDWARD VI. CAP. I.

An Act for the Uniformity of Service and Administration of the Sacraments throughout the Realm.

WHERE of long Time there hath been had in this Realm of England and in Wales divers Forms of Common Prayer, commonly called the Service of the Church; that is to say, The Use of Sarum, of York, of Bangor, and of Lincoln; and besides the same now of late much more divers and sundry Forms and Fashions have been used in the Cathedral and Parish Churches of England and Wales, as well concerning the Mattens or Morning Prayer and the Evensong, as also concerning the Holy Communion, commonly called the Mass, with divers and sundry Rites and Ceremonies concerning the same, and in the Administration of other Sacraments of the Church: And as the Doers and Executors of the said Rites and Ceremonies, in other Form than of late Years they have been used, were pleased therewith: So other not using the same Rites and Ceremonies were thereby greatly offended: And albeit the King's Majesty, with the Advice of his most entirely beloved Uncle the Lord Protector, and other of his Highness Council, hath heretofore divers Times assayed to stay Innovations or new Rites concerning the Premises; yet the same hath not had such good Success as his Highness required in that Behalf; whereupon his Highness, by the most prudent Advice aforesaid, being pleased to bear with the Frailty and Weakness of his Subjects in that Behalf, of his great Clemency hath not been only content to abstain from Punishment of those that have offended in that Behalf, for that his Highness taketh that they did it of a good Zeal; but also to the Intent a uniform, quiet, and godly Order should be had concerning the Premises, hath appointed the Archbishop of Canterbury, and certain of the most learned and discreet Bishops, and other learned Men of this Realm, to consider and ponder the Premises; and thereupon having as well Eye and Respect to the most sincere and pure Christian Religion taught by the Scripture, as to the Usages in the Primitive Church, should draw and make one convenient and meet Order, Rite and Fashion of common and open Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments, to be had and used in his Majesty's Realm of England and in Wales; the which at this Time, by the aid of the Holy Ghost, with one uniform Agreement is of them concluded, set forth and delivered to his Highness, to his great Comfort and Quietness of Mind, in a Book intitled The Book of the Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, after the Use of the Church of England. Wherefore the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, considering as well the most godly Travel of the King's Highness, of the Lord Protector, and of other his Highness Council, in gathering and collecting the said Archbishop, Bishops and learned Men together, as the godly Prayers, Orders, Rites and Ceremonies in the said Book mentioned, and the Considerations of altering those Things which be altered, and retaining those Things which be retained in the said Book, but also the Honour of God and great Quietness, which by the Grace of God shall ensue upon the one and uniform Rite and Order in such Common Prayer and Rites and external Ceremonies to be used throughout England and in Wales, at Calice and the Marches of the same, do give to his Highness most hearty and lowly thanks for the same: And humbly prayen, that it may be ordained and enacted by his Majesty, with the Assent of the Lords and Commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the Authority of the same, That all and singular Person and Persons that have offended concerning the Premises, other than such Person and Persons as now be and remain in Ward in the Tower of London, or in the Fleet, may be pardoned thereof; and that all and singular Ministers in any Cathedral or Parish Church or other Place within this Realm of England, Wales, Calice, and the Marches of the same, or other the King's Dominions, shall from and after the Feast of Pentecost next coming, be bounden to say and use the Mattens, Evensong, Celebration of the Lord's Supper, commonly called the Mass, and Administration of each of the Sacraments, and all their common and open Prayer, in such Order and Form as is mentioned in the same Book, and none other or otherwise. And albeit that the same be so godly and good, that they give Occasion to every honest and conformable Man most willingly to embrace them, yet lest any obstinate Person who willingly would disturb so godly Order and Quiet in this

PRIMO ELIZABETHÆ.

WHERE at the death of our late Sovereign Lord King Edward the Sixth, there remained one uniform order of Common Service, and Prayer, and of the Administration of Sacraments, Rites and Ceremonies in the Church of England, which was set forth in one Book, Intituled, The Book of Common Prayer, and Administration of Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies in the Church of England, authorized by Act of Parliament holden in the fifth and sixth years of our said late Sovereign Lord King Edward the Sixth, Intituled, An Act for the Uniformity of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments; The which was repealed, and taken away by Act of Parliament, in the first year of the Reign of our late Sovereign Lady Queen Mary, to the great decay of the due honour of God, and discomfort to the professors of the truth of Christ's Religion:

Be it therefore Enacted by the Authority of this present Parliament, That the said Statute of Repeal, and every thing therein contained, only concerning the said Book, and the Service, Administration of Sacraments, Rites, and Ceremonies contained or appointed in, or by the said Book, shall be void and of none effect, from and after the Feast of the Nativity of Saint John Baptist next coming: and That the said Book, with the order of Service, and of the Administration of Sacraments, Rites and Ceremonies, with the alterations and additions therein added and appointed by this Statute, shall stand, and be, from, and after the said Feast of the Nativity of Saint John Baptist, in full force and effect, according to the tenour and effect of this Statute: Any thing in the foresaid Statute of Repeal to the contrary notwithstanding.

And further be it Enacted by the Queen's Highness, with the assent of the Lords and Commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the Authority of the same, That all, and singular Ministers in any Cathedral, or Parish-Church, or other place within this Realm of England, Wales, and the Marches of the same, or other the Queen's Dominions, shall from and after the Feast of the Nativity of Saint John Baptist, next coming, be bounden to say and use the Mattins, Evensong, celebration of the Lord's Supper, and Administration of each of the Sacraments, and all the Common and open Prayer, in such order and form as is mentioned in the said Book, so Authorized by Parliament in the said fifth and sixth years of the Reign of King Edward the Sixth; with one alteration, or addition of certain Lessons to be used on every Sunday in the year, and the form of the Litaney altered, and corrected, and two sentences only added in the delivery of the Sacrament to the Communicants, and none other, or otherwise: and, That if any manner of Parson, Vicar, or other whatsoever Minister that ought or should sing, or say Common Prayer mentioned in the said Book, or minister the Sacraments, from, and after the Feast of the Nativity of Saint John Baptist next coming, refuse to use the said Common Prayer, or to minister the Sacraments in such Cathedral or Parish-Church, or other places, as he should use to minister the same, in such order and form, as they be men-and observed as Holy days: And whereas by the great and scandalous neglect of Ministers in using the said Order or Liturgy so set forth and enjoined as aforesaid, great mischiefs and inconveniences, during the times of the late unhappy troubles, have arisen and grown, and many people have been led into Factions and Schisms, to the great decay and scandal of the Reformed Religion of the Church of England, and to the hazard of many souls: for prevention whereof in time to come, for settling the Peace of the Church, and for allaying the present distempers which the indisposition of the time hath contracted, The King's Majesty, (according to His Declaration of the Five and twentieth of October One thousand six hundred and sixty) granted His Commission under the great Seal of England to several Bishops and other Divines, to review the Book of Common Prayer, and to prepare such Alterations and Additions as they thought fit to offer: and afterwards the Convocations of both the Provinces of Canterbury and York being by His Majesty called and assembled, and now sitting, His Majesty hath been pleased to authorize and require the Presidents of the said Convocations, and other the Bishops and Clergy of the same, to review the said Book of Common Prayer, and the Book of the Form and Manner of the Making and Consecrating of Bishops, Priests and Deacons: And that after mature consideration they should make such Additions and Alterations in the said Books respectively, as to them should seem by the Authority aforesaid, That the respective Deans and Chapters of every Cathedral or Collegiate Church within England and Wales shall at their proper costs and charges, before the twenty-fifth day of December One thousand six hundred sixty-two, obtain under the Great Seal of England a true and perfect printed Copy of this Act, and of the said Book annexed hereunto, to be by the said Deans and Chapters, and their Successors, kept and preserved in safety for ever, and to be also produced and shewed forth in any Court of Record, as often as they shall be thereunto lawfully required; And also there shall be delivered true and perfect Copies of this Act and of the same Book, into the respective Courts at Westminster, and into the Tower of London, to be kept and preserved for ever among the Records of the said Courts, and the Records of the Tower, to be also produced and shewed forth in any Court, as needs shall require; which said Books so to be exemplified under the Great Seal of England, shall be examined by such persons as the King's Majesty shall appoint, under the Great Seal of England, for that purpose, and shall be compared with the Original Book hereunto annexed, and shall have power to correct and amend in writing any Error committed by the Printer in the printing of the same Book, or of any thing therein contained, and shall certify in writing under their Hands and Seals, or the Hands and Seals of any Three of them, at the end of the same Book, that they have examined and compared the same Book, and find it to be a true and perfect Copy; which said Books, and every one of them, so exemplified under the Great Seal of England as aforesaid, shall be deemed, taken, adjudged and expounded to be good and available in the Law, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, and shall be accounted as good Records as this Book itself hereunto annexed; Any Law or Custom to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.

agreed upon by the Archbishops, and Bishops of both Provinces, and the whole Clergy in the Convocation holden at London, in the year of our Lord One thousand five hundred sixty-two, for the avoiding of diversities of Opinions, and for establishing of consent touching true Religion, is in these words following, viz.

That the Book of Consecration of Archbishops, and Bishops, and Ordaining of Priests and Deacons, lately set forth in the time of King Edward the Sixth, and confirmed at the same time by Authority of Parliament, doth contain all things necessary to such Consecration and Ordaining, neither hath it any thing that of itself is superstitious and ungodly: And therefore whosoever are Consecrated or Ordered according to the Rites of that Book, since the second year of the aforesaid King Edward unto this time, or hereafter shall be Consecrated or Ordered according to the same Rites, We decree all such to be rightly, orderly and lawfully Consecrated and Ordered.

Provided also, That the Book of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, together with the form and manner of Ordaining and Consecrating Bishops, Priests and Deacons, heretofore in use, and respectively established by Act of Parliament in the First and Eighth years of Queen Elizabeth, shall be still used and observed in the Church of England, until the Feast of Saint Bartholomew, which shall be in the year of our Lord God One thousand six hundred sixty and two.

THIS Preface was prefixed in 1662: its composition is ascribed to Sanderson, Bishop of Lincoln.

A few weeks after the restoration of Charles II. certain Presbyterian ministers presented an address to him, praying for a new form of Common Prayer, or at least a revision and effectual reform of the old form. The Church party, while contending for the preservation of the Prayer-book in its integrity, were willing to have it reviewed. Accordingly, on March 25th, 1661, a royal warrant was issued, appointing twelve bishops and twelve presbyterian divines, with nine other divines on each side as assistants, a Commission to advise upon and review the Book of Common Prayer. The Commission met for the first time on April 15th, when the Presbyterians were called on to deliver in their exceptions to the book and to specify the additions which they desired. They did so at some length. They objected to the baptismal office, to the use of the surplice, and to kneeling at the receiving of the holy communion. One of their proposals was that the Litany should be changed into one long solemn prayer, another that the minister should be allowed to omit part of the public prayer at his discretion, another that the repetitions and responses of the clerk and people and the alternate reading of the psalms and hymns should be laid aside. They further proposed that the minister should have full power to admit or repel communicants. The self-sufficiency, not to say arrogance, which these objections and requirements manifest, marked the whole of their conduct. The consequence was just such as might have been expected. The fierce and captious spirit of the Presbyterians made the Church divines still more unyielding, so that the conference between them ended July 25th, 1661, "without any accommodation," the commissioners agreeing to report to the King: "That the Church's welfare, that unity and peace, and his majesty's satisfaction, were ends, upon which they were all agreed; but as to the means they could not come to any harmony."

Meanwhile the Convocation, which had assembled May 8th, 1661, was not idle. They drew up a form of prayer for the 29th of May, and also an office for the baptism of adults. After some adjournments Convocation reassembled on Nov. 21st, when, in obedience to the king's letters directing a revision of the Prayer-book, Cosin, bp of Durham, Wren, bp of Ely, Skinner, bp of Oxford, Warner, bp of Rochester, Henchman, bp of Salisbury, Morley, bp of Worcester, Sanderson, bp of Lincoln, and Nicholson, bp of Gloucester, were appointed a committee for that purpose. The work seems to have been already done; for on Nov. 23rd a portion of the corrected Prayer-book was delivered to the prolocutor; and the whole business was completed by Dec. 20th, when the revised book was adopted and subscribed.

On Nov. 22nd the King wrote to the Archbishop of York, authorising the northern Convocation to review the Prayer-book. His letter was sent the next day by the prelates of the northern province, who were then in London, to the prolocutor of York, with a request that proxies should be forthwith appointed to represent the lower house of the northern Convocation in the Convocation of Canterbury. Such proxies were appointed on Nov. 30th. They assented to the revised book. And the book, thus adopted by the bishops and the whole clergy, was presented to the King, who, having confirmed it under the great seal, sent it with a royal message to Parliament, Feb. 25th, 1662. The Act of Uniformity, enforcing its use, received the royal assent on the 19th May, 1662.

Of Acts of Uniformity.

In the 2nd year of Edward the Sixth a Prayer Book was established by Stat. 2 and 3 Edw. VI. c. 1. This act was not printed with the Prayer Book. The second Prayer Book of Edw. VI. was established by Stat. 5 and 6 Edw. VI. c. 1, s. 5, in which the revision of the former book is announced, and ascribed rather to the curiosity of ministers and mistakers than to any other worthy cause; the Form of Making and Consecrating of Archbishops, Bishops, Priests and Deacons is added, and declared to be of the same force as the Book of Common Prayer.

This act was printed with the edition of the Prayer Book in 1552. A Prayer Book was likewise established by Stat. 1 Eliz. c. 2. But the regulations made in the several acts of uniformity for the establishing of the several respective Books are enforced by Stat. 13 and 14 Car. II. c. 4, s. 24, by which it was enacted "that the several good laws and statutes of the realm, which have been formerly made and are now in force for the uniformity of prayer and administration of the sacraments, shall stand in full force and strength to all intents and purposes

THE PREFACE.

IT hath been the wisdom of the Church of England, ever since the first compiling of her publick Liturgy, to keep the mean between the two extremes, of too much stiffness in refusing, and of too much easiness in admitting any variation from it. For, as on the one side common experience sheweth, that where a change hath been made of things advisedly established (no evident necessity so requiring) sundry inconveniences have thereupon ensued; and those many times more and greater than the evils, that were intended to be remedied by such change: So on the other side, the particular forms of Divine worship, and the Rites and Ceremonies appointed to be used therein, being things in their own nature indifferent, and alterable, and so acknowledged; it is but reasonable, that upon weighty and important considerations, according to the various exigency of times and occasions, such changes and alterations should be made therein, as to those that are in place of Authority should from time to time seem either necessary or expedient. Accordingly we find, that in the reigns of several Princes of blessed memory since the Reformation, the Church, upon just and weighty considerations her thereunto moving, hath yielded to make such alterations in some particulars, as in their respective times were thought convenient; yet so, as that the main body and essentials of it (as well in the chiefest materials, as in the frame and order thereof) have still continued the same unto this day, and do yet stand firm and unshaken, notwithstanding all the vain attempts and impetuous assaults made against it, by such men as are given to change, and have always discovered a greater regard to their own private faucies and interests, than to that duty they owe to the publick.

By what undue means, and for what mischievous purposes the use of the Liturgy (though enjoined by the laws of the land, and those laws never yet repealed) came, during the late unhappy confusions, to be discontinued, is too well known to the world, and we are not willing here to remember. But when, upon His Majesty's happy restoration, it seemed probable, that, amongst other things, the use of the Liturgy would also return of course (the same having never been legally abolished) unless some timely means were used to prevent it; those men who under the late usurped powers had made it a great part of their business to render the people disaffected thereunto, saw themselves in point of reputation and interest concerned (unless they would freely acknowledge themselves to have erred, which such men are very hardly brought to do) with their utmost endeavours to hinder the restitution thereof. In order whereunto divers pamphlets were published against the Book of Common Prayer, the old objections mustered up, with the addition of some new ones, more than formerly had been made, to make the number swell. In fine, great impertinities were used to His Sacred Majesty, that the said Book might be revised, and such alterations therein, and additions thereunto made, as should be thought requisite for the ease of tender consciences: whereunto His Majesty, out of his pious inclination to give satisfaction (so far as could be reasonably expected) to all his subjects of what persuasion soever, did graciously condescend.

In which review we have endeavoured to observe the like moderation, as we find to have been used in the like case in former times. And therefore of the sundry alterations proposed unto us, we have rejected all such as were either of dangerous consequence (as secretly striking at some established doctrine, or laudable practice of the Church of England, or indeed of the whole Catholick Church of Christ) or else of no consequence at all, but utterly frivolous and vain. But such alterations as were tendered to us, (by what persons, under what pretences, or to what purpose soever so tendered) as seemed to us in any degree requisite or expedient, we have willingly, and of our own accord assented unto: not enforced so to do by any strength of argument, convincing us of the necessity of making the said alterations: for we are fully persuaded in our judgements (and we here profess it to the world) that the Book, as it stood before established by law, doth not contain in it any thing contrary to the Word of God, or to sound doctrine, or which a godly man may not with a good conscience use and submit unto, or which is not fairly defensible against any that shall oppose the same; if it shall be allowed such just and favourable construction as in common equity ought to be allowed to all human writings, especially such as are set forth by authority, and even to the very best translations of the holy Scripture itself.

Our general aim therefore in this undertaking was, not to gratify this or that party in any their unreasonable demands; but to do that, which to our best understandings we conceived might most tend to the preservation of peace and unity in the Church; the procuring of reverence, and exciting of piety and devotion in the publick worship of God; and the cutting off occasion from them that seek occasion of cavil or quarrel against the Liturgy of the Church. And as to the several variations from the former Book, whether by alteration, addition, or otherwise, it shall suffice to give this general account, That most of the alterations were made, either first, for the better direction of them that are to officiate in any part of Divine Service; which is chiefly done in the Calendars and Rubricks: Or secondly, for the more proper expressing of some words or phrases of ancient usage in terms more suitable to the language of the present times, and the clearer explanation of some other words and phrases, that were either of doubtful signification, or otherwise liable to misconstruction: Or thirdly, for a more perfect rendering of such portions of whatsoever, for the establishing and confirming of the said book hereintofore mentioned to be joined and annexed to this act, and shall be applied, practised, and put in use for the punishing of all offences contrary to the said laws with relation to the book aforesaid and no other." By the same statute a true printed copy of this Book of Common Prayer is to be procured for every parish church, chapelry, cathedral church, college and hall at the cost of the parishioners, and a fine of £3 a month levied for neglect.

In Kemp v. Wilkes, Sir John Nicholl gave this useful summary. The Book of Common Prayer and therefore the rubric contained in the Book of Common Prayer has been confirmed by parliament. Anciently and before the Reformation, various liturgies were used in this country, and it should seem as if each bishop might in his own particular diocese direct the form in which the public service was to be performed; but after the Reformation, in the reigns of Edward the Sixth and Queen Elizabeth, acts of uniformity passed, and those acts of uniformity established a particular liturgy to be used throughout the kingdom.

King James the First made some alteration in the Liturgy, particularly as it will be necessary to notice in this matter of baptism. Immediately upon the Restoration, the Book of Common Prayer was revised. An attempt was then made to render it satisfactory both to the Church itself and to those who dissented from the Church, particularly to the Presbyterians; and for that purpose conferences were held in the Savoy: but the other party requiring an entire new liturgy on an entire new plan, the conference broke up without success. The Liturgy was then revised by the two houses of convocation: it was approved by the king; it was presented to the parliament, and an act was passed confirming it in the 13 and 14 Car. I., being the last act which was passed upon the subject; and so it stands confirmed to this day, except so far as any alteration may have been produced by the Toleration Act or by any subsequent statutes. The rubric then or the directions of the Book of Common Prayer form a part of the statute law of the land. STEPHENS' Laws relating to the Clergy, Vol. II. 1079—80.

CONCERNING THE SERVICE OF THE CHURCH.

This matter was in 1549 and subsequent editions until 1662 styled The Preface. The substance of it is taken from the Preface to the Breviary of Cardinal Quignon, in which the same arguments for revision are used, reading of Scripture commanded, and frequent interruption by Versicles, Responsories, &c. deprecated. A weekly arrangement of the Psalter is there given.

The Breviary of Cardinal Quignon was composed under the encouragement of Pope Clement VII. Lessons from Holy Scripture were introduced at such length that the greater part of the old and the whole of the New Testament were read in the course of the year, while the offices of ordinary and of feast days were nearly equalized in length: the arrangement of the psalms in the different hours was altered; the capitula and responsories or verses of Scripture which had been introduced for the use of choral service were omitted; and the office in honour of the Virgin was suppressed together with many false legends of the Saints. This Breviary was published in 1536 and 1537 with a dedication to pope Paul III. whose Bull, permitting its use instead of the Roman and other Breviaries, on condition of obtaining special faculties from the Papal See, was prefixed. It went through many successive editions, and was extensively used in the Western Church till the publication of a new revision of the Roman Breviary under the auspices of pope Pius V. in 1568, when it was abrogated by the Papal Bull prefixed to that Breviary, together with all other Breviaries which had been composed within the preceding two hundred years. The reform of Cardinal Quignon was not carried so far as to translate the Service into the vernacular language.

The hours of Prayer received in the English and other western churches before the Reformation were seven in number, viz. matins, the 1st, 3rd, 6th, 9th hours, vespers, and compline.

Matins were originally divided into two parts, Nocturn and Matin lauds. Nocturnal Service arose as a necessity in time of persecution; it was continued from choice. The midnight and early morning service were united and called Matins.

Prime or the 1st hour service was first appointed as an hour of prayer in the monastery of Bethlehem about the time of Cassian at the beginning of the 5th century.

The 3rd, 6th, and 9th hours are mentioned as times of prayer in the 2nd and 3rd centuries, but public worship appropriate to them does not seem to have been customary before the 5th century. Vespers or evening service is of the most primitive antiquity.

CONCERNING THE SERVICE OF THE CHURCH.

holy Scripture, as are inserted into the Liturgy; which, in the Epistles and Gospels especially, and in sundry other places, are now ordered to be read according to the last Translation: and that it was thought convenient, that some Prayers and Thanksgivings, fitted to special occasions, should be added in their due places; particularly for those at Sea, together with an office for the Baptism of such as are of Riper Years: which, although not so necessary when the former Book was compiled, yet by the growth of Anabaptism, through the licentiousness of the late times crept in amongst us, is now become necessary, and may be always useful for the baptizing of natives in our plantations, and others converted to the faith. If any man, who shall desire a more particular account of the several alterations in any part of the Liturgy, shall take the pains to compare the present Book with the former; we doubt not but the reason of the change may easily appear.

And having thus endeavoured to discharge our duties in this weighty affair, as in the sight of God, and to approve our sincerity therein (so far as lay in us) to the consciences of all men; although we know it impossible (in such variety of apprehensions, humours and interests, as are in the world) to please all; nor can expect that men of factious, peevish, and perverse spirits should be satisfied with any thing that can be done in this kind by any other than themselves: yet we have good hope, that what is here presented, and hath been by the Convocations of both Provinces with great diligence examined and approved, will be also well accepted and approved by all sober, peaceable, and truly conscientious sons of the Church of England.

CONCERNING THE SERVICE OF THE CHURCH.

THERE was never any thing by the wit of man so well devised, or so sure established, which in continuance of time hath not been corrupted: as, among other things, it may plainly appear by the Common Prayers in the Church, commonly called Divine Service. The first original and ground whereof if a man would search out by the ancient Fathers, he shall find, that the same was not ordained but of a good purpose, and for a great advancement of godliness. For they so ordered the matter, that all the whole Bible, (or the greatest part thereof) should be read over once every year; intending thereby, that the Clergy, and especially such as were Ministers in the congregation, should (by often reading, and meditation in God's word) be stirred up to godliness themselves, and be more able to exhort others by wholesome doctrine, and to confute them that were adversaries to the truth; and further, that the people (by daily hearing of holy Scripture read in the Church) might continually profit more and more in the knowledge of God, and be the more inflamed with the love of his true religion.

But these many years passed, this godly and decent order of the ancient Fathers hath been so altered, broken, and neglected, by planting in uncertain stories, and legends, with multitude of responds, verses, vain repetitions, commemorations, and synodals; that commonly when any book of the Bible was begun, after three or four chapters were read out, all the rest were unread. And in this sort the book of Isaiah was begun in Advent, and the book of Genesis in Septuagesima; but they were only begun, and never read through: after like sort were other books of holy Scripture used. And moreover, whereas St. Paul would have such language spoken to the people in the Church, as they might understand, and have profit by hearing the same; the service in this Church of England these many years hath been read in Latin to the people, which they understand not; so that they have heard with their ears only, and their heart, spirit, and mind, have not been edified thereby. And furthermore, notwithstanding that the ancient Fathers have divided the Psalms into seven portions, whereof every one was called a Nocturn: now of late time a few of them have been daily said, and the rest utterly omitted. Moreover, the number and hardness of the rules called the Pie, and the manifold changings of the service, was the cause, that to turn the book only was so hard and intricate a matter, that many times there was more business to find out what should be read, than to read it when it was found out.

These inconveniences therefore considered, here is set forth such an order, whereby the same shall be redressed. And for a readiness in this matter, here is drawn out a Calendar for that purpose, which is plain and easy to be understood; wherein (so much as may be) the reading of holy Scripture is so set forth, that all things shall be done in order, without breaking one piece from another. For this cause be cut off Anthems, Responds, Invitatories, and such like things as did break the continual course of the reading of the Scripture.

Yet, because there is no remedy, but that of necessity there must be some Rules; therefore certain Rules are here set forth; which, as they are few in number, so they are plain and easy to be understood. So that here you have an Order for Prayer, and for the reading of the holy Scripture, much agreeable to the mind and purpose of the old Fathers, and a great deal more profitable and commodious, than that which of late was used. It is more profitable, because here are left out many things, whereof some are untrue, some uncertain, some vain and superstitious; and nothing is ordained to be read, but the very pure Word of God, the holy Scriptures, or that which is agreeable to the same; and that in such a language and order as is most easy and plain for the understanding both of the readers and hearers. It is also more commodious, both for the shortness thereof, and for the plainness of the order, and for that the rules be few and easy.

And whereas heretofore there hath been great diversity in saying and singing in Churches within this Realm; some following Salisbury use, some Hereford use, and some the use of Bangor, some of York, some of Lincoln: now from henceforth all the whole Realm shall have but one use.

Compline or completorium was held late in the evening. It was first introduced by Benedict in the 6th century.

Although special services had been appointed for certain hours the observation of the separate times of prayer was not general at the time of the Reformation, nor had these ever become a system of joint public worship for ministers and people.

Synodals were constitutions, made in the diocesan or provincial synods, which were frequently ordered to be rehearsed in parish churches.

This preface underwent some alterations in 1662. The preface of 1549 had after, "It is also more commodious, both for the shortness thereof, and for the plainness of the order, and for that the rules be few and easy," "Furthermore, by this order, the curates shall need none other books for their public service, but this book and the Bible; by the means whereof the people shall not be at so great charge for books, as in times past they have been." The paragraph too, containing the references to the Uses, concluded with the words: "And if any would judge this way more painful, because that all things must be read upon the book, whereas before by the reason of so often repetition, they could say many things by heart; if those men will weigh their labour with the profit in knowledge, which daily they shall obtain by reading upon the book, they will not refuse the pain, in consideration of the great profit that shall ensue thereof." Both these passages were omitted in 1662. The appeal to the Archbishop was added in 1552. The injunction to Priests and Deacons to say daily the Morning and Evening Prayer was introduced in 1552. Before the Reformation the clergy were obliged to recite the Canonical Hours either publicly or privately. The exception then and until 1604 was worded, 'except they be letted by preaching, studying of divinity, or by some other urgent cause.' In the Scotch Prayer-book it ran '... by some urgent cause.' Of which cause if it be frequently pretended they are to make the Bishop of the Diocese or the Archbishop of the Province the judge and allower.

In 1549 the obligation to say daily prayer is expressly confined to those who minister in cathedral, collegiate or parish churches, or in annexed chapels. The direction to say prayer in the church or chapel where the Curate ministers was added in 1552.

OF CEREMONIES, &c.

In 1549 this explanation is placed after the Communion Service. In 1552 it assumed its present position.

Of Edward's First and Second Prayer-books.

Edward's First Prayer-book came into use on Whitsunday (June 9th), 1549. The Act of Parliament enforcing it was passed Jan. 15, 1549. Who its compilers were is not known; but it is supposed that their names are to be found among the following: Cranmer, archbp of Canterbury, Goodryke, bp of Ely, Holbeach, bp of Lincoln, Ridley, bp of Rochester, May, dn of St Paul's, Taylor, dn (afterwards bp) of Lincoln, Haines, dn of Exeter, Robertson, dn of Durham, Redman, mr of Trinity College, Cambridge, and Cox, afterwards bp of Ely.

Whether or not Edward's First Prayer-book received synodical sanction is a disputed point. Those who contend for such sanction allege the message of King Edward to the Devonshire rebels (July 8, 1549), in which he is made to say, "whatsoever is contained in our book, is by our parliament established, by the whole clergy agreed, yea by the bishops of the realm devised" (Fox, Acts and Mon. 11. 1270); and the letter of the King to bp Bonner (July 23, 1549), in which the council make him say, "after great and serious debating and long conference of the bishops, and other grave and well learned men in the holy Scriptures, one uniform order for common prayers and administration of the sacraments hath been and is most godly set forth, not only by the common agreement and full assent of the nobility and commons of the late session of our late parliament, but also by the like assent of the bishops in the same parliament, and of all others the learned men of this our realm in their synods and convocations provincial" (Fox, Acts and Mon. 11. 1266). On the other hand it is contended, that Fox makes no mention of the book having been submitted to Convocation, but speaks of it as set forth and delivered to the King by "the Archbishop of Canterbury with certain of the best learned and discreet bishops and other learned men," and by him forthwith submitted to Parliament; that the Act of Parliament enforcing the book speaks of it in the same way, making no mention of Convocation; and that Heylin, who wrote before the records of Convocation were destroyed by the fire of London, and who appears to have examined them diligently, notices

OF CEREMONIES.

And forasmuch as nothing can be so plainly set forth, but doubts may arise in the use and practice of the same; to appease all such diversity (if any arise) and for the resolution of all doubts, concerning the manner how to understand, do, and execute, the things contained in this Book; the parties that so doubt, or diversly take any thing, shall always resort to the Bishop of the diocese, who by his discretion shall take order for the quieting and appeasing of the same; so that the same order be not contrary to any thing contained in this Book. And if the Bishop of the diocese be in doubt, then he may send for the resolution thereof to the Archbishop.

THOUGH it be appointed, that all things shall be read and sung in the Church in the English Tongue, to the end that the congregation may be thereby edified; yet it is not meant, but that when men say Morning and Evening Prayer privately, they may say the same in any language that they themselves do understand.

And all Priests and Deacons are to say daily the Morning and Evening Prayer either privately or openly, not being let by sickness, or some other urgent cause.

And the Curate that ministereth in every Parish-church or Chapel, being at home, and not being otherwise reasonably hindered, shall say the same in the Parish-church or Chapel where he ministereth, and shall cause a bell to be tolled thereunto a convenient time before he begin, that the people may come to hear God's Word, and to pray with him.

OF CEREMONIES,

WHY SOME BE ABOLISHED, AND SOME RETAINED.

OF such Ceremonies as be used in the Church, and have had their beginning by the institution of man, some at the first were of godly intent and purpose devised, and yet at length turned to vanity and superstition: some entered into the Church by undiscerning devotion, and such a zeal as was without knowledge; and for because they were winked at in the beginning, they grew daily to more and more abuses, which not only for their unprofitableness, but also because they have much blinded the people, and obscured the glory of God, are worthy to be cut away, and clean rejected: other there be, which although they have been devised by man, yet it is thought good to reserve them still, as well for a decent order in the Church, (for the which they were first devised) as because they pertain to edification, whereunto all things done in the Church (as the Apostle teacheth) ought to be referred.

And although the keeping or omitting of a Ceremony, in itself considered, is but a small thing; yet the wilful and contemptuous transgression and breaking of a common order and discipline is no small offence before God, "Let all things be done among you," saith Saint Paul, "in a seemly and due order:" the appointment of the which order pertaineth not to private men; therefore no man ought to take in hand, nor presume to appoint or alter any public or common order in Christ's Church, except he be lawfully called and authorized thereunto.

And whereas in this our time, the minds of men are so diverse, that some think it a great matter of conscience to depart from a piece of the least of their Ceremonies, they be so addicted to their old customs; and again on the other side, some be so new-fangled, that they would innovate all things, and so despise the old, that nothing can like them, but that is new: it was thought expedient, not so much to have respect how to please and satisfy either of these parties, as how to please God, and profit them both. And yet lest any man should be offended, whom good reason might satisfy, here be certain causes rendered, why some of the accustomed Ceremonies be put away, and some retained and kept still.

Some are put away, because the great excess and multitude of them hath so increased in these latter days, that the burden of them was intolerable; whereof St. Augustine in his time complained, that they were grown to such a number, that the estate of Christian people was in worse case concerning that matter, than were the Jews. And he counselled that such yoke and burden should be taken away, as time would serve quietly to do it. But what would St. Augustine have said, if he had seen the Ceremonies of late days used among us; whereunto the multitude used in his time was not to be compared? This our excessive multitude of Ceremonies was so great, and many of them so dark, that they did more confound and darken, than declare and set forth Christ's benefits unto us. And besides this, Christ's Gospel is not a Ceremonial Law (as much of Moses' Law was), but it is a religion to serve God, not in bondage of the figure or shadow, but in the freedom of the Spirit; being content only with those Ceremonies which do serve to a decent order and godly discipline, and such as be apt to stir up the dull mind of man to the remembrance of his duty to God, by some notable and special signification, whereby he might be edified. Furthermore, the most weighty cause of the abolishment of certain Ceremonies was, that they were so far abused, partly by the superstitious blindness of the rude and unlearned, and partly by the unsatiable avarice of such as sought more their own lucre, than the glory of God, that the abuses could not well be taken away, the thing remaining still.

But now as concerning those persons, which peradventure will be offended, for that some of the old Ceremonies are retained still; if they consider that without some Ceremonies it is not possible to keep any order, or quiet discipline the allegation "that neither the undertaking was advised, nor the book itself approved, in a synodical way, by the bishops and clergy," and admits its truth.

The first Prayer-book did not satisfy that section of English Churchmen, which sympathized with the Swiss Reformers, and which, even in 1550, seems to have been in the ascendant at court. Their dissatisfaction was loudly expressed; and they succeeded in winning over the king, or rather his chief advisers, to their views. Accordingly a revision of the book was determined on, which was entrusted to Cranmer, with some others whose names are not known. The criticisms of the foreigners, Martin Bucer and Peter Martyr, Regius Professors of divinity at Cambridge and Oxford, were invited and given freely: and their objections were, for the most part, either anticipated or allowed by Cranmer and his assistants; so that many important changes were made. The result of the revision was the second Prayer-book.

Edward's Second Prayer-book was put forth by authority of Parliament, April 6, 1552. It is generally admitted that the second book was not submitted to Convocation.

On this subject of synodical sanction it is to be noted that, before the Reformation, the assent of Convocation does not appear to have been thought necessary for the putting forth of forms of prayer. It seems, as has been stated on p. 22, "as if each bishop might in his own particular diocese direct the form in which the public service was to be performed."

OF THE READING OF THE PSALTER.

UNTIL 1604 inclusive the succession of Psalms for February was appointed to commence on the last day of January and end on the 1st day of March. In the Scotch Prayer-book our present practice was enjoined.

Concerning Leap Year it was noted, until the last revision, that on the 25th day of February, which is counted for two days, neither Psalm nor Lesson should alter.

The direction to use the Doxology at the end of every Psalm and of each portion of the 119th Psalm was introduced here in 1662.

The rubric before the Te Deum stood as now from 1549.

OF THE READING OF THE REST OF HOLY SCRIPTURE.

THE lessons in the Unreformed offices were in general very short. The matins lessons, the longest selections, do not average more than three verses each. When a Sunday and a saint's day coincide we appear to be left in some degree of uncertainty whether the first lesson, together with the service for the holy day or that for the Sunday is to be read. It seems clear however that the Apocrypha is not to be read on Sundays. See rules suggested on p. 30. In the admonition to all ministers ecclesiastical, prefixed to the second Book of Homilies in 1574, the following discretion is allowed: "Where it may so chance some one or other chapter of the Old Testament to fall in order to be read upon the Sundays or Holy Days which were better to be changed with some other of the New Testament of more edification, it shall be well done to spend your time to consider well of such chapters beforehand."

In 1604 the following directions were introduced... "So oft as the first chapter of Saint Matthew is read either for Lesson or Gospel, ye shall begin the same at (The birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise, &c.).

"And the third chapter of Saint Luke's Gospel shall be read unto (So that he was supposed to be the Son of Joseph, &c.).

OF CEREMONIES.

in the Church, they shall easily perceive just cause to reform their judgements. And if they think much, that any of the old do remain, and would rather have all devised anew: then such men granting some Ceremonies convenient to be had, surely where the old may be well used, there they cannot reasonably reprove the old only for their age, without bewraying of their own folly. For in such a case they ought rather to have reverence unto them for their antiquity, if they will declare themselves to be more studious of unity and concord, than of innovations and new-fangleness, which (as much as may be with true setting forth of Christ's religion) is always to be eschewed.) Furthermore, such shall have no just cause with the Ceremonies reserved to be offended. For as those be taken away which were most abused, and did burden men's consciences without any cause; so the other that remain, are retained for a discipline and order, which (upon just causes) may be altered and changed, and therefore are not to be esteemed equal with God's law. And moreover, they be neither dark nor dumb Ceremonies, but are so set forth, that every man may understand what they do mean, and to what use they do serve. So that it is not like that they in time to come should be abused as other have been. And in these our doings we condemn no other nations, nor prescribe any thing but to our own people only: for we think it convenient that every country should use such Ceremonies as they shall think best to the setting forth of God's honour and glory, and to the reducing of the people to a most perfect and godly living, without error or superstition; and that they should put away other things, which from time to time they perceive to be most abused, as in men's ordinances it often chanceth diversly in divers countries.

THE ORDER HOW THE PSALTER IS APPOINTED TO BE READ.

THE Psalter shall be read through once every Month, as it is there appointed, both for Morning and Evening Prayer. But in February it shall be read only to the twenty-eighth, or twenty-ninth day of the month.

And, whereas January, March, May, July, August, October, and December have one-and-thirty days apiece; it is ordered, that the same Psalms shall be read the last day of the said months, which were read the day before: so that the Psalter may begin again the first day of the next month ensuing.

And, whereas the 119th Psalm is divided into twenty-two portions, and is overlong to be read at one time; it is so ordered, that at one time shall not be read above four or five of the said portions.

And at the end of every Psalm, and of every such part of the 119th Psalm, shall be repeated this Hymn,

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

Note, that the Psalter followeth the division of the Hebrews, and the translation of the great English Bible, set forth and used in the time of King Henry the Eighth, and Edward the Sixth.

THE ORDER HOW THE REST OF HOLY SCRIPTURE IS APPOINTED TO BE READ.

THE Old Testament is appointed for the first Lessons at Morning and Evening Prayer; so as the most part thereof will be read every year once, as in the Calendar is appointed.

The New Testament is appointed for the second Lessons at Morning and Evening Prayer, and shall be read over orderly every year thrice, besides the Epistles and Gospels; except the Apocalypse, out of which there are only certain Proper Lessons appointed upon divers Feasts.

And to know what Lessons shall be read every day, look for the day of the month in the Calendar following, and there ye shall find the chapters that shall be read for the Lessons both at Morning and Evening Prayer; except only the Moveable Feasts, which are not in the Calendar, and the Immoveable, where there is a blank left in the column of Lessons, the Proper Lessons for all which days are to be found in the Table of Proper Lessons.

And note, that whensoever Proper Psalms or Lessons are appointed; then the Psalms and Lessons of ordinary course appointed in the Psalter and Calendar (if they be different) shall be omitted for that time.

Note also, that the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel, appointed for the Sunday shall serve all the week after, where it is not in this Book otherwise ordered.

There is no table of Proper Lessons and Psalms in Edward's First Prayer Book (1549), but the Proper Lessons and Psalms are attached to the respective Sundays and Holy-days, to which they are appropriated, under the head of "The Introits, Collects, Epistles, and Gospels, &c.—with Proper Psalms and Lessons for divers Feasts and Days." The only Sundays, for which Proper Lessons were appointed, were Easter-day, Whitsun-day, and Trinity Sunday. Some of the Holy-days had Proper First Lessons and some Proper Second Lessons assigned to them. The only Proper Lesson from the Apocrypha was that for All Saints' Day.

In 1559 the first regular table of Sunday Lessons was put forth. It is almost identical with that at present in use. The Apocryphal Proper Lessons for Holy-days were then added.

The custom of reading Holy Scripture in the service of the Church prevailed from the very first. "Justin Martyr says that the writings of the Prophets and Apostles were read in the Congregation on Sunday. In the 4th century the Psalmody, which formed a large portion of the service, was ordered not to be continuous but to be mingled with reading. In the Gallican Church, in the fifth century, the Psalms were sung between the reading of the Lessons: and four lessons were read in an appointed order, from the books of Moses, the Prophets, the Gospels, and the Epistles. After the sixth century many of the Western Churches read three, five, seven, or nine lessons. In the English Church there were either three or nine lections in the nocturns and matins; but these were generally very short, some consisting only of a few verses of Scripture, and some being short extracts from Expositions or Homilies of the Fathers, or Lives of the Saints. Hence although the Lessons were numerous, but little Scripture was read; and that small portion was interrupted by anthems." PROCTER.

"Cassian (A.D. 424) says, in Egypt, after the singing of the Psalms, they had two Lessons read, one out of the Old Testament, and the other out of the New. Only on Saturdays and Sundays and the fifty days of Pentecost they were both out of the New Testament, one out of the Acts of the Apostles or the Epistles, and the other out of the Gospels. The author of the Constitutions (before A.D. 325) speaks of four Lessons, two out of Moses and the Prophets, besides the Psalms, and then two out of the Epistles or Acts of the Apostles and the Gospels. Again he mentions the reading of the Prophets on Sundays. And in another place, the Law and the Prophets, the Psalms and the Gospels. And again, the Law and the Prophets, and the Epistles, and the Acts, and the Gospels...In like manner Chrysostom (A.D. 398) reproving some, who were very negligent at Church, says, tell me what Prophet was read to-day, what Apostle? implying that the one was read as well as the other. Particularly he tells us that the Book of Genesis was always read in Lent...St Basil (A.D. 370), in one of his Homilies upon baptism in Lent, takes notice of the several Lessons that were read that day, besides the Psalms, whereof one was out of the 1st of Isaiah, the second out of Acts ii, and the third out of Matthew xi...Maximus Taurinensis (A.D. 422), in one of his Homilies upon the Epiphany, says the Lessons were out of Isaiah lx. Matthew ii. and John i. for that Festival.....In the French Churches there is still more evidence for the practice: for Cæsarius Arelatensis (A.D. 500), in one of his Homilies cited by Mabillon, uses this argument to the people, why they should stay the whole time of Divine Service, because the Lessons were not so properly called Missa or Divine Service, as was the oblation or consecration of the body and blood of Christ: for they might read at home, or hear others read the Lessons, whether out of the Prophets, or Apostles, or Evangelists; but they could not hear or see the consecration any where else but only in the house of God...And in the old Lectionarium Gallicanum, published by Mabillon, there is always a Lesson out of the Old Testament before the Epistle and Gospel; and on the Sabbatum Sanctum, or Saturday before Easter, there are no less than twelve Lessons appointed out of Genesis, Exodus, Joshua, Isaiah, Ezekiel, Daniel and Jonah, beside the Epistle and Gospel which follow after. It farther appears from the Canons of the Council of Laodicea (A.D. 361), and the third Council of Carthage (A.D. 397), that all the books of the Old Testament were then read in the Church, as well as the New." BINGHAM.

"The next observation to be made is upon their method of reading the Scriptures, which seems always to be done by some rule, though this might vary in different churches. St Austin (A.D. 398) tells us there were some Lessons so fixed and appropriated to certain times and seasons, that no others might be read in their stead...All the time between Easter and Pentecost, he says, they read the Acts of the Apostles. This last particular is frequently mentioned by St Chrysostom (A.D. 398)...Cassian (A.D. 424) says the same order was observed among the Egyptians: and it appears from the ancient Lectionarium Gallicanum, that it was so in the French Churches...(Chrysostom) preached two whole Lents upon the book of Genesis, because it was then read of course in the Church.... It appears farther from St Ambrose (A.D. 374), that the books of Job and Jonah were both read in the Passion Week... And that this was an ancient rule of the Church appears from Origen's (A.D. 230) comment upon Job... St Chrysostom in one of his Homilies upon the Gospel of St John, which he was then expounding, advises his auditors to read at home, in the week-days before, such portions of the Gospel as they knew were to be read and expounded on the Lord's day following in the Church. Which implies some certain rule and order. So that though we have not any complete Lectionarium, or Calendar of Lessons now remaining, yet we are sure their reading of Scripture was some way methodised and brought under rule, especially for the greater solemnities and festivals of the Church. The first Calendar of this kind is thought by some to be Hippolytus' *Canon Paschalis (A.D. 220) which... no less men than Scaliger and Gothofred take to be a rule appointing Lessons proper for the Festivals. But Bucherius and others give another account of it, which leaves the matter uncertain. There goes also under the name of St Jerome a book called his Comes or Lectionarium; but critics of the best rank reckon this a counterfeit, and the work of a much later writer because it mentions Lessons out of the Prophets and Old Testament, whereas in St Jerome's time, as we have noted before, there were no Lessons read besides Epistles and Gospels in the Church of Rome. However, some time after there were several books of this kind composed for the use of the French churches. Sidonius Apollinarissays, Claudianus Mamercus made one for the Church of Vienne A.D. 450. And Genadius says, Musæus made another for the Church of Marseilles about the year 458. But both these are now lost, and the oldest of this kind is the Lectionarium Gallicanum, which Mabillon lately (A.D. 1685) published from a manuscript, which he judges by the hand to be above a thousand years old..... But though we have no more ancient calendar now remaining, yet the authorities alleged before do indisputably evince the thing itself, that the Lessons of Scripture were generally appropriated to times and seasons, according as the festival required." BINGHAM.

In the Lectionarium Gallicanum there are Lessons appointed for Matins as well as for Mass.

"The first Lessons appointed for Sundays form a distinct yearly course of selected chapters from the Old Testament. These are taken from Isaiah during Advent and Epiphany: Genesis is commenced on Septuagesima Sunday which is the first step in the preparation for Lent, and when the Sundays begin to be reckoned with reference to the coming Easter.... The selections then proceed through the historical and prophetic books, the Book of Proverbs being reserved for the concluding Sundays after Trinity. Another course is provided for Holy-days: proper chapters are appointed, usually for the first and second Lessons, which are suited to the Commemoration, either prophetic of it or if possible relating to the history of it: the Lessons appointed for Saints' days are mostly taken from the Books of Proverbs and Ecclesiastes, or from the apocryphal Books of Ecclesiasticus and Wisdom." PROCTER.

¶ When a Saint's day falls on a Sunday a difference of practice prevails with respect to the choice of Lessons. No rules on the subject have been prescribed by authority. The following seem most accordant with the plan on which the Proper Lessons have been selected:

1. A Proper Lesson always takes precedence of a Calendar Lesson. Hence for Sundays for which no Proper Second Lesson is appointed, the Proper Second Lesson of the Saint's day (if there be one appointed) should be read.

2. A Lesson from the canonical books always takes precedence of a Lesson from the apocryphal.

3. The First Lessons for the 1st and 4th Sundays in Advent, for the 1st Sunday after Christmas, for the 1st and 5th Sundays in Lent, for the Sunday next before Easter, for Easter-day, for the 1st Sunday after Easter, for Whitsunday, for Trinity Sunday, take precedence of the First Lessons appointed for any Saints' days which may occur on those Sundays.

4. The First Lessons for the Circumcision, the Epiphany, St John Baptist, St Michael, and St Simon and St Jude, take precedence of the First Lessons appointed for any Sundays on which they occur.

¶ The Proper Psalms for Ash Wednesday and Good Friday were added in 1662. The rest come down from 1549, except that then the morning psalms for Whitsunday were 48, 67, 145.

"The Church had not only proper Lessons, but proper Psalms read upon greater festivals, suited to the occasion.... For St Austin (A.D. 398) plainly informs us, that the 22nd Psalm was always read upon the day of our Saviour's Passion in the African Church." BINGHAM.

* The Paschal Canon of Hippolytus was an Easter cycle.

LESSONS for the Feast of the Circumcision are appointed in a Gallican Lectionary, to which Mabillon assigns a date not later than A.D. 685. See note on the Collect for the day. The present Proper Lessons were appointed in 1549.

The Feast of the Epiphany, is mentioned by Augustine. See note on Collect. The present Proper Lessons were appointed in 1549.

Lucian is said to have been a noble Roman, who was sent by Fabian, Bishop of Rome, as a missionary to Gaul A.D. 250. He fixed his abode at Beauvais. He was martyred A.D. 290. In the Parisian Breviary he is called the "Apostle of Beauvais."

Hilary, born at Poitiers in Gaul, of heathen parents, was consecrated Bishop of Poitiers about A.D. 350. He stoutly upheld the Catholic faith against the Arians, through whose influence he was banished to Phrygia A.D. 356. After A.D. 360 he was permitted to return to his diocese, where he died A.D. 368. The Te Deum is with most probability attributed to him.

Prisca is said to have been a Roman lady who suffered under the Emperor Claudius. The general opinion is that this Claudius was the second of the name, and that the date of the martyrdom was about A.D. 270.

Fabian was Bishop of Rome from A.D. 236 to A.D. 250. He suffered under the Emperor Decius.

Agnes was a young Roman lady of noble family. She suffered under Dioclesian about A.D. 305. Augustine mentions her festival. She is commemorated by name in the Canon of the Roman Mass.

Vincent, a Spanish Deacon, was born in Arragon. He suffered in the Dioclesian persecution A.D. 304. His Acts, which are considered authentic, were publicly read in the Church of Hippo in the time of Augustine.

The observance of a Festival in honour of the Conversion of St Paul is not of great antiquity. See note upon the Collect. The second Lessons were appointed in 1549, the first in 1559.

King Charles suffered A.D. 1649. Six churches in England are named in his honour. These are, one at Falmouth, two at Plymouth, one at Tonbridge Wells, the Church of Peak Forest, Derbyshire, and of Newtown in Wem, Salop.

The names of Lucian, Hilary, Prisca, Fabian, Agnes, Vincent, were first placed in the reformed Calendar at the revision of 1561. The designations of the persons commemorated were added in 1662.

The observance of the Feast of the Purification dates, according to some, from the time of the Emperor Justin; according to others, from the time of his successor Justinian, A.D. 542. See note on the Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

Blasius was Bishop of Sebaste, a city of Cappadocia. He suffered, according to some, in the Dioclesian persecution, at the beginning of the fourth century; according to others, under Licinius, A.D. 316.

Agatha was a young Sicilian lady of noble family. She suffered at Catania, in the Decian persecution, A.D. 251. Her name occurs in the Canon of the Roman Mass.

Valentine was a priest of the Roman Church. He was put in chains by Claudius II., and, after a year's imprisonment at Rome, suffered A.D. 270. His festival was observed before the time of Gregory the Great.

The Festival of St Matthias occurs in a Martyrology of the German Church, supposed to be nearly coeval with Gregory the Great. See note on the Collect. Before the Reformation St Matthias' day was kept in Leap-year, on Feb. 25th. In the Prayer-book of 1549 we read: "This is also to be noted, concerning the Leap-years, that the 25th day of February, which in Leap-years is counted for two days, shall in those two days alter neither Psalm nor Lesson; but the same Psalms and Lessons which be said the first day, shall also serve for the second day." Wheatley thinks that this alteration was made in order that the Holy-day might always be kept on the 24th. In a Calendar put forth in 1561 the old practice was returned to, and the following rule, which was inserted in the Prayer-book of 1604, was promulgated: "When the year of our Lord may be divided into four even parts, which is every fourth year, then the Sunday letter leapeth, and that year the Psalms and Lessons which serve for the 23rd day of February shall be read again the day following, except it be Sunday, which hath Proper Lessons of the Old Testament, appointed in the Table serving to that purpose." In 1662 the intercalary day was made the 29th of February, so that St Matthias now must always be kept on the 24th. The present Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

The names of Blasius, Agatha, and Valentine were first placed in the reformed Calendar at the revision of 1561. The designations of the persons commemorated were added in 1662.

David, or Dewi, was grandson of the King of Ceretia, now Cardiganshire. In A.D. 519 he was elected Archbishop of Caerleon. David removed the episcopal chair from Caerleon to Menevia, since called St David's. He is said to have died A.D. 544.

Chad, or Ceadda, was a native of Britain, and educated at Lindisfarne, under St Aidan. In A.D. 666 he was consecrated to the see of York, in the absence of Wilfrid, who had gone to Paris for consecration to the same see. On Wilfrid's return Chad resigned York, and was promoted to Lichfield A.D. 670. He died A.D. 673.

Perpetua, a married lady of Carthage, suffered martyrdom about A.D. 203. Her festival was observed at Carthage in the time of Augustine. She has been commemorated in the Canon of the Roman Mass since the time of Gregory.

Gregory the Great was born at Rome about A.D. 540. In A.D. 577, seeing some young English slaves exposed for sale at Rome, and learning that England was heathen, he entreated Benedict I., the Bishop of Rome, to send missionaries thither, and, when no one would undertake the duty, offered to go himself. He with difficulty obtained permission, but, on his leaving Rome, his loss was so severely felt, that he was almost immediately recalled. In A.D. 590 he succeeded to the see of Rome; and in A.D. 596 he sent Augustine, with 40 companions, to evangelize England. He died A.D. 604. Among his most important works were the reform of the Divine Offices and the improvement of the music of the Church.

Edward, the son of Edgar, King of England, and Ethelfleda the Fair, was born A.D. 952. In A.D. 975 he succeeded his father on the throne. While visiting his step-mother, Elfrida, at Corfe Castle, in 978, he was murdered by her order. His favour to the monks caused his murder to be esteemed a martyrdom.

Benedict was born at Nursia, a city of Italy, about A.D. 480. At the age of 16 he left Rome, where he had been sent to study, and shut himself up in a hermitage. Deeming this not lonely enough, he shortly after fled to a cave at Subiaco, a wild part of the country about 40 miles from Rome. About A.D. 529 he left Subiaco and founded the celebrated monastery of Monte Cassino, whence was promulgated the famous rule of St Benedict. He died A.D. 543.

The Festival of the Annunciation is at least as old as the Council in Trullo, A.D. 680. See note on the Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

The names of David, Chad, Perpetua, Gregory, Edward, and Benedict, were first placed in the reformed Calendar in 1561. Their designations were added in 1662.

Richard, surnamed De Wyche, from a place so called in Worcestershire, where he was born, was brought up at the Universities of Oxford and Paris. In A.D. 1245 he was appointed Bishop of Chichester. Henry III. opposed Richard and confiscated his revenues. He died A.D. 1253.

St Ambrose was born about A.D. 340, probably at Trèves. He studied law and practised as an advocate. About A.D. 373 he was made governor of northern Italy. Upon the death of Auxentius, Bishop of Milan, who had been a leader of the Arian party, fierce struggles took place at Milan about the election of a new bishop. Ambrose, as governor of the province, interfered, and entered the church where the contest was going on. While he was speaking to the people, in the hope of allaying the excitement, a child, it is said, cried out thrice, "Ambrose is Bishop." The whole multitude took up the cry, and he was unanimously elected. In spite of his remonstrances (he was then only a catechumen), he was forced to yield to the importunity of the people, and, having been baptized, was consecrated A.D. 374. His works are very numerous. He is said to have first introduced the practice of singing hymns in the Divine offices. He died A.D. 397.

Alphege was born of a noble family in Britain about A.D. 954. He was elevated A.D. 984 to the see of Winchester. In A.D. 1006 he was translated to Canterbury. In A.D. 1011 the Danes sacked Canterbury and took the Archbishop prisoner; who, refusing to give them the treasures of the Church for ransom, was, after seven months' captivity, stoned by them at Greenwich A.D. 1012.

St George, the patron of England, was born at Cappadocia, of Christian parents. He entered the imperial army, where he rapidly obtained promotion. Lactantius says that he was generally supposed to have been the person who pulled down the edicts against the Christians, which Dioclesian caused to be affixed to the church-doors at Nicomedia. He suffered about A.D. 303. St George was first acknowledged as the Patron Saint of England at the Synod of Oxford A.D. 1222.

The Festival of St Mark is as old as A.D. 730. See note on the Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

The names of Richard, Ambrose, and Alphege, were first added to the reformed Calendar in 1561. Their designations were added in 1662. St George's name was inserted in black letter in 1552, in red letter in 1559, and again in black letter in 1604. His designation was added in 1662.

The festival of St Philip and St James was observed A.D. 730. See note on the Collect. The Second Lesson appointed in 1549 was Acts 8 to v. 13. This was omitted in 1552, and no Second Lesson was appointed till 1662. The First Lesson was appointed in 1559.

Invention of the Cross. Helena, mother of Constantine the Great, was converted to the Christian faith A.D. 311. Fifteen years afterwards she visited the scenes of our Lord's life; and, anxious to recover the cross on which He had suffered, she caused excavations to be made on the site of the sepulchre. Three crosses with the Title were dug up. Our Lord's cross is said to have singled itself out from the other two by its wonder-working power. Helena sent a part of the cross to Constantinople, left a part at Jerusalem, and carried the rest with her to Rome, where she deposited it in her Church of the Holy Cross of Jerusalem.

St John the Evangelist is said to have been apprehended at Ephesus and sent prisoner to Rome A.D. 95. Being accused before the Emperor Domitian, he was sentenced to be thrown into a caldron of boiling oil, which sentence was executed before the city gate, called Porta Latina. The Apostle came out unhurt; and the Emperor, attributing his escape to magic, banished him to the Isle of Patmos.

Dunstan, born A.D. 924, was devoted by his parents to the Church while still a child. He subsequently embraced the monastic life, and soon became Abbot of Glastonbury. He was thence elevated by king Edgar to the sees of Worcester, London and Canterbury in succession. Dunstan was a warm advocate of the monastic clergy. He was well skilled in the liberal arts, and, among other accomplishments, was a skilful worker in metals. He died A.D. 988.

Nothing is known of the life of Augustine before he became Abbot of the monastery of St Andrew in Rome. In A.D. 596 he left Rome, with forty companions to preach the Gospel in England. He landed in the Isle of Thanet A.D. 597, and soon succeeded in converting Ethelbert, king of Kent, and many of his subjects. Augustine went after this to France for Episcopal consecration, and, on his return to England, fixed his see at Canterbury, where he built a Cathedral. He died A.D. 604.

Bede, for his piety and learning surnamed the Venerable, was born, A.D. 673, at Jarrow in Northumberland. He was ordained Deacon A.D. 691, and Priest A.D. 703. He is the author of a most valuable Ecclesiastical history of England and of several other learned works. He is said to have died, A.D. 735, while dictating the concluding words of a translation of St John's Gospel.

The days of the Invention of the Cross, St John Port. Lat., Dunstan and Augustine were noted in the reformed calendar in 1561. Bede's name was added in 1662 when the designations were affixed to the others.

Nicomedes was a priest in Rome at the close of the first century. He is said to have been a disciple of St Peter. In the reign of Domitian he was beaten to death. His death is commemorated on the Sacramentary of Gregory the Great.

Boniface, the Apostle of Germany, as he is called, was born in Devonshire about A.D. 680. His English name was Winfrid. He embraced the monastic life. From his youth he was actuated by a desire to preach the Gospel to the heathen; and, having with difficulty obtained the permission of his abbot, he went to Friesland, A.D. 716, but was obliged to return. He afterwards went again, with authority from Pope Gregory II., preached with great success, and founded several bishoprics. Having thus established the Church in Germany, he set out to preach to the savage inhabitants of East Friesland, where, after having made many converts, he was massacred near Utrecht by a band of enraged pagans, A.D. 755. "His dying finished what his life began."

The festival of St Barnabas is noted by Bede and in calendars of the 8th century. See note on Collect. The Second Lesson was appointed in 1549, the First in 1559.

St Alban, the Proto-martyr of Britain, was a native of the city of Verulamium, the ruins of which still exist near the town of St Albans. He was converted to Christianity by one Amphibalus, a priest of Caerleon, whom he sheltered during the Dioclesian persecution. The date of his martyrdom is variously given from A.D. 286 to A.D. 305.

King Edward, whose death is commemorated on March 18th, was first buried at Wareham. After three years (A.D. 982) his body was translated to Shaftesbury and there interred with great pomp. This translation is here commemorated.

The institution of the festival of St John Baptist is as old as the 4th or 5th century. See note on the Collect. The proper Lessons were appointed in 1549.

The observance of St Peter's day dates from the 4th century. See note on Collect. The Second Proper Lesson was appointed in 1549, the First in 1559.

The names of Nicomedes, Boniface, and Edward were placed in the reformed calendar in 1561. St Alban's name was added in 1662, when all the designations were affixed.

The feast of the Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary was first instituted by Pope Urban VI. A.D. 1389 in commemoration of the visit of the Blessed Virgin to her cousin Elizabeth. The institution was confirmed by decree of the Council of Basle, in their 43rd Session, upon July 1, 1441.

Martin, Bishop of Tours, (see Nov. 11) died A.D. 397 at Cande, and was there buried. On July 4th, A.D. 473, his remains were removed to a Basilica dedicated in his honour. It is this removal which is commemorated.

Swithun was born early in the ninth century. He was devoted when very young to the monastery at Winchester. He became Bishop of the diocese A.D. 838. He died July 2, A.D. 862, and was buried, in compliance with his own request, outside the church. In A.D. 971 his relics were translated into the cathedral. It is this translation which is commemorated.

Margaret is said to have suffered at Antioch in Pisidia, at the close of the third century. Nothing is really known of her. Her festival has been observed universally and from the earliest times. The Greeks commemorate her under the name of Marina, on July 17th.

An office for St Mary Magdalene's Day was appointed in 1549. In 1552 this office was withdrawn and her name left out of the Calendar. In 1561 her name was restored. She is commonly believed to have accompanied St John and the Blessed Virgin to Ephesus, and there to have died. Her remains were translated from Ephesus to Constantinople by the Emperor Leo the Philosopher at the close of the ninth century.

The earliest mention of the feast of St James the Apostle is A.D. 1229. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons were first appointed in 1559.

St Anne was mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and wife of Joachim her father.

The appointment of days for the Visitation of Mary, Martin, Swithun, Margaret and Anne was made in the reformed Calendar in 1561. The more expanded titles of the commemorations were added in 1662.

Lammas-Day. In the Roman Church this day is known as the feast of St Peter ad vincula, being the commemoration of his imprisonment at Jerusalem and miraculous deliverance as related in the Acts of the Apostles. In the fifth century a church of St Peter ad vincula was dedicated at Rome on this day, which has since been kept as a festival.

The festival of our Lord's Transfiguration in the mount is very ancient. It was observed at Rome in the fifth century, though not ordered to be placed in the calendar before 1455.

Name of Jesus. How the festival originated is not known. The general order for celebrating the feast was not promulgated in the Church of Rome before 1721, and then the day fixed on was the second Sunday after Epiphany.

St Laurence is said to have been by birth a Spaniard. About A.D. 258, he was Archdeacon to Pope Sixtus, whom he attended to his martyrdom. He himself suffered shortly after. He is mentioned in the oldest Roman Calendar, A.D. 354, and in all the Martyrologies. He has been commemorated in the Canon of the Roman Mass since the time of Gregory the Great (A.D. 590).

St Bartholomew's festival is mentioned in a calendar of the eighth century. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons for the day were first appointed in 1559, the morning Lesson being Eccus. 25. This was altered in 1662 to Eccus. 24.

St Augustine was born at Tagaste, an episcopal city of Numidia A.D. 354. His father, Patricius, was a pagan, but his mother, Monica, was a Christian. He was educated for the profession of rhetoric; and through the interest of some friends, who, like himself, had embraced the Manichean heresy, was appointed professor of rhetoric at Milan, where he arrived A.D. 384. Here he was converted, under the preaching of St Ambrose, who baptized him A.D. 387. He returned to his native place, A.D. 389, and was ordained A.D. 391 by Valerius, Bishop of Hippo. At the request of Valerius, he was made coadjutor Bishop of Hippo, A.D. 395, and succeeded to the sole charge of the see, on the death of Valerius, in the following year. He died at Hippo A.D. 430. St Augustine was the most profound thinker and the most prolific writer of the fathers of the Western Church. In his "Retractions" he enumerates 93 separate treatises, which he had composed. His festival was observed at Carthage in the sixth century.

A festival in commemoration of the Beheading of St John Baptist was observed in the Western Church before the time of Gregory the Great A.D. 590. It is marked in Bede's catalogue, and in several ancient Roman Calendars.

The appointment of days for Lammas and Laurence was made in the reformed Calendar in 1552; for the Transfiguration, the Name of Jesus, Augustine, and the Beheading of St John Baptist in 1561. The more expanded titles of the commemorations were added in 1662.

Giles or Egidius was born at Athens. He retired to a hermitage in Provence about A.D. 666. Flavius Wamba, king of the Goths, who found him in his cell, while hunting, endowed an abbey for him at Nismes, where he died about A.D. 724.

Enurchus or Evurtius was a Sub-deacon of the Roman Church. He came into Gaul early in the 4th century, became Bishop of Orleans, and died about A.D. 340.

The festival of the Nat. Blessed Virgin Mary is mentioned in the 7th century. Innocent IV. added an Octave to it, and Gregory XI. prefixed a Vigil, A.D. 1370.

Holy-Cross Day has been kept from A.D. 629, when the Emperor Heraclius restored to Jerusalem the relic of the Cross which Helena had left there, and which Chosroes, king of Persia, had carried away A.D. 614.

Lambert or Landebert became Bishop of Maestricht A.D. 668. He evangelized the pagans of Brabant. In A.D. 709 he was murdered at Leodium, now Liege.

Mention of St Matthew's festival is found A.D. 703. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

St Cyprian was born at Carthage, where he taught rhetoric for many years. When past middle life he was converted by a priest, Cæcilius, whose name he prefixed to his own at his baptism. In A.D. 248 he became Bishop of Carthage, and in A.D. 250, in the Decian persecution, was proscribed. He escaped by withdrawing. After the death of Decius he returned to Carthage, and governed the Church with prudence till his martyrdom A.D. 258. Cyprian's works are in high repute. His name has been commemorated in the Canon of the Roman Mass from the time of Gregory the Great. His day in the Eastern, Roman and Sarum Calendars is Sept. 16th. The Cyprian, commemorated in them on Sept. 26th, was a converted magician of Antioch.

The festival of St Michael and All Angels has been observed from the 5th century. See note on Collect. Proper Lessons, Eccus. 39 and 44, were appointed in 1559. The present Lessons were appointed in 1662.

St Jerome was born about A.D. 342. He studied at Rome, and, for some time, pleaded as an advocate; but abandoned the profession for sacred studies. With this view he went to the East A.D. 373, settled in the desert of Chalcida, between Syria and Arabia, and studied Hebrew. In A.D. 378 he was ordained priest at Antioch. About A.D. 380 he went to Constantinople to study the Scriptures under Gregory Nazianzen, and in A.D. 382 returned to Rome. He went to Bethlehem A.D. 385, where he continued his study of Hebrew. He died A.D. 420. St Jerome revised the Latin version of the New Testament and made a fresh one of the Old. The Latin Vulgate, with the exception of some Apocryphal books, is the result of his labours.

Giles, Nativity of Blessed Virgin Mary, Holy Cross, Lambert, Cyprian and Jerome were first noted in the reformed Calendar in 1561. Enurchus was added in 1604. Their designations were added in 1662.

Remigius became Bishop of Rheims in his 22nd year, about A.D. 472. On Christmas-Day, A.D. 496, he baptized Clovis, king of the Franks, and many Frank nobles. The Ampulla, out of which he then anointed Clovis, is preserved in his church at Rheims. Kings of France have been usually anointed out of it at their coronation. Remigius died A.D. 533.

Faith was born of Christian parents at Agen, a city of Aquitaine, in Gaul. She suffered martyrdom about A.D. 290.

St Denys was sent from Rome to Gaul, about A.D. 245. He fixed his See at Paris, where he remained till his martyrdom, probably about A.D. 273. He is the patron of France. He has been confounded with Dionysius the Areopagite.

Edward, the Confessor, the last of the Anglo-Saxon kings, ascended the throne of England A.D. 1041. He died A.D. 1066, and was buried in Westminster Abbey. On Oct. 13th, A.D. 1163, his body was translated to its present shrine.

Ethelreda was daughter of Anna, king of the East Angles. She founded a nunnery at Ely, where she died and was buried A.D. 679. On Oct. 17, A.D. 695, her body was translated into the church by her sister Sæburga.

The festival of St Luke is mentioned A.D. 484. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

Crispin, a native of Rome and companion of St Denys (Oct. 9th), preached at Soissons, where he worked as a shoemaker. He was martyred A.D. 288.

The festival of St Simon and St Jude has been observed from the 11th century. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

Remigius, Faith, St Denys, Translation of King Edward, Ethelreda and Crispin were first noted in the reformed Calendar in 1561. The designations were added in 1662.

All Saints' Day was observed in the 8th century. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1549.

The Special Service for Nov. 5 is no longer used.

Leonard, born at Le Mans, in France, was converted by Remigius. He died, A.D. 559, at a monastery near Limoges, which had grown up under his government.

St Martin was born about A.D. 316. His youth was spent at Pavia, in Lombardy, where he served in the imperial army, and where he was converted. About A.D. 360 he founded a monastery near Poitiers, which is said to have been the first established in Gaul. Shortly afterwards he became Bishop of Tours. He died A.D. 397.

Britius was a native of Tours, the pupil of St Martin, and his successor in the see of Tours. He was driven from Tours on a charge of incontinence. After a lapse of seven years, being cleared, he returned and resumed his bishopric, which he held for seven years in peace. He died A.D. 444. His festival was first observed about A.D. 474.

Machutus, or Maclovius, was born in Wales. He became Bishop of Aleth in Brittany about A.D. 541. He died about A.D. 564. The see of Aleth was afterwards transferred to St Malo, a town named after him.

Hugh was born in Burgundy, A.D. 1140. About A.D. 1182 he came to England, at the request of Henry II., to take charge of the Carthusian monastery founded by the King at Witham, Somersetshire. In A.D. 1186 he became Bishop of Lincoln. He died A.D. 1200.

Edmund was born A.D. 841. At the age of 14 he ascended the throne of East Anglia. In A.D. 870 he was massacred by the Danes. His body was translated, A.D. 903, to Bedericsworthe, now Bury St Edmund's.

Cecilia is believed to have been a Roman lady, who suffered martyrdom A.D. 230. She is named in all the ancient martyrologies, and is commemorated in the Canon of the Roman Mass. She is regarded as the patroness of ecclesiastical music.

Clement, the companion and fellow-labourer of St Paul, became Bishop of Rome about A.D. 93. He is supposed to have suffered under Trajan, A.D. 100. In A.D. 96 he addressed an epistle to the Church of Corinth, which is still extant. The only MS. of this epistle known to exist is appended to the Codex Alexandrinus in the British Museum.

Catherine suffered at Alexandria about A.D. 307. The Emperor Basil, in his Greek Menology, relates that she was of royal descent and famed for her teaching.

The festival of St Andrew is probably as old as the middle of the 4th century. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

The name of Clement was first placed in the reformed calendar in 1552. Leonard, St Martin, Britius, Machutus, Hugh, Edmund, Cecilia and Catherine, were added in 1561. Their designations were added in 1662.

Nicolas was Bishop of Myra, the capital of Lycia. He died A.D. 342. He is the patron of children, especially of school-boys. In dedications his name is often joined with St Mary's.

The feast of the Conception of Blessed Virgin Mary is said to have been of ancient date in the Eastern Church. It did not, however, become of universal observance in the Western till the 15th century. The Council of Oxford, A.D. 1222, left its observance optional.

Lucy was a noble virgin of Syracuse, she suffered martyrdom about A.D. 304.

O Sapientia. The name is derived from the Greater Antiphons to the Magnificat, commonly called the O's, anciently sung at Vespers in the English Church from this day till Christmas Eve.

The festival of St Thomas is mentioned in the 5th century. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons were appointed in 1559.

The observance of Christmas-Day in the Western Church is most ancient. See note on Collect. The Proper Lessons, appointed in 1549, were Is. ix. Is. vii. 10, Mat. i. Tit. iii. Luke ii. was appointed in 1552. The First Lessons were shortened in 1662.

The festival of St Stephen has been celebrated from the 4th century. See note on Collect. The First Lessons were appointed in 1559, the Second in 1549.

The festival of St John has been celebrated from the 6th century. See note on Collect. The First Lessons were appointed in 1559, the Second in 1549.

Innocents' Day has been observed from the 5th century. See note on Collect. The Morning First Lesson appointed in 1549, the Evening in 1559.

Sylvester was a native of Rome. He became Bishop of Rome A.D. 314. He died A.D. 335. A church was dedicated in his name, about the end of the fifth century.

Nicolas, Conception of B. V. M., Lucy, O Sapientia, and Sylvester were first noted in the reformed Calendar in 1561. The designations were added in 1662.

BEFORE the change of style in England Easter-day was defined to be the first Sunday after the first full moon, which happens next after the one-and-twentieth day of March. In the case of the full moon happening on a Sunday, Easter-day was to be the Sunday after. The present rule is that laid down by the 24 Geo. II. cap. 23, A.D. 1751, when it was enacted, "that the said feast of Easter, or any of the moveable feasts thereon depending shall, from and after the second day of September [1751], be no longer kept or observed in that part of Great Britain called England, or in any other the dominions or countries subject or belonging to the crown of Great Britain, according to the said mode of supputation now used, or the said Table prefixed to the said Book of Common Prayer; and that the said Table and also the column of Golden Numbers, as they are now prefixed to the respective days of the month in the said Calendar, shall be left out of all future editions of the said Book of Common Prayer; and that the said new Calendar, Tables, and Rules, hereunto annexed, shall be prefixed to all such future editions of the said book, in the room and stead thereof."

The object of the Act, as stated in the preamble to it, was the fixing the true time of the celebration of Easter, so as the same shall agree, as nearly as may be, with the decree of the Nicene Council and with the practice of foreign countries. This object was effected by the tables annexed to the Act, which were taken from the Gregorian Calendar. But the tables were inconsistent with the Rule which the Parliament added in explanation of them, and which now stands in our Prayer-book. The following points, concerning this apparent discrepancy, are established in a paper "On the Ecclesiastical Calendar," which Professor De Morgan contributed to the Companion to the British Almanack for 1845.

"1. The law which regulates Easter in Great Britain declares that whenever the full moon on or next after March 21 falls on a Sunday, that Sunday is not Easter Sunday, but the next: it also prescribes rules for determining Easter.

"2. In defiance of the precept, though in accordance with the rules, the Easter Sunday of 1845 is on the very day of the full moon next following March 21.

"3. One part of the reason of this is that the British Legislature misunderstood the definition of Easter, mis the rules which they adopted, thinking that

OF THE FEASTS.

By the statute of 5 & 6 Edward VI. c. 3, all the days in this Table, except the days of the feasts of the Conversion of St Paul and of St Barnabas, which are not mentioned, are commanded to be kept Holy-days. The same statute enacts that none other day shall be kept and commanded to be kept holy, or to abstain from lawful bodily labour.

The different times, at which the observance of the feasts enumerated in the Table began, are given in the Calendar and in the notes on the Collects.

In the Unreformed Calendars there were many other Holy-days besides those enumerated in the Table. The observance of these was abrogated by the 5 & 6 Edward VI. before mentioned. In 1549 the only day named in the Calendar in addition to those mentioned in the last paragraph was St Mary Magdalene's. In 1552 this was omitted and four others were inserted,—St George, Lammas, St Laurence, and St Clement. In 1559 St Clement occurs alone in some editions. A Latin edition of the Prayer-book was put out in 1560, the Calendar of which gives a much larger number than is contained in our present Calendar, but omits Invention of the Cross, Trans. of K. Edward, Trans. of St Martin, Enur- chus, Holy-Cross Day, St Denys, Trans. of K. Edward the Confessor, and Lucy. An English Calendar was prefixed to the Prayer-book in 1561. It agrees with the present Calendar, except that it does not include Bede, St Alban, and Enurchus. The last of these three was first inserted in 1604, the other two in 1662. These black-letter days were restored to the Calendar, as Procter remarks, "partly no doubt that the marks of time employed in courts of law might be understood, and that the old dates of parochial festivities and fairs might be retained; but partly with the higher object of perpetuating the memory of ancient Christian worthies, some of them connected, or supposed to be connected with the English Church, and thereby of evincing how that Church was still in spirit undis severed from the national Church of earlier years, from the brotherhood of Catholic Christianity." That those who put forth the Prayer-book of 1662, were actuated by this higher object is clear from their adding to the Calendar the names of Bede and Alban, and giving to all the persons commemorated their due designations.

A Table of Feasts was first added in 1561.

it depended upon the full moon, whereas it depends upon the fourteenth day of the moon, the day of new moon being counted as the first. Now full moon never happens before the fifteenth day of this reckoning.

"4. The other part of the reason of this discrepancy is that the legislature supposed the moon of the Calendar to be the same as the moon of the heavens, which neither is nor was intended to be the case: the moon of the Calendar being not only made to vary from the moon of the heavens for convenience of calculation, but also to prevent Easter-day from falling on the day of the Jewish Passover.

"5. These two errors very often compensate one another, for though the fourteenth day is very often a day behind the Calendar full moon, yet the Calendar moon is also very often a day before the real moon, so that the fourteenth day of the Calendar moon is frequently the day of the real full moon. But they do not always do so; and it should never be matter of surprise if Easter fall on the Sunday of the full moon, whether real or calendar.

"6. It is not correct to say that Easter is made to fall wrongly in 1845: it falls where the legislators, who correctly copied the rule of the Roman Church, intended it should fall, though they did not correctly give the explanation of the rule they intended to use."

The following remarks are from Professor De Morgan's paper referred to above.

"There is not much information as to the manner in which the Christians of the first three centuries kept Easter, except that the proper mode was much disputed; that there was one division as to whether it should be kept on the day of the old Passover or on the first day of the following week, another as to what mode of constructing the lunar calendar should be adopted. Leaving out the Montanists, who are said to have kept

OF THE VIGILS, FASTS, AND DAYS OF ABSTINENCE.

Vigils are the Evens before Feasts. Festivals "were commonly ushered in by the attendance of preceding pernoctations or vigils, which, as harbingers, went before to make preparations for the solemnities of the following days. These vigils were much of the same nature as the common nocturnal, or daily morning prayer, which was early before it was light: and they only differed from the usual antelucan service in this, that whereas the usual morning service never began till after midnight towards cock-crowing in the morning, these vigils were a longer service, that kept the congregation at church the greatest part of the night. These the Greeks called πρωυχίδες, and the Latins pernoctationes et pervigilia, watchings all the night."—BINGHAM. The observance of the Easter vigil is mentioned by Tertullian (A.D. 192). Every vigil is a fast.

Fasting is a total abstaining from food for a certain time; abstinence a partial abstaining from food, either by a diminution of quantity or by an abstaining from certain kinds of food. The observance of days of fasting and abstinence is very ancient.

I. The fast of Lent is of primitive observance. "The original duration of the fast appears to have been forty hours, in commemoration of the time that elapsed from the noon of Friday, when our Saviour began to yield to the power of death, until his resurrection. But in the time of Irenæus and Tertullian other days were added to these, varying in different Churches; until in the 5th century the usual fast was kept for thirty-six days, or six weeks, deducting the Sundays; and in the 8th century, in the pontificate of Gregory II., Ash-Wednesday and the other three days were added to Lent, and the Quadragesimal fast was observed during forty days."—PROCTER. The word Lent is derived from the Anglo-Saxon Leučen, spring.

II. These particular days of the fasts of the four seasons were fixed by the Council of Placentia, A.D. 1095. "From jejunia quatuor temporum the Germans called these seasons quatember, and hence our word ember."—PROCTER. But see note on Prayer for Ember weeks.

III. The observance of the Rogation-days has been traced to Mamercus, Bishop of Vienne in Gaul, A.D. 460, who instituted litanies or rogations on those days on account of some calamities in his diocese.

IV. The Friday fast was instituted in memory of our Lord's Passion. Its observance is as ancient as the time of Clemens Alexandrinus and Tertullian.

The Table of Vigils, Fasts, and Days of Abstinence was first added in 1662. Fasts on Vigils were marked in the Calendar of 1561.

The observance of the Anniversary of the Sovereign's Accession rests on Royal Proclamation. The special service for this day was not sent with the Prayer-book to Parliament in 1662, and is not noticed in the Act of Uniformity. Hence some have maintained that its use is contrary to law, the power of the Crown to dispense with an Act of Parliament being now entirely taken away.

The Twentieth Day of June, being the Day on which Her Majesty began her happy Reign.

Easter on a fixed day, the dispute seems to resolve itself entirely into the schism of the Eastern and Western Christians: and Eusebius says that the parties were nearly equally balanced. No doubt there were some sub-divisions of opinion; but the great mass of the Eastern Christians celebrated Easter on the 14th day of the moon, and of the Western on the Sunday following: the two sides pleading two different apostolic traditions. There is also some probability that the Easterns used the lunar cycle of 84 years, which the Jews are known to have used, and are supposed to have learned during the captivity: while there is every reason to suppose that the Westerns calculated their new moons by the aid of the cycle of nineteen years, introduced by Meton. That the Western Churches used the Sunday after the 14th day of the moon is certain, from the letters of Popes Pius and Victor on the subject in the second century. The schism has an historical existence from the middle of that century, and probably there never had been any agreement on the subject. Uniformity of practice was introduced by the Nicene Council, in a manner which will require some description."

"The Council of Nice (A.D. 325) issued the following announcement in their epistle to the Church of Alexandria, preserved by Socrates and Theodoret:— 'We also send you the good news concerning the unanimous consent of all in reference to the celebration of the most solemn feast of Easter, for this difference also has been made up by the assistance of your prayers: so that all the brethren in the East, who formerly celebrated this festival at the same time as the Jews, will in future conform to the Romans and to us, and to all who have of old observed our manner of celebrating Easter.' Here, it will be observed, no rule is fixed, nor pretended to be fixed; all that is told is that the Eastern Christians shall or will in future conform to the practice of the Western ones. There is not a word about the moon, nor about any rule for determining Easter."

"Writers, both Catholic and Protestant, have endeavoured to infer that the Council laid down the strict use of the cycle of nineteen years, and all that constituted the rule afterwards established." Clavius asserts that the cycle of nineteen years was arranged for the purpose by Eusebius of Cæsarea (the historian and one of the bishops of the Council) and some Alexandrian astronomers. Mr De Morgan shews that the reasons alleged in support of this assertion are insufficient, and continues,

"Had the Nicene fathers really called the astronomers of Alexandria together, and desired them to form the Metonic cycle into the sort of Calendar which was in use for a thousand years before the time of Pope Gregory, it is difficult to imagine that the simple cycle arising out of this rule, should have borne the name of a priest of the sixth century. The first question which an ancient astronomer would ask, in arranging a chronological reckoning, would be, What is its cycle? After what period does it begin to recommence? Supposing the Metonic reckoning to be accurate, nothing is more easy than to see that, with leap year every four years, a period of 19×28 , or 532 years, will bring round the Easters in an order which will be repeated in the next 532 years, and so on. But this cycle bears the name of the Scythian Dionysius, surnamed Exiguus, an abbot of Rome about A.D. 530.

"Granting that the Council fully established a unanimous observance of the Sunday after the 14th of the moon, we shall see that not only did they not succeed in framing a lunar cycle, but that the Church itself never had an undisturbed rule till the sixth century. First comes Theophilus of Alexandria, A.D. 380, with a cycle of 437 years; after him Cyril of Alexandria, A.D. 412, with one of 95 years which attained great celebrity. Next Victorinus of Aquitaine the real author of the Dionysian cycle of 532 years, was actually employed by Pope Hilarius to correct the Calendar in the year 463. The authority for this account of Victorinus is his contemporary Gennadius, who mentions as his predecessors in the art of cycle-making, Hippolytus (Antenicene), Eusebius, Theophilus, and Prosper. Dionysius Exiguus seems to have done no more than accommodate the cycle of Victorinus (or Victorinus, as he is often called) to his new mode of reckoning; he being the person who first abandoned the era of Diocletian, and reckoned from the supposed year of the birth of Christ."

"The Dionysian cycle entailed a gradually increasing error, both as to the time of the year at which the feast should be kept, and its coincidence with the moon. This error began to be fully recognised about the beginning of the sixteenth century, and after various attempts had been made to excite attention to the subject, it was taken up in earnest by Pope Gregory XIII. in the year 1577."

On March 1st, 1582, a papal Bull was published, abolishing the old Calendar, giving a description of the new one, and referring for the grounds on which the new Calendar was adopted to a work

THIS Table contains so much of the Calendar as is necessary for the determining of Easter; to find which, look for the Golden Number of the year in the first column of the Table, against which stands the day of the Paschal Full Moon; then look in the third column for the Sunday Letter, next after the day of the Full Moon, and the day of the Month standing against that Sunday Letter is Easter-Day. If the Full Moon happens upon a Sunday, then (according to the first rule) the next Sunday after is Easter-Day.

To find the Golden Number, or Prime, add one to the year of our Lord, and then divide by 19; the remainder, if any, is the Golden Number; but if nothing remaineth, then 19 is the Golden Number.

To find the Dominical or Sunday Letter, according to the Calendar, until the year 1799 inclusive, add to the year of our Lord its fourth part, omitting fractions; and also the number 1: Divide the sum by 7; and if there is no remainder, then A is the Sunday Letter: But if any number remaineth, then the Letter standing against that number in the small annexed Table is the Sunday Letter.

TO make use of the preceding Table, find the Sunday Letter for the Year in the uppermost Line, and the Golden Number, or Prime, in the Column of Golden Numbers, and against the Prime, in the same Line under the Sunday Letter, you have the Day of the Month on which EASTER falleth that year. about to be published by the Jesuit Clavius, the well-known commentator on Euclid. The following account of the Calendar is derived, for the most part, from Professor De Morgan's paper.

The time between two successive entries of the sun into the vernal equinox is 365.2422 mean solar days. The Julian Calendar takes this as 365½ days, and accordingly allows a 366th day every 4th year. Thus a period of 400 Julian years was made too long by about 3 days. The error thus committed was corrected in the Gregorian Calendar by reducing 3 leap-years in that period to common years, the years selected being those which ended in 00, unless the preceding figures are divisible by 4. Thus 1600 is leap-year, but 1700, 1800, 1900 are not leap-years. This correction leaves the year still too long by about 1 day in 3600 years; and in the French Revolutionary Calendar the years 3600, 7200, 10800 were not to be leap-years. The Gregorian Calendar did not think it necessary to legislate for such a remote future. The Julian year, being too long, made the equinox gradually recede, so that in the year 1582 the Calendar-equinox was on the 11th of March. At the time of the Nicene Council the equinox had been on the 21st of March; and, as it was thought desirable to bring forward the Calendar-equinox to that date, the 5th to the 14th of October, 1582, were dropped, so that what should have been the 5th of October, 1582, was ordered to be called the 15th.

"A slight mistake was committed in making this change of style. The equinox vibrates between one day and the next, and is brought back again by the leap-year. Now it was intended that the equinox should have vibrated between the 20th and 21st of March, but an error of a day in the Alfonsine tables, which were consulted, made the equinox vibrate between the 21st and 22nd, as it now does. So that even if the moon of the Calendar were the moon of the heavens, here is a source of occasional error: for if a 14th of the moon were to fall on the 21st, at a time when the equinox is on the 22nd, that 14th would be held to be the paschal 14th, and Easter-day would be the next Sunday, according to the Calendar, though the 14th really fell before the equinox. This would make a whole month of 'error' at once. The Calendar-equinox, nevertheless, is to be held to fall on the 21st of March."

The next step in determining Easter in any year is to find what days of the month will be Sundays in that year. This is done by what is called the Dominical or Sunday letter.

Referring back to the monthly Calendar, it will be seen that the seven letters A, b, c, d, e, f, g are placed against the days of the months, the letter A being placed against Jan. 1st, b against Jan. 2nd, and so on. If Jan. 1st be a Sunday, as in 1865, its letter being A, all the days of a common year, which have the letter A, will be Sundays. If, as in 1865, the Sunday letter be D, the days of the month against the letter D in the Calendar, as Jan. 4th, 11th, &c. will be Sundays. In leap-years there are two Sunday letters, the first for Jan. and Feb., the second for the rest of the year. Thus in 1864 the Sunday letters were C, B.

Hence it will be seen that if A be the Sunday letter in any common year, G will be the Sunday letter in the next year, and so on. If then the dominical letters A, B, C, D, E, F, G be numbered 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, 0 respectively, the number of the letter will increase by 1 in every common year, and by 2 in every leap-year, so far as Easter is concerned. Now "the dominical letter of 1583 was F in the old style and B in the new. But if the old Calendar had continued from A.D. 1, the cycle of dominical letters would have been repeated every 28 years, just as in the preceding 28; consequently, if B had been the letter for 1583, it would also have been that of A.D. 15, whence, reckoning backwards, E would have been the letter of A.D. 1, and 2 its number in our list... If then we begin with A.D. 1 and Sunday number 2, every addition of 1 to the A.D. would add 1 to the Sunday number, and every complete series of 4 would add 1 more for leap-year."

Hence we have the following rule for finding the Sunday letter of any given year, remembering that the Sunday number of A.D. 1 is 2: Add to the year its fourth part, omitting fractions, and also the number 1. And observing that, since 1600, the years ending in 00 are not leap-years, except when the number of centuries is divisible by 4, add to the sum thus obtained the fourth part, omitting fractions, of the number of centuries above 16; and from the total subtract the said number of centuries above 16. Divide the sum thus left by 7, and the remainder will give the Sunday number; whence, looking at the cycle given in the preceding paragraph, the Sunday letter is obtained.

From the foregoing explanation will be seen the reason of the rule given in the Prayer-book for finding the Golden Number, or number of the year in the cycle of 19 years, and of the rules for finding the Sunday letter in the 18th and 19th centuries.

The next step in finding Easter-day for any given year is the determination of the Calendar new moons for that year, the time of the Calendar new moon not being necessarily coincident with the time of the new moon of the heavens. "There are some paragraphs of Clavius," remarks Professor De Morgan, "which are worth translating; it being remembered that our Easter is by statute the Easter of Clavius, with a wrong explanation added by our legislators. 'Who, except a few who think they are very sharp-sighted in this matter, is so blind as not to see that the 14th of the moon and the full moon are not the same thing in the Church of God?... Although the Church, in finding the new moon, and from it the 14th day, uses neither the true nor the mean motion of the moon, but measures only according to the order of a cycle; it is nevertheless undeniable that the mean full moons found from astronomical tables are of the greatest use in determining the cycle which is to be preferred, ... the new moons of which cycle, in order to the due celebration of Easter, should be so arranged that the 14th days of those moons, reckoning from the day of new moon inclusive, should not fall two or more days before the mean full moon, but only one day, or else on the very day itself, or not long after. And even thus far the Church need not take very great pains, ... for it is sufficient that all should reckon by the 14th day of the moon in the cycle, even though sometimes it should be more than one day before or after the mean full moon. ... We have taken pains that in our cycle the new moons should follow the real new moons, so that the 14th of the moon should fall either the day before the mean full moon, or on that day, or not long after; and this was done on purpose, for if the new moon of the cycle fell on the same day as the mean new moon of the astronomers, it might chance that we should celebrate Easter on the same day as the Jews or the Quartadeciman heretics, which would be absurd, or else before them, which would be still more absurd.'"

The mean length of a lunation is 29⁵³⁰⁵⁸⁸ days; and the first step of the Gregorian lunar Calendar is to make the months consist of 30 and 29 days alternately, or on the average 29½ days each. But this makes the average month too short by a period of 0³⁰⁵⁸⁸ days, or about 1 day in 33 lunations. "Part of this loss is made up as follows:—The 20th of February is actually passed over in the Calendar lunation and not counted, while it is counted in the mean lunation: so that in fact one lunation in 4 years is a day longer than it ought to be, and the Calendar new moon is thrown forward a day. But this is not enough, for a day in 33 lunations is about 7 days in 19 years. The rest is nearly made up by allowing all but one of the additional or embolismic lunations, as they were called, and to which we shall immediately come, to have 30 days, and not alternately 30 and 29.

"Twelve lunations of 30 and 29 days alternately make 354 days. If then January 1 be a Calendar new moon, it follows that December 21 will be the same; or if January 1 be marked I, December 21 will be marked I, and the next January 1 will be the 12th day of the moon, or XII. The epact of a year means the day of the Calendar moon on which the 1st of January falls; accordingly eleven must be added to the epact of one year to get the epact of the next, upon the supposition of twelve lunations in a year. Now suppose a year, which we will call year 1, begins with the last day of the Calendar moon; then year 2 begins with XI, year 3 with XXII, and year 4 with XXXIII, or the third year requires another lunation. Let this embolismic lunation (so called) be inserted, and let it be 30 days, then year 4 begins with III of the Calendar moon. Again, year 5 begins with XIV, year 6 with XXV, year 7 would begin with XXXVI, but for another embolismic lunation of 30 days, which makes it begin with VI. Proceed in this way and we shall find that, if the first epact be XXX, as supposed, the epacts of the successive years will be as follows, embolismic years being marked with an asterisk:—

Year.	Epact.	Year.	Epact.
1	XXX	12	I
2	XI	13	XII
3*	XXII	14*	XXIII
4	III	15	IV
5	XIV	16	XV
6*	XXV	17*	XXVI
7	VI	18	VII
8	XVII	19	XVIII
9*	XXVIII		} 19*
10	IX
11*	XX		} 20
			} XXX

"Now let 19 be an embolismic year with a month of 29 days, and the year 20 will then begin with the last day of the moon, and its epact should be XXX as at first."

(In the Prayer-book tables the epact xxx is written o).

We have thus in the cycle of 19 years 235 cycle lunations: 12 x 19 of 30 and 29 days alternately, making 6726 days, 6 embolismic lunations of 30 days and 1 of 29 days, and 4 or 5 29ths of February thrown in; making in all 6939 or 6940 days, i.e. on an average 6939½ days, or

Note, that in a Bissextile or Leap-Year, the number of Sundays after Epiphany will be the same, as if Katter-Day had fallen One Day later than it really does. And for the same Reason, One Day must, in every Leap-Year, be added to the Day of the Month given by the Table for Septuagesima Sunday: And the like must be done for the First Day of Lent (commonly called Ash-Wednesday) unless the Table gives some Day in the Month of March for it; for in that Case, the Day given by the Table is the right Day.

THE Golden Numbers in the foregoing Calendar will point out the Days of the Faschal Full Moons, till the Year of our Lord 1900: at which Time, in order that the Ecclesiastical Full Moons may fall nearly on the same Days with the real Full Moons, the Golden Numbers must be removed to different Days of the Calendar, as is done in the annexed Table, which contains so much of the Calendar then to be used, as is necessary for finding the Paschal Full Moons, and the Feast of Katter, from the Year 1900, to the Year 2199 inclusive. This Table is to be made use of in all respects, as the First Table before inserted, for finding Katter, till the Year 1899.

19 × 365½ days. And as 235 mean lunations are 6939d. 16h. 31m., we see that the cycle of 19 years is too long by 1h. 29m. This would amount very nearly to 1 day in 16 cycles or 304 years. Clavius takes it to amount to 8 days in 2500 years, and on this supposition the new Calendar was framed.

All the leap-years are required to keep the cycle of 19 true as above. Hence, as the Gregorian solar year treats three centurial leap-years as common years in 400 years, we must, every time this takes place, lessen by one the epact of the Calendar moons.

We have also to add a correction to the epacts at the rate of 8 days in 2500 years. This is done by adding 1 to the epact each 300 years, seven times successively, and then 1 in 400. Clavius chose A.D. 1800 as the first year of this correction. Consequently the years at which these additions begin to be made are 1800, 2100, 2400, 2700, 3000, 3300, 3600, 3900, 4300.

"The year A.D. 1 was always considered as year 2 of the cycle of 19 years, whence the remainder of one more than the year divided by 19 will give the year of the cycle, 19 being the year when the remainder is nothing. It only remains to ask what epact is to be taken as that of year 1 of the cycle in the seventeenth century, or for all years of the Reformed Calendar preceding 1700, in which for the first time a 29th of February is not allowed. Clavius chose the epact 1 for the first year of the cycle, meaning thereby to put his Calendar full moon a day in advance of the mean full moon, for reasons already explained. Consequently his next epact for year 2 is 1 and eleven; for year 3, 1 and twice eleven, and so on; rejecting 30 as fast as it arises. Thence the starting rule for the epact is, find the remainder of the year of the cycle, increased by ten times the next less number, divided by 30.

"This is because 1 increased by 11, taken one time less than the year of the cycle, is the same thing as the year of the cycle increased by ten times the next less number.

We have now to give effect to the corrections. For each centurial leap-year treated as a common year we must subtract 1 from the approximate epact obtained above. Thus for epacts between 1700 and 1800 we must subtract 1; for those between 1800 and 1900, 2; for those between 1900 and 2000, 3; for those between 2000 and 2100, still 3. Also for the 8 days in 2500 years' correction, for epacts between 1800 and 2100 we must add 1; for those between 2100 and 2400,

2; and so on as described above. For example, to find the epact for A.D. 1880. Dividing 1881 by 19 we find the remainder 0, hence the Golden Number, or year of the cycle, is 19. Adding to 19 ten times 18 and dividing the sum by 30, we have a remainder 19, the first approximate epact. Subtracting 2 for the non-leap-years 1700, 1800, and adding 1, because the given year is between 1800 and 2100, we have for the epact XVIII.

Having the epact of the year and the Sunday letter we can readily find Easter-day. Here two cases present themselves, according as the Paschal lunation ends in March or April. If the epact be XXIII, the 1st Calendar new moon of the year is on Jan. 9th, the 3rd Calendar new moon on March 8th, and, therefore, its 14th day on March 21st, the equinox. This is the earliest possible 14th day of the Paschal moon; and March 22nd is the earliest day on which Easter-day can fall. If the epact be XXII, the Paschal new moon will be on March 9th, and so on. And, generally, if the epact be 23 or less, the day of March, on which the Paschal new moon falls, will be found by subtracting the epact from 31, and the day of March, on which the Calendar 14th day of the moon falls, will be found by subtracting the epact from 44. When the epact exceeds XXIII, the Paschal new moon is 30 days later, and the day in April on which its 14th day falls will be found by subtracting the epact from 74, considering April 1 as Mar. 32, April 2 as Mar. 33, and so on. In A.D. 1880 the epact is XVIII, hence Mar. 26th is the 14th day of the Paschal moon. Now the Sunday letter of March, 1880, found according to the preceding rule, is C. And, therefore, referring to the March Calendar, and finding that the first C, which follows Mar. 26th, is placed against Mar. 28th, we discover that Mar. 28th, 1880, will be Easter-day. In A.D. 1870, the Golden Number is 9; hence the first approximate epact is XXIX. Therefore, subtracting 2 and adding 1, we have for the epact of that year XXVIII. Since the epact exceeds XXIII, subtracting it from 74 we have the 46th of March or 15th of April as the 14th day of the Paschal moon. And the Sunday letter of the year is B. Therefore, referring to the April Calendar, and finding that the first B, which follows April 15th, is placed against April 17th, we discover that April 17th, 1870, will be Easter-day.

Let it be required to find Easter-day A.D. 2096. Adding to the year 1 and its 4th part; subtracting 3 for the non-leap-years 1700, 1800, 1900; and dividing by 7, we have no remainder. Hence A is

To find the Month and Days of the Month to which the Golden Numbers ought to be prefixed in the Calendar, in any given year of our Lord, consisting of entire hundred years, and in all the intermediate years betwixt that and the next hundredth year following, look in the second column of Table II. for the given year, consisting of entire hundreds, and note the number or cypher which stands against it in the third column; then, in Table III. look for the same number in the column under any given Golden Number, which when you have found, guide your eye side-ways to the left hand, and in the first column you will find the Month and Day to which that Golden Number ought to be prefixed in the Calendar, during that period of one hundred years.

The letter B prefixed to certain hundredth years in Table II. denotes those years which are still to be accounted Bissextille or Leap Years in the New Calendar; whereas all the other hundredth years are to be accounted only common years.

the Sunday letter for Jan. and Feb., and G for the rest of the year. The Golden Number is 7. Hence the approximate epact, or remainder after division of $7+10 \times 6$ by 30, is VII. Which, diminished by 3 for the non-leap-years 1700, 1800, 1900, and increased by 1, because the year falls between 1800 and 2100, becomes V, the true epact. Subtracting this from 44 we have Mar. 30th or April 8th as the 14th day of the Paschal moon. And referring to the Calendar for April, and finding that April 8th has G for its letter and is therefore Sunday, we discover that April 15th, 2096, is Easter-day.

"If the epacts were written backwards, and if they went up to XXIX and XXX (or *) alternately, then, assuming the month in which the year begins to have 30 days, the next one 29, and so on, the epact of the year would always be found opposite to the day of Calendar new moon. But Clavius prefers to carry the days of every month up to 30, and in the hollow months (or months of 29 days) he contrives to reduce this number virtually to 29, by writing two of the numbers, XXV and XXIV, in the same line. Certain days, therefore, have two epact-numbers, XXV.XXIV, written after them.

"In the same cycle there may arise two out of the nineteen years which have XXV and XXIV for their epacts. Both of these will have, for anything yet explained to the contrary, some of their Calendar new moons on the same days, on account of the coalescence of XXV and XXIV in the alternate months. Now it will never happen as to mean lunations, and rarely as to real ones, that in the same cycle there should be the lunation of a given month beginning on the same day in two different years of the cycle; and such a thing never happened in the unreformed Calendar. Clavius thought it desirable to imitate this in the new Calendar; and he observed, that by taking the preceding day whenever the epact was XXV, and the year of the cycle after the 11th, he could avoid the reiteration, and thus make the desired resemblance. Take the previous table of epacts, and write those of the first eleven and last eight years of the cycle in two lines, as they are when year 1 has XXX or *.

XXX	XI	XXII	III	XIV	XXV	VI
I	XII	XXIII	IV	XV	XXVI	VII

		XVIII

"If the first epact be 1, we have but to add 1 to every one of these; if it be VII, we have but to add 7, always striking off 30 when it can be done, and we shall thus get all the successions of epacts that can possibly arise in any cycle of 19 years. Now it is clear that in the first line there are no two contiguous numbers; nor in the second: while all the numbers of the second line are, as far as they go, contiguous to those of the first. The same thing will happen when all are increased by the same number, and it follows that when XXIV and XXV come together in the same cycle, XXIV must be in the first line and XXV in the second; and XXVI will not then be in the second. If then for XXV, when XXIV is in the first line, we use XXVI, or the day opposite XXVI for the day of the Calendar new moon, it will prevent a repetition of those which are used when XXIV is the epact: which amounts to the following rule;—Whenever the epact should be XXV, the year of the cycle being upwards of 11, say that the epact is 26. This is not an astronomical correction, but a mere conventional mode of reconciling the choice which Clavius made of the mode of writing the epacts with an essential peculiarity of the old cycle of 19 years which that mode of writing would have otherwise destroyed."

By means of the epact-almanack Easter-day, for any year, may be very readily found. Thus for A.D. 1818, we find by the ordinary rules that the Sunday letter was D and the epact XXIII. Hence, referring to the epact-almanack, we find that Mar. 8th was the day of the Paschal new moon, and, therefore, Mar. 21st its 14th day, which has C for its letter. Hence Mar. 22nd, 1818, was Easter-day, which then fell on the earliest possible day. In A.D. 1886, the epact is XXV and the Sunday letter C. Hence, referring to the epact-almanack, we find that April 18th will be the 14th day of the Paschal moon and will be Sunday. Hence April 25th, 1886, will be Easter-day, which will then fall as late as possible. In A.D. 1954 the Golden Number is 17, the Sunday letter C, and the epact, found according to the ordinary rule, XXV. Call it therefore XXVI. Thence April 17th will be the 14th day of the Paschal moon and April 18th Easter-day. If the epact XXV were used, April 25th would be Easter day.

A very full account of the Ecclesiastical Calendar, together with arithmetical rules for finding Easter independently of tables, is given in Professor De Morgan's paper, so often quoted in the preceding sketch. See also the Book of Almanacs by the same author.

In 1552 "the order where Morning and Evening Prayer shall be used and said" was first added as a rubric. This heading was altered in 1662. The order of 1552 was: "The Morning and Evening Prayer shall be used in such place of the church, chapel, or chancel, and the Minister shall so turn him, as the people may best hear. And if there be any controversy therein, the matter shall be referred to the Ordinary, and he or his deputy shall appoint the place; and the chancels," &c. This was altered to the present form in 1559.

The second part of the rubric of 1552 was, "And here is to be noted that the Minister at the time of the Communion, and at all other times in his ministration, shall use neither alb, vestment, nor cope; but being Archbishop or Bishop, he shall have and wear a rochet: and being a priest or deacon, he shall have and wear a surplice only." This was altered in 1559 to "And here is to be noted... ministration, shall use such ornaments in the Church, as were in use by authority of Parliament in the second year of the reign of King Edward the Sixth, according to the Act of Parliament set in the beginning of this book." (The Act was 1 Eliz. c. 2.) The rubric was altered to its present form, which was taken from the said Act, in 1662. The Privy Council ruled in Liddell v. Westerton that the word "ornaments" in this rubric applies and is confined to those articles, the use of which, in the services and ministrations of the Church, is prescribed by the Prayer-book of 1549.

In 1549 under the head of certain Notes for the more plain Explication and decent Ministration of things contained in this Book we have at the end of the Communion Service these Rubrics.

In the saying or singing of Matins and Evensong, Baptizing and Burying, the minister in parish churches and chapels annexed to the same, shall use a Surplice and in all cathedral churches and colleges the Archdeacons, Deans, Provosts, Masters, Prebendaries and Fellows being Graduates may use in the Quire beside their Surplices such hoods as pertaineth to their several degrees which they have taken in any University within this realm. But in all other places every minister shall be at liberty to use any Surplice or no. It is also seemly that Graduates when they do preach, should use such hoods as pertaineth to their several degrees, and whensoever the Bishop shall celebrate the holy communion in the church or execute any other public ministration, he shall have upon him beside his rochette, a surplice or albe, and a cope or vestment, and also his pastoral staff in his hand or else borne or holden by his chaplain.

Another rubric before the Communion Service directed the Priest to wear a white albe plain, with a vestment or cope; the assistant Priests and Deacons to wear albes with tunicks.

THE ORDER FOR MORNING AND EVENING PRAYER,

DAILY TO BE SAID AND USED THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

THE Morning and Evening Prayer shall be used in the accustomed place of the Church, Chapel, or Chancel; except it shall be otherwise determined by the Ordinary of the Place. And the Chancels shall remain as they have done in times past. And here is to be noted, that such Ornaments of the Church, and of the Ministers thereof, at all times of their Ministration, shall be retained, and be in use, as were in this Church of England, by the Authority of Parliament, in the Second Year of the Reign of King Edward the Sixth.

THE Introduction, consisting of the Sentences, Exhortation, Confession, and Absolution, was prefixed in 1552.

To commence with Scripture was in accordance with the mind of the Reformers, who were wont to base the whole of their worship and doctrine on Holy Writ. It had been customary in Compline and, according to the Sarum Use also, in week-day Lauds to begin with a versicle and response. At Compline this verse was 'Converte nos Deus salutaris noster.' Res. 'Et averte iram tuam a nobis.' In Lauds, 'Fiat misericordia tua Domine super nos.' Res. 'Quemadmodum speravimus in te.'

The verses from the Old Testament here selected are taken from the old Lenten Capitula and from the penitential Psalms daily read during Lent. The verse from Daniel is an exception. This and the New Testament verses were additional selections made by the Reformers. The first sentence originally ran, 'At what time soever a sinner doth repent him of his sin from the bottom of his heart, I will put all his wickedness out of my remembrance, saith the Lord.' Ver. 27 was substituted for this in 1662.

¶ The principle of thus exhorting worshippers is recognized in the address prescribed by the Liturgies of Gaul and Spain to Communicants after the dismissal of Catechumens. In the Spanish or Mosarabic office for matin lauds an address from the priest to the people, exhorting them to seek from God those things which are necessary to salvation, is prescribed.

The Service Book of the French Reformed congregation was translated into Latin by its superintendent Pollanus and published in Feb. 1552. It contained at the beginning a short exhortation, a form of confession, and a direction that the Pastor should recite some sentence declaratory of forgiveness. The choir sang the 1st table of the Decalogue before, the 2nd table after this commencement. There is in foreign Service books nothing which can fairly be regarded as the model of our confession.

The Confession and Absolution in the old service books differed much from our form. The priest confessed to God, the Virgin, the Saints, and the people; and asked the prayers of the Virgin, the Saints, and the people. The people answered, 'Misereatur;' then made a similar confession to the priest. He replied, 'Misereatur vestri omnipotens Deus: et dimittat vobis omnia peccata vestra:

liberet vos ab omni malo; conservet et confirmet in bono: et ad vitam perducatur æternam. Amen. Absolutionem et remissionem omnium peccatorum vestrorum, spatium veræ pœnitentiæ, emendationem vitæ, gratiam et consolationem Sancti Spiritus tribuat vobis omnipotens et misericors Dominus. Amen.'

Before the concluding Litany of the Greek Nocturns occurs the following prayer by the priest: 'Release, remit, forgive, O God, our offences, voluntary and involuntary, in deed or word, of wilfulness or ignorance, by night or by day, sins of thought and purpose; forgive them all of thy goodness and loving-kindness.'

In the Services of a monastery, before the concluding Litany at the late evening service, the priest speaks to the choir on his right and on his left, 'O, holy Fathers, forgive me, a sinner.' They reply, 'May God forgive thee, O holy Father.' Then an interchange of asking and receiving pardon takes place among the choristers. At the end of the Litany the priest pronounces pardon to the monks, and the service concludes with a continuation of the Litany, said privately.

In 1552 the Confession is directed to be said of the whole congregation, after the minister, kneeling. The Absolution is to be pronounced by the minister alone. In 1604 the phrase 'Remission of Sins,' explanatory of absolution, was introduced.

In the Scotch Prayer-book, 1637, the General Confession is to be said by them that are present after or with the deacon or presbyter, all humbly kneeling. The Absolution, or Remission of Sins, is to be pronounced by the presbyter alone, he standing up and turning himself to the people, but they still remaining humbly upon their knees.

Hence our present Rubric appears to have a twofold object: 1st, to make a distinction between the Confession and the Absolution; 2ndly, to withhold the pronunciation of the Absolution from deacons.

Basil thus describes the commencement of service in his day, A.D. 370: 'Very early in the morning, even while it is still night, our people resort to the house of prayer, where they confess unto God their sins with groans and sorrow and tears of anguish. And, lastly, rise from their prayers and betake themselves to psalmody.'

THE ORDER FOR MORNING PRAYER,

DAILY THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

¶ At the beginning of Morning Prayer the Minister shall read with a loud voice some one or more of these Sentences of the Scriptures that follow. And then he shall say that which is written after the said Sentences.

WHEN the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive. Ezek. xviii. 27.

I acknowledge my transgressions, and my sin is ever before me. Psalms li. 3.

Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities. Psalms li. 9.

The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise. Psalms li. 17.

Rend your heart, and not your garments; and turn unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil. Joel ii. 13.

To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him: neither have we obeyed the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws which he set before us. Daniel ix. 9, 10.

O Lord, correct me, but with judgement; not in thine anger, lest thou bring me to nothing. Jer. x. 24. Psalm vi. 1.

Repent ye; for the Kingdom of heaven is at hand. St. Matth. iii. 2.

I will arise, and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. St. Luke xv. 18, 19.

Enter not into judgement with thy servant, O Lord; for in thy sight shall no man living be justified. Psalms cxliii. 2.

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us: but, if we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 1 St. John i. 8, 9.

DEARLY beloved brethren, the Scripture moveth us in sundry places to acknowledge and confess our manifold sins and wickedness; and that we should not dissemble nor cloke them before the face of Almighty God our heavenly Father; but confess them with an humble, lowly, penitent, and obedient heart; to the end that we may obtain forgiveness of the same, by his infinite goodness and mercy. And although we ought at all times humbly to acknowledge our sins before God; yet ought we most chiefly so to do, when we assemble and meet together to render thanks for the great benefits that we have received at his hands, to set forth his most worthy praise, to hear his most holy Word, and to ask those things which are requisite and necessary, as well for the body as the soul. Wherefore I pray and beseech you, as many as are here present, to accompany me with a pure heart, and humble voice, unto the throne of the heavenly grace, saying after me;

¶ A general Confession to be said of the whole Congregation after the Minister, all kneeling.

ALMIGHTY and most merciful Father; We have erred, and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts. We have offended against thy holy laws. We have left undone those things which we ought to have done; And we have done those things which we ought not to have done; And there is no health in us. But thou, O Lord, have mercy upon us, miserable offenders. Spare thou them, O God, which confess their faults. Restore thou them that are penitent; According to thy promises declared unto mankind, in Christ Jesu our Lord. And grant, O most merciful Father, for his sake; That we may hereafter live a godly, righteous, and sober life, To the glory of thy holy Name. Amen.

¶ The Absolution, or Remission of sins, to be pronounced by the Priest alone, standing; the people still kneeling.

ALMIGHTY God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he may turn from his wickedness, and live; and hath given power, and commandment, to his Ministers, to declare and pronounce to his people, being penitent, the Absolution and Remission of their sins: He pardoneth and absolveth all them that truly repent, and unfeignedly believe his holy Gospel. Wherefore let us beseech him to grant us true repentance, and his Holy Spirit, that those things may please him, which we do at this present; and that the rest of our life hereafter may be pure, and holy; so that at the last we may come to his eternal joy; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

¶ In the earliest forms of Christian worship the Lord's Prayer as being the Prayer of the Faithful was not used until after the dismissal of Catechumens. It first appears at the beginning of the Hours in the Cistercian consuetudinary 13th century. It was considered preliminary to the Service, and was repeated in an undertone by the Priest alone who raised his voice at the clause, Ne nos inducas, &c. to which the people responded Sed libera nos a malo.

In 1549 the Priest alone said the Lord's Prayer at the beginning of Morning and Evening Service, and of the Communion Service; in other parts the people answered with the last clause; in 1552 the people said the whole with him in place of this response except at the commencement of the several services; in 1662 the people are directed always to repeat it with the minister.

This joint repetition is the custom with the Greeks, who also use the Doxology; this was added here in 1662.

¶ These versicles and the Doxology have been used from the 6th century at least as a commencement of nocturns in the West. They are taken from Psalm li. 15 and lxx. i. li. 15. occurs in the early part of the Greek morning office. O God make speed, &c. and the answer occurs at the commencement of all the Hours.

The use of the Doxology is also common at the commencement of the Greek offices. Our Service follows the Salisbury Breviary here, and in the next versicle. The Response to this versicle was added in 1662, it had been appointed in the Scotch Prayer-book 1637. In 1549, Praise ye the Lord was followed by Hallelujah from Easter to Trinity Sunday.

¶ The 95th Psalm has been used from the very earliest period at the commencement of daily service, thus Athanasius writes of the Constantinopolitan office, "Before the beginning of their Prayers, the Christians invite and exhort one another in the words of this (95th) Psalm." In the West the whole Psalm has usually been repeated, in the East an Invitatory to public worship based on the 1st, 3rd and 6th verses of it. Before 1549 short Invitatories, texts or versicles inciting to praise were commonly inserted between the various verses; in 1549 the Psalm was directed to be said or sung without any Invitatory.

¶ Psalmody formed an important part of the Jewish temple worship; the singing was alternate or by way of response. The Christians naturally adopted this element; with them too the recitation was antiphonal or responsory. The appointment of the Psalter was extremely various. In Egypt the number of Psalms recited was after much diversity fixed to 12. In Spain three Psalms were sung in the nocturnal office. In our mediæval services 12 Psalms were sung at nocturns. The Psalms were fixed for each service through the week; special Psalms were appointed for special occasions. The monthly course which we observe is peculiar to ourselves; it was adopted in 1549, the rubric is of the same date. The iteration of the first, last or other characteristic verse of the Psalms under the title antiphon was discontinued.

¶ The Council of Laodicea c. 360 prescribed that Psalms and Lessons should be alternate. The same Council also required that Scripture alone should be read. The earliest trace of the observance of these directions is in the ritual of the church of Lyons derived from Ephesus, where we find in 499, Psalms, then a Lesson from Moses, then Psalms again, then a Lesson from the Prophets, then Psalms once more, then a Gospel, and later in the Service an Epistle.

The appointment of Scripture Lessons does not seem however to have been general in the East; they do not appear in the Oriental Morning Service. Canticles, succeeded by Odes, three, or nine, divided into three groups, supply a correspondence with the Lection system of the West. Festivals were classed as Feasts of three or nine Lections. From the Odes of the East the short Lections of the West were, according to Freeman, derived. The Lections were followed by responses; the Te Deum was the ordinary response to the 9th Lection, or to the 3rd if there were only three, on Festivals. The Lections appointed in the Breviaries were extremely short, and were moreover broken into fragments by antiphons and responsories. A prayer for forgiveness, a request from the people to the priest to bless, and a consequent blessing, usually preceded the Lection. A fixed capitulum, or short chapter, followed the fixed Psalms of Lauds.

In 1549 and 1552 the direction for the Lessons was, "Then shall be read two lessons distinctly with a loud voice, that the people may hear, &c. And, to the end the people may the better hear, in such places where they do sing, there shall the lessons be sung in a plain tune, after the manner of distinct reading; and likewise the Epistle and Gospel."

The appointment of our First and Second Lesson bears so close a resemblance to the First Lesson from the Law and the Second from the Prophets in the Synagogue Service, that we cannot avoid supposing the idea at least of our system derived from the Jews.

MORNING PRAYER.

¶ Then the Minister shall kneel, and say the Lord's Prayer with an audible voice; the people also kneeling, and repeating it with him, both here, and wheresoever else it is used in Divine Service.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, The power, and the glory, For ever and ever. Amen.

¶ Then likewise he shall say,

O Lord, open thou our lips.
Answer. And our mouth shall shew forth thy praise.

Priest. O God, make speed to save us.

Answer. O Lord, make haste to help us.

¶ Here all standing up, the Priest shall say.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost;

Answer. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

Priest. Praise ye the Lord.

Answer. The Lord's Name be praised.

¶ Then shall be said or sung this Psalm following: except on Easter Day, upon which another Anthem is appointed: and on the Nineteenth Day of every Month it is not to be read here, but in the ordinary courses of the Psalms.

Venite, exultemus Domino. Psalm xcvi.

O COME, let us sing unto the Lord : let us heartily rejoice in the strength of our salvation.

Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving : and shew ourselves glad in him with Psalms.

For the Lord is a great God : and a great King above all gods.

In his hand are all the corners of the earth : and the strength of the hills is his also.

The sea is his, and he made it : and his hands prepared the dry land.

O come, let us worship, and fall down : and kneel before the Lord our Maker.

For he is the Lord our God : and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand.

To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts : as in the provocation, and as in the day of temptation in the wilderness;

When your fathers tempted me : proved me, and saw my works.

Forty years long was I grieved with this generation, and said : It is a people that do err in their hearts, for they have not known my ways.

Unto whom I sware in my wrath : that they should not enter into my rest.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

¶ Then shall follow the Psalms in order as they are appointed. And at the end of every Psalm throughout the Year, and likewise at the end of Benedicite, Benedictus, Magnificat, and Nunc dimittis, shall be repeated,

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

Answer. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

¶ Then shall be read distinctly with an audible voice the First Lesson, taken out of the Old Testament, as is appointed in the Calendar, except there be proper Lessons assigned for that day: He that readeth so standing and turning himself, as he may best be heard of all such as are present. And after that, shall be said or sung, in English, the Hymn called Te Deum Laudamus, daily throughout the Year.

¶ Note, That before every Lesson the Minister shall say, Here beginneth such a Chapter, or Verse of such a Chapter, of such a Book: And after every Lesson, Here endeth the First, or the Second Lesson.

Te Deum Laudamus.

WE praise thee, O God : we acknowledge thee to be the Lord.

All the earth doth worship thee : the Father everlasting.

To thee all Angels cry aloud : the Heavens, and all the Powers therein.

To thee Cherubin, and Seraphin : continually do cry,

Holy, Holy, Holy : Lord God of Sabaoth ;

Heaven and earth are full of the Majesty : of thy Glory.

The glorious company of the Apostles : praise thee.

The goodly fellowship of the Prophets : praise thee.

The noble army of Martyrs : praise thee.

The holy Church throughout all the world : doth acknowledge thee ;

The Father : of an infinite Majesty ;

Thine honourable, true : and only Son ;

Also the Holy Ghost : the Comforter.

Thou art the King of Glory : O Christ.

Thou art the everlasting Son : of the Father.

When thou tookest upon thee to deliver man : thou didst not abhor the Virgin's womb.

When thou hadst overcome the sharpness of death : thou didst open the Kingdom of Heaven to all believers.

Thou sittest at the right hand of God : in the Glory of the Father.

We believe that thou shalt come : to be our Judge.

We therefore pray thee, help thy servants : whom thou hast redeemed with thy precious blood.

Make them to be numbered with thy Saints : in glory everlasting.

O Lord, save thy people : and bless thine heritage.

Govern them : and lift them up for ever.

Day by day : we magnify thee ;

And we worship thy Name : ever world without end.

¶ The Psalm Te Deum, as it was called in the old English Offices, received the name, 'the Song of Ambrose and Augustine,' from the tradition that it was composed and sung by the two alternately at the baptism of Augustine by Ambrose. The actual author is uncertain. It has been ascribed to Ambrose and Augustine, to Ambrose alone, to Hilary of Poitiers, c. 350. The first extant allusion to its existence is found in the Rule of Cæsarius, Bishop of Arles, who lived in the 5th century, and in that of his successor Aurelian. In the opinion of Palmer it is a composition of the Gallican Church, perhaps by a monk of Lerins, or possibly by Hilary of Arles, A.D. 440. In the Rule of Cæsarius it is ordered to be sung every Sunday at matins.

In the Sarum Breviary it was appointed to be used at matins on Sundays and Festivals, except during Advent and during the period from Septuagesima to Easter.

In 1549 it was to be used throughout the year, except in Lent, when Benedicite was substituted. In 1552 this exception was removed, and Te Deum, or Benedicite, might be used at the discretion of the minister throughout the year.

¶ The Canticle Benedicite is taken from the Greek addition to the 3rd chapter of Daniel, vers. 34—67. It was formerly sung on Sundays and Festivals at Lauds, with the Psalms, at the commencement of the Office. At this point the parallelism with the old Office of Lauds commences. In the Scotch Prayer-book the 23rd Psalm is substituted for Benedicite.

According to the rule of the Egyptian Church in the 5th century, the Lessons, one from the Old, the other from the New Testament, were read in their nocturnal or matutinal assembly; on Sundays both were taken from the New Testament.

¶ Benedictus has followed the Lesson at Lauds at least since A.D. 820, when it is mentioned by Amalarius. In 1549 Benedictus alone was appointed. In 1552 the alternative of Jubilate was given to avoid the repetition which might be caused by the occurrence of Benedictus in the Lesson or Gospel of the day. In the Greek Morning Office Magnificat and Benedictus constitute the 9th Ode. Jubilate was formerly one of the Psalms used at Lauds on Sundays and Festivals, but preceded the Lesson.

In the Ambrosian Lauds Benedictus was said at the commencement immediately after the introductory versicles.

¶ It was customary for the Priest, in commencing the Prayers of Prime and Compline, to recite the Apostles' Creed inaudibly until he came to the clause

'Carnis resurrectionem,' which he pronounced aloud. The choir responded, 'Et vitam æternam.' The Creed publicly recited in the Matin Offices was the Athanasian. This was sung in the English Office daily at Prime; in the Roman Office it was only used on Sundays. See the Athanasian Creed. The Apostles' Creed, as it is called, is first found in Rufinus of Aquileia, A.D. 390. The tradition that it was composed by the Apostles cannot be maintained. Its author is uncertain, but it is probably of very primitive date. It was the Creed of the Roman and other Italian Churches. It has followed the Lord's Prayer among the Prayers of Prime at least since A.D. 820.

¶ The Jews were wont to turn their faces in the direction of Jerusalem looking towards the mercy seat in the temple. Cf. 2 Chron. vi. 39. Hence Christians received the custom of adopting one particular aspect in prayer. Several reasons have been alleged for the choice of the East.

1. A comparison was instituted between the rising of the material sun and Christ the Sun of Righteousness. It is striking to observe the number of times in which Light is used as the figure to express the Gospel Revelation.

2. The East was the place of Paradise, whence Adam and Eve fell and whereunto we hope to be restored in Christ.

3. The East as the source of light is the more honourable part of creation.

4. Christ appeared in the East, thence ascended to heaven, and thence will appear again at the last day.

We may probably assign the continuance of a custom already found in existence among the Jews to a combination of the 1st and 4th reasons. In Baptism the Catechumen turned his face towards the West, as he renounced the devil and his works; towards the East, as he made his profession of faith.

¶ In 1549 the Salutation of Minister and People occurred as in the Old Service Books at the end of the Versicles and before the Collects; to it was subjoined Oremus. In 1552 the present position was adopted. The Greek form of salutation, primitive if not apostolic, was, Peace be to all, And with thy spirit. It was used 1st. By the Bishop on entering the church. So writes Chrysostom who calls the practice apostolical.

2ndly. The Reader began the Lessons thus. By the 3rd Council of Carthage A.D. 397, readers were debarred from using this form which was reserved for deacons and those above deacons.

3rdly. It frequently introduced and closed the sermon.

MORNING PRAYER.

¶ Then shall be read in like manner the Second Lesson, taken out of the New Testament. And after that, the Hymn following ; except when that shall happen to be read in the Chapter for the Day, or for the Gospel on St. John Baptist's Day.

Benedictus. St. Luke i. 68.

BLESSED be the Lord God of Israel : for he hath visited, and redeemed his people ;

And hath raised up a mighty salvation for us : in the house of his servant David ;

As he spake by the mouth of his holy Prophets : which have been since the world began ;

That we should be saved from our enemies : and from the hands of all that hate us ;

To perform the mercy promised to our forefathers : and to remember his holy Covenant ;

To perform the oath which he sware to our forefather Abraham : that he would give us ;

That we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies : might serve him without fear ;

In holiness and righteousness before him : all the days of our life.

And thou, Child, shalt be called the Prophet of the Highest : for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways ;

To give knowledge of salvation unto his people : for the remission of their sins,

Through the tender mercy of our God : whereby the day-spring from on high hath visited us ;

To give light to them that sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death : and to guide our feet into the way of peace.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

4thly. It was used in consecrating the Eucharist.

Lastly, the congregation were dismissed with it. The people always gave their response to the salutation. 'The Lord be with you,' corresponds in substance to this primitive form. The Bishop in blessing the Eucharist used the words, 'The peace of God be with you.' Our form is exactly that in which Boaz greets his reapers, Ruth ii' 4. 'Thy answer, The Lord bless thee. Benedict A.D. 530 as well as Amalarius A.D. 820, speak of the Lord's Prayer, and the Lesser Litany, 'Lord, have mercy upon us; Christ, have mercy upon us; Lord, have mercy upon us,' as occurring in this place.

¶ The Lesser Litany is a Christian version of the Synagogue Prayer taken from Ps. li. 1. It dates from the earliest period. The Greek form 'Kyrie—Christe—Kyrie eleeson' was retained in the Breviaries. The Invocation is repeated to an unmeaning, if not a profane number of times in the Greek Services.

In 1549 the Lesser Litany preceded the Creed, which the Minister was directed to say with the Lord's Prayer in English in a loud voice. In 1549 the People responded with the last clause of the Lord's Prayer, 'But deliver, &c.' In 1552 the Lesser Litany was placed after the Creed, and the Minister and People were directed to say it standing. The exception of the days on which the Creed of St Athanasius is appointed to be read was first stated here in 1662; it had previously been made in the rubric preceding that Creed. In the Greek Church the Nicene Creed is appointed at Nocturns.

¶ The Versicles with their Responses are found in the old offices for Prime, whence Amalarius A.D. 820 cites them. They do not occur continuously in these offices. Mr Freeman remarks that the first five of these versicles and their responses correspond with the topics of versicles after the Bidding Prayer, the 67th Psalm, and the Lord's Prayer prescribed in the Sarum Use on Sundays and Festivals, and that the 6th in our series, which is substituted for the 6th and last in the Sarum series, may be regarded as taking the place of the Sarum Collect succeeding the versicles, 'O God who through the power of thy Holy Spirit,' &c. The response, 'Because there is none other,' &c. against which some objection has been raised, as if it were novel, is found in the foreign Breviaries, in the Salisbury Primer, and in the Primer of Henry VIII.

¶ The custom of summing up the prayers of the people by the Minister, is mentioned by Cassian A.D. 420. From the phrase used, 'Colligere orationem,' as distinguished from the responsive service preceding, the term Collect is probably derived. Such prayers were called Memoræ, De Pace, Gratia, &c. or Missæ because used in dismissing the people.

Leo the friend of Cassian, A.D. 420, Gelasius, 494, and Gregory, 590, devoted much attention to the composition of Collects. It was probably from them that this form of prayer obtained its general popularity. From the Sacramentaries of Gelasius and Gregory very many of our present Collects are derived.

¶ The Collect of the day, with a Memoria de Pace resembling ours, occurred formerly at the end of Lauds, the Collect for Grace at the end of Prime.

The second of the Collects now placed at the end of the Communion Service was also used at Prime.

¶ The Collect for Peace comes through the Sarum Breviary from the Sacramentary of Gelasius. It runs thus, 'Deus auctor pacis et amator, quem nosse vivere; cui servire regnare est; protege ab omnibus impugnationibus supplices tuos; ut qui in defensione tua confidimus, nullius hostilitatis arma timeamus. Per,' &c. It was not one of the Prime Collects.

¶ The Collect for Grace was one of the Prime Collects in the Sarum Breviary; it is derived from the Sacramentaries of Gelasius and Gregory. It runs thus: 'Domine Sancte Pater Omnipotens, æterne Deus qui nos ad principium hujus diei pervenire fecisti; tua nos hodie salva virtute; et concede ut in hac die ad nullum declinemus peccatum; nec ullum incurramus periculum; sed semper ad tuam justitiam faciendam omnis nostra actio tuo moderamine dirigatur. Per,' &c.

¶ Until 1662 the Order for Morning Prayer ended with the third Collect. The five Prayers following are strictly Collects. These five concluding Collects and the Benediction were first printed here in 1662. In the Scotch Prayer-book, 1637, there was this Rubric, 'After this Collect ended followeth the Litany; and if the Litany be not appointed to be said or sung that morning, then shall next be said the Prayer for the King's Majesty, with the rest of the Prayers following at the end of the Litany, and the Benediction.' The Prayer for the King first appears in a Book of Prayers printed by the King's printer in 1547. In the Primer of Edward VI. 1553, it appears as the 4th Collect, for the King, at Morning Prayer; a shorter one of the same purport at Evening Prayer. In 1559 it assumed its present form, and, with the Prayer for the Clergy and People, was

MORNING PRAYER.

¶ Or this Psalm.

Jubilata Deo. Psalm c.

O BE joyful in the Lord, all ye lands : serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song.

Be ye sure that the Lord he is God : it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves ; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

O go your way into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise : be thankful unto him, and speak good of his Name.

For the Lord is gracious, his mercy is everlasting ; and his truth endureth from generation to generation.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

¶ Then shall be sung or said the Apostles' Creed by the Minister and the people, standing: except only such days as the Creed of St. Athanasius is appointed to be read.

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth :

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord, Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary, Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried, He descended into hell ; The third day he rose again from the dead, He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty ; From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost ; The holy Catholick Church ; The Communion of Saints ; The Forgiveness of sins ; The Resurrection of the body, And the life everlasting. Amen.

¶ And after that, these Prayers following, all devoutly kneeling ; the Minister first pronouncing with a loud voice,

The Lord be with you.

Answer. And with thy spirit.

Minister. Let us pray.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

¶ Then the Minister, Clerks, and people, shall say the Lord's Prayer with a loud voice.

O UR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation ; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest standing up, shall say,

O Lord, shew thy mercy upon us ;

Answer. And grant us thy salvation.

Priest. O Lord, save the Queen.

Answer. And mercifully hear us when we call upon thee.

Priest. Endue thy Ministers with righteousness.

Answer. And make thy chosen people joyful.

Priest. O Lord, save thy people.

Answer. And bless thine inheritance.

Priest. Give peace in our time, O Lord.

Answer. Because there is none other that fighteth for us, but only thou, O God.

Priest. O God, make clean our hearts within us.

Answer. And take not thy Holy Spirit from us.

¶ Then shall follow three Collects ; the first of the Day, which shall be the same that is appointed at the Communion ; the second for Peace ; the third for Grace to live well. And the two last Collects shall never alter, but daily be said at Morning Prayer throughout all the year, as followeth ; all kneeling.

The second Collect, for Peace.

O GOD, who art the author of peace and lover of concord, in knowledge of whom standeth our eternal life, whose service is perfect freedom ; Defend us thy humble servants in all assaults of our enemies ; that we, surely trusting in thy defence, may not fear the power of any adversaries ; through the might of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The third Collect, for Grace.

O LORD, our heavenly Father, Almighty and everlasting God, who hast safely brought us to the beginning of this day ; Defend us in the same with thy mighty power ; and grant that this day we fall into no sin, neither run into any kind of danger ; but that all our doings may be ordered by thy governance, to do always that is righteous in thy sight ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ In Quires and Places where they sing, here followeth the Anthem.

¶ Then these five Prayers following are to be read here, except when the Litany is read ; and then only the two last are to be read, as they are there placed.

A Prayer for the Queen's Majesty.

O LORD our heavenly Father, high and mighty, King of kings, Lord of lords, the only Ruler of princes, who dost from thy throne behold all the dwellers upon earth ; Most heartily we beseech thee with thy favour to behold our most gracious Sovereign Lady, Queen VICTORIA ; and so replenish her with the grace of thy Holy Spirit, that she may always incline to thy will, and walk in thy way : Endue her plenteously with heavenly gifts ; grant her in health and wealth long to live ; strengthen her that she may vanquish and overcome all her enemies ; and finally, after this life, she may attain everlasting joy and felicity ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Prayer for the Royal Family.

ALMIGHTY God, the fountain of all goodness, we humbly beseech thee to bless Albert Edward Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and all the Royal Family : Endue them with thy Holy Spirit ; enrich them with thy heavenly grace ; prosper them with all happiness ; and bring them to thine everlasting kingdom ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

placed before the Prayer of St. Chrysostom at the end of the Litany.

¶ The Prayer for the Royal Family dates from 1604. It was the composition of Whitgift, or at least was sanctioned by him. It was then entitled 'A Prayer for the Queen and Prince and other the King and Queen's children.' In 1625 the phrase 'Fountain of all goodness' was introduced. After one or two changes, according to the condition of the monarch's household, the Prayer assumed its present form in 1633, when Laud cancelled the expression, 'a Father of thine elect and their seed.'

¶ The Prayer for the Clergy and People comes through the Sarum Breviary from Gelasius and Gregory. It runs thus, 'Omnipotens sempiterne Deus qui facis mirabilia magna solus; prætende super famulos tuos Pontifices et super cunctas congregationes illis commissas Spiritum gratiæ salutaris; et ut in veritate tibi complacant, perpetuum iis rorem tuæ benedictionis infunde.'

¶ Although the Prayer of St Chrysostom occurs in the Liturgy of Constantinople bearing the name of Chrysostom, in the most ancient copies of that Liturgy it is wanting. It is found in a MS. of the Liturgy of Basil thought to be as old as the 9th century. It occurs at the beginning of the Communion Service. Palmer doubts whether it is the work of Basil, but refers the use of it to an early date in the exarchate of Cæsarea and in the patriarchate of Constantinople. The Prayer did not appear in Western Breviaries. It was first placed by Cranmer at the end of the Litany in 1544, and printed at the end of the Morning and Evening Prayer in 1662, according to the Rubric of the Scotch Prayer-book in 1637. The Greek runs: 'Ὁ τὰς κοινὰς ταῦτας καὶ συμφώνους ἡμῖν χαρισάμενος προσευχὰς, ὁ καὶ δύο καὶ τρισὶ συμφωνοῦσιν ἐπὶ τῷ ὀνόματί σου τὰς αἰτήσεις παρέχειν ἐπαγγειλάμενος· αὐτὸς καὶ νῦν τῶν δούλων σου τὰ αἰτήματα πρὸς τὸ σύμφορον πλήρωσον, χορηγῶν ἡμῖν ἐν τῷ παρόντι αἰῶνι τὴν ἐπίγνωσιν τῆς σῆς ἀληθείας, καὶ ἐν τῷ μέλλοντι ζωὴν αἰώνιον χαρίζόμενος.'

¶ The Benediction is found in Eastern Liturgies. From the most primitive times it was customary to dismiss the people with a benediction by the Bishop.

The conclusion of the Office for Prime in the Breviary was simply 'In the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.' This was omitted in the reformed Offices. The present form was added at the end of the Litany used in the Queen's Chapel, 1559.

¶ The Order for Evening Prayer combines the ancient Offices of Vespers and Compline. The Introduction, consisting of the Sentences, Exhortation, Confession, and Absolution, was first printed at the commencement of Evening Prayer in 1662. It had been ordered to be read in 1552, but had been prefixed to the Order for Morning Prayer, with the Rubric, 'At the beginning both of Morning Prayer, and likewise of Evening Prayer, the Minister shall read with a loud voice some one of these sentences of the Scriptures that follow. And then he shall say that which is written after the said sentences.'

EVENING PRAYER.

A Prayer for the Clergy and people.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, who alone workest great marvels; Send down upon our Bishops, and Curates, and all Congregations committed to their charge, the healthful Spirit of thy grace; and that they may truly please thee, pour upon them the continual dew of thy blessing. Grant this, O Lord, for the honour of our Advocate and Mediator, Jesus Christ. Amen.

A Prayer of St. Chrysostom.

ALMIGHTY God, who hast given us grace at this time with one accord to make our common supplications unto thee; and dost promise, that when two or three are gathered together in thy Name thou wilt grant their requests: Fulfil now, O Lord, the desires and petitions of thy servants, as may be most expedient for them; granting us in this world knowledge of thy truth, and in the world to come life everlasting. Amen.

2 Cor. xlii.

THE grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen.

Here endeth the Order of Morning Prayer throughout the Year.

THE ORDER FOR EVENING PRAYER, DAILY THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

¶ At the beginning of Evening Prayer the Minister shall read with a loud voice some one or more of these Sentences of the Scriptures that follow. And then he shall say that which is written after the said Sentences.

WHEN the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive. Ezek. xviii. 27.

I acknowledge my transgressions, and my sin is ever before me. Psalms li. 3.

Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities. Psalms li. 9.

The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise. Psalms li. 17.

Rend your heart, and not your garments, and turn unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil. Joel ii. 13.

To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him: neither have we obeyed the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws which he set before us. Daniel ix. 9, 10.

O Lord, correct me, but with judgement; not in thine anger, lest thou bring me to nothing. Jer. x. 24. Psalms vi. 1.

Repent ye; for the Kingdom of heaven is at hand. St. Matthe. iii. 2.

I will arise, and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. St. Luke xv. 18, 19.

Enter not into judgement with thy servant, O Lord; for in thy sight shall no man living be justified. Psalms cxliii. 2.

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us: but, if we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 1 St. John i. 8, 9.

DEARLY beloved brethren, the Scripture moveth us in sundry places to acknowledge and confess our manifold sins and wickedness; and that we should not dissemble nor cloke them before the face of Almighty God our heavenly Father; but confess them with an humble, lowly, penitent, and obedient heart; to the end that we may obtain forgiveness of the same, by his infinite goodness and mercy. And although we ought at all times humbly to acknowledge our sins before God; yet ought we most chiefly so to do, when we assemble and meet together to render thanks for the great benefits that we have received at his hands, to set forth his most worthy praise, to hear his most holy Word, and to ask those things which are requisite and necessary, as well for the body as the soul. Wherefore I pray and beseech you, as many as are here present, to accompany me with a pure heart, and humble voice, unto the throne of the heavenly grace, saying after me;

¶ A general Confession to be said of the whole Congregation after the Minister, all kneeling.

ALMIGHTY and most merciful Father; We have erred, and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts. We have offended against thy holy laws. We have left undone those things which we ought to have done; and we have done those things which we ought not to have done; and there is no health in us. But thou, O Lord, have mercy upon us, miserable offenders. Spare thou them, O God, which confess their faults. Restore thou them that are penitent; According to thy promises declared unto mankind

¶ Amalarius, A. D. 820, mentions that a Capitulum was commonly read before Compline. A Confession and Absolution were used in the ancient Offices at Compline; but their form was wholly different from that of our Service. For general remarks on the Sentences, Exhortation, Confession, and Absolution, see Morning Prayer.

¶ In 1549 an Order for Evensong, and in 1552 an Order for Evening Prayer throughout the year began thus, 'The Priest shall say, Our Father which art,' &c.

¶ 'O Lord, open thou,' &c., and the answer were added in 1552. They had formerly been used in the Morning Office only.

¶ The second versicle and response and the Gloria occurred in the ancient Service Books at Vespers.

¶ The versicle, 'Praise ye the Lord,' was introduced here in 1552; it formed a suitable prelude to the Psalms. The response was added in 1662, after the Scotch Prayer-book in 1637. In 1549, from Easter to Trinity Sunday, 'Hallelujah' was introduced here; it was omitted in 1552.

¶ Here followed the Psalms of Vespers. Very different rules as to the number of Psalms to be used prevailed in different Churches. The Egyptian Churches recited 12; Benedict appointed 4; the Roman Church 5; in the Ap. Const. there is only one Psalm at Vespers; in the Mosarabic Breviary there is ordinarily not even one.

¶ In the Egyptian Churches we are told by Cassian that the Lessons were customary in the Evening Service, the first from the Old, the Second from the New Testament. Amalarius, 820, states that the Capitulum of Vespers followed the Psalms, and was itself succeeded by the Magnificat. Benedict, 530, had also appointed a Capitulum in this place, which he directed to be taken from the Epistles. He also appointed a Canticum de Evangelio to follow the Lesson. In the East and part of the West Magnificat had been used at Lauds.

¶ We see a manifest desire to assimilate the form of the Evening Prayer to that of the Morning. The Sentences, Exhortation, Confession, Absolution, Lord's Prayer, Versicles, Gloria, and concluding Versicle and Response are identical; then follows a similar selection of Psalms, two Lessons with alternating Canticles, Creed, Prayers, Lord's Prayer, Versicles, Collects. We may therefore refer the appointment of two Lessons to this cause, and the origin of our Morning Lessons may be found, as above suggested, in the Lessons from the Law and the Prophets of the Jewish Synagogues. The idea thus given would be strengthened by the wish of the Reformers to familiarize the minds of the people with Holy Scripture.

¶ The 98th Psalm was given as an alternative to Magnificat in 1552. According to Amalarius, 820, a responsory Psalm was used in some places instead of the Magnificat. The Cantate here serves that office. It was not formerly used at Vespers.

¶ In the Office of Eastern Vespers this hymn, Nunc Dimittis, was appointed. At the time of the revision of our Offices it was used at Compline, but had formerly been customary at Vespers.

EVENING PRAYER.

in Christ Jesu our Lord. And grant, O most merciful Father, for his sake; That we may hereafter live a godly, righteous, and sober life, To the glory of thy holy Name. Amen.

† The Absolution, or Remission of sins, to be pronounced by the Priest alone, standing; the people still kneeling.

AL MIGHTY God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he may turn from his wickedness, and live; and hath given power, and commandment, to his Ministers, to declare and pronounce to his people, being penitent, the Absolution and Remission of their sins: He pardoneth and absolveth all them that truly repent, and unfeignedly believe his holy Gospel. Wherefore let us beseech him to grant us true repentance, and his Holy Spirit, that those things may please him, which we do at this present; and that the rest of our life hereafter may be pure, and holy; so that at the last we may come to his eternal joy; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

† Then the Minister shall kneel, and say the Lord's Prayer; the people also kneeling, and repeating it with him.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, The power, and the glory, For ever and ever. Amen.

† Then likewise he shall say,

O Lord, open thou our lips.
Answer. And our mouth shall shew forth thy praise.

Priest. O God, make speed to save us.
Answer. O Lord, make haste to help us.

† Here all standing up, the Priest shall say,

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

Answer. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

Priest. Praise ye the Lord.

Answer. The Lord's Name be praised.

† Then shall be said or sung the Psalms in order as they are appointed. Then a Lesson of the Old Testament, as is appointed. And after that, Magnificat (or the Song of the blessed Virgin Mary) in English, as followeth.

Magnificat. St. Luke i.

MY soul doth magnify the Lord: and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.

For he hath regarded: the lowliness of his hand-maiden.

For behold, from henceforth: all generations shall call me blessed.

For he that is mighty hath magnified me: and holy is his Name.

And his mercy is on them that fear him: throughout all generations.

He hath shewed strength with his arm: he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.

He hath put down the mighty from their seat: and hath exalted the humble and meek.

He hath filled the hungry with good things: and the rich he hath sent empty away.

He remembering his mercy hath holpen his servant Israel: as he promised to our forefathers, Abraham and his seed, for ever.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

† Or else this Psalm; except it be on the Nineteenth Day of the Month, when it is read in the ordinary course of the Psalms.

Cantate Domino. Psalm xcviil.

OSING unto the Lord a new song: for he hath done marvellous things.

With his own right hand, and with his holy arm: hath he gotten himself the victory.

The Lord declared his salvation: his righteousness hath he openly shewed in the sight of the heathen.

He hath remembered his mercy and truth toward the house of Israel: and all the ends of the world have seen the salvation of our God.

Shew yourselves joyful unto the Lord, all ye lands: sing, rejoice, and give thanks.

Praise the Lord upon the harp: sing to the harp with a psalm of thanksgiving.

With trumpets also and shawms: O shew yourselves joyful before the Lord the King.

Let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is: the round world, and they that dwell therein.

Let the floods clap their hands, and let the hills be joyful together before the Lord: for he cometh to judge the earth.

With righteousness shall he judge the world: and the people with equity.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

† Then a Lesson of the New Testament, as it is appointed. And after that, Nunc dimittis (or the Song of Simeon) in English, as followeth.

Nunc dimittis. St. Luke ii. 29.

LORD, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace: according to thy word. For mine eyes have seen: thy salvation.

Which thou hast prepared: before the face of all people;

To be a light to lighten the Gentiles: and to be the glory of thy people Israel.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

¶ The 67th Psalm had been used at Lauds. It had become familiar to the English Church, coupled with a bidding prayer on Sunday, in the Salisbury Use. In 1552 it was allowed as an alternative to the Nunc Dimittis.

¶ The Eastern Office of Late Evensong contained the Nicene Creed. The Creed and the Lord's Prayer occurred with Prayers and Versicles after the Nunc Dimittis in Compline. The use of them in Evening Service dates as far back as Anglo-Saxon times. The Order was, Lesser Litany, Pater Noster, Credo. The Credo was omitted in 1549; it was ordered in 1552, and the Service after it made conformable to that of Morning Prayer.

¶ The same remark may be made in regard to the Versicles as in the Morning Service. They occur in the ancient Offices for Vespers and Compline as well as in the morning Offices.

¶ The Collect for the day followed Magnificat at Vespers; the Collect for Peace was appointed at the end of Vespers; that for Aid against all Perils succeeded the Prayers at the end of Compline. The repetition of Collects at the end of the Anglo-Saxon Offices was common, and Amalarius, 820, mentions the same custom. A Collect and Benediction terminated the Eastern Office of Vespers. Collects for Vespers are found in the Sacramentaries of Gelasius, 494, and Gregory, 590.

¶ The Collect for Peace is from Gelasius: 'Deus a quo sancta desideria recta consilia et justa sunt opera; ad servis tuis illam, quam mundus dare non potest, pacem; ut et corda nostra mandatis tuis dedita, et, hostium sublata formidine, tempora sint tua protectione tranquilla. Per,' &c.

¶ The 3rd Collect is also found in the Sacramentaries of Gelasius and Gregory. In the former it is especially appointed to be used at Evening Service: 'Illumina quæsumus Domine Deus tenebras nostras; et totius hujus noctis insidias tu a nobis repelle propitius. Per,' &c.

With the 3rd Collect may be compared the conclusion of the Prayer, at the bowing of heads of Priest and People, recited inaudibly by the Priest in the Greek Evening Service: 'Whom do thou preserve at all seasons, especially during the present evening and the approaching night, from every enemy, from all the might of the devil, from vain thoughts and wicked imaginations.'

¶ It is usual to derive Anthem from Antiphon, Antiphonema. This derivation does not seem satisfactory. May it not be from ἄνθεμον, the flower of singing, as Pindar uses ἄνθεμα χρυσοῦ to signify the costliest gold? The anthem was not specially antiphonal, but, on the contrary, the two sides joined in it.

¶ The concluding Collects and the Benediction are the same as in Morning Prayer. Although it was usual to add Collects or Memorizæ at the end of the Evening Service and to conclude with a Benediction, it is to be regretted that the desire of uniformity between the Morning and Evening Service was carried so far as to enjoin the repetition of exactly the same words in both services. The mode of expression might have been altered with advantage. Mr Freeman traces several resemblances to the Eastern Office of Compline in our Evening Service. He notices especially the repetition of the Creed (Nicene) and the Lord's Prayer, followed by a prayer-like hymn for illumination and protection. This hymn was founded on the Psalms used in the Office. It is as follows: 'Lighten my eyes, O Christ my God, that I sleep not in death: lest mine enemy say, I have prevailed against him.' Ps. xiii. 4, 5. 'Be thou the helper of my soul, O God, for I walk through the midst of snares; deliver me from them and save me, Thou that art good as being the lover of men.' Ps. xxxi. 1, 3, 5; comp. Ps. xci. 2, 3. In this hymn Mr Freeman finds the original of our 3rd Collect.

Eastern Vespers conclude with the following Benediction: 'And may the blessing of the Lord come upon us through his grace and loving kindness continually, now, always, and for ever and ever. Amen.'

EVENING PRAYER.

¶ Or else this Psalm; except it be on the Twelfth Day of the Month.

Deus misereatur. Psalm lxxvii.

GOD be merciful unto us, and bless us : and shew us the light of his countenance, and be merciful unto us :

That thy way may be known upon earth : thy saving health among all nations.

Let the people praise thee, O God : yea, let all the people praise thee.

O let the nations rejoice and be glad : for thou shalt judge the folk righteously, and govern the nations upon earth.

Let the people praise thee, O God : yea, let all the people praise thee.

Then shall the earth bring forth her increase : and God, even our own God, shall give us his blessing.

God shall bless us : and all the ends of the world shall fear him.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

¶ Then shall be said or sung the Apostles' Creed by the Minister and the people, standing.

IBELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth :

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord, Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary, Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried, He descended into hell ; The third day he rose again from the dead, He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty ; From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost ; The holy Catholick Church ; The Communion of Saints ; The Forgiveness of sins ; The Resurrection of the body, And the life everlasting. Amen.

¶ And after that, these Prayers following, all devoutly kneeling ; the Minister first pronouncing with a loud voice,

The Lord be with you.

Answer. And with thy spirit.

Minister. Let us pray.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

¶ Then the Minister, Clerks, and people, shall say the Lord's Prayer with a loud voice.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation ; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest standing up, shall say,

O Lord, shew thy mercy upon us ;

Answer. And grant us thy salvation.

Priest. O Lord, save the Queen.

Answer. And mercifully hear us when we call upon thee.

Priest. Endue thy Ministers with righteousness.

Answer. And make thy chosen people joyful.

Priest. O Lord, save thy people.

Answer. And bless thine inheritance.

Priest. Give peace in our time, O Lord.

Answer. Because there is none other that fighteth for us, but only thou, O God.

Priest. O God, make clean our hearts within us.

Answer. And take not thy Holy Spirit from us.

¶ Then shall follow three Collects ; the first of the Day ; the second for Peace ; the third for Aid against all Perils, as hereafter followeth ; which two last Collects shall be daily said at Evening Prayer without alteration.

The second Collect at Evening Prayer.

O GOD, from whom all holy desires, all good counsels, and all just works do proceed ; Give unto thy servants that peace which the world cannot give ; that both our hearts may be set to obey thy commandments, and also that by thee we being defended from the fear of our enemies may pass our time in rest and quietness ; through the merits of Jesus Christ our Saviour. Amen.

The third Collect, for Aid against all Perils.

LIGHTEN our darkness, we beseech thee, O Lord ; and by thy great mercy defend us from all perils and dangers of this night ; for the love of thy only Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen.

A Prayer for the Queen's Majesty.

O LORD our heavenly Father, high and mighty, King of kings, Lord of lords, the only Ruler of princes, who dost from thy throne behold all the dwellers upon earth ; Most heartily we beseech thee with thy favour to behold our most gracious Sovereign Lady, Queen VICTORIA ; and so replenish her with the grace of thy Holy Spirit, that she may always incline to thy will, and walk in thy way : Endue her plentifully with heavenly gifts ; grant her in health and wealth long to live ; strengthen her that she may vanquish and overcome all her enemies ; and finally, after this life, she may attain everlasting joy and felicity ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Prayer for the Royal Family.

ALmighty God, the fountain of all goodness, we humbly beseech thee to bless Albert Edward Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and all the Royal Family : Endue them with thy Holy Spirit ; enrich them with thy heavenly grace ; prosper them with all happiness ; and bring them to thine everlasting kingdom ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Prayer for the Clergy and people.

ALmighty and everlasting God, who alone workest great marvels ; Send down upon our Bishops, and Curates, and all Congregations committed to their charge, the healthful Spirit of thy grace ;

¶ The Athanasian Creed was formerly recited at Prime among the Prayers after the Capitulum. In the Roman Church it was ordered on Sundays only, in the Sarum Breviary daily. It was sung after the manner of a Psalm, and was even known as the Psalm Quicumque. The Creed is found in MS. Psalters of the 7th and 8th centuries; hence the introduction of it into the Office for Prime cannot be later than 880, according to Waterland, but it is probably much earlier. The Creed, though bearing the name of Athanasius, is not found in any of his works. Its authorship is uncertain. Waterland, whose opinion is accepted by Palmer, refers it to Hilary, Archbishop of Arles, 429—449. In 1549 the Apostles' Creed was appointed on ordinary occasions to take the place of the Athanasian. For Christmas, Epiphany, Easter, Ascension, Pentecost, and Trinity, the Athanasian Creed was retained. To these festivals the Saints' Days were added in 1552.

Quicumque vult salvus esse : ante omnia opus est ut teneat Catholicam fidem.

Quam nisi quisque integram inviolatamque servaverit : absque dubio in æternum peribit.

Fides autem Catholica hæc est, ut unum Deum in Trinitate : et Trinitatem in Unitate veneremur.

Neque confundentes personas : neque substantiam separantes.

Alia est enim persona Patris, alia Filii : alia Spiritus Sancti.

Sed Patris et Filii et Spiritus Sancti una est Divinitas : æqualis gloria, co-æterna majestas.

Qualis Pater, talis Filius : talis Spiritus Sanctus.

Increatus Pater, increatus Filius : increatus Spiritus Sanctus.

Immensus Pater, immensus Filius : immensus Spiritus Sanctus.

Æternus Pater, æternus Filius : æternus Spiritus Sanctus.

Et tamen non tres æterni : sed unus æternus.

Sicut non tres increati nec tres immensi : sed unus increatus et unus immensus.

Similiter omnipotens Pater, omnipotens Filius : omnipotens Spiritus Sanctus.

Et tamen non tres omnipotentes : sed unus omnipotens.

Ita Deus Pater, Deus Filius : Deus Spiritus Sanctus.

Et tamen non tres Dii : sed unus est Deus.

Ita Dominus Pater, Dominus Filius : Dominus Spiritus Sanctus.

Et tamen non tres Domini : sed unus est Dominus.

Quia sicut singillatim unamquamque

Personam Deum et Dominum confiteri Christiana veritate compellimur ;

Ita tres Deos aut Dominos dicere Catholica religione prohibemur.

Pater a nullo est factus : nec creatus nec genitus.

Filius a Patre solo est : non factus nec creatus sed genitus.

Spiritus Sanctus a Patre et Filio : non factus nec creatus nec genitus sed procedens.

Unus ergo Pater, non tres Patres ; unus Filius, non tres Filii : unus Spiritus Sanctus, non tres Spiritus Sancti.

Et in hac Trinitate nihil prius aut posterius : nihil majus aut minus.

Sed totæ tres Personæ : co-æternæ sibi sunt et co-æquales.

Ita ut per omnia (sicut jam supra dictum est) et Unitas in Trinitate : et Trinitas in Unitate veneranda sit.

Qui vult ergo salvus esse : ita de Trinitate sentiat.

Sed necessarium est ad æternam salutem : ut incarnationem quoque Domini nostri J. C. fideliter credat.

Est ergo fides recta ut credamus et confiteamur : quia Dominus noster J. C. Dei filius, Deus et homo est.

Deus est ex substantia Patris ante sæcula genitus : et homo est ex substantia matris in sæculo natus.

Perfectus Deus, perfectus homo : ex anima rationali et humana carne subsistens.

Æqualis Patri secundum Divinitatem : minor Patre secundum humanitatem.

Qui licet Deus sit et homo : non duotamen sed unus est Christus.

Unus autem non conversione Divinitatis in carnem : sed assumptione humanitatis in Deum.

Unus omnino, non confusione substantiæ : sed unitate Personæ.

Nam sicut anima rationalis et caro unus est homo : ita Deus et homo unus est Christus.

Qui passus est pro salute nostra, descendit ad inferos : tertia die resurrexit a mortuis.

Ascendit ad cælos, sedet ad dexteram Dei Patris Omnipotentis : inde venturus est judicare vivos et mortuos.

Ad cuius adventum omnes homines resurgere habent cum corporibus suis : et reddaturi sunt de factis propriis rationem.

Et qui bona egerunt ibunt in vitam æternam : qui vero mala, in ignem æternum.

Hæc est fides Catholica, quam nisi quisque fideliter firmiterque crediderit : salvus esse non poterit.

Gloria Patri, &c. Sicut erat in principio et nunc et semper : et in sæcula sæculorum.

AT MORNING PRAYER.

and that they may truly please thee, pour upon them the continual dew of thy blessing. Grant this, O Lord, for the honour of our Advocate and Mediator, Jesus Christ. Amen.

A Prayer of St. CHRYSOSTOM.

ALMIGHTY God, who hast given us grace at this time with one accord to make our common supplications unto thee; and dost promise, that when two or three are gathered together in thy Name thou wilt grant their requests: Fulfil now, O Lord, the desires and petitions of thy servants, as may be most expedient for them; granting us in this world knowledge of thy truth, and in the world to come life everlasting. Amen.

2 COR. xiii.

THE grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen.

Here endeth the Order of Evening Prayer throughout the Year.

AT MORNING PRAYER.

Upon these Feasts; Christmas Day, the Epiphany, Saint Matthias, Easter Day, Ascension Day, Whit Sunday, Saint John Baptist, Saint James, Saint Bartholomew, Saint Matthew, Saint Simon and Saint Jude, Saint Andrew, and upon Trinity Sunday, shall be sung or said at Morning Prayer, instead of the Apostles' Creed, this Confession of our Christian Faith, commonly called The Creed of Saint Athanasius, by the Minister and people standing.

Quicumque vult.

WHOSOEVER will be saved: before all things it is necessary that he hold the Catholick Faith.

Which Faith except every one do keep whole and undefiled: without doubt he shall perish everlastingly.

And the Catholick Faith is this: That we worship one God in Trinity, and Trinity in Unity;

Neither confounding the Persons: nor dividing the Substance.

For there is one Person of the Father, another of the Son: and another of the Holy Ghost.

But the Godhead of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, is all one: the Glory equal, the Majesty co-eternal.

Such as the Father is, such is the Son: and such is the Holy Ghost.

The Father uncreate, the Son uncreate: and the Holy Ghost uncreate.

The Father incomprehensible, the Son incomprehensible: and the Holy Ghost incomprehensible.

The Father eternal, the Son eternal: and the Holy Ghost eternal.

And yet they are not three eternals: but one eternal.

As also there are not three incomprehensibles, nor three uncreated: but one uncreated, and one incomprehensible.

So likewise the Father is Almighty, the Son Almighty: and the Holy Ghost Almighty.

And yet they are not three Almighties: but one Almighty.

So the Father is God, the Son is God: and the Holy Ghost is God.

And yet they are not three Gods: but one God.

So likewise the Father is Lord, the Son Lord: and the Holy Ghost Lord.

And yet not three Lords: but one Lord.

For like as we are compelled by the Christian verity: to acknowledge every Person by himself to be God and Lord;

So are we forbidden by the Catholick Religion: to say, There be three Gods, or three Lords.

The Father is made of none: neither created, nor begotten.

The Son is of the Father alone: not made, nor created, but begotten.

The Holy Ghost is of the Father and of the Son: neither made, nor created, nor begotten, but proceeding.

So there is one Father, not three Fathers; one Son, not three Sons: one Holy Ghost, not three Holy Ghosts.

And in this Trinity none is afore, or after another: none is greater, or less than another;

But the whole three Persons are co-eternal together: and co-equal.

So that in all things, as is aforesaid: the Unity in Trinity, and the Trinity in Unity is to be worshipped.

He therefore that will be saved: must thus think of the Trinity.

Furthermore, it is necessary to everlasting salvation: that he also believe rightly the Incarnation of our Lord Jesus Christ.

For the right Faith is, that we believe and confess: that our Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God, is God and Man;

God, of the Substance of the Father, begotten before the worlds: and Man, of the Substance of his Mother, born in the world;

Perfect God, and perfect Man: of a reasonable soul and human flesh subsisting;

Equal to the Father, as touching his Godhead: and inferior to the Father, as touching his Manhood.

Who although he be God and Man: yet he is not two, but one Christ;

One; not by conversion of the Godhead into flesh: but by taking of the Manhood into God;

One altogether; not by confusion of Substance: but by unity of Person.

For as the reasonable soul and flesh is one Man: so God and Man is one Christ;

Who suffered for our salvation: descended into hell, rose again the third day from the dead.

He ascended into heaven, he sitteth on the right hand of the Father, God Almighty: from whence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

¶ The word Litany literally signifies supplication, and was originally used of any prayers to God, either public or private.

In the 4th century (398) Chrysostom, afraid that the people of Constantinople might be led to join in processions of the Arians, instituted processions of the clergy and laity in his own Church. The term Litany was then used to denote these processional supplications.

The great Litany of St Mark's Day, instituted by Gregory the Great, 590, was sanctioned in England at the Council of Cloveshoo, 747.

The Injunctions of Queen Elizabeth retained processional prayers in the perambulation of parishes, "But yet for the retaining of the perambulation of the circuits of parishes, the people shall once in the year, at the time accustomed, with the curate and the substantial men of the parish, walk about the parishes as they were accustomed, and at their return to the church make their common prayers; provided that the curate, in their said common perambulations used heretofore in the days of rogations, at certain convenient places shall admonish the people to give thanks to God, in the beholding of God's benefits, for the increase and abundance of his fruits upon the face of the earth; with the saying of the 103rd Psalm, 'Benedic, anima mea,' &c. At which time also the same minister shall indicate these or such sentences: 'Cursed is he which translateth the bounds and dolles of his neighbour,' or such other order of prayers as shall be hereafter appointed."

From the perambulations on these days the term Gange Days, from 'gan,' or 'gangen,' to go, was given to them.

Litanies were at first occasional services; the appointment of set days for them dates from the time of Mamertus, bishop of Vienne, A.D. 460, who, on occasion of certain calamities in his diocese, instituted annual Litanies on the Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday before Ascension Day. Hence these days were called Rogation Days, and the custom thus commenced was generally adopted.

A general supplication of the nature of our Litany exists in the Apostolical Constitutions, and is as old as the end of the 3rd or the beginning of the 4th century.

Our English Litany was originally intended to be a distinct Office, and was put forth in a separate book by Henry VIII. The Injunctions of Edward VI., 1547, require it to be said immediately before High Mass. A rubric in the 1st English Prayer-book ordered it to be said on Wednesdays and Fridays, and to be followed by the first part of the Communion Office. It was then placed after the Communion Office. In 1552 it was placed where it now stands, with the rubric directing it to be used upon Sundays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and at other times when it shall be commanded by the Ordinary. The Injunctions of Elizabeth, 1559, renew the direction that the Litany should be said 'immediately before the time of communion of the sacrament,' and likewise order 'that weekly upon Wednesdays and Fridays, not being holy days, the curate, at the accustomed hours of service, shall resort to church and cause warning to be given to the people by knolling of a bell, and say the Litany and prayers.' Grindal, archbishop of York, in his visitation, 1571, directed the minister not to pause or stay between the Morning Prayer, Litany, and Communion, but to continue and say the Morning Prayer, Litany, and Communion (or the Service appointed to be said when there was no Communion) together, without any intermission: to the intent the people might continue together in prayer and hearing the Word of God, and not depart out of the church during all the time of the whole Divine Service.

In conformity with the permission given to use the Litany at other times is the practice of using it at Confirmations and at many of our recently instituted special services, when sanctioned by the Bishop.

The Litany was the first part of our Service which was appointed to be used in English, June 11th, 1544. By the Injunctions of King Edward, 1547, and Queen Elizabeth, 1559, the Litany is ordered to be sung or said plainly and distinctly, in English, by the Priest and Quire, kneeling in the midst of the church.

A Council held at Cologne, under Hermann, the Reforming Archbishop, in 1536, has this Canon in regard to Processions: 'Quod processiones per campos et agros peraguntur rationem quidem habet nempe quod populus oret ut segetes et fruges terræ a domino conserventur. Verum ut alia plurima ita et hic mos hominum malitia depravatus est quod per occasionem talis deambulationis quæ Deo placando erat instituta pleraque scelera committantur. Quamobrem nobis satius videtur ut hæc aliaque supplicationes ac processiones de cetero intra septa ecclesiarum religiose fiant ac ut in templo loco precationibus peculiariter dedicato oretur Deus habeaturque tum pius rei ac temporis conveniens ad populum communitarius sermo.'

THE LITANY.

At whose coming all men shall rise again with their bodies : and shall give account for their own works.

And they that have done good shall go into life everlasting : and they that have done evil into everlasting fire.

This is the Catholick Faith; which except a man believe faithfully, he cannot be saved.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son; and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

THE LITANY.

Here followeth the LITANY, or General Supplication, to be sung or said after Morning Prayer upon Sundays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and at other times when it shall be commanded by the Ordinary.

O GOD the Father, of heaven : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

O God the Father, of heaven : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

O God the Son, Redeemer of the world : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

O God the Son, Redeemer of the world : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

O God the Holy Ghost, proceeding from the Father and the Son : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

O God the Holy Ghost, proceeding from the Father and the Son : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

O holy, blessed, and glorious Trinity, three Persons and one God : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

O holy, blessed, and glorious Trinity, three Persons and one God : have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

Remember not, Lord, our offences, nor the offences of our forefathers ; neither take thou vengeance of our sins : spare us, good Lord, spare thy people, whom thou hast redeemed with thy most precious blood, and be not angry with us for ever.

Spare us, good Lord.

From all evil and mischief ; from sin, from the crafts and assaults of the devil ; from thy wrath, and from everlasting damnation,

Good Lord, deliver us.

From all blindness of heart ; from pride, vain-glory, and hypocrisy ; from envy, hatred, and malice, and all uncharitableness,

Good Lord, deliver us.

From fornication, and all other deadly sin ; and from all the deceits of the world, the flesh, and the devil,

Good Lord, deliver us.

From lightning and tempest ; from plague, pestilence, and famine ; from battle and murder, and from sudden death,

Good Lord, deliver us.

From all sedition, privy conspiracy, and rebellion ; from all false doctrine, heresy, and schism ; from hardness of heart, and contempt of thy Word and Commandment,

Good Lord, deliver us.

By the mystery of thy holy Incarnation ; by thy holy Nativity and Circumcision ; by thy Baptism, Fasting, and Temptation,

Good Lord, deliver us.

By thine Agony and bloody Sweat ; by thy Cross and Passion ; by thy precious Death and Burial ; by thy glorious Resurrection and Ascension ; and by the coming of the Holy Ghost,

Good Lord, deliver us.

In all time of our tribulation ; in all time of our wealth ; in the hour of death, and in the day of judgement,

Good Lord, deliver us.

We sinners do beseech thee to hear us, O Lord God ; and that it may please thee to rule and govern thy holy Church universal in the right way ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to keep and strengthen in the true worshipping of thee, in righteousness and holiness of life, thy Servant VICTORIA, our most gracious Queen and Governor ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to rule her heart in thy faith, fear, and love, and that she may evermore have affiance in thee, and ever seek thy honour and glory ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to be her defender and keeper, giving her the victory over all her enemies ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to bless and preserve Albert Edward Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and all the Royal Family ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to illuminate all Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, with true knowledge and understanding of thy Word ; and that both by their preaching and living they may set it forth, and shew it accordingly ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to endure the Lords of the Council, and all the Nobility, with grace, wisdom, and understanding ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to bless and keep the Magistrates, giving them grace to execute justice, and to maintain truth ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to bless and keep all thy people ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to give to all nations unity, peace, and concord ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to give us an heart to love and dread thee, and diligently to live after thy commandments ;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to give to all thy people increase of grace to hear meekly thy Word, and to receive it with pure

These three verses may be regarded as amplifications of the form to which the term Litany is also applied. From the 5th or 6th century Western Litanies began thus. The particular form of words in the first four verses is found in a MS. Litany of the 10th century.

Lord, }

We have omitted all Invocation of Saints in our Litany. Four reasons may be given for the omission:

1st, The Litanies of Western Churches did not contain any such invocations for seven centuries; the Eastern ones do not contain them now.

2ndly, They are unnecessary; we have one Mediator between God and man.

3rdly, They are imprudent; we do not know that the dead can hear us.

4thly, They give rise to heresy and blasphemy.

Remember not, &c. Formerly used as an anthem at the conclusion of the Penitential Psalms, but similar to ancient forms; inserted here in 1544.

The petitions which follow are very much after the example of a Litany in the Anglo-Saxon Church of the 9th century.

The whole Litany very much resembles that of Hermann, the reforming Archbishop of Cologne, issued 1543.

Most of the petitions are to be found in the Litanies of the Salisbury and York Uses. The mode in which the sins are classed one with another is striking and instructive.

8. Deadly sin = wilful sin, of which fornication is a signal instance.

9. Sudden = unprepared, either in bodily or spiritual matters.

10. From all sedition, &c. In 1544, in the two Prayer-books of King Edward and in the first year of Queen Elizabeth, the words 'privy conspiracy' were followed by 'From the tyranny of the Bishop of Rome and all his detestable (in the Primer of 1545 "abominable") enormities.' In the Litany of the Royal Chapel, 1559, this phrase was omitted. Rebellion and Schism; added in 1662.

11, 12. Anglo-Saxon Litany, with Hermann's Consultation.

13. Combination of four petitions in Hermann's Consultation.

14, 15. Salisbury Use. In Anglo-Saxon Litany, King and Bishop.

16. Peculiar to our own. 17, 18. Sal. Use.

19. Form for Bishops in Hereford Use.

In Cranmer's Litany, Bishops, Pastors, and Ministers of the Church; altered to the present form in 1662.

22. Salisbury Use. 23. Ang.-Sax. Lit.

24, 25. Similar petitions to these in Anglo-Saxon Litany in Hermann's Consultation and elsewhere, but not so full as these.

27. Stantes confirma, conforta pusillanimes, lapsos erige. Lit. Cyr.

Vers. and Response. Salisbury and York Uses.

O God. This Prayer is an enlargement of a form in Hermann's Litany.

O Lord, arise, &c. From the beginning of the Litany for Rogation Tuesday in Salisbury Processional.

Suffrages 1 and 2 formerly added in time of war.

3 to 8. From the Litany on St Mark's Day.

9, 10. Anglo-Saxon Office for Prime.

In 1549 the last Versicle and Response were called 'the Versicle,' 'the Answer;' so in 1552, 1559, 1604. In Scotch Liturgy, 1637, Presbyter was substituted for the Versicle, hence Priest in 1662.

In 1544 Cranmer ended the Litany with six Collects corresponding to concluding Prayers of old Litanies.

1. The first part of the present Prayer, containing, however, an invocation of saints. This was omitted in 1549, and the 5th Prayer of 1544 combined so as to form our present Collect.

2. O God, whose nature, &c.

3. Almighty and everlasting God, which only workest great marvels, &c.

4. We beseech thee, Lord, graciously shew to us thine unspeakable mercy, both to release us of all our sins and finally rescue us from the punishments which we justly deserve for them.

5. As latter part of Collect here given.

6. Prayer of Chrysostom; Basil's Liturgy.

Benediction added in 1559.

In 1549 the Litany was placed between the Communion Office and that for Baptism, with the title, 'The Litany and Suffrages,' and no rubric; the directions for its use were given in the rubric at the end of the Communion Office. In 1552 it was removed to its present position.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to bring into the way of truth all such as have erred, and are deceived;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to strengthen such as do stand; and to comfort and help the weak-hearted; and to raise up them that fall; and finally to beat down Satan under our feet;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to succour, help, and comfort, all that are in danger, necessity, and tribulation;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to preserve all that travel by land or by water, all women labouring of child, all sick persons, and young children; and to shew thy pity upon all prisoners and captives;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to defend, and provide for, the fatherless children, and widows, and all that are desolate and oppressed;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to have mercy upon all men;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to forgive our enemies, persecutors, and slanderers, and to turn their hearts;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to give and preserve to our use the kindly fruits of the earth, so as in due time we may enjoy them;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to give us true repentance; to forgive us all our sins, negligences, and ignorances; and to endue us with the grace of thy Holy Spirit to amend our lives according to thy holy Word;

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

Son of God: we beseech thee to hear us.

Son of God: we beseech thee to hear us.

O Lamb of God: that takest away the sins of the world;

Grant us thy peace.

O Lamb of God: that takest away the sins of the world;

Have mercy upon us.

O Christ, hear us.

O Christ, hear us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

¶ Then shall the Priest, and the people with him, say the Lord's Prayer.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

Priest. O Lord, deal not with us after our sins.

Answer. Neither reward us after our iniquities.

Let us pray.

O GOD, merciful Father, that despisest not the sighing of a contrite heart, nor the desire of such as be sorrowful; Mercifully assist our prayers that we make before thee in all our troubles and adversities, whensoever they oppress us; and graciously hear us, that those evils, which the craft and subtilty of the devil or man worketh against us, be brought to nought; and by the providence of thy goodness they may be dispersed; that we thy servants, being hurt by no persecutions, may evermore give thanks unto thee in thy holy Church; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

O Lord, arise, help us, and deliver us for thy Name's sake.

O GOD, we have heard with our ears, and our fathers have declared unto us, the noble works that thou didst in their days, and in the old time before them.

O Lord, arise, help us, and deliver us for thine honour.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

Answer. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

From our enemies defend us, O Christ. Graciously look upon our afflictions.

Pitifully behold the sorrows of our hearts.

Mercifully forgive the sins of thy people.

Favourably with mercy hear our prayers.

O Son of David, have mercy upon us.

Both now and ever vouchsafe to hear us, O Christ.

Graciously hear us, O Christ; graciously hear us, O Lord Christ.

Priest. O Lord, let thy mercy be shewed upon us;

Answer. As we do put our trust in thee.

Let us pray.

WE humbly beseech thee, O Father, mercifully to look upon our infirmities; and for the glory of thy Name turn from us all those evils that we most righteously have deserved; and grant, that in all our troubles we may put our whole trust and confidence in thy mercy, and evermore serve thee in holiness and pureness of living, to thy honour and glory; through our only Mediator and Advocate, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Prayer of St. CHRYSOSTOM.

ALmighty God, who hast given us a grace at this time with one accord to make our common supplications unto thee; and dost promise, that when two or three are gathered together in thy Name thou wilt grant their requests; Fulfill now, O Lord, the desires and petitions of thy servants, as may be most expedient for them; granting us in this world knowledge of thy truth, and in the world to come life everlasting. Amen.

2 Cor. xiii.

THE grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen.

Here endeth the LITANY.

Peace Petitions (Εἰρηναῖά) run as follows:
 Let us pray in the peace of the Lord
 For peace and salvation from above;
 For the peace of the whole world;
 For this holy house, and all the faithful;
 For our Archbishop, the sacred Priest-good and the Christian Diaconate; for all the Clergy and Laity let us entreat the Lord: or with a variation at a later period of the service, after the name of the Archbishop—and for our Brethren in Christ.

Answer of the choir to each petition,
 Kyrie elééson.

For our most gracious and God-protected princes, for all their court and army,
 let us entreat the Lord.

For this holy Monastery, for every city and land and the faithful that dwell in them, let us entreat the Lord.

For fair weather, for abundance of the fruits of the earth, and peaceful harvests,
 let us entreat the Lord.

For travellers by water or land, for the sick and infirm, for prisoners and their preservation (ἀνθρώπων, I suppose, applies to all the foregoing), let us entreat the Lord.

For our deliverance from all affliction, anger, danger, and straits, let us entreat the Lord.

Help, save, pity and preserve us.

Later in the service we have also:

That we may pass the remainder of our lives in peace and repentance, let us beseech the Lord.

That the end of our lives may be Christian, painless, irreproachable, peaceful, that we may give a good account at the terrible judgement-seat of Christ, let us make our prayer.

The Litany now in use, at the close of the Great Late Evensong (Ἀποδείπνον μέγα) is also worthy of comparison with ours. The Priest recites the Petitions, the Brethren respond at the end of each Petition—Kyrie elééson.

Let us pray for the orthodox Church;

For prosperity and success to our Christian soldiers;

For our Archbishop and all the brethren in Christ;

For our absent fathers and brethren;

For those who minister, or have ministered to us;

For those who hate and those who love us;

For those who have asked the prayers of us unworthy sinners;

For the deliverance of captives;

For those who sail on honest errands;

For those who are laid on beds of sickness;

For abundance of the fruits of the earth;

For all our fathers and brethren who have fallen asleep in the Lord, either here or elsewhere;

Let us say in their behalf also. Answer.
 Kyrie elééson.

¶ Special prayers were customary at the end of the Litany in processions. In the Salisbury Processional they are found; the Church of Constantinople adopted a similar practice.

In the Euchologion, there is a special office to ask for Rain, and many single prayers are given. There are no prayers for Fair Weather. Other prayers are for vineyards, new house, seed, ships, for cessation of storms at sea, &c.

 close.

 own Prayer Book, though prayers for similar mercies occur elsewhere.

 the Ember Days were defined as the Wednesday, Friday, Saturday after the First the 14th of September, the Feast of Holy Cross; after the 13th of December, St

 Lucia. Collects peculiar to English
 Ritual added in 1662 with the rubric.

PRAYERS AND THANKSGIVINGS,

UPON SEVERAL OCCASIONS,

¶ To be used before the two final Prayers of the Litany, or of Morning and Evening Prayer.

PRAYERS.

For Rain.

O GOD, heavenly Father, who by thy Son Jesus Christ hast promised to all them that seek thy kingdom, and the righteousness thereof, all things necessary to their bodily sustenance; Send us, we beseech thee, in this our necessity, such moderate rain and showers, that we may receive the fruits of the earth to our comfort, and to thy honour; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For fair Weather.

O ALMIGHTY Lord God, who for the sin of man didst once drown all the world, except eight persons, and afterward of thy great mercy didst promise never to destroy it so again; We humbly beseech thee, that although we for our iniquities have worthily deserved a plague of rain and waters, yet upon our true repentance thou wilt send us such weather, as that we may receive the fruits of the earth in due season; and learn both by thy punishment to amend our lives, and for thy clemency to give thee praise and glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

In the time of Dearth and Famine.

O GOD, heavenly Father, whose gift it is, that the rain doth fall, the earth is fruitful, beasts increase, and fishes do multiply; Behold, we beseech thee, the afflictions of thy people; and grant that the scarcity and dearth, which we do now most justly suffer for our iniquity, may through thy goodness be mercifully turned into cheapness and plenty; for the love of Jesus Christ our Lord, to whom with thee and the Holy Ghost be all honour and glory, now and for ever. Amen.

Or this.

O GOD, merciful Father, who, in the time of Elisha the prophet, didst suddenly in Samaria turn great scarcity and dearth into plenty and cheapness; Have mercy upon us, that we, who are now for our sins punished with like adversity, may likewise find a seasonable relief: Increase the fruits of the earth by thy heavenly benediction; and grant that we, receiving thy bountiful liberality, may use the same to thy glory, the relief of those that are needy, and our own comfort; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

In the time of War and Tumults.

O ALMIGHTY God, King of all kings, and Governor of all things, whose power no creature is able to resist, to whom it belongeth justly to punish sinners, and to be merciful to them that truly repent; Save and deliver us, we humbly beseech thee, from the hands of our enemies; abate their pride, assuage their malice, and confound their devices; that we, being armed with thy defence, may be preserved evermore from all perils, to glorify thee, who art the only giver of all victory; through the merits of thy only Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

In the time of any common Plague or Sickness.

O ALMIGHTY God, who in thy wrath didst send a plague upon thine own people in the wilderness, for their obstinate rebellion against Moses and Aaron; and also, in the time of king David, didst slay with the plague of Pestilence three-score and ten thousand, and yet remembering thy mercy didst save the rest; Have pity upon us miserable sinners, who now are visited with great sickness and mortality; that like as thou didst then accept of an atonement, and didst command the destroying Angel to cease from punishing, so it may now please thee to withdraw from us this plague and grievous sickness; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

In the Ember Weeks, to be said every day, for those that are to be admitted into Holy Orders.

ALMIGHTY God, our heavenly Father, who hast purchased to thyself an universal Church by the precious blood of thy dear Son; Mercifully look upon the same, and at this time so guide and govern the minds of thy servants the Bishops and Pastors of thy flock, that they may lay hands suddenly on no man, but faithfully and wisely make choice of fit persons to serve in the sacred Ministry of thy Church. And to those which shall be ordained to any holy function give thy grace and heavenly benediction; that both by their life and doctrine they may set forth thy glory, and set forward the salvation of all men; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Or this.

ALMIGHTY God, the giver of all good gifts, who of thy divine providence hast appointed divers Orders in thy Church; Give thy grace, we humbly beseech thee, to all those who are to be called to any office and administration in the same; and so replenish them with the truth of thy doctrine, and endure them with innocency of life, that they may

The derivation of Ember is uncertain:—quatuor tempora, quatemper, quatemper, ember!! This derivation is, we think, quite incredible. Seeing that the times of Ordination were made co-incident with the fasts of the four seasons, we are led to accept the derivation of the name from the embers used at those seasons in token of penitence. One of these weeks was immediately preceded by Ash Wednesday. The 2nd Ember Collect was inserted in the Scottish Prayer Book 1637.

A Prayer that may be said after, &c.

9. 'Deus cui proprium est misereri semper et parcere, suscipe deprecationem nostram: et quos delictorum catena constringit, miseratio tuæ pietatis absolvat. Per Dominum nostrum.' Sacramentary of Gregory; Salisbury Use; among the Collects at the end of Litany in Primer; omitted in 1549 and 1552, restored in 1558 and 1559.

The General Thanksgiving.

¶ Composed by Bp Reynolds, and added at the last revision of the Prayer Book in 1662. It bears a faint resemblance to a general thanksgiving in a Coptic Liturgy of Basil.

A Prayer for the High Court, &c.

10. 'Most gracious, &c.' This Prayer first appears in an Order of Fasting 1625, and again in a special form of Prayer issued 1628. In these forms it was almost word for word the same as it is now, and contained the words 'most religious and gracious king.'

In 1661 it appeared in a service for a Fast Day on the 12th of June, again in January, 1662; it was then placed by Convocation in our Prayer Book.

A Collect or Prayer for all, &c.

11. 'O God, &c.' This prayer was introduced in 1662; it has been ascribed to Bp Sanderson, but is more probably the composition of Bp Gunning; it somewhat resembles the Orationes Generales of our ancient ritual.

¶ Our English Ritual is favourably distinguished from other Rituals by the possession of these special thanksgivings. Our forms were introduced in 1604, with the exception of that for Restoring Publick Peace at Home, which was added in 1652.

OF THE COLLECTS, EPISTLES, AND GOSPELS.

¶ The Sacramentary of Leo, c. 420, contains several Collects for each Feast. The example thus set was followed in the Sacramentaries of Gelasius, 494, and Gregory, 590. The Prayers (Εὐχαί) of the Greek Church bear a close resemblance to our Collects; there are moreover special hymns under various names appointed for every day in the year in the Monthly Service Books, but there are no forms which correspond exactly to our Collects for the Day.

¶ The Epistles and Gospels are to be treated as Lessons of Holy Scripture. In the earliest ages the duty of reading the Lessons in public devolved, as a general rule, on the deacons. Tertullian however, c. 180, assigns this office to the Readers, an order which was already existing in his time and which subsequently, in the time of Cyprian, c. 250, was largely developed.

The Lessons were read before the dismissal of the Catechumens. The Reader began by the salutation, Peace be with you, until the permission to use this form faithfully serve before thee, to the glory of thy great Name, and the benefit of thy holy Church; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ A Prayer that may be said after any of the former.

O GOD, whose nature and property is ever to have mercy and to forgive, receive our humble petitions; and though we be tied and bound with the chain of our sins, yet let the pitifulness of thy great mercy loose us; for the honour of Jesus Christ, our Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

¶ A Prayer for the High Court of Parliament, to be read during their Session.

MOST gracious God, we humbly beseech thee, as for this Kingdom in general, so especially for the High Court of Parliament, under our most religious and gracious Queen at this time assembled: That thou wouldest be pleased to direct and prosper all their consultations to the advancement of thy glory, the good of thy Church, the safety, honour, and welfare of our Sovereign, and her Dominions; that all things may be so ordered and settled by their endeavours, upon the best and surest foundations, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety, may be established among us for all generations. These and all other necessaries, for them, for us, and thy whole Church, we humbly beg in the Name and Mediation of Jesus Christ our most blessed Lord and Saviour. Amen.

¶ A Collect or Prayer for all Conditions of men, to be used at such times when the Litany is not appointed to be said.

O GOD, the Creator and Preserver of all mankind, we humbly beseech thee for all sorts and conditions of men; that thou wouldest be pleased to make thy ways known unto them, thy saving health unto all nations. More especially, we pray for the good estate of the Catholick Church; that it may be so guided and governed by thy good Spirit, that all who profess and call themselves Christians, may be led into the way of truth, and hold the faith in unity of spirit, in the bond of peace, and in righteousness of life. Finally, we commend to thy fatherly goodness all those, who are any ways afflicted, or distressed, in mind, body, or estate; [ especially those*  This to be said when any desire the Prayers of the Congregation.* for whom our prayers are desired,] that it may please thee to comfort and relieve them, according to their several necessities, giving them patience under their sufferings, and a happy issue out of all their afflictions. And this we beg for Jesus Christ his sake. Amen.

THANKSGIVINGS.

¶ A General Thanksgiving.

ALMIGHTY God, Father of all mercies, we thine unworthy servants do give thee most humble and hearty thanks for all thy goodness and loving-kindness to us, and to all men; [ particularly to those* who desire now to offer up their praises and thanksgivings for thy late mercies vouchsafed unto them.] We bliss thee for our creation, preservation, and all the blessings of this life; but above all, for thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ; for the means of grace, and for the hope of glory. And, we beseech thee, give us that due sense of all thy mercies, that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful, and that we shew forth thy praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives; by giving up ourselves to thy service, and by walking before thee in holiness and righteousness all our days; through Jesus Christ our Lord, to whom with thee and the Holy Ghost be all honour and glory, world without end. Amen.

For Rain.

O GOD our heavenly Father, who by thy gracious providence dost cause the former and the latter rain to descend upon the earth, that it may bring forth fruit for the use of man; We give thee humble thanks that it hath pleased thee, in our great necessity, to send us at the last a joyful rain upon thine inheritance, and to refresh it when it was dry, to the great comfort of us thy unworthy servants, and to the glory of thy holy Name; through thy mercies in Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For fair Weather.

O LORD God, who hast justly humbled us by thy late plague of immoderate rain and waters, and in thy mercy hast relieved and comforted our souls by this reasonable and blessed change of weather; We praise and glorify thy holy Name for this thy mercy, and will always declare thy loving-kindness from generation to generation; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For Plenty.

O MOST merciful Father, who of thy gracious goodness hast heard the devout prayers of thy Church, and turned our dearth and scarcity into cheapness and plenty; We give thee humble thanks for this thy special bounty; beseeching thee to continue thy loving-kindness unto us, that our land may yield us her fruits of increase, to thy glory and our comfort; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

of salutation was withdrawn, by the 3rd Council of Carthage, 397, from the Readers and restricted to those in higher Orders.

When the Bishop or lower minister had given the salutation, and the people had replied, And with thy spirit, the deacon exclaimed, Attend we, and the Reader, after making announcement of the part of Scripture which he was about to read said, Thus saith the Lord.

On the announcement of the Lesson from the Prophets or the Epistles, it was in some places customary for the people to exclaim Deo gratias, as is now the case in the Mosarabic Liturgy. Grotius states that it was usual for the people to say Amen at the end of the Epistle.

During the reading of the Gospel all were required to stand. The custom is as old as Chrysostom and the Apostolical Constitutions. The people also were in the habit of answering to the announcement of the Lesson, Glory be to thee, O Lord; but the authority for this response is not so ancient as that for the posture. To sit, as the monks of Egypt, during the reading of the Gospel was reckoned peculiar; in Africa, generally, during the reading of any portion of Holy Scripture, standing was the rule. At the end of the Gospel, the Mosarabic Liturgy, 6th century, and the Rule of Benedict, c. 530, prescribe the response, Amen. Others said, Thanks be to God, or Praise be to thee, O Christ.

¶ The general rule for the reading of the Epistles in the Greek Church is that from Easter to Trinity Sunday the Acts of the Apostles are read, for the remainder of the year the Epistles are read in consecutive order. Great Festivals have each their own Epistle.

In the Hours and Vespers of the vigil of Christmas and of the Epiplany, also called the Feast of Lights, in the Hours and Vespers of Good Friday, and in the Morning Service of Easter Eve, the Epistle is read; on other occasions it is read only when there is a celebration of the Holy Communion.

The Epistle is preceded by a Prelude (προκειμενον), which consists of a verse or two from the Psalms. There is a fixed Prelude for every day in the week. Festivals have special Preludes. They have also Antiphons prefixed to the Preludes. There are likewise added certain communion anthems (κωνωνικά) to be used by the choir whilst the Priest is communicating, and to the Epistle are appended Post dicta (επιφωνήματα). The Epistle being generally taken from the writings of the Apostles is also called the Apostle.

¶ The Gospels are read in a similar manner to the Epistles. St John is appointed from Easter to Whitsunday; St Matthew from Whitsunday till the Friday after the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, Sept. 14th. St Luke begins on the Monday after the Sunday in the Octave of the Exaltation, and is read until Septuagesima. For St Mark space is found during the latter portion of the time allotted to St Matthew, which is then reserved for Saturdays and Sundays. St Mark is finished on Saturdays and Sundays in Lent. During this season Epistles and Gospels are appointed for Saturdays and Sundays only, at other seasons for every day of the week. Great Festivals have special Epistles and Gospels. The Greek cycle is considered to commence with the Sunday before Septuagesima, the Sunday of the Pharisee and the Publican, so called from its Gospel. The Gospel is read at Morning Prayers and at the Liturgy.

The mode of reading at present in use for the Epistle and Gospel is as follows:

Before the Prelude, the Priest or Deacon says, Attend we. When this is ended he says, Wisdom. The Reader announces the Epistle to be read. The Priest again says, Attend we. At the close of the Epistle the Singer exclaims, Alleluia. The Priest says, Wisdom: stand. Let us hear the holy Gospel, Peace be to all. The Reader, And with thy Spirit. The Reader announces the Gospel: the Priest adds, Attend we.

¶ The Rubric directing the use of a Sunday or Holy-day Collect at the preceding Evening Service, was added in 1662. In primitive times, it was customary to pass a considerable portion of the night preceding great festivals in religious exercises, as a preparation for the Service of the Festival. Such Nights were called Vigiliæ or Watch Nights. These nocturnal assemblies doubtless owed their origin to times of persecution, but the custom was continued when the reason for it had ceased. When irregularities and scandals were found to arise from the midnight assembly, it was discontinued c. 420. There then remained only the Eve, which was observed as a Fast. The meaning of the Rubric evidently is, that the Collect of the Festival shall be used on the Eve or Vigil of that Festival, which is generally the preceding evening. Allowance is not made, as it ought to have been in order to avoid ambiguity, for the occurrence of a Holy Day with a Vigil or Eve on a Monday, in which case the Calendar directs the observance of the Vigil on the previous Saturday. The reason assigned for the absence of Vigils to any Holy Days, is that those which have them not usually happened between Christmas and the Purification, or between

THANKSGIVINGS.

For Peace and Deliverance from our Enemies.

O ALMIGHTY God, who art a strong tower of defence unto thy servants against the face of their enemies; We yield thee praise and thanksgiving for our deliverance from those great and apparent dangers wherewith we were compassed: We acknowledge it thy goodness that we were not delivered over as a prey unto them; beseeching thee still to continue such thy mercies towards us, that all the world may know that thou art our Saviour and mighty Deliverer; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For restoring Publick Peace at Home.

O ETERNAL God, our heavenly Father, who alone makest men to be of one mind in a house, and stillest the outrage of a violent and unruly people; We bless thy holy Name, that it hath pleased thee to appease the seditious tumults which have been lately raised up amongst us; most humbly beseeching thee to grant to all of us grace, that we may henceforth obediently walk in thy holy commandments; and, leading a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty, may continually offer unto thee our sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving for these thy mercies towards us; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For Deliverance from the Plague, or other common Sickness.

O LORD God, who hast wounded us for our sins, and consumed us for our transgressions, by thy late heavy and dreadful visitation; and now, in the midst of judgement remembering mercy, hast redeemed our souls from the jaws of death; We offer unto thy fatherly goodness ourselves, our souls and bodies which thou hast delivered, to be a living sacrifice unto thee, always praising and magnifying thy mercies in the midst of thy Church; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Or this.

WE humbly acknowledge before thee, O most merciful Father, that all the punishments which are threatened in thy law might justly have fallen upon us, by reason of our manifold transgressions and hardness of heart: Yet seeing it hath pleased thee of thy tender mercy, upon our weak and unworthy humiliation, to assuage the contagious sickness wherewith we lately have been sore afflicted, and to restore the voice of joy and health into our dwellings; We offer unto thy Divine Majesty the sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving, lauding and magnifying thy glorious Name for such thy preservation and providence over us; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Easter and Whitsuntide, when festivity was allowable and the fasting of Vigils foregone.

¶ The present selection of Epistles and Gospels may be traced through our English Service Books as far back as to the time of Augustine.

They occur for the most part in the Sarum Missal, with which those of York and Hereford usually co-incide, and are found at an earlier date still, 10th century, in the MS. Missal of Leofric, bishop of Exeter. They are also identical with those given in the most ancient Lectionaries of the Roman Church.

The Collects also are in great measure derived from the Sarum Missal. Very many of these may be found in the Sacramentaries of Leo the Great, bishop of Rome 440—461, which was in use in 483, of Gelasius, 494, of Gregory, 590. Reference is made to the Missals, as Sar. Miss.; to the Sacramentaries as Sacram. Leon., Gelas., Gregor.; to the MS. Missal of Leofric as MS. Leofr.; to the ancient Lectionary or Comes of the Roman Church, viz. that published by Pamelius, as Pam. Com.

For remarks on our mode of reading the Epistle and Gospel, see Rubric in Communion Service.

In 1549 Introits were prefixed, as in the old offices, to the Collects. The Introit was a Psalm, sung as the Priest went towards the altar; it ended with Glory be to the Father, &c. Then the Priest said, Let us pray.

Before the Gospel this Rubric was prefixed in the Scotch Prayer Book. When the Presbyter or Minister readeth the Gospel, the people shall stand up. And the Presbyter before he beginneth to read the Gospel shall say thus, The Gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, written in such a chapter of such an Evangelist, beginning at such a verse. And the people shall answer, Glory be to God.

After the Gospel followed this Rubric. When the Gospel is ended, the Presbyter or Minister shall say, Here endeth the Gospel. And the people shall answer, Thanks be to thee, O Lord. And thus at the beginning and ending of the Gospel every Sunday and Holy Day in the year, or when else soever the Gospel is read.

¶ The observation of Advent Season seems to have arisen from the fast of the 10th month, which is mentioned by Philastrius, 380, as one of the solemn fasts of the Church. This fast anciently was kept from the festival of St Martin until Christmas Day, three days in the week, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, as is noted in the 1st council of Macon, 581. Durandus states that St Peter instituted Advent as a time of commemoration of our Lord's coming in the flesh; it was to last three full weeks and part of a fourth. He gives no authority for this statement. The homilies of Maximus of Turin, 450, on Advent, are considered spurious. Gregory the Great in his Sacramentary has 4 Sundays in Advent, and a Gallican Lectionary of the 7th or 8th century, begins the Ecclesiastical year with Advent. The name however does not appear to have obtained general currency before the 11th century. In the Mosarabic and the Ambrosian Liturgy as at present used, we find 6 Sundays in Advent beginning with the Sunday next after St Martin's Day, Nov. 11th. The Greek Church has no designation of the season corresponding to it.

1st Sunday in Advent. Introit, Ps. i.

¶ The Collect for the 1st Sunday in Advent was composed in 1549.

Palmer quotes a Post-Communion Prayer from the Sacramentary of Gelasius, which much resembles it. 'Preces populi tui quæsumus Domine clementer exaudi; ut qui de adventu Unigeniti tui secundum carnem lætantur; in secundo cum venerit in majestate sua, præmium æternæ vitæ percipiant. Per, &c.'

In the Sar. Miss. the Epistle for this Sunday began v. 11, and ended with the 1st clause of v. 14. 'Sed induemini Dominum Jesum Christum.' The Gospel began v. 1. and ended v. 9. 'Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini.'

2nd Sun. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxx.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as the Sarum Missal.

The Epistle in the Greek Church for the 1st Sunday in Advent, reckoned as the 29th Sunday from Whitsunday, is Col. iii. 4—11. The Gospel is that for the 13th Sunday in the series of Gospels taken from St Luke, viz. Luke xiv. 1—11.

The Epistle for the 2nd Sunday, reckoned as the 30th Sunday from Whitsunday, is Col. iii. 12—16. The Gospel is that for the 10th Sunday of St Luke, viz. Luke xiii. 10—17.

3rd Sun. Introit in 1549, Ps. iv.

Until 1662 the Collect was, 'Lord, we beseech thee give ear to our prayers, and by thy gracious visitation lighten the darkness of our heart, by our Lord Jesus Christ.'

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sarum Missal.

In the Greek Church the Epistle for this Sunday, reckoned as the 31st after Whitsunday, is 1 Tim. i. 15—17. The Gospel, the 11th Sunday of St Luke, is Luke xiv. 16—24.

THE COLLECTS, EPISTLES, AND GOSPELS,
TO BE USED THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

¶ Note, that the Collect appointed for every Sunday, or for any Holy-day that hath a Vigil or Eve, shall be said at the Evening Service next before.

The First Sunday in Advent.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, give us grace that we may cast away the works of darkness, and put upon us the armour of light, now in the time of this mortal life, in which thy Son Jesus Christ came to visit us in great humility; that in the last day, when he shall come again in his glorious Majesty to judge both the quick and dead, we may rise to the life immortal, through him who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, now and ever. Amen.

¶ This Collect is to be repeated every day, with the other Collects in Advent, until Christmas Eve.

The Epistle. Rom. xiii. 8.

OWE no man any thing, but to love one another: for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law. For this, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. Love worketh no ill to his neighbour; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law. And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep: for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. The night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light. Let us walk honestly as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envying. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof.

The Gospel. St. Mat. xxi. 1.

WHEN they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples, saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me. And if any man say ought unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them. All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass. And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them; and brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set him thereon. And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strawed them in the way. And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna to the Son of David; Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest. And when he was come into Jerusalem all the city was moved, saying, Who is this? And the multitude said, This is Jesus the Prophet of Nazareth of Galilee. And Jesus went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple; and overthrew the tables of the money-changers, and the seats of them that sold doves; and said unto them, It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves.

The Second Sunday in Advent.

The Collect.

BLESSED Lord, who hast caused all holy Scriptures to be written for our learning; Grant that we may in such wise hear them, read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest them, that by patience, and comfort of thy holy Word, we may embrace, and ever hold fast the blessed hope of everlasting life, which thou hast given us in our Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. xv. 4.

WHATSOEVER things were written aforetime, were written for our learning; that we through patience, and comfort of the Scriptures, might have hope. Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be like-minded one towards another, according to Christ Jesus: that ye may with one mind, and one mouth, glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. Wherefore receive ye one another, as Christ also received us, to the glory of God. Now I say, that Jesus Christ was a minister of the circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers: And that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy; as it is written, For this cause I will confess to thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy Name. And again he saith, Rejoice, ye Gentiles, with his people. And again, Praise the Lord, all ye Gentiles, and laud him, all ye people. And again, Esaias saith, There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles, in him shall the Gentiles trust. Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost.

The Gospel. St. Luke xxi. 25.

AND there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity, the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh. And he spake to them a parable, Behold the fig-tree, and all the trees; when they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand. So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the Kingdom of God is nigh at hand. Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled: heaven and earth shall pass away; but my words shall not pass away.

4th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. v.
'Excita quæsumus Domine potentiam tuam et veni et magna nobis virtute succurre; ut per auxilium gratiæ tuæ quod peccata nostra præpediunt indulgentia tuæ propitiationis acceleret. Qui vivis et regnas cum Deo Patre.' From the Sacramentaries of Gelasius and Gregory, Sar. Miss., MS. Leofr., Sacram. Gelas. and Greg., also of Ambrose.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sarum Missal.

On the Sunday preceding Christmas Day the Greek Church appoints for the Epistle, Heb. xi. 9, 10, 32—40; for the Gospel, Matt. 1.

¶ Introit for Christmas Day in 1549, Ps. viii.

Our Collect for Christmas Day was composed in 1549.

Palmer quotes two Collects as containing similar ideas. 'Præsta quæsumus omnipotens Deus, ut natus hodie Salvator mundi sicut divinæ nobis generationis est auctor, ita et immortalitatis sit ipse largitor. Qui tecum vivit et regnat Deus.' Sacrament. of Greg.; Sarum, and Liturgy of Mosarabic Miss., and Com. Pam. 'Omnipotens sempiterna Deus qui hunc diem per incarnationem verbi tui et partum beatæ Mariæ Virginis consecrasti, da populis tuis in hac celebritate consortium ut qui tua gratia sunt redempti, tua sint adoptione securi. Per eundem.' Sacram. of Gregory.

¶ A festival of the Incarnation was held from the very earliest times. It was used to commemorate a fourfold manifestation of our Lord to the world: 1st, The nativity; 2ndly, The appearance of the star; 3rdly, The baptism; 4thly, The first miracle, the conversion of water into wine at Cana. For several ages the Churches of Egypt, Jerusalem, Antioch, Cyprus, and other Churches of the East, beyond all doubt celebrated the Feast of the Nativity at Epiphany. The Armenian Church does so still. Before the Council of Ephesus however, 431, the Egyptians had altered their time of celebration of the Nativity to the 25th of December; the Churches of Antioch and Syria shortly before that date had adopted the same alteration. The Alexandrians and the Churches of Palestine continued to observe the Festival of the Nativity at Epiphany until the time of Juvenal, bishop of Jerusalem, 428, who changed the time of its celebration to the 25th of December.

The distinction between the Festivals of Christmas and Epiphany is drawn by Chrysostom, c. 400, from whose time it has generally been observed in the East. The Western Church, from the earliest ages, seems to have celebrated the Nativity on the 25th of December; and the Manifestation is found as a second Festival in the middle of the 4th century. Christmas Day and the Epiphany were called Theophania et Epiphania, and prima et secunda Nativitas.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sarum Missal.

In 1549 provision was made for two Communion on Christmas Day. For the First the Introit appointed was Ps. xcvi. The Collect was a translation of the Collect in the mass for the vigil, the Epistle was Tit. ii. 11—15. 'The grace of God that bringeth salvation, &c. . . . see that no man despise thee.' The Gospel was Luke ii. 1—14, 'And it chanced in those days, &c. . . . unto men a good will.'

The Collect ran thus, 'God, which makest us glad with the yearly remembrance of the birth of thy only Son Jesus Christ, grant that as we joyfully receive him for our Redeemer so we may with sure confidence behold him when he shall come to be our judge, who liveth and reigneth, &c.'

In the Greek Church the Epistles for Christmas Day and its Eve are:

For the 1st Hour of the Eve, for Vespers, and for the Liturgy, Heb. i. ii.—3; for the 3rd Hour, Gal. iii. 23—29; for the 6th Hour, Heb. i. 10—ii. 3; for the 9th, Heb. ii. 11—18.

The Gospel for the 1st Hour of the Eve and for the morning of Christmas Day is Matt. i. 18—25. At the 3rd Hour, Luke ii. 1—20. At the 6th Hour, at Vespers, on the Eve and in the Liturgy of Christmas Day, Matt. ii. 1—12.

At the 9th Hour, Matt. ii. 13—23.

¶ Mention is made of Christmas Day and the three succeeding Saints' Days as one connected commemoration by St Bernard, 12th cent.

¶ The Festival of St Stephen dates as far back as the 4th century. The reason for its institution is given by Fulgentius: 'Natus est Christus in terris ut Stephanus nasceretur in caelis.'

It is ordered in the Missal and Breviary that every day until the Circumcision, 'Fiat commemoratio de Nativitate.'

Introit in 1549, Ps. lii.

'Da nobis quæsumus, Domine, imitari quod colimus, ut discamus et inimicos diligere quia ejus natalitia celebramus qui novit etiam pro persecutoribus exorare Dominum nostrum Jesum Christum Filium tuum qui tecum vivit et regnat.' Sarum Miss., MS. Leofr. and Sacrament. of Gregory.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sarum Missal, in MS. of Leofr., and Com. Pam.

The Third Sunday in Advent.

The Collect.

OLORD Jesu Christ, who at thy first coming didst send thy messenger to prepare thy way before thee; Grant that the ministers and stewards of thy mysteries may likewise so prepare and make ready thy way, by turning the hearts of the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, that at thy second coming to judge the world we may be found an acceptable people in thy sight, who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Spirit, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. iv. 1.

LET a man so account of us, as of the ministers of Christ, and stewards of the mysteries of God. Moreover, it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful. But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's judgement: yea, I judge not mine own self. For I know nothing by myself, yet am I not hereby justified; but he that judgeth me is the Lord. Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts; and then shall every man have praise of God.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xi. 2.

NOW when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another? Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the Gospel preached to them: And blessed is he who-soever shall not be offended in me. And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? a reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out for to see? a man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings' houses. But what went ye out for to see? a prophet? yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet. For this is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

The Fourth Sunday in Advent.

The Collect.

OLORD, raise up (we pray thee) thy power, and come among us, and with great might succour us; that whereas, through our sins and wickedness, we are sore let and hindered in running the race that is set before us, thy bountiful grace and mercy may speedily help and deliver us; through the satisfaction of thy Son our Lord, to whom with thee and the Holy Ghost be honour and glory, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. Philip. iv. 4.

REJOICE in the Lord alway, and again I say, Rejoice. Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand. Be careful for nothing: but in every thing, by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

The Gospel. St. John i. 19.

THIS is the record of John, when the Jews sent Priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, Who art thou? And he confessed, and denied not; but confessed, I am not the Christ. And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he saith, I am not. Art thou that Prophet? And he answered, No.

Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself? He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias. And they which were sent were of the Pharisees. And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Elias, neither that Prophet? John answered them, saying, I baptize with water: but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not: He it is who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose. These things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

THE NATIVITY OF OUR LORD, OR THE BIRTH-DAY OF CHRIST,

COMMONLY CALLED

Christmas Day.

The Collect.

ALmighty God, who hast given us thy only-begotten Son to take our nature upon him, and as at this time to be born of a pure Virgin; Grant that we being regenerate, and made thy children by adoption and grace, may daily be renewed by thy Holy Spirit; through the same our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the same Spirit, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. Hebr. i. 1.

GOD, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds; who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high; being made so much better than the angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they. For unto which of the angels said he at any time, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee? And again, I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son? And again, when he bringeth in the first-begotten into the world, he saith, And let all the angels of God worship him. And of the angels he saith, Who maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire. But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom: Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows. And, Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands: they shall perish, but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment; and as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed; but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

The Gospel. St. John i. 1.

IN the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made. In him was life, and the life was the light of men. And the light shineth in darkness, and the darkness comprehended it not. There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the light, that all men through him might believe. He was not that light, but was sent to bear witness of that light. That was the true light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. He was in the world,

The Greek Church keeps St Stephen's Festival on the 27th of Dec.

The Epistle is Heb. ii. 11—18.

The Gospel is Matt. xiii. 33—43.

St Stephen is represented as a deacon holding stones in a napkin; holding stones in his robe, or in his hand; with two stones in one hand, one stone on his head, and palm in the other hand; as a deacon holding stones in his dalmatic; the same, but one stone wounding his head; deacon, palm; stones on his head.

According to tradition the time of St Stephen's martyrdom was August; the death of St John the Evangelist occurred on the Feast of St John the Baptist.

¶ The Festival of St John is not of so early a date as that of St Stephen. It is first mentioned in the Mosarabic Missal, 6th century. The Ritualists assign as a reason for the close association of the three Festivals of St Stephen, St John, and the Innocents, the triple kind of martyrdom which they endured—St Stephen in will and deed, St John in will, the Innocents in deed. It seems better to regard them as thus placed because of the priority in martyrdom of Stephen, the connection of the death of the Innocents with our Saviour's birth, and the intimate friendship between our Lord and the beloved disciple.

Introit in 1549, Ps. xi.

'Ecclesiam tuam quæsumus Domine benignus illustra: ut beati Joannis Apostoli tui et evangelistæ illuminata doctrinis ad dona perveniat sempiterna. Per Dominum.' Sarum Miss., MS. Leofr., Sacram. Greg.

The Collect of St Stephen's Day was repeated on St John's Day in the old offices with the collect of the Nativity.

In the old offices there was no Epistle, but a Lesson from the Apocrypha, Ecclus. xv. 1—6.

The Gospel was John xxi. 19—24.

In the Greek Church St John's Festival is on the 26th of September.

The Epistle is 1 John iv. 12—19.

The Morning Gospel is John xxi. 15—25; Gospel at the Liturgy, John xix. 25—27, with xxi. 24, 25.

On the 28th of December the Greek Church commemorates 20,000 (!) martyrs of Nicomedia burnt by Diocletian in the church on Christmas-Day. A second festival of St John is held on the 8th of May with a commemoration of Arsenius the Great. On that day the Epistle is 1 John i. 1—7. The Morning Gospel is John xxi. 14—25; the Gospel at the Liturgy is John xix. 25—27, xxi. 24, 25.

St John is represented holding a cup with serpent issuing from it; as a child with palm, cup, and serpent; bearing a sword with serpent twined round it; the same with a palm branch also; the same with an eagle below; with a palm-branch alone; with a palm-branch, scroll, and eagle; eagle upon a barrel or cauldron; with an eagle before him or above his head; mounted on an eagle; stepping into a grave; writing his Apocalypse in the isle of Patmos; ditto, and upsetting his ink bottle; as an old man in Mass vestments lifted up to heaven by our Saviour out of his grave at the foot of the altar at Ephesus.

¶ Cyprian, Augustine, Chrysostom, and others after them, speak of the Innocents as martyrs. Origen says that their memorial was always celebrated in the churches after the manner or order of the Saints, as being the first martyrs that were slain for Christ. So also Augustine says that the Church received them to the honour of martyrs. As however Prudentius, Fulgentius, and Leo speak of the Innocents only at Epiphany, it is doubtful when the separate commemoration of their death commenced.

Introit in 1549, Ps. lxxix.

'Deus cujus hodierna die præconium innocentes martyres non loquendo sed moriendo confessi sunt; omnia in nobis vitiorum mala mortifica ut fidem tuam quam lingua nostra loquitur etiam moribus vita fateatur. Per.' Sarum Miss., MS. Leofr., Sacram. Gregory and Gelasius. Collect altered in 1662.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sarum Missal, in MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church the Festival of the Innocents is kept on the 29th of December. Their number is stated as 14,000.

The Epistle is Heb. ii. 11—18.

The Gospel is Matt. ii. 13—23.

If we may rely on the Carthage calendar, quoted by Dr Corrie in his edition of Wheatly on the Common Prayer, the three days succeeding Christmas Day have been assigned as at present at least since A.D. 484. With St John, St James is there joined.

Sunday after Christmas. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxxi.

The Epistle is taken from the Mass for the 6th Day from the Nativity in the Sarum Missal, MS. Leofr. and Com. Pam. The Gospel in Sarum Missal was Matt. i. pt. of 18—21.

The Greek Church appoints an Epistle for the Sunday after Christmas Day, Gal. i. 11—19 and one for the Sunday before the Epiphany, in case that there are two Sundays in this interval; the latter is 2. Tim. iv. 5—8.

The Gospel for the Sunday after Christmas is Matt. ii. 13—23.

For the Sunday before the Epiphany, Mar. i. 1—9.

and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not. He came unto his own, and his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name: which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God. And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only-begotten of the Father) full of grace and truth.

Saint Stephen's Day.

The Collect.

GRANT, O Lord, that, in all our sufferings here upon earth for the testimony of thy truth, we may stedfastly look up to heaven, and by faith behold the glory that shall be revealed; and, being filled with the Holy Ghost, may learn to love and bless our persecutors by the example of thy first Martyr Saint Stephen, who prayed for his murderers to thee, O blessed Jesus, who standest at the right hand of God to succour all those that suffer for thee, our only Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

Then shall follow the Collect of the Nativity, which shall be said continually unto New-year's Eve.

For the Epistle. Acts vii. 55.

STEPHEN, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, and said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God. Then they cried out with a loud voice, and stopped their ears, and ran upon him with one accord, and cast him out of the city, and stoned him: and the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul. And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit. And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xxiii. 34.

BEHOLD, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes; and some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city; that upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar. Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation. O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the Name of the Lord.

Saint John the Evangelist's Day.

The Collect.

MERCIFUL Lord, we beseech thee to cast thy bright beams of light upon thy Church, that it being enlightened by the doctrine of thy blessed Apostle and Evangelist Saint John may so walk in the light of thy truth, that it may at length attain to the light of everlasting life; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. John i. 1.

THAT which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled of the word of life; (for the life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bearwitness, and shew unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us;) That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us; and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ. And these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full. This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, That God is light, and in him is no darkness at all. If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth: but if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleaueth us from all sin. If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

The Gospel. St. John xxi. 19.

JESUS said unto Peter, Follow me. Then Peter, turning about, seeth the disciple whom Jesus loved following; which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee? Peter seeing him saith to Jesus, Lord, and what shall this man do? Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? Follow thou me. Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, That that disciple should not die: yet Jesus said not unto him, He shall not die; but, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? This is the disciple which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things, and we know that his testimony is true. And there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which if they should be written every one, I suppose, that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written.

The Innocents' Day.

The Collect.

OALMIGHTY God, who out of the mouths of babes and sucklings hast ordained strength, and madest infants to glorify thee by their deaths; Mortify and kill all vices in us, and so strengthen us by thy grace, that by the innocency of our lives, and constancy of our faith even unto death, we may glorify thy holy Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Rev. xiv. 1.

ILOOKED, and lo, a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred forty and four thousand, having his Father's Name written in their foreheads. And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps: and they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders; and no man could learn that song, but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth. These are they which were not defiled with women, for they are virgins: these are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth: these were redeemed from among men, being the first-fruits unto God, and to the Lamb. And in their mouth was found no guile; for they are without fault before the throne of God.

The Gospel. St. Matth. ii. 13.

THE Angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the young child, and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there until I bring thee word; for Herod will seek the young child to destroy him. When he arose, he took the young child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt, and was there until the death of Herod; that it might be fulfilled which was ¶ The excesses on the heathen festival of the kalends of January are condemned by Tertullian, Chrysostom, and others. Lest Christians should be betrayed into similar excesses the Church of the 4th century appointed the day as one of fasting, penitence, and prayer. A trace of this origin is preserved in the Ambrosian Missal where the services of the day contain special cautions against idolatry. Ivo Carnotensis, 1090, is the first writer who mentions the observance of the day under its present title. In earlier writers it is called the octave of Christmas. In the notes to Wheatly, however, edited by Dr Corrie, reference is made to the Gallican Lectionary which is supposed to be as old as the 7th century. This contains certain Legends in Circumcisione Domini.

Troito in 1549, Ps. cxxii.

‘Omnipotens Deus cujus unigenitus hodierna die ne legem solveret, quam adimplere venerat, corporalem suscepit circumcisionem. spirituali circumcisione mentes vestras ab omnibus vitiorum incentivis expurget, et suam in vos infundat benedictionem. Amen.’ Sacram. Greg. and Benedictio in Oct. Dom., MS. Leofr.

The Collect in the Sarum Missal for the Circumcision is ‘Deus qui nobis Salvatoris diem celebrare concedis octavum; fac nos, quæsumus ejus perpetua divinitate muniri cujus sumus carnali commercio reparati. Qui tecum vivit, &c.’

The Epistle is Tit. ii. 11—15.

The Gospel is Luke ii. 21.

In 1549 no rubric was added; in 1552 it was thus worded, If there be a Sunday between the Epiphany and the Circumcision, then shall be read the same Collect, Epistle, and Gospel at the Communion which was used upon the day of Circumcision.

The Greeks also have a special commemoration of the Circumcision.

The Epistle is Col. ii. 8—12.

The Gospel for the Morning Service is John x. 1—9; for the Liturgy, Luke ii. 20, 21, 40—52.

The Epiphany. See p. 82.

Troito in 1549, Ps. xcvi.

‘Deus qui hodierna die unigenitum tuum gentibus, stella duce, revelasti; concede propitius, ut qui jam te ex fide cognovimus, usque ad contempnendum speciem tuæ celsitudinis perducamur. Per eundem.’ Sar. Miss., Sac. Greg., MS. Leofr.

The Greek Church originally, as has been stated in the notes relative to Christmas Day, ‘kept’ the Nativity at the same time as the Epiphany, on the 6th of January, celebrating thereon the Birth, the Baptism, and the appearance of the Star. Pope Leo, A.D. 440, in his Sermons on Epiphany dwells only on the Star; Jerome on the Baptism.

The title of Day of Lights was given to this Festival as commemorating the earthly manifestation of the Light of the world, and also because it was the supposed day of the Baptism of our Lord to which rite the term illumination φωτισμα, was especially given. Hence it became and in the Greek Church it is still one of the three solemn times of Baptism. The water for Baptism is consecrated with peculiar solemnity at Epiphany; Is. xxxv. lv. xii. 3—6 are read. The Epistle is 1 Cor. x. 1—4; the Gospel Mar. i. 9—11.

The first historical notice of the Epiphany is found in Clemens Alexandrinus A.D. 200; in the time of Chrysostom A.D. 400, it is mentioned as an ancient and principal festival of the Asiatic Church. The earliest distinct trace of it in the West is found in Gaul in the middle of the 4th century.

Christmas Day and Epiphany were kept with the same solemnity as the Lord’s Day.

In the Sarum Missal, Is. lx. 1—6 is appointed as a Lesson.

The Gospel is the same as in the Sarum Missal, MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam.

A short hymn of the Greeks contains the origin of the name Epiphany. ‘Thou who didst make the world, wast manifested (επεφάνης) in the world, to enlighten those who sat in darkness. Glory to thee, O lover of men.’ Three Antiphons are appointed for the Epiphany which is a great Festival in the Greek Church. They are founded on parts of Psalms cxiv. cxvi. cxviii.

In the Greek Church the Epistles are on the Eve,

1st Hour, Acts xiii. 25—33.

3rd Hour, Acts xix. 1—8.

6th Hour, Rom. vi. 3—11.

9th Hour, Tit. ii. 11—14, iii. 4—7.

At Vespers, 1 Cor. ix. 19—27.

At Baptism, 1 Cor. x. 1—4.

At the Liturgy, Tit. ii. 11—14, iii. 4—7.

On the following day, Acts xix. 1—8.

The Gospels are, on the Eve,

1st Hour, Matt. iii. 1—6.

3rd Hour, Mar. i. 1—8.

6th Hour, Mar. i. 9—11.

9th Hour, Vespers and Liturgy, Luke iii. 1—18.

Morning of the Epiphany, Mar. i. 9—11.

Liturgy, Matt. iii. 13—17.

On the following day, one Gospel in reference to the Epiphany is appointed John iii. 22—33.

The following hymn from the Greek Service is interesting:

‘O Christ, the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world—

oken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Out of Egypt have I called my Son. Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth; and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently inquired of the wise men. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken of Jeremy the prophet, saying, In Rama was there a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.

The Sunday after Christmas Day.

The Collect.

ALmighty God, who hast given us thy only-begotten Son to take our nature upon him, and as at this time to be born of a pure virgin; Grant that we being regenerate, and made thy children by adoption and grace, may daily be renewed by thy Holy Spirit; through the same our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the same Spirit, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. Gal. iv. 1.

NOW I say, that the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all; but is under tutors and governors, until the time appointed of the other. Even so we, when we were children, were in bondage under the elements of the world: but when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law, to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons. And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then a heir of God through Christ.

The Gospel. St. Matth. i. 18.

THE birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise: When as his mother Mary was espoused to Joseph, before they came together she was found with child of the Holy Ghost. Then Joseph her husband, being a just man, and not willing to make her a publick example, was minded to put her away privily. But while he thought on these things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife; for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost: And she shall bring forth a Son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus; for he shall save his people from their sins. (Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Behold, a Virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a Son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.) Then Joseph, being raised from sleep, did as the angel of the Lord had bidden him, and took unto him his wife; and knew her not till she had brought forth her first-born son: and he called his name Jesus.

The Circumcision of Christ.

The Collect.

ALmighty God, who madest thy blessed Son to be circumcised, and obedient to the law for man; Grant us the true circumcision of the Spirit; that, our hearts, and all our members, being mortified from all worldly and carnal lusts, we may in all things obey thy blessed will; through the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. iv. 8.

BLESSED is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin. Cometh this blessedness upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? For we say, that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness. How was it then reckoned? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision. And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised; that he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be imputed unto them also: And the father of circumcision to them who are not of the circumcision only, but also walk in the steps of that faith of our father Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumcised. For the promise, that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith. For if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect.

The Gospel. St. Luke ii. 15.

AND it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us. And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child. And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds. But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart. And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them. And when eight days were accomplished for the circumcising of the child, his name was called Jesus, which was so named of the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

¶ The same Collect, Epistle, and Gospel shall serve for every day after unto the Epiphany.

The Epiphany,

OR THE

MANIFESTATION OF CHRIST TO THE GENTILES.

The Collect.

O GOD, who by the leading of a star didst manifest thy only-begotten Son to the Gentiles; Mercifully grant, that we, which know thee now by faith, may after this life have the fruition of thy glorious Godhead; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. iii. 1.

FOR this cause, I Paul, the prisoner of Jesus Christ for you Gentiles; if ye have heard of the dispensation of the grace of God, which is given me to you-ward: How that by revelation he made known unto me the mystery (as I wrote afore in few words, whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ) which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy Apostles and Prophets by the Spirit; That the Gentiles should be fellow-heirs, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ, by the Gospel: whereof I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God given unto me by the effectual working of his power. Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ; and to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ: to the intent, that now unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places might be known by the Church let the light of thy countenance be shewn upon us, that thereby we may behold the light which is unapproachable, and guide our steps to fulfil thy commandments.'

1st Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. xiii.

'Vota quæsumus Domine supplicantis populi cœlesti pietate prosequare, ut et quæ agenda sunt videant; et ad implenda quæ viderint convalescant. Per.' Sarum Miss., 1st Sunday after the Octave of Epiphany, Sacrament. of Greg., Ambrosian Liturgy, MS. Leofr.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sarum Miss. for that Sunday, MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church the Epistle for the Sunday after the Lights is Eph. iv. 7—13.

The Gospel is Matt. iv. 18—23.

2nd Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. xiv.

'Omnipotens sempiternæ Deus qui cœlestia simul et terrena moderaris supplicationes populi tui clementer exaudi et pacem tuam nostris concede temporibus. Per Dominum.' Sarum Miss., 2nd Sunday after the Octave of Epiphany; Sacrament. of Greg., Ambros. Miss., MS. Leofr.

The Epistle and Gospel were the same in the Sarum Miss., MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church, the continuous reading of the Epistles is not interrupted by special selections between the Sunday after the Lights and that of the Pharisee and the Publican, i.e. the Sunday before Septuagesima. If the Sunday be as the Calendar calls it, actually the 33rd Sunday, exclusive of Sundays for which special Epistles are appointed, the Epistles for the 30th, 31st, and 32nd Sundays would be used.

For the 30th, the Epistle is Col. iii. 12—15; 31st, 1 Tim. i. 15—17; 32nd, 1 Tim. iv. 9—15.

If the preceding Easter fall on the 22nd March, this Sunday would be the 32nd Sunday after Whitsunday.

If there should occur more Sundays than 33, exclusive of Sundays on which a special Epistle is appointed, between Whitsunday and Septuagesima, I find no passages selected for Epistles.

3rd Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. xv.

'Omnipotens sempiternæ Deus in firmitatem nostram propitius respice atque ad protegendum nos dexteram tuæ majestatis extende. Per Dominum.' Sarum Miss., 3rd Sunday after the Octave of Epiphany; Greg. Sacrament., Ambros. Miss., MS. Leofr.

The Epistle and Gospel were the same as ours in Sar. Miss., MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam. In the Greek Church when there were two Sundays after that in the Octave of the Lights, for the 1st of these was read the Gospel for the 12th Sunday of Luke, viz. Luke xvii. 12—19. Hence the Sunday is called that of the Ten Lepers. The second Sunday had then both the Epistle and Gospel appointed in case of the single Sunday.

The Greek arrangement of the Gospel for the Sundays intervening between the Sunday after the Sunday in the Octave of the Lights, which is the 1st Sunday after the Epiphany in our reckoning, and the Sunday of the Publican and Pharisee which is the last Sunday after the Epiphany in our reckoning, is as follows:

If 1 Sunday (Angl. 3 after Epiphany).

The Gospel is that of the 15th Sunday of Luke, viz. Luke xix. 1—12, Sunday of Zacchæus.

If 2 Sundays (Angl. 4 after Epiphany).

For 1st, the Gospel is that of 12th Sunday of Luke, viz. Luke xvii. 12—19, Sunday of Ten Lepers; 2nd, 15th Sunday of Luke.

If 3 Sundays (Angl. 5 after Epiphany).

For 1st, the Gospel is that of 12th Sunday of Luke; 2nd, 15th Sunday of Luke; 3rd, 17th Sunday of Matt., viz. Matt. xv. 21—28, Sunday of the Canaanitish woman.

If 4 Sundays (Angl. 6 after Epiphany).

For 1st, the Gospel is that of 12th Sunday of Luke; 2nd, 14th Sunday of Luke viz. Luke xviii. 35—43, Sunday of the Blind man; 3rd, 15th Sunday of Luke; 4th, 17th Sunday of Matt.

If the Gospel for 14th Sunday of Luke have occurred previously, then the Gospel for 2nd Sunday is that for 15th Sunday of Luke; 3rd, 16th Sunday of Matt. viz. Matt. xxv. 14—30.

4th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. ii.

'Deus qui nos in tantis periculis constitutos pro humana scis fragilitate non poss subsistere: da nobis salutem mentis et corporis ut ea quæ pro peccatis nostris patimur te adjuvante vincamus. Per Sarum Miss., 4th Sunday after the Octave of Epiphany; Sacrament. Greg., MS. Leofr.

The Epistle for the Friday in the week of the 1st Sunday after the Octave of the Epiphany is Rom. xiii. 1—6. The Epistle for the 4th Sunday after the Octave of Epiphany is Rom. xii. 8—10. Sarum Miss. The Gospel is Matt. viii. 23—28. Sar. Miss. and Com. Pam.

5th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. xx.

'Familiam tuam quæsumus Domine continua pietate custodi; ut quæ in specie gratiæ cœlestis innititur, tuæ semper protectione muniat. Per Dominum Sarum Miss., for 5th Sunday after Epiphany; Sacrament. Greg., Ambros. Miss. MS. Leofr.

The Epistle and Gospel were the same

FIRST, SECOND, AND THIRD SUNDAYS AFTER THE EPIPHANY.

the manifold wisdom of God, according to the eternal purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord: In whom we have boldness and access with confidence by the faith of him.

The Gospel. St. Matth. ii. 1.

WHEN Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea, in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them, where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea: for thus it is written by the prophet, And thou, Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor that shall rule my people Israel. Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, inquired of them diligently what time the star appeared. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go, and search diligently for the young child, and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also. When they had heard the king, they departed; and lo, the star which they saw in the east went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh. And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

First Sunday after the Epiphany.

The Collect.

O LORD, we beseech thee mercifully to receive the prayers of thy people which call upon thee; and grant that they may both perceive and know what things they ought to do, and also may have grace and power faithfully to fulfil the same; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. xii. 1.

BESEECH you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God. For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith. For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office; so we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.

The Gospel. St. Luke ii. 41.

NOW his parents went to Jerusalem every year at the feast of the passover. And when he was twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem, after the custom of the feast. And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and his mother knew not of it. But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey, and they sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance. And when they found him not, they turned back again to Jerusalem, seeking him. And it came to pass, that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions. And all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers. And when they saw him, they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing. And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business? And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them. And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but his mother kept all these sayings in her heart. And Jesus increased in wisdom, and stature, and in favour with God and man.

Second Sunday after the Epiphany.

The Collect.

ALmighty and everlasting God, who dost govern all things in heaven and earth; Mercifully hear the supplications of thy people, and grant us thy peace all the days of our life; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. xii. 6.

HAVING then gifts differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith; or ministry, let us wait on our ministering; or he that teacheth, on teaching; or he that exhorteth, on exhortation: he that giveth, let him do it with simplicity; he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness. Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil, cleave to that which is good. Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love, in honour preferring one another: not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer; distributing to the necessity of saints; given to hospitality. Bless them which persecute you; bless, and curse not. Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep. Be of the same mind one towards another. Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate.

The Gospel. St. John ii. 1.

AND the third day there was a marriage in a Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there. And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage. And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come. His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it. And there were set there six water-pots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece. Jesus saith unto them, Fill the water-pots with water. And they filled them up to the brim. And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was, (but the servants which drew the water knew,) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom, and saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine, and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now. This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested forth his glory, and his disciples believed on him.

Third Sunday after the Epiphany.

The Collect.

ALmighty and everlasting God, mercifully look upon our infirmities, and in all our dangers and necessities stretch forth thy right hand to help and defend us; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

as in Sar. Miss. and Com. Pam., for that Sunday.

Until 1662, it was provided that if there were a 6th Sunday after the Epiphany, the same Collect, Epistle and Gospel should be used as on the 5th Sunday. In the Old Service Books the Sundays were reckoned from the Octave of Epiphany, hence 5 were sufficient.

In the Roman Missal, however, the Sundays after the Octave are reckoned as the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, after Epiphany. The Collect for the 6th is, 'Præsta quæsumus omnipotens Deus ut semper rationabilia meditantés, quæ tibi sunt placita et dictis exequamur et factis. Per Dominum.'

The Epistle is 1 Thess. i. 2—10.

The Gospel is Matt. xiii. 31—35.

In the Greek Church the Epistle for the Sunday preceding Septuagesima, called from its Gospel the Sunday of the Pharisee and the Publican, is 2 Tim. iii. 10—15.

The Gospel is Luke xviii. 10—14.

¶ The observance of an ante-Lenten Fast, appears to be as ancient as the time of Gregory the Great. Quinquagesima Sunday is exactly 50 days before Easter, Sexagesima 57, Septuagesima 64. The tendency of monasticism had been to increase the length and severity of the various seasons of fasting; hence these additional weeks were prescribed. It seems a not improbable conjecture that the names Septuagesima, Sexagesima, Quinquagesima, were given to these Sundays when Ash Wednesday was appointed as the day of commencing the 40 days' fast. The Greek Church has a special Service Book for the period between the Sunday preceding Septuagesima and Easter Sunday. This Sunday is called the Sunday of the Pharisee and the Publican, from the Gospel of the Day; the Service Book is the Triodion.

Introit in 1549, Ps. xxiii.

'Preces populi tui, quæsumus Domine clementer exaudi, ut qui juste pro peccatis nostris affligimur, pro tui nominis gloria misericorditer liberemur. Per Dominum.' Sarum Miss., Sacrament. of Greg.

The Epistle in Sar. Miss. extended to 1 Cor. x. 4. The Gospel was the same as ours. MS. of Leofric., Com. Pam.

The Sunday corresponding to Septuagesima in the Greek Church is called from the Gospel the Sunday of the Prodigal Son.

The Epistle is 1 Cor. vi. 12—20.

The Gospel is Luke xv. 11—32.

Introit in 1549, Ps. xxiv.

'Deus qui conspicis quia ex nulla nostra actione confidimus; concede propitius, ut contra omnia adversa doctoris gentium protectione niamur.' Sar. Miss., Sacram. of Greg.

In Sar. Miss. the Epistle extended to 2 Cor. xii. 9. The Gospel was the same as ours. MS. of Leofric., Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church this Sunday is called Sunday of meat fast (τῆς ἀπόκρεω); meat is not eaten after this Sunday. A phrase occurs in the Epistle, 'I will eat no meat (v. 3, μη φάγω κρέας) while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend,' which may well bear reference to the ordinance of the Greek Church as to meat.

The Epistle is 1 Cor. viii. 3—ix. 2.

The Gospel is Matt. xxv. 31—46.

Introit in 1549, Ps. xxvi.

The Collect for Quinquagesima Sunday was composed in 1549. The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sar. Miss., MS. of Leofric., and Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church the Sunday is called 'of the cheese-eater' (τῆς τυροφάγου). The Epistle is Rom. xiii. 11—xiv. 4. Gospel, Matt. vi. 14—21. The Greeks are allowed to eat cheese and eggs in the week preceding this Sunday, hence its name.

The institution of the week beginning with Monday after the Sunday, τῆς ἀπόκρεω, and ending with the Sunday, τῆς τυροφάγου, a week of an intermediate character between feasting and fasting, is attributed to Heraclius, in fulfilment of a vow made before his final triumph over Chosroes, A. D. 628. The Greek Fast begins on the Monday after this Sunday; there is no special observation of the Wednesday in this week.

It seems clear that the original fast before Easter was one of 40 hours, this being the period between the death of our Lord and his resurrection. Additional days were prefixed for the encouragement of devotion, the number varied in different Churches; when the custom of adding them was first introduced it is not easy to determine. Cassian, A. D. 420, says that some Churches kept their Lent six, others seven weeks, yet none exceeded 36 fasting-days; Sundays were deducted; and, in the case of seven weeks, Saturdays also, except one, Easter Eve. He affirms that the observation of Lent was not primitive; the season was thus set apart in order to stimulate devotion and to prepare men for Holy Communion. The 40 days' fasts of Moses, of Elias, and our Lord were cited as examples. Sozomen, c. 440, writes, 'The Quinquagesimal fast before Easter some observe six weeks, as the Illyrians and Western Churches, and all Libya, Egypt, and Palestine; others make it seven weeks, as the Constantinopolitans and neighbouring nations as far as Phœnicia

The Epistle. Rom. xii. 13.

BE not wise in your own conceits. Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men. Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath; for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore, if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

The Gospel. St. Matth. viii. 1.

WHEN he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him. And behold, there came a leper and worshipped him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And Jesus put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed. And Jesus saith unto him, See thou tell no man, but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer the gift that Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them. And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a centurion beseeching him, and saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. And Jesus saith unto him, I will come and heal him. The centurion answered and said, Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof; but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed. For I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me: and I say unto this man, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it. When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no not in Israel. And I say unto you, That many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven. But the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way, and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the self-same hour.

Fourth Sunday after the Epiphany.

The Collect.

O GOD, who knowest us to be set in the midst of so many and great dangers, that by reason of the frailty of our nature we cannot always stand upright; Grant to us such strength and protection, as may support us in all dangers, and carry us through all temptations; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. xiii. 1.

LET every soul be subject unto the higher powers; for there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation. For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same: for he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil. Wherefore ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake. For for this cause pay ye tribute also; for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing. Render therefore to all their dues; tribute to whom tribute is due, custom to whom custom, fear to whom fear, honour to whom honour.

The Gospel. St. Matth. viii. 23.

AND when he was entered into a ship, his disciples followed him. And behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves: but he was asleep. And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us, we perish. And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea, and there was a great calm. But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him! And when he was come to the other side into the country of the Gergesenes, there met him two possessed with devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man might pass by that way. And behold, they cried out, saying, What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time? And there was a good way off from them an herd of many swine, feeding. So the devils besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the herd of swine. And he said unto them, Go. And when they were come out, they went into the herd of swine: and behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters. And they that kept them fled, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing, and what was befallen to the possessed of the devils. And behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus: and when they saw him, they besought him, that he would depart out of their coasts.

Fifth Sunday after the Epiphany.

The Collect.

O LORD, we beseech thee to keep thy Church and household continually in thy true religion; that they who do lean only upon the hope of thy heavenly grace may evermore be defended by thy mighty power; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Coloss. iii. 12.

PUT on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering; forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any; even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye. And above all these things put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body; and be ye thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. And whatsoever ye do, in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xiii. 24.

THE kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field. But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came, and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest; and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

others fast three only of those six or seven weeks by intervals; others the three weeks next immediately before Easter; and others fast only two weeks, as the Montanists.

Five reasons for the Lent fast are given: 1. The Apostles' sorrow for the loss of their Master. 2. The declension of primitive piety. 3. Preparation for Holy Communion at Easter. 4. That catechumens might prepare themselves for baptism; and, 5. penitents for absolution.

In the first three or four centuries much latitude was allowed in the observation of the fast of Lent. Chrysostom recommends it, yet enforces more strongly the necessity of good works and almsgiving. The Council of Orleans, 541, enjoins fasting under pain of ecclesiastical censures.

The ancient mode of observing Lent was to abstain from all food until evening. Distinction of meats was not primitive. The greatest ascetics made no scruple to eat meat in Lent when occasion required it.

It was a season of abstinence from public shows, from the celebration of birthdays and marriages, of frequent religious assemblies and sermons.

¶ Ash-Wednesday and the three days preceding the first Sunday in Lent were probably added by Gregory the Great, to complete the number forty, which seemed peculiarly consecrated as a fasting season. Ash-Wednesday is called Caput Jejunii, or Caput Quadragesimæ; and also Dies Cinerum.

The ceremony used upon it, towards penitents, is thus described by Gratian: 'All penitents who either then were admitted to penance, or had been admitted previously, were presented to the Bishop before the doors of the church, clothed in sackcloth, bare-footed, and with countenances dejected to the earth, confessing themselves guilty both by their habit and their looks. They were to be attended by the deans or arch-presbyters of the parishes and the penitential presbyters, whose office was to inspect their conversation and enjoin them penance according to the measure of their faults by the degrees of penance that were appointed. After this they bring them into the church; and then the Bishop, with all the clergy, falling prostrate on the ground, sings the seven penitential psalms with tears, for their absolution. After this, the Bishop, rising from prayer, gives them imposition of hands, sprinkles them with holy water, puts ashes upon their heads, and then covers their heads with sackcloth; declaring with sighs and groans that, as Adam was cast out of Paradise, so they for their sins are cast out of the Church. Then he commands the inferior ministers to expel them out of the doors of the church, and the clergy follow them, using this responsory, 'In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat thy bread: for dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return.' In the end of Lent, on the Thursday before Easter, the deans and presbyters are to present them before the door of the church again.

The Missal has a form of blessing the ashes which are sprinkled upon the heads of priest, clerks, and people on this day. The ashes are made of the burnt branches blessed in the previous year.

Sixth Sunday after the Epiphany.

The Collect.

O GOD, whose blessed Son was manifested that he might destroy the works of the devil, and make us the sons of God, and heirs of eternal life; Grant us, we beseech thee, that, having this hope, we may purify ourselves, even as he is pure; that, when he shall appear again with power and great glory, we may be made like unto him in his eternal and glorious kingdom; where with thee, O Father, and thee, O Holy Ghost, he liveth and reigneth, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. John iii. 1.

BEHOULD, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not. Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know, that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure. Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law. And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin. Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him. Little children, let no man deceive you; he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous. He that committeth sin is of the devil: for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xxiv. 23.

THEN if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not. For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that (if it were possible) they shall deceive the very elect. Behold, I have told you before. Wherefore, if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth; behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not. For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. For wheresoever the carcass is, there will the eagles be gathered together. Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken. And then shall appear the sign of the Son of Man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory. And he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

THIRD SUNDAY BEFORE LENT.

The Collect.

O LORD, we beseech thee favourably to hear the prayers of thy people; that we, who are justly punished for our offences, may be mercifully delivered by thy goodness, of the glory of thy Name; through Jesus Christ our Saviour, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. ix. 24.

KNOW ye not, that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run that ye may obtain. And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things:

now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown, but we an incorruptible. I therefore so run, not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beatech the air; but I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection, lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xx. 1.

THE kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard. And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard. And he went out about the third hour, and saw others standing idle in the market-place, and said unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way. Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise. And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle? They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive. So when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first. And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they received every man a penny. But when the first came, they supposed that they should have received more; and they likewise received every man a penny. And when they had received it, they murmured against the good-man of the house, saying, These last have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day. But he answered one of them, and said, Friend, I do thee no wrong; didst not thou agree with me for a penny? Take that thine is, and go thy way; I will give unto this last even as unto thee. Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? Is thine eye evil, because I am good? So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many be called, but few chosen.

The Collect.

O LORD God, who seest that we put not our trust in any thing that we do; Mercifully grant that by thy power we may be defended against all adversity; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 2 Cor. xi. 19.

YE suffer fools gladly, seeing ye yourselves are wise. For ye suffer if a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take of you, if a man exalt himself, if a man smite you on the face. I speak as concerning reproach, as though we had been weak: howbeit, whereinsoever any is bold, (I speak foolishly,) I am bold also. Are they Hebrews? so am I. Are they Israelites? so am I. Are they the seed of Abraham? so am I. Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as a fool,) I am more: in labours more abundant; in stripes above measure; in prisons more frequent; in deaths oft. Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one; thrice was I beaten with rods; once was I stoned; thrice I suffered shipwreck; a night and a day I have been in the deep; in journeyings often; in perils of waters; in perils of robbers; in perils by mine own countrymen; in perils by the heathen; in perils in the city; in perils in the wilderness; in perils in the sea; in perils among false brethren; in weariness and painfulness; in watchings often; in hunger and thirst; in fastings often; in cold and nakedness; besides those things that are with-

Introit in 1549, Ps. vi.

The Collect for Ash-Wednesday was composed at the Reformation. Its opening address resembles that in the Sarum Missal: 'Omnipotens sempiterne Deus qui misereris omnium et nihil odisti eorum quæ fecisti dissimulans peccata omnium propter pœnitentiam.'

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss. extended to ver. 19 instead of 17; the Gospel was the same. So in MS. Leofr. and Com. Pam.

The Collect at the commencement of the Mass was 'Præsta Domine fidelibus tuis ut jejuniorum veneranda solemnia et congrua pietate suscipiant et secunda devotione percurrant. Per Dominum.'

Two other Collects, involving Prayer for the Dead and Intercession of Saints, are ordered to be used from Ash-Wednesday to Passion Sunday, i. e. the 5th Sunday in Lent.

out, that which cometh upon me dally, the care of all the churches. Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not? If I must needs glory, I will glory of the things which concern mine infirmities. The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not.

The Gospel. St. Luke viii. 4.

WHEN much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a parable: A sower went out to sow his seed; and as he sowed, some fell by the way-side, and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it. And some fell upon a rock, and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture. And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it. And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit an hundred-fold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. And his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be? And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand. Now the parable is this: The seed is the Word of God. Those by the way-side are they that hear; then cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe, and be saved. They on the rock are they, which, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe, and in time of temptation fall away. And that which fell among thorns, are they, which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares, and riches, and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection. But that on the good ground, are they, which in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience.

OR THE
NEXT SUNDAY BEFORE LENT.

The Collect.

OLORD, who hast taught us that all our doings without charity are nothing worth; Send thy Holy Ghost, and pour into our hearts that most excellent gift of charity, the very bond of peace and of all virtues, without which whosoever liveth is counted dead before thee: Grant this for thine only Son Jesus Christ's sake. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. xiii. 1.

THOUGH I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal. And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing. And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing. Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh not evil, rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man, I put away childish things. For now we see through a glass darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known. And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

The Gospel. St. Luke xviii. 31.

THEN Jesus took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man shall be accomplished. For he shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and they shall scourge him, and put him to death; and the third day he shall rise again. And they understood none of these things: and this saying was hid from them, neither knew they the things which were spoken. And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way-side begging: and hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant. And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by. And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me. And they which went before rebuked him, that he should hold his peace: but he cried so much the more, Thou Son of David, have mercy on me. And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him, saying, What wilt thou that I should do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight. And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight; thy faith hath saved thee. And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God: and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God.

THE FIRST DAY OF LENT,

COMMONLY CALLED

Ash Wednesday.

The Collect.

ALmighty and everlasting God, who hatest nothing that thou hast made, and dost forgive the sins of all them that are penitent; Create and make in us new and contrite hearts, that we worthily lamenting our sins, and acknowledging our wretchedness, may obtain of thee, the God of all mercy, perfect remission and forgiveness; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ This Collect is to be read every day in Lent after the Collect appointed for the Day.

For the Epistle. Joel ii. 12.

TURN ye even to me, saith the Lord, with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning. And rend your heart, and not your garments, and turn unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil. Who knoweth if he will return, and repent, and leave a blessing behind him, even a meat-offering and a drink-offering unto the Lord your God? Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly, gather the people, sanctify the congregation, assemble the elders, gather the children, and those that suck the breasts; let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet; let the priests, the ministers of the Lord, weep between the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should rule over them: wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

The Gospel. St. Matth. vi. 16.

WHEN ye fast, be not as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward. But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thine 1st Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. xxxii. 'Da nobis quæsumus Domine per gratiam Spiritus sancti novam tui Paracliti spiritalis observantiæ disciplinam ut mentes nostræ sacro purgatæ jejunio cunctis reddantur ejus muneribus aptiores. Per Dominum.' Ambros. Miss. 'Deus qui ecclesiam tuam annua quadragesimali observatione purificas: præsta familiæ tuæ ut quod a te obtinere abstinendo nititur hoc bonis operibus exequatur. Per Dominum.' Sar. Miss.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sarum Missal and in the MS. of Leofric and Com. Pam.

The Greek Epistle for the 1st Sunday in Lent is Heb. xi. 24—26, 32—40.

The Gospel is John i. 44—52.

The 1st Sunday is called Orthodoxy Sunday, and is observed in memory of the champions of the true faith, as the Greeks deem their own belief, and the overthrow of the Iconoclasts.

2nd Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix.

'Deus qui conspicias omni nos virtute destitui, interius exteriusque custodi: ut ab omnibus adversitatibus muniamur in corpore et a pravis cogitationibus mudemur in mente. Per Dominum.' Sar. Miss., Sacram. of Greg., MS. Leofr.

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss., in MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam. ended one verse before ours; the Gospel was the same.

The Greek Epistle for the 2nd Sunday is Heb. i. 10—ii. 3.

The Gospel is Mark ii. 1—12.

3rd Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. xliii.

'Quæsumus omnipotens Deus vota humilium respice; atque ad defensionem nostram dexteram tuæ majestatis extende. Per Dominum.' Sar. Miss., MS. of Leofric, Sacram. Greg.

The Sarum Epistle ended with the words, 'fructus enim lucis est in omni bonitate et justitia et veritate.'

The Gospel was the same.

So also in MS. Leofr. and Com. Pam.

The Greek Epistle for the 3rd Sunday is Heb. iv. 14—v. 6.

The Gospel, Mark viii. 34—ix. 1.

FIRST, SECOND, AND THIRD SUNDAYS IN LENT.

head, and wash thy face, that thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly. Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

The First Sunday in Lent.

The Collect.

O LORD, who for our sake didst fast forty days and forty nights; Give us grace to use such abstinence, that, our flesh being subdued to the Spirit, we may ever obey thy godly motions in righteousness, and true holiness, to thy honour and glory, who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. 2 Cor. vi. 1.

WE then, as workers together with him, beseech you also, that ye receive not the grace of God in vain; (for he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation;) giving no offence in any thing, that the ministry be not blamed; but in all things approving ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses, in stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings; by pureness, by knowledge, by long-suffering, by kindness, by the Holy Ghost, by love unfeigned, by the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left, by honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report; as deceivers, and yet true; as unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and behold, we live; as chastened, and not killed; as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

The Gospel. St. Matth. iv. 1.

THEN was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness, to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an-hungred. And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Then the devil taketh him up into the holy city, and setteth him on a pinnacle of the temple, and saith unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down; for it is written, He shall give his angels charge concerning thee, and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone. Jesus said unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; and saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan; for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Then the devil leaveth him, and behold, angels came and ministered unto him.

The Second Sunday in Lent.

The Collect.

ALmighty God, who seest that we have no power of ourselves to help ourselves; Keep us both outwardly in our bodies, and inwardly in our souls; that we may be defended from all adversities which may happen to the body, and from all evil thoughts which may assault and hurt the soul; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Thess. iv. 1.

WE beseech you, brethren, and exhort you by the Lord Jesus, that as ye have received of us how ye ought to walk, and to please God, so ye would abound more and more. For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus. For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication; that every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour; not in the lust of concupiscence, even as the Gentiles which know not God; that no man go beyond and defraud his brother in any matter; because that the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we also have forewarned you, and testified. For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness. He therefore that despiseth despiseth not man, but God, who hath also given unto us his Holy Spirit.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xv. 21.

JESUS went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon. And behold, a woman of Canaan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou Son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil. But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us. But he answered and said, I am not sent, but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel. Then came she and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me. But he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs. And she said, Truth, Lord; yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their master's table. Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour.

The Third Sunday in Lent.

The Collect.

WE beseech thee, Almighty God, look upon the hearty desires of thy humble servants, and stretch forth the right hand of thy Majesty, to be our defence against all our enemies; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. v. 1.

BE ye therefore followers of Christ, as dear children; and walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet-smelling savour. But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not be once named amongst you, as becometh saints; neither filthiness, nor foolish-talking, nor jesting, which are not convenient; but rather giving of thanks: for this ye know, that no whore-monger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ, and of God. Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience. Be not ye therefore partakers with them: for ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of light; (for the fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth;) proving what is acceptable unto the Lord. And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them: for it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret. But all things that are reprov'd are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light. Wherefore he saith, Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light.

The 4th Sunday in Lent is commonly called Mid-Lent Sunday; it is also termed the Sunday of Refreshment, probably because the Gospel relates to the miracle of feeding the 5000.

Introit in 1549, Ps. xlvi.

'Concede quæsumus omnipotens Deus ut qui ex merito nostræ actionis affligimur, tuæ gratiæ consolatione respiremus. Per Dominum.' Miss. Sar., MS. Leofr., Sacram. of Gregory.

The Sarum Epistle began ver. 22, and ended in the middle of ver. 1 of c. v.

The Gospel was the same.

So also in MS. Leofr. and Com. Pam. the Gospel is appointed on the Sunday next before Advent; it then begins v. 5.

The Greek Epistle for the 4th Sunday in Lent is Heb. vi. 13—20.

The Gospel is Mark ix. 17—31.

The 5th Sunday in Lent was called the Sunday of the Passion, because of the especial attention drawn on it to our Lord's Passion. The Epistle speaks of his sacrifice for sinners, the Gospel of his endurance of the contradiction of sinners against himself.

Introit in 1549, Ps. liv.

'Quæsumus omnipotens Deus familiam tuam propitius respice; ut te largiente regatur in corpore, et te servante custodiatur in mente. Per Dominum.' Sar. Miss., MS. Leofr., Sacram. Greg.

The Epistle and Gospel were the same as in Sar. Miss., MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam.

The Greek Epistle for the 5th Sunday is Heb. ix. 11—14.

The Gospel is Mark x. 32—45.

FOURTH AND FIFTH SUNDAYS IN LENT.

The Gospel. St. Luke xi. 14.

JESUS was casting out a devil, and it was dumb. And it came to pass, when the devil was gone out, the dumb spake; and the people wondered. But some of them said, He casteth out devils through Beelzebub, the chief of the devils. And others, tempting him, sought of him a sign from heaven. But he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and a house divided against a house falleth. If Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say, that I cast out devils through Beelzebub. And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your sons cast them out? therefore shall they be your judges. But if I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you. When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace; but when a stronger than he shall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils. He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth. When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he saith, I will return unto my house whence I came out. And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in, and dwell there; and the last state of that man is worse than the first. And it came to pass, as he spake these things, a certain woman of the company lift up her voice, and said unto him, Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked. But he said, Yea rather, blessed are they that hear the Word of God, and keep it.

The Fourth Sunday in Lent.

The Collect.

GRANT, we beseech thee, Almighty God, that we, who for our evil deeds do worthily deserve to be punished, by the comfort of thy grace may mercifully be relieved; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Epistle. Gal. iv. 21.

TELL me, ye that desire to be under the law, do ye not hear the law? For it is written, that Abraham had two sons, the one by a bond-maid, the other by a free-woman. But he who was of the bond-woman was born after the flesh; but he of the free-woman was by promise. Which things are an allegory: for these are the two covenants; the one from the mount Sinai, which gendereth to bondage, which is Agar. For this Agar is mount Sinai in Arabia, and answereth to Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her children. But Jerusalem which is above is free; which is the mother of us all. For it is written, Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for the desolate hath many more children than she which hath an husband. Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of promise. But as then he that was born after the flesh persecuted him that was born after the Spirit; even so it is now. Nevertheless, what saith the Scripture? Cast out the bond-woman and her son; for the son of the bond-woman shall not be heir with the son of the free-woman. So then, brethren, we are not children of the bond-woman, but of the free.

The Gospel. St. John vi. 1.

JESUS went over the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias. And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles which he did on them that were diseased. And Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples. And the Passover, a feast of the Jews, was nigh. When Jesus then lift up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Phillip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat? (And this he said to prove him; for he himself knew what he would do.) Phillip answered him, Two hundred penny-worth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little. One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him, There is a lad here, which hath five barley-loaves, and two small fishes; but what are they among so many? And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand. And Jesus took the loaves, and when he had given thanks he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; and likewise of the fishes as much as they would. When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost. Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley-loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten. Then those men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth that Prophet that should come into the world.

The Fifth Sunday in Lent.

The Collect.

WE beseech thee, Almighty God, mercifully to look upon thy people; that by thy great goodness they may be governed and preserved evermore, both in body and soul; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Hebr. ix. 11.

CHRISt being come an High Priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands; that is to say, not of this building; neither by the blood of goats and calves; but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. For if the blood of bulls and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh; how much more shall the blood of Christ, who, through the eternal Spirit, offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God? And for this cause he is the Mediator of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

The Gospel. St. John viii. 46.

JESUS said, Which of you convinceth me of sin? and if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me? He that is of God heareth God's words; ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well, that thou art a Samaritan, and hast a devil? Jesus answered, I have not a devil; but I honour my Father, and ye do dishonour me. And I seek not mine own glory; there is one that seeketh and judgeth. Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death. Then said the Jews unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil: Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death. Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself? Jesus answered, If I honour myself, my honour is nothing; it is my Father that honoureth me, of whom ye say, that he is your God: ye yet have not known him; but I know him: and if I should say, I know him not, I shall be a liar like unto you; but I know him, and keep his saying. Your

¶ The last week in Lent has long been observed with peculiar solemnity. Chrysostom calls it the great week, because of the great things done for man in it. It was a time of vacation for law courts, of suspension of executions, of release of prisoners, of relaxation to servants. It was not uncommon to pass the whole week in total abstinence from food; others ate only dry meats (ξηροφαγίαν), bread, salt, water. Those who could not fast continuously six days, fasted two, three, four, or five, as the case allowed. More liberal alms were given in this week. The names Passion Week and Holy Week served also to designate its character. The Ambrosial Missal terms it Hebdomada Authentica.

¶ In the Greek and Roman Churches the Sunday before Easter is called Palm Sunday; the term does not occur in our Prayer-book, nor is reference made to it in the Proper Lessons, the Epistle, or Gospel.

Introit in 1549, Ps. lxi.

'Omnipotens sempiterne Deus, qui humano generi ad invitandum humilitatis exemplum Salvatorem nostrum carnem sumere et crucem subire fecisti: concede propitius, ut et patientiæ ipsius habere documenta et resurrectionis consortia habere mereamur. Per eundem Christum Dominum.' Sar. Miss., and Sacram. of Greg., MS. Leofr.

The Epistle in Sar. Miss., also in MS. of Leofric and Com. Pam., is the same.

The Gospel is Matt. xxvi. 2 to Matt. xxvii. 61.

In the Roman Church branches of palms and of olives are solemnly blessed and distributed to priests, clerks, and people. Exod. xv. 27—xvi. 7 and Matt. xxi. 1—9 are read. Several Collects are used, the last of which is, 'Benedic quæsumus Domine hos palmarum sive olivarum ramos et præsta ut quod populus tuus in tua veneratione hodierna die corporaliter agit hoc spiritualiter summa devotione perficiat, de hoste victoriam reportando et opus misericordiæ summopere diligendo. Per Christum Dominum.'

A procession is formed of bearers of palm-branches, and Anthems sung.

On the previous Saturday John xii. 10—36 is read as the Gospel.

In the Greek Church the Saturday before Palm Sunday is called the Sabbath of the Holy and Just Lazarus. The Gospel is John xi. 1—45.

The Greeks have also a Benediction of Palms. The Collect is as follows: 'O Lord our God, who sittest upon the cherubim, who didst stir up thy power and send thine only-begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, to save the world by his cross, his burial, and resurrection; at whose coming into Jerusalem for his voluntary sacrifice, the people that sat in darkness and the shadow of death took branches of palms, the emblems of victory, foreshowing thereby the resurrection; do thou, O Lord, preserve us who, in imitation of them, bear on this pre-festal day boughs and branches of trees in our hands; and even as those multitudes and the children offered their Hosanna to thee, so guard thou us that we, in our hymns and spiritual songs, may be deemed worthy of the life-giving resurrection of Christ our Lord after his three days' sojourn in the grave, with whom and the all-holy life-giving Spirit thou art blessed now, evermore, and to all eternity. Amen.'

Three Antiphons from Psalms cxvi. and cxviii. are appointed.

The Epistle is Phil. iv. 4—9.

The Gospel for the morning is Matt. xxi. 1—17; for the Liturgy is John xii. 1—18.

father Abraham rejoiced to see my day, and he saw it, and was glad. Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old; and hast thou seen Abraham? Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am. Then took they up stones to cast at him: but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple.

The Sunday next before Easter.

The Collect.

ALmighty and everlasting God, who, of thy tender love towards mankind, hast sent thy Son, our Saviour Jesus Christ, to take upon him our flesh, and to suffer death upon the cross, that all mankind should follow the example of his great humility; Mercifully grant, that we may both follow the example of his patience, and also be made partakers of his resurrection; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Philip. ii. 5.

LET this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God; but made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a Name which is above every name; that at the Name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xxvii. 1.

WHEN the morning was come, all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus, to put him to death. And when they had bound him, they led him away, and delivered him to Pontius Pilate the governor. Then Judas who had betrayed him, when he saw that he was condemned, repented himself, and brought again the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, saying, I have sinned, in that I have betrayed the innocent blood. And they said, What is that to us? see thou to that. And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, and departed, and went and hanged himself. And the chief priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawful for to put them into the treasury, because it is the price of blood. And they took counsel, and bought with them the potter's field, to bury strangers in. Wherefore that field was called, The field of blood, unto this day. (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremy the prophet, saying, And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel did value, and gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.) And Jesus stood before the governor; and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, Thou sayest. And when he was accused of the chief priests and elders, he answered nothing. Then saith Pilate unto him, Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee? And he answered him to never a word, inasmuch that the governor marvelled greatly. Now at that feast the governor was wont to release unto the people a prisoner, whom they would. And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas. Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ? For he knew that for envy they had delivered him. When he was set down on the judgement-seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man: for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him. But the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitude that they should ask Barabbas, and destroy Jesus. The governor answered and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I release unto you? They said, Barabbas. Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified. And the governor said, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out the more, saying, Let him be crucified. When Pilate saw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, he took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it. Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on us, and on our children. Then released he Barabbas unto them: and when he had scourged Jesus he delivered him to be crucified. Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the common hall, and gathered unto him the whole band of soldiers. And they stripped him, and put on him a scarlet robe. And when they had platted a crown of thorns they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand; and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews. And they spit upon him, and took the reed, and smote him on the head. And after that they had mocked him they took the robe off from him, and put his own raiment on him, and led him away to crucify him. And as they came out they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name; him they compelled to bear his cross. And when they were come unto a place called Golgotha, that is to say, a place of a skull, they gave him vinegar to drink mingled with gall: and when he had tasted thereof, he would not drink. And they crucified him, and parted his garments, casting lots: that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet, They parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots. And sitting down they watched him there; and set up over his head his accusation written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS. Then were there two thieves crucified with him; one on the right hand, and another on the left. And they that passed by reviled him, wagging their heads, and saying, Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself; if thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross. Likewise also the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders, said, He saved others, himself he cannot save: if he be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will believe him. He trusted in God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God. The thieves also, which were crucified with him, cast the same in his teeth. Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour. And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, EH, EH, lama sabachthani? that is to say, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? Some of them that stood there, when they heard that, said, This man calleth for Elias. And straightway one of them ran, and took a sponge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink. The rest said, Let be, let us see whether Elias will come to save him. Jesus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost. And behold, the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom, and the earth did quake, and the rocks rent, and the graves were opened, and many bodies of saints which slept arose, and came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many. Now when the centurion, and they that were with him, watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.

The portion for the Epistle of this day in Sar. Miss. is Is. l. 5—10. In the Sarum Epistle for Wednesday of this week, Is. lxii. 11—lxiii. 7, our Monday Epistle is included.

The Gospel on the Tuesday is Mark xiv. 1—xv. 41; on the Monday no Gospel is appointed. The Sar. Missal has a special Collect for this day: 'Da quæsumus omnipotens Deus ut qui in tot adversis ex nostra infirmitate deficiamus intercedente unigeniti filii tui passione respiremus. Per Dominum.'

In the Greek Church the Gospel for the morning is Matt. xxi. 18—41; at the Liturgy, Matt. xxiv. 3—37.

Monday before Easter.

For the Epistle. Isai. lxiil. 1.

WHO is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah? this that is glorious in his apparel, travelling in the greatness of his strength? I that speak in righteousness, mighty to save. Wherefore art thou red in thine apparel, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine-fat? I have trodden the wine-press alone, and of the people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and trample them in my fury, and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments, and I will stain all my raiment. For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come. And I looked, and there was none to help; and I wondered that there was none to uphold: therefore mine own arm brought salvation unto me, and my fury it upheld me. And I will tread down the people in mine anger, and make them drunk in my fury, and I will bring down their strength to the earth. I will mention the loving-kindnesses of the Lord, and the praises of the Lord, according to all that the Lord hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness towards the house of Israel, which he hath bestowed on them, according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his loving-kindnesses. For he said, Surely they are my people, children that will not lie: so he was their Saviour. In all their affliction he was afflicted, and the angel of his presence saved them: in his love, and in his pity, he redeemed them, and he bare them, and carried them all the days of old. But they rebelled, and vexed his Holy Spirit: therefore he was turned to be their enemy, and he fought against them. Then he remembered the days of old, Moses and his people, saying, Where is he that brought them up out of the sea with the shepherd of his flock? where is he that put his Holy Spirit within him? that led them by the right hand of Moses, with his glorious arm, dividing the water before them, to make himself an everlasting Name? that led them through the deep as an horse in the wilderness, that they should not stumble? As a beast goeth down into the valley, the Spirit of the Lord caused him to rest: so didst thou lead thy people, to make thyself a glorious Name. Look down from heaven, and behold from the habitation of thy holiness, and of thy glory: where is thy zeal, and thy strength, the sounding of thy bowels, and of thy mercies towards me? Are they restrained? Doubtless thou art our Father, though Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel acknowledge us not: Thou, O Lord, art our Father, our Redeemer, thy Name is from everlasting. O Lord, why hast thou made us to err from thy ways? and hardened our heart from thy fear? Return for thy servants' sake, the tribes of thine inheritance. The people of thy holiness have possessed it but a little while: our adversaries have trodden down thy sanctuary. We are thine: thou never barest rule over them; they were not called by thy Name.

The Gospel. St. Mark xlv. 1.

AFTER two days was the feast of the Passover, and of unleavened bread: and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death. But they said, Not on the feast-day, lest there be an uproar of the people. And being in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of spikenard, very precious; and she brake the box, and poured it on his head. And there were some that had indignation within themselves, and said, Why was this waste of the ointment made? for it might have been sold for more than three hundred pence, and have been given to the poor: and they murmured against her. And Jesus said, Let her alone; why trouble ye her? she hath wrought a good work on me: for ye have the poor with you always, and whosoever ye will ye may do them good; but me ye have not always. She hath done what she could; she is come aforehand to anoint my body to the burying. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever this Gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her. And Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went unto the chief priests to betray him unto them. And when they heard it they were glad, and promised to give him money. And he sought how he might conveniently betray him. And the first day of unleavened bread, when they killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou mayest eat the passover? And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water; follow him: And whosoever he shall go in, say ye to the good-man of the house, The Master saith, Where is the guest-chamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples? And he will shew you a large upper-room furnished, and prepared: there make ready for us. And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover. And in the evening he cometh with the twelve. And as they sat, and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me. And they began to be sorrowful, and to say unto him one by one, Is it I? and another said, Is it I? And he answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve that dipbeth with me in the dish. The Son of Man indeed goeth, as it is written of him: but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed: good were it for that man if he had never been born. And as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body. And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks he gave it to them: and they all drank of it. And he said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many. Verily I say unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day that I drink it new in the Kingdom of God. And when they had sung an hymn they went out into the mount of Olives. And Jesus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered. But, after that I am risen, I will go before you into Galilee. But Peter said unto him, Although all shall be offended, yet will not I. And Jesus saith unto him, Verily I say unto thee, That this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. But he spake the more vehemently, If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee in any wise. Likewise also said they all. And they came to a place which was named Gethsemane: and he saith to his disciples, Sit ye here, while I shall pray. And he taketh with him Peter, and James, and John, and began to be sore amazed, and to be very heavy, and saith unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death; tarry ye here, and watch. And he went forward a little, and fell on the ground, and prayed, that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him. And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee; take away this cup from me; nevertheless, not what I will, but what thou wilt. And he cometh and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldst not thou watch one hour? Watch ye and pray, lest ye enter into temptation: the spirit truly is ready, but the flesh is weak. And again he went away,

In the Sar. Miss. the portion for the Epistle is Jer. xi. 18—20.

The Gospel in Sar. Miss., MS. Leofr., Com. Pam. is Mark xiv. 1—xv. 41.

The special Collect in the Sar. Miss. is, 'Omnipotens sempiternus Deus: da nobis ita Dominicæ passionis sacramenta peragere ut indulgentiam percipere mereamur. Per eundem Dominum.'

In the Greek Church the Gospel for the morning is Matt. xxii. 15—xxiii. 39. at the Liturgy, Matt. xxiv. 36—xxvi. 2.

and prayed, and spake the same words. And when he returned he found them asleep again, (for their eyes were heavy,) neither wist they what to answer him. And he cometh the third time, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: it is enough, the hour is come; behold, the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise up, let us go; lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand. And immediately, while he yet spake, cometh Judas, one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders. And he that betrayed him had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he; take him, and lead him away safely. And as soon as he was come he goeth straightway to him, and saith, Master, master; and kissed him. And they laid their hands on him, and took him. And one of them that stood by drew a sword, and smote a servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear. And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Are ye come out as against a thief, with swords and with staves, to take me? I was dally with you in the temple teaching, and ye took me not; but the Scriptures must be fulfilled. And they all forsook him, and fled. And there followed him a certain young man, having a linen cloth cast about his naked body; and the young men laid hold on him: and he left the linen cloth, and fled from them naked. And they led Jesus away to the high priest: and with him were assembled all the chief priests, and the elders, and the scribes. And Peter followed him afar off, even into the palace of the high priest; and he sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire. And the chief priests and all the council sought for witness against Jesus to put him to death; and found none. For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together. And there arose certain, and bare false witness against him, saying, We heard him say, I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and within three days I will build another made without hands. But neither so did their witness agree together. And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee? But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed? And Jesus said, I am; and ye shall see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven. Then the high priest rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses? ye have heard the blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death. And some began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, Prophecy: and the servants did strike him with the palms of their hands. And as Peter was beneath in the palace there cometh one of the maids of the high priest; and when she saw Peter warming himself she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth. But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew. And a maid saw him again, and began to say to them that stood by, This is one of them. And he denied it again. And a little after, they that stood by said again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them; for thou art a Galilæan, and thy speech agreeth thereto. But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak. And the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crew twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And when he thought thereon, he wept.

For the Epistle. Isai. l. 5.

THE Lord God hath opened mine ear, and I was not rebellious, neither turned away back. I gave my back to the smiters, and my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair: I hid not my face from shame and spitting. For the Lord God will help me, therefore shall I not be confounded: therefore have I set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be ashamed. He is near that justifieth me; who will contend with me? Let us stand together; who is mine adversary? let him come near to me. Behold, the Lord God will help me; who is he that shall condemn me? Lo, they all shall wax old as a garment; the moth shall eat them up. Who is among you that feareth the Lord, that obeyeth the voice of his servant, that walketh in darkness, and hath no light? let him trust in the Name of the Lord, and stay upon his God. Behold, all ye that kindle a fire, that compass yourselves about with sparks; walk in the light of your fire, and in the sparks that ye have kindled. This shall ye have of mine hand, ye shall lie down in sorrow.

The Gospel. St. Mark xv. 1.

AND straightway in the morning the chief priests held a consultation with the elders, and scribes, and the whole council, and bound Jesus, and carried him away, and delivered him to Pilate. And Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answering said unto him, Thou sayest it. And the chief priests accused him of many things: but he answered nothing. And Pilate asked him again, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee. But Jesus yet answered nothing: so that Pilate marvelled. Now at that feast he released unto them one prisoner, whomsoever they desired. And there was one named Barabbas, which lay bound with them that had made insurrection with him, who had committed murder in the insurrection. And the multitude, crying aloud, began to desire him to do as he had ever done unto them. But Pilate answered them, saying, Will ye that I release unto you the King of the Jews? For he knew that the chief priests had delivered him for envy. But the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release Barabbas unto them. And Pilate answered, and said again unto them, What will ye then that I shall do unto him whom ye call the King of the Jews? And they cried out again, Crucify him. Then Pilate said unto them, Why, what evil hath he done? And they cried out the more exceedingly, Crucify him. And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified. And the soldiers led him away into the hall, called Prætorium; and they called together the whole band. And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head: and began to salute him, Hail, King of the Jews. And they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him. And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him. And they compel one Simon a Cyrenian, who passed by, coming out of the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to bear his cross. And they bring him unto the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, The place of a skull. And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh; but he received it not. And when they had crucified him they parted his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take. And it was the

The Gospel, which is the same in MS. Leofr. and Com. Pam., is Luke xxii. 1—xxiii. 49.

The Sarum Missal has two Collects: 'Præsta quæsumus omnipotens Deus ut qui pro nostris excessibus incessanter affligimur, per unigeniti tui passionem liberemur. Qui tecum vivit et regnat in unitate spiritus sancti Deus.' 'Deus qui pro nobis filium tuum crucis patibulum subire voluisti ut inimici a nobis expereres potestatem: concede nobis famulatus ut resurrectionis gratiam consequamur. Per eundem Dominum.'

third hour, and they crucified him. And the superscription of his accusation was written over, THE KING OF THE JEWS. And with him they crucify two thieves, the one on his right hand, and the other on his left. And the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, And he was numbered with the transgressors. And they that passed by rallied on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Ah, thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself, and come down from the cross. Likewise also the chief priests mocking said among themselves, with the scribes, He saved others; himself he cannot save. Let Christ the King of Israel descend now from the cross, that we may see and believe. And they that were crucified with him reviled him. And when the sixth hour was come, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour. And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani which is, being interpreted, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias. And one ran and filled a sponge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink, saying, Let alone; let us see whether Elias will come to take him down. And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost. And the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom. And when the centurion, which stood over against him, saw that he so cried out, and gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God.

The Epistle. Hebr. ix. 16.

WHERE a testament is, there must also of necessity be the death of the testator: for a testament is of force after men are dead; otherwise it is of no strength at all whilst the testator liveth. Whereupon, neither the first testament was dedicated without blood: for when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people, according to the law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, with water, and scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people, saying, This is the blood of the testament, which God hath enjoined unto you. Moreover, he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry. And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission. It was therefore necessary that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these. For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us; nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood of others: for then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world; but now once in the end of the world hath he appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgement: so Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation.

The Gospel. St. Luke xxii. 1.

NOW the feast of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the Passover. And the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people. Then entered Satan into Judas surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve. And he went his way, and communed with the chief priests and captains, how he might betray him unto them. And they were glad, and covenanted to give him money. And he promised, and sought opportunity to betray him unto them in the absence of the multitude. Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed. And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat. And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare? And he said unto them, Behold, when ye are entered into the city, there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water; follow him into the house where he entereth in. And ye shall say unto the good-man of the house, The Master saith unto thee, Where is the guest-chamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples? And he shall shew you a large upper room furnished; there make ready. And they went, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover. And when the hour was come he sat down, and the twelve Apostles with him. And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer: for I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the Kingdom of God. And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves. For I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the Kingdom of God shall come. And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body, which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me. Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you. But behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table. And truly the Son of Man goeth as it was determined; but woe unto that man by whom he is betrayed. And they began to inquire among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing. And there was also a strife among them, which of them should be accounted the greatest. And he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them, and they that exercise authority upon them are called benefactors. But ye shall not be so: but he that is greatest among you, let him be as the younger; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve. For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? is not he that sitteth at meat? but I am among you as he that serveth. Ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations. And I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me; that ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren. And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee both into prison and to death. And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me. And he said unto them, When I sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing. Then said he unto them, But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise his scrip: and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one. For I say unto you, That this that is written must yet be accomplished in me, And he was reckoned among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end. And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough. And he came out, and went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives, and his disciples also followed him. And when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray, that ye enter not into temp-

¶ The Thursday in Passion Week, or the Great Week, was wont to be observed with even greater solemnity than the preceding days. In many cases the Holy Communion was celebrated twice on this day, once in the morning, once in the evening. It was permitted to eat food with less scruple than on other days of the week. Catechumens who had been preparing for baptism at Easter were wont to bathe on this day, that they might be clean in body at the time of their baptism on Easter-eve, and, not being able to bear both fasting and bathing, ate food. It was customary for them also to recite the Creed publicly. Before the time of Timotheus, Patriarch of Constantinople A. D. 511, this was the only public recitation of the Creed in Divine Service.

The ceremony of Washing of Feet, after our Lord's example, is still observed both in the Greek and Latin Church.

The term Maundy Thursday is said to be derived from Dies Mandati, either because Jesus washed the Apostles' feet and commanded them to do likewise, or because he commanded his Apostles to observe the institution of the Lord's Supper.

On this day the Queen's Maundy is distributed in the Royal Chapel, Whitehall. The Office for its distribution is Exhortation, Confession, Absolution, &c. Ps. xli. First Lesson: Matt. xxv. 14—30. First anthem, distribution of clothing; second anthem, distribution of woollen and linen cloth; third anthem, distribution of money. Second Lesson: Matt. xxv. 31, to the end. Fourth anthem; two Prayers composed for the occasion; the Prayer for the Queen; and so on to the end.

On this day penitents were reconciled. More novel practices of the Roman Church are: the consecration of the Chrism for the following year; the præ-sanctificatio, or consecration, of the Host for Good Friday; the extinction of all the tapers and removal of the ornaments from the altar; the communion of the priests and the excommunication of all heretics.

The Sarum Epistle, found also in the MS. of Leofric and Com. Pam., is 1 Cor. xi. 20—32. The Gospel, John xiii. 1—15.

The special Collect in the Sarum Missal is, 'Deus a quo et Judas reatus sui poenam et confessionis suæ latio præmium sumpsit: concede nobis tuæ propitiationis effectum: ut, sicut in passione sua Jesus Christus Dominus noster diversa utrisque intulit stipendia meritorum, ita nobis ablato vetustatis errore resurrectionis suæ gratiam largiatur. Qui tecum vivit et regnat in unitate spiritus sancti Deus. Per omnia secula.'

The Collect at the Washing of Feet in the Roman Church is, 'Adesto Domine quæsumus officio servitutis nostræ: et quia tu discipulis tuis pedes lavare dignatus es, ne despicias opera manuum tuarum quæ nobis retinenda mandasti ut sicut hic nobis et a nobis exteriora abluantur inquinamenta: sic a te omnium nostrum interiora laventur peccata. Quod ipse præstare digneris qui vivis et regnas Deus per omnia sæcula sæculorum.'

The Epistle in the Greek Church is 1 Cor. xi. 23—32.

The Gospel for the morning is Luke xxii. 1—39; at the Liturgy, Matt. xxv. 2—xxvii. 2.

For the Washing of Feet two Gospels are appointed: the first, John xiii. 1—11; the second, John xiii. 12—17.

tation. And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down and prayed, saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done. And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him. And being in an agony, he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground. And when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow, and said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation. And while he yet spake, behold, a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him. But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of Man with a kiss? When they who were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword? And one of them smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear. And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. And he touched his ear, and healed him. Then Jesus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders who were come to him, Be ye come out as against a thief, with swords and staves? When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: but this is your hour, and the power of darkness. Then took they him, and led him, and brought him into the high priest's house: and Peter followed afar off. And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter sat down among them. But a certain maid beheld him, as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him. And he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not. And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not. And about the space of one hour after, another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him; for he is a Galilean. And Peter said, Man I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew. And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter; and Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, Before the cock crew, thou shalt deny me thrice. And Peter went out, and wept bitterly. And the men that held Jesus mocked him, and smote him. And when they had blindfolded him, they struck him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophecy, who is it that smote thee? And many other things blasphemously spake they against him. And as soon as it was day, the elders of the people, and the chief priests, and the scribes, came together, and led him into their council, saying, Art thou the Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe: and if I also ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go. Hereafter shall the Son of Man sit on the right hand of the power of God. Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said unto them, Ye say that I am. And they said, What need we any further witness? for we ourselves have heard of his own mouth.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. xi. 17.

IN this that I declare unto you, I praise you not; that ye come together not for the better, but for the worse. For first of all, when ye come together in the church, I hear that there be divisions among you, and I partly believe it. For there must be also heresies among you, that they who are approved may be made manifest among you. When ye come together therefore into one place, this is not to eat the Lord's supper: for in eating every one taketh before other his own supper; and one is hungry, and another is drunken. What, have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? or despise ye the church of God, and shame them that have not? What shall I say to you? shall I praise you in this? I praise you not. For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, That the Lord Jesus, the same night in which he was betrayed, took bread; and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat; this is my body, which is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come. Wherefore, whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord. But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body. For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep. For if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged. But when we are judged, we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world. Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, tarry one for another. And if any man hunger, let him eat at home; that ye come not together unto condemnation. And the rest will I set in order when I come.

The Gospel. St. Luke xxiii. 1.

THE whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate. And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow perverting the nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Cæsar, saying, That he himself is Christ a King. And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answered him, and said, Thou sayest it. Then said Pilate to the chief priests, and to the people, I find no fault in this man. And they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from Galilee to this place. When Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilean. And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself was also at Jerusalem at that time. And when Herod saw Jesus he was exceeding glad; for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him; and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him. Then he questioned with him in many words; but he answered him nothing. And the chief priests and scribes stood and vehemently accused him. And Herod with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate. And the same day Pilate and Herod were made friends together; for before they were at enmity between themselves. And Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests, and the rulers, and the people, said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and behold, I, having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him: No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him; and lo, nothing worthy of death is done unto him. I will therefore chastise him, and release him. For of necessity he must release one unto them at the feast. And they cried out all at once, saying, Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas: (who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for murder, was cast into prison.) Pilate therefore, willing to release Jesus,

¶ The term Good Friday is peculiar to the English Church. The Great and Holy Parasceve is the Greek name for it. Long Friday it was called by the Saxons; it is termed also the Pasch of the Cross.

It has from the earliest ages been observed with the strictest abstinence and humiliation. In memorial of the Atonement on the Cross a general absolution was proclaimed to all who were truly penitent. Friday and Saturday were religiously observed, even by those who kept no other Lent, as being the days on which the Bridegroom was taken from them. Eusebius states that the day had been observed long before his time with watching and fasting; Constantine ordered a general cessation of labour upon it.

In 1549 the 1st Collect was ordered at Matins; the 2nd and 3rd were appointed with the two Collects at the Communion.

Introit in 1549, Ps. xxii.

‘Respice Domine quæsumus super hanc familiam tuam pro qua Dominus noster Jesus Christus non dubitavit manibus tradi nocentium et crucis subire tormentum. Qui tecum vivit.’ Sar. Miss., Sacrament. of Greg., MS. of Leofr., Goth. Miss., Gallican Missal.

‘Omnipotens sempiterne Deus cujus spiritu totum corpus ecclesiæ sanctificatur et regitur; exaudi nos pro universis ordinibus supplicantes: ut gratiæ tuæ munere ab omnibus tibi gradibus fideliter serviatur. Per.’ Sar. Miss., Sacramentaries of Gelasius and Gregory, MS. of Leofric, Gallican Missal.

‘Omnipotens sempiterne Deus qui salvas omnes homines et neminem vis perire: respice ad animas diabolica fraude deceptas ut omni hæretica pravitate deposita errantium corda respiscant et ad veritatis tuæ redeant unitatem. Per.’ Sar. Miss., Sacrament. of Greg., MS. of Leofric, Gallican Missal.

‘Omnipotens sempiterne Deus qui etiam Judaicam perfidiam a tua misericordia non repellis; exaudi preces nostras quas pro illius populi obcæcatione deferimus ut agnita veritatis tuæ luce, quæ Christus est, a suis tenebris eruatur. Per eundem Dominum.’ Sar. Miss., Sacramentaries of Gelasius and Gregory, Gallican Missal, MS. of Leofric.

‘Omnipotens sempiterne Deus qui non vis mortem peccatorum sed vitam semper inquiris; suscipe propitius orationem nostram; et libera eos (paganos) ab idolorum cultura; et aggrega ecclesiæ tuæ sanctæ ad laudem et gloriam nominis tui. Per Dominum.’ Sar. Miss., Sacrament. of Gelas. and Greg., MS. of Leofr., Gallican Missal.

In the Sarum Missal Hosea vi. 1—6 and Ex. xii. 1—11 are appointed to be read. The Gospel is John xviii. xix.

In the Roman Church there is a succession of Collects for the Church and the State and their respective rulers; for those who are troubled and distressed; for heretics, schismatics, Jews and Infidels. A service is added for the Adoration of the Cross in the Roman Church; the Priest first adores this himself on bended knee, and then presents it for the adoration of the people, who likewise adore it. The Priest receives the Host, which has been consecrated on the preceding day.

In the Greek Church the following Epistles are appointed:

For 1st hour, Gal. vi. 14—18.

3rd hour, Rom. v. 6—10.

6th hour, Heb. ii. 11—18.

9th hour, Heb. x. 19—31.

Vespers, 1 Cor. i. 18—ii. 2.

The Greek Gospels for Good Friday are:

For 1st hour, Matt. xxvii. 1—56.

3rd hour, Mar. xv. 16—41.

6th hour, Luke xxiii. 32—49.

9th hour, John xix. 23—37.

Vespers, Matth. xxvii. 1—56.

GOOD FRIDAY.

spake again to them. But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him. And he said unto them the third time, Why, what evil hath he done? I have found no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him go. And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified: and the voices of them and of the chief priests prevailed. And Pilate gave sentence that it should be as they required. And he released unto them him that for sedition and murder was cast into prison, whom they had desired; but he delivered Jesus to their will. And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus. And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him. But Jesus, turning unto them, said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children. For behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck. Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us. For if they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry? And there were also two other, malefactors, led with him to be put to death. And when they were come to the place which is called Calvary, there they crucified him; and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do. And they parted his raiment, and cast lots. And the people stood beholding; and the rulers also with them derided him, saying, He saved others; let him save himself, if he be Christ, the chosen of God. And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, and saying, If thou be the King of the Jews, save thyself. And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS. And one of the malefactors, which were hanged, railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself, and us. But the other answering rebuked him, saying, Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds, but this man hath done nothing amiss. And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom. And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To-day shalt thou be with me in paradise. And it was about the sixth hour: and there was a darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour. And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said thus, he gave up the ghost. Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a righteous man. And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things that were done, smote their breasts, and returned. And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee, stood afar off, beholding these things.

Good Friday.

The Collects.

ALMIGHTY God, we beseech thee graciously to behold this thy family, for which our Lord Jesus Christ was contented to be betrayed, and given up into the hands of wicked men, and to suffer death upon the cross, who now liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, by whose Spirit the whole body of the Church is governed and sanctified; Receive our supplications and prayers, which we offer before thee for all estates of men in thy holy Church, that every member of the same, in his vocation and ministry, may truly and godly serve thee; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

OMERCIFUL God, who hast made all men, and hatest nothing that thou hast made, nor wouldest the death of a sinner, but rather that he should be converted and live; Have mercy upon all Jews, Turks, Infidels, and Hereticks, and take from them all ignorance, hardness of heart, and contempt of thy Word; and so fetch them home, blessed Lord, to thy flock, that they may be saved among the remnant of the true Israelites, and be made one fold under one shepherd, Jesus Christ our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. Hebr. x. 1.

THE law having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices, which they offered year by year continually, make the comers thereunto perfect: for then would they not have ceased to be offered: because that the worshippers once purged should have had no more conscience of sins. But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of sins every year. For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins. Wherefore, when he cometh into the world, he saith, Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body hast thou prepared me: In burnt-offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure: Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God. Above, when he said, Sacrifice and offering, and burnt-offerings, and offering for sin thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein, which are offered by the Law: then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God. He taketh away the first, that he may establish the second. By the which will we are sanctified, through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. And every priest standeth daily ministering, and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God; from henceforth expecting till his enemies be made his footstool. For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified: Whereof the Holy Ghost also is a witness to us: for after that he had said before, This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them; and their sins and iniquities will I remember no more. Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin. Having therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest, by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way, which he hath consecrated for us, through the veil, that is to say, his flesh; and having an High Priest over the house of God; let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water. Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for he is faithful that promised;) and let us consider one another to provoke unto love, and to good works; not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching.

The Gospel. St. John xix. 1.

PILATE therefore took Jesus, and scourged him. And the soldiers platted a crown of ¶ The Saturday in this week was from the earliest times a day of especial observation. Contrary to the practice of feasting on other Saturdays, this day was appointed as a strict fast. In the time of Constantine 'lofty pillars of wax were set up to burn as torches all over the city, and lamps were lit in all places, so that the night seemed to outshine the sun at noonday. Lamps and torches were placed both in churches and in private houses, which was done as a prodromus of that great Light, or Sun of Righteousness, arising upon the world on Easter Day.' It was, and is still, a noted day of baptism; on it, too, catechumens were first admitted to the Eucharist.

Introit in 1549, Ps. lxxxviii.

'Christe fave desiderii et precibus nostris et præsta prosperam hanc supervenientem sanctæ paschæ noctem in qua tecum resurgentes de morte transire mereamur ad vitam: Salvator mundi qui vivis,' &c. Gall. Miss. ●

Until the Scotch Liturgy no special

Collect was appointed. In that Prayer-book it ran as follows: 'O most gracious God, look upon us in mercy, and grant that, as we are baptized into the death of thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, so by our true and hearty repentance all our sins may be buried with him, and we not fear the grave; that as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of thee, O Father, so we also may walk in newness of life, but our sins never be able to rise in judgment against us; and that for the merit of Jesus Christ that died, was buried, and rose again for us. Amen.'

In Sar. Miss. the Epistle is Col. iii. 1—4. The Gospel, which is also in MS. Leofr. and Com. Pam., is Matt. xxviii. 1—7. Augustine mentions this Gospel.

In the Greek Church the morning Epistle is 1 Cor. v. 6, 7, 8; Gal. iii. 13, 14; at the Liturgy, Rom. vi. 3—11.

thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple robe, and said, Hail, King of the Jews: and they smote him with their hands. Pilate therefore went forth again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know that I find no fault in him. Then came Jesus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pilate saith unto them, Behold the man! When the chief priests therefore and officers saw him, they cried out, saying, Crucify him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him. The Jews answered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God. When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid; and went again into the judgement-hall, and saith unto Jesus, Whence art thou? But Jesus gave him no answer. Then saith Pilate unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to release thee? Jesus answered, Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin. And from thenceforth Pilate sought to release him: but the Jews cried out, saying, If thou let this man go, thou art not Caesar's friend: whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Caesar. When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgement-seat, in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha. And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King! But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your King? The chief priests answered, We have no king but Caesar. Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified: and they took Jesus, and led him away. And he, bearing his cross, went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew, Golgotha: where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst. And Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the cross; and the writing was, JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS. This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jesus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, and Greek, and Latin. Then said the chief priests of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The King of the Jews; but that he said, I am the King of the Jews. Pilate answered, What I have written, I have written. Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat; whose the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout. They said therefore among themselves, Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the Scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, They parted my raiment among them, and for my vesture they did cast lots. These things therefore the soldiers did. Now there stood by the cross of Jesus, his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son. Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother. And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home. After this, Jesus, knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the Scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst. Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth. When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost. The Jews therefore, because it was the preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath-day, (for that sabbath-day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. Then came the soldiers, and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with him. But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs. But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith came there out blood and water. And he that saw it bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe. For these things were done that the Scripture should be fulfilled, A bone of him shall not be broken. And again, another Scripture saith, They shall look on him whom they pierced.

Easter Even.

The Collect.

GRANT, O Lord, that as we are baptized into the death of thy blessed Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, so by continual mortifying our corrupt affections we may be buried with him; and that through the grave, and gate of death, we may pass to our joyful resurrection; for his merits, who died, and was buried, and rose again for us, thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. Peter iii. 17.

IT is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well-doing, than for evil-doing. For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit. By which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison; which sometime were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing; wherein few, that is, eight souls, were saved by water. The like figure whereunto, even baptism, doth also now save us, (not the putting away the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience towards God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ: who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God, angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him.

The Gospel, St. Matth. xxvii. 57.

WHEN the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joseph, who also himself was Jesus' disciple. He went to Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered. And when Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, and laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock; and he rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and departed. And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre. Now the next day that followed the day of the preparation, the chief priests and Pharisees came together unto Pilate, saying, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, After three days I will rise again. Command therefore that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest his disciples come by night and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so the last error shall be worse than the first. Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch; go your way, make it as sure as you can. So they went and made the sepulchre sure, sealing the stone, and setting a watch.

¶ A festival in honour of our Lord's resurrection has been observed from the very foundation of Christianity. A difference, however, early arose as to the day on which the actual event of the resurrection should be commemorated. It was the custom of the Asiatic Christians to celebrate a Paschal Feast on the day of the Jewish Passover, the 14th of the 1st month; the Festival of the Resurrection on the 3rd day afterwards, on whatever day of the week this fell. The Western Christians, on the contrary, contended that the fast of the holy week ought not to be interrupted, and that the Feast of the Resurrection ought always to be observed on a Sunday.

In 158 Polycarp visited Rome to confer with Anicetus on the question. Each retained his opinion, but there was no breach of charity, and Polycarp consecrated the Eucharist in Anicetus' church. In 196 Victor, Bishop of Rome, excommunicated those who would not conform to the Roman usage, for which he was reproved by Irenæus and others. The Western custom grew in favour, but the Eastern Churches continued their own practice until the Council of Nice, 325, which established the usage of keeping the Feast of the Resurrection on the Lord's Day alone. The duty of fixing the proper Sunday was committed to the care of the Alexandrian Bishops. From this time forward the dissentients were treated as schismatics; in 341 they were excommunicated by the Council of Antioch. They were named Quartodecimans. For nearly 200 years the early Christians depended on the Jewish cycle of 84 years for the determination of their own festival. Subsequently various cycles were adopted, but there was much uncertainty as to the day of observation of the feast until Dionysius Exiguus, Abbot of Rome, 525, introduced the Alexandrian Canon complete into the Roman Church. The Churches of Great Britain and Ireland did not uniformly agree with the Roman Church in the actual Paschal Sunday until 800, when the Welsh, the most persistent of the objectors, gave way. The term Pascha was used to denote the Paschal Feast, the Paschal Supper, the whole Festival, or the Day of Resurrection. The Festival lasted 15 days, during which law-suits were suspended, indulgence was granted to criminals, and especial liberality extended to the poor. It was divided into the Pasch of the Crucifixion and the Pasch of the Resurrection. The week succeeding Easter Day was observed as one of religious solemnity, of sermons, assemblies, communions. The Sunday closed the solemnities of the sacred season.

Our term Easter is probably derived from a Saxon term, signifying rising; in old writers the term Dominica Gaudii is applied to it. In the Greek Church it is common to use as a salutation on Easter Day the words, 'Jesus Christ is risen from the dead.' The answer is, 'He is risen indeed.'

¶ The first of these Anthems was prefixed to the others in 1662. In 1549 Hallelujah was said at the end of them. A Versicle by the Priest, 'Shew forth to all nations the glory of God,' with a Response, 'And among all people his wonderful works,' took the place of 'Gloria Patri,' &c. The Anthems were in 1549 directed to be sung afore Mattins, and were followed by a Collect: 'O God, who for our redemption didst give thine only begotten Son to the death of the Cross, and by his glorious resurrection hast delivered us from the power of the enemy; grant us so to die daily from sin that we may evermore live with him in the joy of his resurrection, through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.'

In 1549 two Communions were appointed; at the first the Introit was Ps. xvi.; the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel were the same as we now have. At the second Communion the Introit was Ps. iii.; the Collect, that of the 1st Sunday after Easter; the Epistle, 1 Cor. v. 6—8, 'Know ye not... pureness and truth;' the Gospel, Mar. xvi. 1—8.

The Anthems are taken from the Antiphony of Gregory. The Collect,—'Deus qui hodierna die per unigenitum tuum æternitatis nobis aditum devicta morte reserasti; vota nostra quæ præveniendo aspiras, etiam adjuvando prosequere. Per eundem Dominum nostrum,'—is found in Sar. Miss., in Gelas. and Greg. Sacrament., in old Gall. Miss., and in Sacrament. of Leofric.

In the Sarum Missal the Epistle is 1 Cor. v. 6, 7, 8; the Gospel is Mar. xvi. 1—7.

Our Gospel is taken from that for the Saturday in Easter week, which was usually read in the time of Augustine on the Thursday after Easter.

In the Greek Church three Anthems, taken from the 66th, 67th, and 68th Psalms, are appointed in the Liturgy.

The Epistle is Acts i. 1—8.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is John i. 1—17.

The Gospel in the evening is John xx. 19—26.

In communicating the words, 'Partake of the body of Christ, taste the undying fountain,' and the Anthems are appointed to be used through the week.

Easter Day.

At Morning Prayer, instead of the Psalm, O come, let us sing, &c. these Anthems shall be sung or said.

CHRISt our passover is sacrificed for us : therefore let us keep the feast :

Not with the old leaven, nor with the leaven of malice and wickedness : but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth. 1 Cor. v. 7.

CHRISt being raised from the dead dieth no more : death hath no more dominion over him.

For in that he died, he died unto sin once : but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God.

Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin : but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Rom. vi. 9.

CHRISt is risen from the dead : and become the first-fruits of them that slept.

For since by man came death : by man came also the resurrection of the dead.

For as in Adam all die : even so in Christ shall all be made alive. 1 Cor. xv. 20.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost :

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

The Collect.

ALMIghty God, who through thine only-begotten Son Jesus Christ hast overcome death, and opened unto us the gate of everlasting life ; We humbly beseech thee, that, as by thy special grace preventing us thou dost put into our minds good desires, so by thy continual help we may bring the same to good effect ; through Jesus Christ our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. Coloss. iij. 1.

IF ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth : For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory. Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth ; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence, and covetousness, which is idolatry : For which things' sake the wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience. In the which ye also walked some time, when ye lived in them.

The Gospel. St. John xx. 1.

THE first day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre. Then she runneth and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him. Peter therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre. So they ran both together ; and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre ; and he, stooping down and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying ; yet went he not in. Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie ; and the napkin that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself. Then went in also that other disciple which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed. For as yet they knew not the Scripture, that he must rise again from the dead. Then the disciples went away again unto their own home.

Monday in Easter Week.

The Collect.

ALMIghty God, who through thine only-begotten Son Jesus Christ hast overcome death, and opened unto us the gate of everlasting life ; We humbly beseech thee, that, as by thy special grace preventing us thou dost put into our minds good desires, so by thy continual help we may bring the same to good effect ; through Jesus Christ our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. For the Epistle. Acts x. 34.

PETER opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons ; but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ ; (he is Lord of all :) that word (I say) ye know, which was published throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached : how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost, and with power ; who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil : for God was with him. And we are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem ; whom they slew, and hanged on a tree : Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly ; not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead. And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he who was ordained of God to be the Judge of quick and dead. To him give all the prophets witness, that through his Name whatsoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

The Gospel. St. Luke xxiv. 13.

BEHOOLD, two of his disciples went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs. And they talked together of all these things which had happened. And it came to pass, that while they communed together, and reasoned, Jesus himself drew near, and went with them. But their eyes were holden, that they should not know him. And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad ? And the one of them, whose name was Cleopas, answering, said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things which are come to pass there in these days ? And he said unto them, What things ? And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, who was a prophet mighty in deed and word, before God and all the people : and how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him. But we trusted that it had been he which should have redeemed Israel : and beside all this, to-day is the third day since these things were done. Yea, and certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were early at the sepulchre ; and when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was alive. And certain of them which were with us went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said ; but him they saw not. Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken : ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory ? And beginning at Moses, and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself. And they drew nigh unto the village

In 1552 the two later Anthems were appointed in place of the Venite; the Collect for the 1st Communion was appointed for Easter Day, Monday in Easter week, and the Sunday after Easter; the Collect for the 2nd Communion appointed for the Tuesday in Easter week. At the last revision the 1st Anthem was prefixed, the Easter Day Collect appointed to be used throughout the week, and the Collect for the 2nd Communion appointed for the Sunday after Easter.

The commemoration of Easter was at first continued until the next Sunday; the practice subsisted in some dioceses at least until the 11th century, when the celebration was reduced to three days.

Monday. Introit in 1549, Ps. lxii.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as those appointed in the Sarum Missal for this Monday.

In the Greek Church the Epistle for this day is Acts i. 12—17, 21—26.

The Gospel is John i. 18—28.

Tuesday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxlii.

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss., in MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam., for the Tuesday after Easter is Acts xiii. 26—33, 'Resuscitans Jesum Christum Dominum nostrum.'

The Gospel for the day is Luke xxiv. 36—47.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Acts ii. 14—21.

The Gospel is Luke xxiv. 12—35.

¶ The 1st Sunday after Easter was regarded as the close of the Paschal solemnities. It was termed Dominica in Albis, being the day on which the newly-baptized wore their white robes for the last time. It was also called Dominica in Octavis Paschæ. Among ourselves it has been known as Low Sunday, since, though itself great, it is but a small festival in comparison with Easter Day. The Greeks term it New Sunday (καινή κυριακή), or Sunday of Renewal (διακαινήσιμος), in allusion to the renovation of the newly-baptized. With the Greeks also the Easter Festival terminated on this day. The term Sunday of Anti-Pasch (κυριακή του Ἀντίπασχα) is also used.

1st Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxli.

The Collect is the same as that prescribed for the 2nd Communion on Easter Day in 1549. The Collect itself was composed in 1549.

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss. and Com. Pam. is 1 John v. 4—10, 'witness in himself.'

The Gospel is John xx. 19—31.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Acts v. 12—20.

The morning Gospel is Matt. xxviii. 16—20.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is John xx. 19—31.

The Greek Church also commemorates St Thomas on this Sunday.

2nd Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. lxx.

The Collect for the 2nd Sunday after Easter was composed in 1549.

TUESDAY IN EASTER WEEK. FIRST SUNDAY AFTER EASTER.

whither they went; and he made as though he would have gone further: but they constrained him, saying, Abide with us, for it is towards evening, and the day is far spent. And he went in to tarry with them. And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them. And their eyes were opened, and they knew him, and he vanished out of their sight. And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the Scriptures? And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon. And they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in breaking of bread,

Tuesday in Easter Week.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, who through thy only-begotten Son Jesus Christ hast overcome death, and opened unto us the gate of everlasting life; We humbly beseech thee, that, as by thy special grace preventing us thou dost put into our minds good desires, so by thy continual help we may bring the same to good effect; through Jesus Christ our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts xiii. 26.

MEN and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent. For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath-day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him. And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain. And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre. But God raised him from the dead: and he was seen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are his witnesses unto the people. And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that the promise which was made unto the fathers, God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second Psalm, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, I will give you the sure mercies of David. Wherefore he saith also in another Psalm, Thou shalt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption. For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption: but he whom God raised again saw no corruption. Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins: and by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses. Beware therefore, lest that come upon you which is spoken of in the prophets: Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.

The Gospel. St. Luke xxiv. 36.

JESUS himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. But they were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit. And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled, and why do thoughts arise in your hearts? Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have. And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hands and his feet. And while they yet believed not for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have ye here any meat? And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honey-comb. And he took it, and did eat before them. And he said unto them, These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled which were written in the law of Moses, and in the Prophets, and in the Psalms concerning me. Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures, and said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day; and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his Name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. And ye are witnesses of these things.

The First Sunday after Easter.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY Father, who hast given thine only Son to die for our sins, and to rise again for our justification; Grant us so to put away the leaven of malice and wickedness, that we may alway serve thee in pureness of living and truth; through the merits of the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. John v. 4.

WHATSOEVER is born of God overcometh the world; and this is the victory that he hath overcome the world, even our faith. Who is he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God? This is he that came by water and blood, even Jesus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood: and it is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth. For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost; and these three are one. And there are three that bear witness in earth, the spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one. If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God, which he hath testified of his Son. He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself: he that believeth not God hath made him a liar, because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son. And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life; and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son hath not life.

The Gospel. St. John xx. 19.

THE same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut, where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord. Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you. And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost. Whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whosoever sins ye retain, they are retained.

The Second Sunday after Easter.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, who hast given thine only Son to be unto us both a sacrifice for sin, and also an ensample of godly life; Give us grace that we may always most thankfully receive that his inestimable benefit, and also daily endeavour ourselves to follow the blessed steps of his most holy life; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

3rd Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. lxxv.

THE THIRD, FOURTH AND FIFTH SUNDAYS AFTER EASTER.

The Epistle. 1 St. Peter ii. 19.

THIS is thank-worthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully. For what glory is it, if, when ye be afflicted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently; this is acceptable with God. For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps: he did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth: who, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously: who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed. For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.

The Gospel. St. John x. 11.

JESUS said, I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep. But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep. The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep. I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine. As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep. And other shepherds have, which are not of this fold; they also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

The Third Sunday after Easter.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, who shewest to them that are in error the light of thy truth, to the intent that they may return into the way of righteousness; Grant unto all them that are admitted into the fellowship of Christ's Religion, that they may eschew those things that are contrary to their profession, and follow all such things as are agreeable to the same; through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. Peter ii. 11.

DEARLY beloved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul; having your conversation honest among the Gentiles; that, whereas they speak against you as evildoers, ye may, by your good works which they shall behold, glorify God in the day of visitation. Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake; whether it be to the King, as supreme; or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him, for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of them that do well. For so is the will of God, that with well-doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men: as free, and not using your liberty for a cloke of maliciousness; but as the servants of God. Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the King.

The Gospel. St. John xvi. 16.

JESUS said to his disciples, A little while and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while and ye shall see me; because I go to the Father. Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while and ye shall see me; and because I go to the Father? They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we cannot tell what he saith. Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye inquire among yourselves of what I said, A little while and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while and ye shall see me? Verily, verily I say unto you, That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy. A woman, when she is in travail, hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world. And ye now therefore have sorrow; but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you.

The Fourth Sunday after Easter.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, who alone canst order the unruly wills and affections of sinful men; Grant unto thy people, that they may love the thing which thou commandest, and desire that which thou dost promise; that so, among the sundry and manifold changes of the world, our hearts may surely there be fixed, where true joys are to be found; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. St. James i. 17.

EVERY good gift, and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. Of his own will begat he us with the Word of truth, that we should be a kind of first-fruits of his creatures. Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath; for the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God. Wherefore lay apart all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted Word, which is able to save your souls.

The Gospel. St. John xvi. 5.

JESUS said unto his disciples, Now I go my way to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou? But, because I have said these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart. Nevertheless, I tell you the truth; it is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you. And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgement: of sin, because they believe not on me; of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more; of judgement, because the prince of this world is judged. I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit, when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you. All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

The Fifth Sunday after Easter.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, from whom all good things do come; Grant to us thy humble servants, that by thy holy inspiration we may think those things that be good, and by thy merciful guiding may perform the same; through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Epistle. St. James i. 22.

BE ye doers of the Word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if any be a hearer of the Word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass. For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth that manner of man he was. But whose looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in ¶ About 460, Mamercus, Bishop of Vienne, appointed special Litanies (see notes on Litany) on the three days preceding Ascension Day. It was a novelty to interpolate a fast in the festive season from Easter to Whitsunday. The custom, however, was adopted by many Churches in the West. In the Spanish Church it was at first resisted, but gradually prevailed, as appears in the decree of the 17th Council of Toledo, 694, which orders that such Litanies or Rogations should be observed in every month throughout the year. The Greek Church has no Rogation days. For our own perambulation of parishes on Rogation days, see remarks at the commencement of the Litany.

¶ The observation of Ascension Day was so ancient that St Austin could derive its original from no other fountain but either apostolical institution or the general agreement of the Church in some plenary council. 'For those things,' saith he, 'which are received and observed over all the world, not as written in Scripture, but as handed down to us by tradition, we conceive to be either instituted by the Apostles themselves or some numerous councils whose authority is of very great use in the Church. Such are the anniversary solemnities of our Saviour's passion and resurrection and ascension into heaven, and the coming of the Holy Ghost from heaven.'

Chrysostom terms the Ascension the Receiving Up (ανάληψις).

Introit in 1549, Ps. lxxvii.

'Concede quæsumus omnipotens Deus, ut qui hodierna die unigenitum tuum Redemptorem nostrum ad cælos ascendisse credimus, ipsi quoque mente in cælestibus habitemus. Per eundem.'

Gelas. Sacram., Greg. Sacram., Sar. Miss. for Ascension Day.

The Sar. Epistle is the same as ours. This is also found in a Gallican Lectionary given by Mabillon and in Com. Pam.

The Gospel is the same as that of the Sarum Missal.

The Greek Church appoints three special Anthems for Ascension Day, portions of Pss. xlvii., xlviii., xlix.

The Epistle is Acts i. 1—12.

The morning Gospel is Mark xvi. 9—20.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is Luke xxiv. 36—53.

Sunday after Ascension Day. Introit in 1549, Ps. xciii.

'O rex gloriæ Domine virtutum qui triumphator hodie super omnes cælos ascendisti ne derelinquas nos orphanos sed mitte promissum Patris in nos Spiritum veritatis.' Antiphon for Vespers on Ascension Day in Sar. Breviary.

The Epistle is the same as in the Sar.

Miss.; appointed also in MS. of Leofric and Com. Pam.

The Gospel also is the same.

In the Greek Church the Epistle Acts xx. 16—36.

The Gospel in the morning is Job xxi. 1—14.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is Job xvii. 1—13.

The phrase Holy Father (πατὴρ ἅγιος) twice occurs, hence the name Sunday of the Holy Fathers (Κυρ. τῶν Ἁγίων Πατρῶν).

¶ The period between Easter and Whitsunday was deemed one of special, yet holy rejoicing. Public games and stag plays were forbidden during the whole of it, but the cessation from pleadings was not continued beyond Low Sunday. A question arose in early times whether fasting and kneeling were allowable during this season. The more general opinion was, that it was not expedient to do either in a time of so great gladness. The term Pentecost was applied either to the space of 50 days, or to the single Sunday at the conclusion of these. Tertullian uses it in both senses. Between Easter and Whitsunday it was customary to read the Acts of the Apostles as specially illustrative of the effect of our Lord's Resurrection; this is still the Greek usage.

¶ The observation of Whitsunday is by some referred to the apostolic times. St Paul's saying, 'He hastened to be in Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost,' is quoted by Epiphanius in support of this assertion. The feast is mentioned by Tertullian, Origen, Irenæus. Of the name Cavendish writes, 'This feast is by us styled Whitsunday partly because of those vast diffusions of light and knowledge which upon this day were shed upon the Apostles, in order to the enlightening of the world; but principally because this, as also Easter, being the stated time for baptism in the ancient Church, those who were baptized put on white garments in token of that pure and innocent course of life they had now engaged in: this white garment they wore till the Sunday after and then laid it aside.'

Variations of the name are Wit-Sunday, Wickliffe; Wite Sunday, Robert of Gloucester, 1570; Weid Sunday, i. e. Sacred Sunday, Verstigan; Witten-tide when the wise men of the Wittenagemot were chosen, Brady, Clavis Calendaris Vol. vii. p. 378; Wittan Sunday, when the Apostles were endued with wisdom from on high, 1 Cor. ii. 7, Acts vi. 3, 1 Cor. xii. 8, Eph. i. 8, 9, Col. i. 9, John xiv. 13, 26, 1 John ii. 20, 27.

Introit in 1549, Ps. xxxiii.

ASCENSION DAY, SUNDAY AFTER ASCENSION DAY, WHIT SUNDAY.

his deed. If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridlcth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain. Pure religion, and undefiled before God and the Father, is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

The Gospel. St. John xvi. 23.

VERILY, verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my Name, he will give it you. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my Name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full. These things have I spoken unto you in proverbs: the time cometh when I shall no more speak unto you in proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father. At that day ye shall ask in my Name: and I say not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you; for the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God. I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father. His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no proverb. Now are we sure that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee: by this we believe that thou comest forth from God. Jesus answered them, Do ye now believe? Behold, the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered every man to his own, and shall leave me alone: and yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me. These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world.

The Ascension Day.

The Collect.

GRANT, we beseech thee, Almighty God, that like as we do believe thy only-begotten Son our Lord Jesus Christ to have ascended into the heavens; so we may also in heart and mind thither ascend, and with him continually dwell, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts i. 1.

THE former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach, until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the Apostles whom he had chosen: to whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion, by many infallible proofs; being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the Kingdom of God: and, being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me. For John truly baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence. When they therefore were come together; they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel? And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power. But ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judæa, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight. And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven, as he went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel; which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come, in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

The Gospel. St. Mark xvi. 14.

JESUS appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen. And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned. And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my Name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover. So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God. And they went forth and preached every where, the Lord working with them, and confirming the Word with signs following.

Sunday after Ascension Day.

The Collect.

O GOD the King of glory, who hast exalted thine only Son Jesus Christ with great triumph unto thy kingdom in heaven; We beseech thee, leave us not comfortless; but send to us thine Holy Ghost to comfort us, and exalt us unto the same place whither our Saviour Christ is gone before, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. Peter iv. 7.

THE end of all things is at hand; be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer. And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves: for charity shall cover the multitude of sins. Use hospitality one to another without grudging. As every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God. If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God: if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth; that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

The Gospel. St. John xv. 26, and part of Chapter xvi.

WHEN the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me. And ye also shall bear witness, because ye have been with me from the beginning. These things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended. They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service. And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me. But these things have I told you, that, when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them.

Whit Sunday.

The Collect.

GOD, who as at this time didst teach the hearts of thy faithful people, by the sending to them the light of thy Holy Spirit; Grant us by the same Spirit to have a right judgement in all things, and evermore to rejoice in his holy comfort; through the merits of Christ Jesus our Saviour, who liveth and reigneth with thee, in the unity of the same Spirit, one God, world without end. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts ii. 1.

WHEN the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all Sancti Spiritus illustratione docuisti; da nobis in eodem Spiritu recta sapere et de ejus semper consolatione gaudere. Per Dominum in unitate ejusdem.' Greg. Sacrament., Sar. Miss. for the day of Pentecost; also in MS. of Leofric.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as those appointed in the Sar. Miss., also in MS. of Leofric and Com. Pam.

The words 'as at this time' were substituted for 'as on this day' in 1662, after the example of the Scotch Prayer-book, in the Collect for the Monday and Tuesday in the week. An objection had been made to the use of the words on this day by the Puritans in the Savoy Conference.

In the Greek Church special Anthems from the 19th, 20th, and 21st Psalms are appointed.

The Epistle is Acts ii. 1—11.

The morning Gospel is John xx. 19—23.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is John vii. 37—53, viii. 12.

The Sunday is called the Sunday of the Holy Pentecost (Κυριακή τῆς Ἁγίας Πεντηκοστῆς).

Originally the whole week, including the octave, was kept as a festival, but subsequently, as at Easter, the observance was restricted to three days. This was the more needful in the case of Whitsuntide, when Trinity Sunday was appointed as one of the solemn seasons of ordination for which preparation was to be made by fasting and prayer.

Monday. Introit in 1549, Ps. c.

The Epistle and Gospel are those in the Salisbury Missal and in MS. of Leofric and Com. Pam.

The Epistle in the Greek Church is Eph. v. 8—19.

The Gospel is Matt. xviii. 10—20.

The reading of portions of the Acts as Epistles is discontinued at Whitsuntide; a selection from the Epistles of St Paul then commences.

The week is called the 1st week after Pentecost, or the week of the Holy Ghost (Ἑβδομάς τοῦ Ἁγίου Πνεύματος).

Tuesday. Introit in 1549, Ps. ci.

The Epistle and Gospel are those for the Tuesday after Pentecost in the Sar. Miss., MS. of Leofric, and Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Rom. i. 1—7, 13—17.

The Gospel is Matt. iv. 23—v. 13.

the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them: and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance. And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven. Now when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language. And they were all amazed, and marvelled, saying one to another, Behold, are not all these which speak Galileans? And how hear we every man in our own tongue wherein we were born? Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judea, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Asia, Phrygia, and Pamphylia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews, and Proselytes, Cretes, and Arabians, we do hear them speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God.

The Gospel. St. John xiv. 15.

JESUS said unto his disciples, If ye love me, keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever; even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you. Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me: because I live, ye shall live also. At that day ye shall know, that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you. He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him. Judas saith unto him, (not Iscariot,) Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world? Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words, and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him. He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me. These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you. But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my Name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you. Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because I said, I go unto the Father: for my Father is greater than I. And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe. Hereafter I will not talk much with you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me. But that the world may know that I love the Father; and as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do.

Monday in Whitsun Week.

The Collect.

GOD, who as at this time didst teach the hearts of thy faithful people, by the sending to them the light of thy Holy Spirit; Grant us by the same Spirit to have a right judgement in all things, and evermore to rejoice in his holy comfort; through the merits of Christ Jesus our Saviour, who liveth and reigneth with thee, in the unity of the same Spirit, one God, world without end. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts x. 34.

THEN Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. The Word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ; (he is Lord of all;) that Word, I say, ye know, which was published throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached: how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost, and with power; who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him. And we are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem; whom they slew, and hanged on a tree: Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly; not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God; even to us who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead. And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge of quick and dead. To him give all the prophets witness, that through his Name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins. While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. And they of the circumcision, which believed, were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost. For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we? And he commanded them to be baptized in the Name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

The Gospel. St. John iii. 16.

GOD so loved the world, that he gave his only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already; because he hath not believed in the Name of the only-begotten Son of God. And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved. But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God.

Tuesday in Whitsun Week.

The Collect.

GOD, who as at this time didst teach the hearts of thy faithful people, by the sending to them the light of thy Holy Spirit; Grant us by the same Spirit to have a right judgement in all things, and evermore to rejoice in his holy comfort; through the merits of Christ Jesus our Saviour, who liveth and reigneth with thee, in the unity of the same Spirit, one God, world without end. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts xii. 14.

WHEN the Apostles, which were at Jerusalem, heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John; who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost: (for as yet he was fallen upon none of them; only they were baptized in the Name of the Lord Jesus.) Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

¶ Trinity Sunday is a festival of late institution. All Sundays were anciently held to commemorate this mystery. Chrysostom speaks of a festival of holy martyrs not seven days after Whitsunday, which seems to correspond to the Sunday of the Octave; this is still called by the Greeks, the Sunday of all the Saints who were Martyrs (Κυριακή τῶν Ἁγίων πάντων μαρτυρησάντων). Durandus refers the institution of the festival to Gregory the Fourth, A.D. 834; but, if so, it had ere long fallen into desuetude, for Alexander the Third, in A.D. 1179, states that there is no particular day in the Roman Church set apart for this commemoration. In the 12th century the Feast of the Trinity was kept by some Churches on the octave of Whitsunday, by others on the Sunday next before Advent. Pope John xxii., in the beginning of the 14th century, fixed the celebration to this Sunday.

The term Trinity (τριάς) is first used to express this mystery in the writings of Theophilus of Antioch, A.D. 180. The propriety of instituting such a festival at the close of the great commemorations of the Christian year can scarcely be questioned.

Introit in 1549, Ps. lxvii.

‘Omnipotens sempiternæ Deus qui dedisti famulis tuis in confessione veræ fidei æternæ Trinitatis gloriam agnoscere et in potentia majestatis adorare Unitatem; quæsumus ut ejusdem fidei firmitate ab omnibus semper muniamur adversis. Per Dominum nostrum.’

Miss. Sar. on Trinity Sunday, Sacrament. Greg., MS. of Leofric, Mass of the Holy Trinity.

The Epistle in Sar. Miss., MS. Leofr., and Com. Pam. is Rev. iv. 1—9.

The Gospel is the same as ours.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Heb. xi. 33—xii. 1.

The Gospel is Matt. x. 32, 33, 37, 38, xix. 27—30.

The Greeks reckon Trinity Sunday as the 1st Sunday after Whitsunday, from which day they begin to number their weeks.

In the Roman calendar the same rule is observed. In the old Sar. Miss. the Sundays are numbered as in our own Prayer-book, from Trinity Sunday.

¶ The Greek Church has 11 selections, called Gospels of the Resurrection (Εὐαγγέλια Ἀναστασιμά), appointed to be read at Morning Service on every Sunday throughout the year. Where one of these is not especially selected, as is the case between Easter and Whitsuntide, the course commences with 1 and is continued to 11. No. 1 is read on Trinity Sunday, No. 2 on the 1st Sunday after Trinity, and so on to 11. As there is no special adaptation of these Gospels to the Sundays, they are here exhibited in one single table:

1. Matt. xxviii. 16—20.
2. Mar. xvi. 1—8.
3. Mar. xvi. 9—20.
4. Luke xxiv. 1—12.
5. Luke xxiv. 12—35.
6. Luke xxiv. 36—53.
7. John xx. 1—10.
8. John xx. 11—18.
9. John xx. 19—31.
10. John xxi. 1—14.
11. John xxi. 14—25.

1st Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix., 1st portion.

‘Deus in te sperantium fortitudo adesto propitius invocationibus nostris; et quia sine te nihil potest mortalis infirmitas; præsta auxilium gratiæ tuæ ut in exequendis mandatis tuis et voluntate tibi et actione placeamus. Per Dominum.’ Sar. Miss., MS. Leofr., Sacrament. of Gelas. and Greg., Ambrosian Miss.

The Epistle in Sar. Miss., in MS. of Leofric, and in Com. Pam. began at v. 9.

The Gospel was the same as ours.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Rom. ii. 10—16.

The Gospel is Matt. iv. 18—23.

The Gospel. St. John x. 1.

VERILY, verily I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheep-fold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep; to him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice, and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out. And, when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice. And a stranger will they not follow; but will flee from him; for they know not the voice of strangers. This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them. Then said Jesus unto them again; Verily, verily I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers; but the sheep did not hear them. I am the door; by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture. The thief cometh not but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

Trinity Sunday.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, who hast given unto us thy servants grace by the confession of a true faith to acknowledge the glory of the eternal Trinity, and in the power of the Divine Majesty to worship the Unity: We beseech thee, that thou wouldest keep us stedfast in this faith, and evermore defend us from all adversities, who livest and reignest, one God, world without end. Amen.

For the Epistle. Rev. iv. 1.

AFTER this I looked, and behold, a door was opened in heaven; and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter. And immediately I was in the Spirit; and behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne: and he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald. And round about the throne were four and twenty seats; and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold: and out of the throne proceeded lightnings, and thunderings, and voices. And there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven spirits of God. And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind. And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle. And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. And when those beasts give glory, and honour, and thanks, to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever, the four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory, and honour, and power; for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

The Gospel. St. John iii. 1.

THERE was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews: the same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him. Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God. Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born? Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water, and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth; so is every one that is born of the Spirit. Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be? Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest not these things? Verily, verily I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness. If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not; how shall ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly things? And no man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the Son of man, who is in heaven. And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up: that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life.

The First Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O GOD, the strength of all them that put their trust in thee, mercifully accept our prayers; and because through the weakness of our mortal nature we can do no good thing without thee, grant us the help of thy grace, that in keeping of thy commandments we may please thee, both in will and deed; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. John iv. 7.

BELOVED, let us love one another: for love is of God, and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love. In this was manifested the love of God towards us, because that God sent his only-begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him. Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us; because he hath given us of his Spirit. And we have seen, and do testify, that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world. Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God. And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. Herein is our love made perfect, that we may have boldness in the day of judgement; because as he is, so are we in this world. There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love. We love him, because he first loved us. If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother, whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen? And this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.

THE SECOND, THIRD, AND FOURTH SUNDAYS AFTER TRINITY.

The Gospel. St. Luke xvi. 19.

THERE was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple, and finelinen, and fared sumptuously every day. And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate full of sores, and desiring to be fed with the crumbs, which fell from the rich man's table: moreover, the dogs came and licked his sores. And it came pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom. The rich man also died, and was buried: and in hell he lift up his eyes being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom. And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy life-time receivest thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things; but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented. And besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they who would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence. Then he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house: for I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment. Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them. And he said, Nay, father Abraham; but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent. And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead.

The Second Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O LORD, who never failest to help and govern them whom thou dost bring up in thy stedfast fear and love; Keep us, we beseech thee, under the protection of thy good providence, and make us to have a perpetual fear and love of thy holy Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. John iii. 13.

MARVEL not, my Brethren, if the world hate you. We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him. Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren. But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him; how dwelleth the love of God in him? My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed, and in truth. And hereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall assure our hearts before him. For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things. Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence towards God. And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight. And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the Name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment. And he that keepeth his commandments dwelleth in him, and he in him: and hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the spirit which he hath given us.

The Gospel. St. Luke xiv. 16.

ACERTAIN man made a great supper, and bade many; and sent his servant at supper-time to say to them that were bidden, Come, for all things are now ready. And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it; I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them; I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind. And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room. And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the high-ways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

The Third Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O LORD, we beseech thee mercifully to hear us; and grant that we, to whom thou hast given an hearty desire to pray, may by thy mighty aid be defended and comforted in all dangers and adversities; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. Peter v. 5.

ALL of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble. Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time; casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you. Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about seeking whom he may devour: whom resist stedfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world. But the God of all grace, who hath called us into his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

The Gospel. St. Luke xv. 1.

THEN drew near unto him all the Publicans and sinners for to hear him. And the Pharisees and Scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them. And he spake this parable unto them, saying, What man of you having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing. And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep which was lost. I say unto you, That likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance. Either what woman having ten pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it? And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends and her neighbours together, saying, Rejoice with me, for I have found the piece which I had lost. Likewise, I say unto you, There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth.

THE FIFTH AND SIXTH SUNDAYS AFTER TRINITY.

us thy mercy; that, thou being our ruler and guide, we may so pass through things temporal, that we finally lose not the things eternal: Grant this, O heavenly Father, for Jesus Christ's sake our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. viii. 18.

I RECKON that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us. For the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God. For the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope: because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption, into the glorious liberty of the children of God. For we know that the whole creation groaneth, and travaileth in pain together until now. And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first-fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body.

The Gospel. St. Luke vi. 36.

BE ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful. Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven: give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal, it shall be measured to you again. And he spake a parable unto them, Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch? The disciple is not above his master; but every one that is perfect shall be as his master. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Either how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou thyself beholdest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye.

The Fifth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

GRANT, O Lord, we beseech thee, that the course of this world may be so peaceably ordered by thy governance, that thy Church may joyfully serve thee in all godly quietness; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 St. Peter iii. 8.

BE ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous; not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing; but contrariwise blessing; knowing that ye are thereunto called, that ye should inherit a blessing. For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil. And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good? But and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled; but sanctify the Lord God in your hearts.

The Gospel. St. Luke v. 1.

IT came to pass, that as the people pressed upon him to hear the Word of God, he stood by the lake of Gennesaret, and saw two ships standing by the lake; but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets. And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land: and he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship. Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught. And Simon answering said unto him, Master, we have toiled all the night, and have taken nothing; nevertheless, at thy word I will let down the net. And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes, and their net brake. And they beckoned unto their partners which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink. When Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord. For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken; and so was also James, and John, the sons of Zebedee, which were partners with Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men. And when they had brought their ships to land, they forsook all, and followed him.

The Sixth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O GOD, who hast prepared for them that love thee such good things as pass man's understanding; Pour into our hearts such love toward thee, that we, loving thee above all things, may obtain thy promises, which exceed all that we can desire; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. vi. 3.

KNOW ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection: knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin. For he that is dead is freed from sin. Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him; knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him. For in that he died, he died unto sin once; but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God. Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

The Gospel. St. Mat. v. 20.

JESUS said unto his disciples, Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the Kingdom of heaven. Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill: and whosoever shall kill, shall be in danger of the judgement. But I say unto you, that whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgement: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell-fire. Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee; leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way, first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift. Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing.

This Council is treated by the Greeks with great respect, and is regarded as œcumenical. A special Epistle and Gospel are added to those proper for this Sunday, which, on the supposition that Easter falls on the 22nd of March, will be the 10th Sunday after Whitsunday. SEVENTH, EIGHTH, NINTH, AND TENTH SUNDAYS AFTER TRINITY.

The Seventh Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

LORD of all power and might, who art the author and giver of all good things; Graft in our hearts the love of thy Name, increase in us true religion, nourish us with all goodness, and of thy great mercy keep us in the same; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. vi. 19.

ISPEAK after the manner of men, because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness, and to iniquity, unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness, unto holiness. For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness. What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death. But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life. For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

The Gospel. St. Mark viii. 1.

IN those days the multitude being very great, and having nothing to eat, Jesus called his disciples unto him, and saith unto them, I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with me three days, and have nothing to eat: and if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will faint by the way; for divers of them came from far. And his disciples answered him, From whence can a man satisfy these men with bread here in the wilderness? And he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven. And he commanded the people to sit down on the ground. And he took the seven loaves, and gave thanks, and brake, and gave to his disciples to set before them; and they did set them before the people. And they had a few small fishes; and he blessed, and commanded to set them also before them. So they did eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets. And they that had eaten were about four thousand. And he sent them away.

The Eighth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

GOD, whose never-falling providence ordereth all things both in heaven and earth; We humbly beseech thee to put away from us all hurtful things, and to give us those things which be profitable for us; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. viii. 12.

BRETHREN, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh. For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father. The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ: if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together.

The Gospel. St. Matth. vii. 15.

DEWARE of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits: do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit; neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them. Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.

The Ninth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

GRANT to us, Lord, we beseech thee, the spirit to think and do always such things as be rightful; that we, who cannot do any thing that is good without thee, may by thee be enabled to live according to thy will; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. x. 1.

BRETHREN, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea; and were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud, and in the sea; and did all eat the same spiritual meat, and did all drink the same spiritual drink: (for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them; and that Rock was Christ.) But with many of them God was not well pleased; for they were overthrown in the wilderness. Now these things were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted. Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them; as it is written, The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play. Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and fell in one day three and twenty thousand. Neither let us tempt Christ, as some of them also tempted, and were destroyed of serpents. Neither murmur ye, as some of them also murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer. Now all these things happened unto them for examples: and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come. Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. There hath no temptation taken you, but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

The Gospel. St. Luke xvi. 1.

JESUS said unto his disciples, There was a certain rich man which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goods. And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? Give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest be no longer steward. Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my lord taketh away from me the stewardship: I cannot dig, to beg I am ashamed. I am resolved what to do, that, when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses. So he called every one of his lord's debtors unto him, and said unto the first, How much owest thou unto my lord? And he said, An hundred measures of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty. Then said he to another, And how much owest thou? And he said, An hundred measures of wheat. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and write fourscore. And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light. And I say unto you, Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.

that they may obtain their petitions make them to ask such things as shall please thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. xii. 1.

CONCERNING spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant. Ye know that ye were Gentiles, carried away unto these dumb idols, even as ye were led. Wherefore I give you to understand, that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus accursed; and that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost. Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. And there are differences of administrations, but the same Lord. And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God, who worketh all in all. But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal. For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the word of knowledge by the same Spirit; to another faith by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit; to another the working of miracles; to another prophecy; to another discerning of spirits; to another divers kinds of tongues; to another the interpretation of tongues. But all these worketh that one and the self-same Spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will.

The Gospel. St. Luke xix. 41.

AND when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept over it, saying, If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes. For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, and shall lay thee even with the ground, and thy children within thee; and they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation. And he went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought, saying unto them, It is written, My house is the house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves. And he taught daily in the temple.

The Eleventh Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O GOD, who declarest thy almighty power most chiefly in shewing mercy and pity; Mercifully grant unto us such a measure of thy grace, that we, running the way of thy commandments, may obtain thy gracious promises, and be made partakers of thy heavenly treasure; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. xv. 1.

BRETHREN, I declare unto you the Gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand: by which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain. For I delivered unto you first of all, that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures; and that he was buried; and that he rose again the third day, according to the Scriptures; and that he was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve: after that, he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present; but some are fallen asleep: after that, he was seen of James; then of all the Apostles: and last of all, he was seen of me also, as of one born out of due time. For I am the least of the Apostles, that am not meet to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the Church of God. But by the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but I laboured more abundantly than they all; yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me. Therefore whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

The Gospel. St. Luke xviii. 9.

JESUS spake this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others: Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a Publican. The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers or even as this Publican: I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess. And the Publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner. I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other: for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

The Twelfth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, who art always more ready to hear than we to pray, and art wont to give more than either we desire, or deserve; Pour down upon us the abundance of thy mercy; forgiving us those things whereof our conscience is afraid, and giving us those good things which we are not worthy to ask, but through the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ, thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 2 Cor. iii. 4.

SUCH trust have we through Christ to Godward: not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God. Who also hath made us able ministers of the New Testament; not of the letter, but of the Spirit: for the letter killeth, but the Spirit giveth life. But if the ministration of death written and engraven in stones was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses for the glory of his countenance, which glory was to be done away; how shall not the ministration of the Spirit be rather glorious? For if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the ministration of righteousness exceed in glory.

The Gospel. St. Mark vii. 31.

JESUS, departing from the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, came unto the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis. And they bring unto him one that was deaf, and had an impediment in his speech; and they beseech him to put his hand upon him. And he took him aside from the multitude, and put his fingers into his ears, and he spit, and touched his tongue; and looking up to heaven, he sighed, and saith unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened. And straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain. And he charged them that they should tell no man: but the more he charged them, so much the more a great deal they published it; and were beyond measure astonished, saying, He hath done all things well; he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.

The Thirteenth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY and merciful God, of whose only gift it cometh that thy faithful people do unto thee true and laudable service; Grant, we beseech thee, that we may so faithfully serve thee in this life, that we fail not finally to attain thy heavenly promises; through the merits of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Gal. iii. 16.

is Christ. And this I say, That the covenant that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the Law, which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect. For if the inheritance be of the Law, it is no more of promise; but God gave it to Abraham by promise. Wherefore then serveth the Law? It was added because of transgressions, till the seed should come, to whom the promise was made; and it was ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator. Now a mediator is not a mediator of one; but God is one. Is the Law then against the promises of God? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the Law. But the Scripture hath concluded all under sin, that the promise by faith of Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe.

The Gospel. St. Luke x. 23.

BLESSED are the eyes which see the things that ye see. For I tell you, That many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them. And behold, a certain Lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life? He said unto him, What is written in the Law? how readest thou? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself. And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right; this do, and thou shalt live. But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour? And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. And by chance there came down a certain Priest that way, and, when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side. But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was; and, when he saw him, he had compassion on him, and went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him. And on the morrow, when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee. Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

The Fourteenth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, give unto us the increase of faith, hope, and charity; and, that we may obtain that which thou dost promise, make us to love that which thou dost command; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Gal. v. 16.

I SAY then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; and these are contrary the one to the other; so that ye cannot do the things that ye would. But if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are not under the law. Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these, adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, That they who do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law. And they that are Christ's have crucified the flesh, with the affections and lusts.

The Gospel. St. Luke xvii. 11.

AND it came to pass, as Jesus went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria, and Galilee. And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off. And they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us. And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go, shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed. And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God, and fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks; and he was a Samaritan. And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine? There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger. And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole.

The Fifteenth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

KEEP, we beseech thee, O Lord, thy Church with thy perpetual mercy: and, because the frailty of man without thee cannot but fall, keep us ever by thy help from all things hurtful, and lead us to all things profitable to our salvation; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Gal. vi. 11.

YE see how large a letter I have written unto you with mine own hand. As many as desire to make a fair shew in the flesh, they constrain you to be circumcised; only lest they should suffer persecution for the cross of Christ. For neither they themselves who are circumcised keep the law; but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your flesh. But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world. For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature. And as many as walk according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon the Israel of God. From henceforth let no man trouble me; for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus. Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

The Gospel. St. Matth. vi. 24.

NO man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon. Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on: Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment? Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they? Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature? And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field how they grow: they toil not, neither do they spin: and yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to-day is,

16th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix., 16th portion.

'Ecclesiam tuam Domine quæsumus miseratio continuata mundet et muniat et quia sine te non potest salva consistere tuo semper munere gubernetur. Per.' Miss. Sar., MS. of Leofr., Sacrament. of Gelas. and Greg.

The Epistle in Sar. Miss., in MS. of Leofric, and Com. Pam. is the same as ours; the Gospel ends with v. 16 instead of 17.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is 2 Cor. vi. 16—vii. 1.

The Gospel is Matt. xv. 21—28.

The Sunday is called the Sunday of the Canaanitish Woman (Κυρ. τῆς Χαναανίτις), from the subject of the Gospel.

To this Gospel a note is appended that it is only read in the Sunday series of St Matthew when Easter Day falls on the 22nd of March. It is, however, frequently read on the Sunday preceding that of the Publican and the Pharisee, when, owing to the lateness of Easter, the lesson course from St Luke is insufficient.

17th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix., 17th portion.

'Tua nos Domine quæsumus gratia semper et præveniat et sequatur ac bonis operibus jugiter præstet intentos. Per Dominum.' Sar. Miss., Sacrament. of Greg.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as ours in Sar. Miss., in MS. of Leofric, and Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is 2 Cor. ix. 6—11.

If Easter Day fall on the 22nd of March, as it does when there are 17 Sundays devoted to the reading of St Matthew, our 17th Sunday after Trinity will be the Sunday before the 14th of September, the Day of the Exaltation of the Cross. For this a special Epistle, Gal. vi. 11—18, and Gospel, John iii. 13—17, are appointed.

18th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix., 18th portion.

'Da quæsumus Domine populo tuo diabolica vitare contagia et te solum Deum puro corde sectari. Per.' Sar. Miss., MS. of Leofric, Sacrament. of Gelas. and Greg.

In 1549 the phrase, 'withstand the temptations of the world, the flesh, and the devil,' ran 'to avoid the infections of the devil.' Our present phrase was adopted in 1662.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same in the Sar. Miss., in MS. of Leofric, and in Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is 2 Cor. xi. 31—xii. 9.

On the supposition that Easter is on the 22nd of March, this Sunday is the one succeeding the Exaltation of the Cross. For this a special Epistle and Gospel are appointed: the Epistle, Gal. ii. 16—20; the Gospel, Mar. viii. 34—ix. 1.

The festival commemorates the recovery of the wood of the cross by Heraclius from Chosroes II., and its restitution to Jerusalem by the emperor, who bore it on his own shoulders to the top of Calvary. It was taken away A.D. 614, restored A.D. 629.

The interruption of the selections from the Epistle to the Ephesians on this 18th Sunday is said to be owing to the fact that the services for Ordination were at one time continued until late on Saturday night, and that consequently the succeeding Sundays were left without any public services, being called Dominicæ Vacantes. Subsequently the Saturday service was brought to a close at an earlier hour, and special portions were appointed for these no less than for other Sundays.

19th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix., 19th portion.

'Dirigat corda nostra quæsumus Domine tuæ miseracionis operatio quia tibi sine te placere non possumus. Per Dominum.' Sar. Miss., MS. of Leofric, Sacrament. of Gelas. and Greg.

In 1662 'thy Holy Spirit' was substituted for 'the working of thy mercy.'

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss., in MS. of Leofric, in Com. Pam. ends at v. 29, instead of 32.

The Gospel is the same as ours.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Gal. i. 11—19.

According to the supposition that Easter Day falls on the 22nd of March, on which we have given the full course of lessons from St Matthew, the 19th Sunday after Trinity will be the 1st Sunday following the Sunday after the Exaltation of the Cross, for which a special Gospel is appointed. It will thus be the 1st on which the reading of St Luke begins.

The Gospel is Luke v. 1—11.

and to-morrow is cast into the oven; shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith? Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or what shall we drink? or wherewithal shall we be clothed? (for after all these things do the Gentiles seek:) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things. But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you. Take therefore no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself: sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

The Sixteenth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O LORD, we beseech thee, let thy continual pity cleanse and defend thy Church; and, because it cannot continue in safety without thy succour, preserve it evermore by thy help and goodness; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. iii. 13.

I DESIRE that ye faint not at my tribulations for you, which is your glory. For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named, that he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man; that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints, what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God. Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto him be glory in the Church by Christ Jesus, throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

The Gospel. St. Luke vii. 11.

AND it came to pass the day after, that Jesus went into a city called Nain; and many of his disciples went with him, and much people. Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow; and much people of the city was with her. And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not. And he came and touched the bier, (and they that bare him stood still,) and he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise. And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak; and he delivered him to his mother. And there came a fear on all, and they glorified God, saying, That a great Prophet is risen up among us, and that God hath visited his people. And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judaea, and throughout all the region round about.

The Seventeenth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O LORD, we pray thee that thy grace may always prevent and follow us, and make us continually to be given to all good works; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. iv. 1.

I THEREFORE the prisoner of the Lord beseech you, that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called, with all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love; endeavouring to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

The Gospel. St. Luke xiv. 1.

IT came to pass, as Jesus went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the sabbath-day, that they watched him. And behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy. And Jesus answering spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath-day? And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go; and answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass, or an ox, fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath-day? And they could not answer him again to these things. And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms, saying unto them, When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room; lest a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him; and he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place; and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room. But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room; that, when he that bade thee cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, go up higher; then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with thee. For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

The Eighteenth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O LORD, we beseech thee, grant thy people grace to withstand the temptations of the world, the flesh, and the devil, and with pure hearts and minds to follow thee the only God; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. i. 4.

I THANK my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ; that in every thing ye are enriched by him, in all utterance, and in all knowledge; even as the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you; so that ye come behind in no gift; waiting for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xxii. 34.

WHEN the Pharisees had heard that Jesus had put the Sadducees to silence, they were gathered together. Then one of them, who was a Lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying, Master, which is the great commandment in the Law? Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the Law and the Prophets. While the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them, saying, What think ye of Christ? whose son is he? They say unto him, The son of David. He saith unto them, How then doth David in spirit call him Lord, saying, The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy foot-stool? If David then call him Lord, how is he his Son? And no man was able to answer him a word; neither durst any man from that day forth ask him any more questions.

The Nineteenth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O GOD, forasmuch as without thee we are not able to please thee; Mercifully grant, that thy Holy Spirit may in all things direct 20th Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix., 20th portion.

In 1662 the word 'cheerfully' was substituted for the previous phrase 'with free hearts.'

The Epistle and Gospel in the Sar. Miss. and in Com. Pam. are the same as ours.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Gal. ii. 16—20.

The Gospel is that for the 2nd Sunday of St Luke, viz. Luke vi. 31—36.

21st Sunday. Introit in 1549, Ps. cxix., 21st portion.

In Sar. Miss. and in Com. Pam. the Epistle ended with v. 17, not with v. 20, as ours.

The Gospel ended with v. 53, not 54.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Gal. vi. 11—18.

The Gospel, that for the 4th Sunday of St Luke, is Luke viii. 5—8 ('Ἐκατονταπλασίονα'), 9—16, 2nd half of v. 8.

On the 11th of October, if a Sunday, or on the Sunday next succeeding it, the same commemoration is made of the 2nd Council of Nice as on the 13th of July. The special Epistle, Tit. iii. 8—15, and Gospel, Matt. v. 14—19, are added to the Epistle and Gospel of the day.

THE TWENTIETH AND TWENTY-FIRST SUNDAYS AFTER TRINITY.

and rule our hearts; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. iv. 17.

THIS I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind; having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart: who, being past feeling, have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness. But ye have not so learned Christ; if so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus: that ye put off, concerning the former conversation, the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness. Wherefore, putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbour: for we are members one of another. Be ye angry and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath: neither give place to the devil. Let him that stole steal no more; but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth. Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers. And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil-speaking, be put away from you, with all malice. And be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.

The Gospel. St. Matth. ix. 1.

JESUS entered into a ship, and passed over, and came into his own city. And behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed. And Jesus, seeing their faith, said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, be of good cheer, thy sins be forgiven thee. And behold, certain of the Scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth. And Jesus, knowing their thoughts, said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee? or to say, Arise, and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house. But when the multitude saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, who had given such power unto men.

The Twentieth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O ALMIGHTY and most merciful God, of thy bountiful goodness keep us, we beseech thee, from all things that may hurt us; that we, being ready both in body and soul, may cheerfully accomplish those things that thou wouldest have done; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. v. 15.

SEE then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil. Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is. And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit; speaking to yourselves in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs; singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord; giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ; submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xxii. 1.

JESUS said, The Kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, who made a marriage for his son; and sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding; and they would not come. Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner; my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready; come unto the marriage. But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise: and the remnant took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them. But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth; and he sent forth his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burnt up their city. Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they who were bidden were not worthy. Go ye therefore into the high-ways, and as many as ye shall find bid to the marriage. So those servants went out into the high-ways, and gathered together all, as many as they found, both bad and good; and the wedding was furnished with guests. And when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man which had not on a wedding-garment. And he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither, not having a wedding-garment? And he was speechless. Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him into outer darkness: there shall he be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few are chosen.

The Twenty-first Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

GRANT, we beseech thee, merciful Lord, to thy faithful people pardon and peace, that they may be cleansed from all their sins, and serve thee with a quiet mind; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. vi. 10.

MY brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and, having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth; and having on the breast-plate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the Gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked; and take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God; praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance, and supplication for all saints; and for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the Gospel, for which I am an ambassador in bonds; that therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak.

The Gospel. St. John iv. 46.

THERE was a certain nobleman, whose son was sick at Capernaum. When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judaea into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought him that he would come down and heal his son; for he was at the point of death. Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe. The nobleman saith unto him, Sir, come down ere my child die. Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way, thy son liveth. And Until 1662 the word 'assoil' was used, not 'absolve.'

In Sar. Miss. and Com. Pam. the Epistle began with v. 9 and ended with v. 11.

The Gospel ended with v. 22, not with v. 26, as in our Order.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Eph. iv. 1—7.

TWENTY-SECOND TO THE TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY.

the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way. And, as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth. Then inquired he of them the hour when he began to amend: and they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him. So the father knew that it was at the same hour, in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth; and himself believed, and his whole house. This is again the second miracle that Jesus did, when he was come out of Judaea into Galilee.

The Twenty-second Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

LORD, we beseech thee to keep thy household the Church in continual godliness; that through thy protection it may be free from all adversities, and devoutly given to serve thee in good works, to the glory of thy Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Philip. i. 3.

I THANK my God upon every remembrance of you, (always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy,) for your fellowship in the Gospel from the first day until now; being confident of this very thing, that he who hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ; even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, because I have you in my heart, inasmuch as both in my bonds, and in the defence and confirmation of the Gospel, ye all are partakers of my grace. For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ. And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge, and in all judgement: that ye may approve things that are excellent, that ye may be sincere, and without offence, till the day of Christ: being filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xviii. 21.

PETER said unto Jesus, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, until seven times; but until seventy times seven. Therefore is the Kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants. And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand talents. But forasmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made. The servant therefore fell down and worshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt. But the same servant went out, and found one of his fellow-servants, which owed him an hundred pence; and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest. And his fellow-servant fell down at his feet, and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. And he would not; but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt. So when his fellow-servants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done. Then his lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me: shouldst not thou also have had compassion on thy fellow-servant, even as I had pity on thee? And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due unto him. So likewise shall my heavenly Father do also unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses.

The Twenty-third Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O GOD, our refuge and strength, who art the author of all godliness; Be ready, we beseech thee, to hear the devout prayers of thy Church; and grant that those things which we ask faithfully we may obtain effectually; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Phillip. iii. 17.

BRETHREN, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ye have us for an ensample. (For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ; whose end is destruction, whose god is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.) For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ; who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xxii. 15.

THEN went the Pharisees and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk. And they sent out unto him their disciples, with the Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth, neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men. Tell us therefore, what thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Cæsar, or not? But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? shew me the tribute-money. And they brought unto him a penny. And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? They say unto him, Cæsar's. Then saith he unto them, Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's; and unto God the things that are God's. When they had heard these words, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

The Twenty-fourth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

O LORD, we beseech thee, absolve thy people from their offences; that through thy bountiful goodness we may all be delivered from the bands of those sins, which by our frailty we have committed: Grant this, O heavenly Father, for Jesus Christ's sake, our blessed Lord and Saviour. Amen.

The Epistle. Coloss. i. 3.

WE give thanks to God and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you, since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus, and of the love which ye have to all the saints; for the hope which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the Gospel; which is come unto you, as it is in all the world, and bringeth forth fruit, as it doth also in you, since the day ye heard of it, and knew the grace of God in truth. As ye also learned of Epaphras, our dear fellow-servant, who is for you a faithful minister of Christ; who also declared unto us your love in the Spirit. For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding: that ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increas-‘Excita quæsumus Domine tuorum fidelium voluntates ut divini operis fructum propensius exequentes pietatis tuæ remedia majora percipiant. Per Dominum.’ Miss. Sar., MS. of Leofric, Sacrament. of Greg.

The portion for the Epistle and the Gospel in Sar. Miss. and in Com. Pam. are the same as ours.

It may be noticed that the same Gospel is read on the 4th Sunday in Lent, but that on that Sunday the extract begins with v. 1.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Eph. v. 8—19.

The Gospel, that for the 7th Sunday of St Luke, is Luke viii. 41—56.

In the case which we have supposed, that Easter Day falls on March 22nd, there will be 27 Sundays after Trinity.

The Epistle in the Greek Church for the 26th will be Eph. vi. 10—17.

The Gospel, that for the 8th Sunday of St Luke, is Luke x. 25—37.

For the 27th the Epistle will be Col. i. 12—18.

The Gospel, that for the 9th Sunday of St Luke, is Luke xii. 16—21.

A rubric in the Sar. Miss. provided that this Collect, Epistle, and Gospel should always be used on the Sunday next before Advent. No directions were appended in 1549, but after that time a rubric to the same purport as our present one has been inserted.

¶ The observance of Saints’ Days seems to have arisen from the custom of meeting annually at the graves of the martyrs to hold religious services, in thankful remembrance of the grace given to those who had resisted unto blood. The acts of the martyrs were read on these occasions, and an exhortation to practise the same virtues was addressed to the living. The Church of Smyrna states its intention of holding such an annual commemoration at the grave of Polycarp, martyred 167; in the Acts of Ignatius, martyred 107, a similar intention is expressed on the part of the Church of Antioch. The Church of Smyrna strongly disclaims any intention of paying worship to the martyred bishop; their assembly was a token of affection for him whom they had lost, and a mode of stimulating similar zeal. These annual commemorations were originally confined to the Churches with which the martyrs had been connected. In process of time a disposition arose to exaggerate the merits of the martyrs and to praise them in language well nigh, if not quite, blasphemous. From the continuance of such a habit appears to have arisen the excessive adoration of saints in the Romish Church. These commemorative festivals were at first restricted to the case of martyrs. Similar celebrations were subsequently instituted in memory of confessors and of other eminently pious persons.

¶ Origen states that St Andrew travelled into Scythia; on other authority we are told that he preached in Epirus and Achaia. He is said to have been crucified at Patræ by order of the Proconsul. His bones were removed from that city to Rome 359, from which time we may perhaps date his festival.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxxix.

In 1549 the Collect was, ‘Almighty God, which hast given such grace to thy Apostle Saint Andrew, that he counted the sharp and painful death of the cross to be a high honour and a great glory: Grant us to take and esteem all troubles and adversities which shall come unto us for thy sake as things profitable for us toward the obtaining of everlasting life, through Jesus Christ our Lord.’ The present Collect was composed in 1552.

In the Sar. Miss., the MS. of Leofric, and Com. Pam. the Epistle is Rom. x. 10—18.

The Gospel is the same as ours.

It is appropriate that the Festival of St Andrew, the first called among the Apostles, should be first in the ecclesiastical year: there appears a question whether this is accidental or not. Hospinian states that Gregory the Great had so great a regard for this Apostle as to make his office the first.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is 1 Cor. iv. 9—16.

The morning Gospel is Matt. iv. 18—23.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is John i. 35—51.

St Andrew is usually represented holding in his hand a cross saltire, or leaning upon it.

¶ St Thomas is stated, by Origen and other writers, to have preached in Parthia. The connection of the Christians of India and of Malabar with Thomas the Apostle is very doubtful. His body is said by Rufinus, in the 4th century, to have been at Edessa. There is no good authority for his martyrdom. The festival is mentioned by Theodoret in the 5th century. A commemoration of St Thomas is appointed for the 21st of December in Athelstan’s Psalter, 703.

St Thomas is represented as handling our Lord’s wounds; or, in reference to a late tradition of his martyrdom, with a lance or spear; also holding a carpenter’s square.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxxviii.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

ing in the knowledge of God; strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all patience and long-suffering with joyfulness; giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light.

The Gospel. St. Matth. ix. 13.

WHILE Jesus spake these things unto John's disciples, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is even now dead; but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live. And Jesus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples. (And behold, a woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment; for she said within herself, If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole. But Jesus turned him about, and, when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort, thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.) And when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw the minstrels and the people making a noise, he said unto them, Give place; for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn. But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose. And the fame hereof went abroad into all that land.

The Twenty-fifth Sunday after Trinity.

The Collect.

STIR up, we beseech thee, O Lord, the wills of thy faithful people; that they, plenteously bringing forth the fruit of good works, may of thee be plenteously rewarded; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Jer. xxiii. 5.

BEHOOLD, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign, and prosper, and shall execute judgement and justice in the earth. In his days Judah shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell safely: and this is his Name whereby he shall be called, THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS. Therefore behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that they shall no more say, The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt; but, The Lord liveth, which brought up, and which led the seed of the house of Israel out of the north-country, and from all countries whither I had driven them; and they shall dwell in their own land.

The Gospel. St. John vi. 5.

WHEN Jesus then lift up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread that these may eat? (And this he said to prove him; for he himself knew what he would do.) Philip answered him, Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little. One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him, There is a lad here, which hath five barley-loaves, and two small fishes; but what are they among so many? And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand. And Jesus took the loaves, and, when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down, and likewise of the fishes, as much as they would. When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost. Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley-loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten. Then those men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth that Prophet that should come into the world.

¶ If there be any more Sundays before Advent-Sunday, the Service of some of those Sundays that were omitted after the Epiphany shall be taken in to supply so many as are here wanting. And if there be fewer, the overplus may be omitted: Provided that this last Collect, Epistle, and Gospel shall always be used upon the Sunday next before Advent.

Saint Andrew's Day.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, who didst give such grace unto thy holy Apostle Saint Andrew, that he readily obeyed the calling of thy Son Jesus Christ, and followed him without delay; Grant unto us all, that we, being called by thy holy Word, may forthwith give up ourselves obediently to fulfil thy holy commandments; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Rom. x. 9.

IF thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. For the Scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed. For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him. For whosoever shall call upon the Name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on him, in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in him, of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach, except they be sent? As it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the Gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things! But they have not all obeyed the Gospel. For Esaias saith, Lord, who hath believed our report? So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God. But I say, Have they not heard? Yes verily, their sound went into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world. But I say, Did not Israel know? First Moses saith, I will provoke you to jealousy by them that are no people, and by a foolish nation I will anger you. But Esaias is very bold, and saith, I was found of them that sought me not; I was made manifest unto them that asked not after me. But to Israel he saith, All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people.

The Gospel. St. Matth. iv. 18.

JESUS, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, (for they were fishers;) and he saith unto them, Follow me; and I will make you fishers of men. And they straightway left their nets, and followed him. And going on from thence he saw other two brethren, James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ship with Zebedee their father, mending their nets; and he called them. And they immediately left the ship and their father, and followed him.

Saint Thomas the Apostle.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY and everliving God, who for the more confirmation of the faith didst suffer thy holy Apostle Thomas to be doubtful in thy Son's resurrection; Grant us so perfectly, and without all doubt, to believe in thy Son Jesus Christ, that our faith in thy sight may never

The Epistle is taken from the Sar. Miss.

The Gospel in the Miss. ends at v. 29, not 31.

The Greek Church calls the 1st Sunday after Easter the Sunday of St Thomas, and commemorates him on that day. The Epistle has no reference to St Thomas.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is John xx. 19—31.

He is also commemorated on the 6th of October. The Epistle is 1 Cor. iv. 9—16; Gospel, John xx. 19—31.

¶ The commemoration of the Conversion of St Paul appears to have arisen from a sense of the importance of that event to the Christian Church at large, and from the desire to assign a separate festival to St Paul, whose martyrdom was celebrated in conjunction with that of St Peter. According to Eusebius, who quotes Caius Romanus, Tertullian, Origen, and Dionysius of Corinth, the Apostles were martyred, St Peter crucified, St Paul beheaded, by order of Nero, on the same day, June 29th, 67, or Feb. 22nd, 68, for the actual day is disputed; and their bodies were buried, one on the Ostian way, the other in the Vatican, until removed by Xystus, 119—128, to the catacombs for greater security in time of persecution. St Jerome tells us that he frequently went to see their sepulchres in the catacombs among the rest of the martyrs. The festival of the martyrdom of St Peter and St Paul is one of the most ancient Apostolic festivals, and is as old as the end of the 4th century. Of a special celebration of the Conversion of St Paul Guericke states that no trace is to be found before the 12th century. We have, however, a special Epistle and Gospel for the festival in the MS. of Leofr. and in the Com. Pam., which are evidence against this assertion.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxxxviii.

The Collect in the Sar. Miss. for this day is, 'Dens qui universum mundum beati Pauli Apostoli tui prædicatione docuisti, da nobis quæsumus ut qui ejus hodie conversionem colimus per ejus ad te exempla gradiamur. Per.'

The Collect is found in the Ambrosian Miss. and in the MS. of Leofric.

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss. is the same as ours, MS. Leofr., Com. Pam.

The Gospel ends with the words 'everlasting life.' MS. Leofr., Com. Pam.

The Greek Church has no festival of the Conversion of St Paul.

St Paul is represented as resting upon a sword; as holding one or two swords; as holding a sword and a book; or with three springs, supposed to have risen from the three spots where his head bounded after his decapitation.

¶ The Festival of Hypapante, Symeon's meeting of Christ in the temple, dates from the reign of Justinian, 542. The emperor is said to have instituted it on occasion of an earthquake which destroyed half the city of Pompeiopolis, and of other calamities. It was considered in the Greek Church as one of the feasts belonging to our Lord (Δεσποτικά έορτά). The second name was given in the 9th century by the Roman pontiffs. The custom of carrying candles in the Roman Church on this festival seems derivable from the heathen feast in honour of Proserpine, for whom Ceres searched with lighted torches. In memory thereof the heathens kept a feast of lights. To this the Roman Church gave a different turn, and applied the honour to the Virgin as mother of the true light.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxxxiv.

'Omnipotens sempiternæ Deus majestatem tuam supplices exoramus ut sicut unigenitus Filius tuus hodierna die cum nostræ carnis substantia in templo est præsentatus ita nos facias purificatis tibi mentibus præsentari. Per eundem Dominum.' Miss. Sar., MS. of Leofr., Sacrament. of Greg.

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss., the MS. of Leofric, and the Com. Pam. ended with v. 4.

The Gospel ended with v. 32, not v. 40.

In the Greek Church the prelude (προκείμενον) of this festival, which retains its first name, Hypapante, is, 'My soul doth magnify the Lord, for he hath regarded the lowliness of his handmaiden.'

The Epistle is Heb. vii. 7—17.

The morning Gospel is Luke ii. 25—33.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is Luke ii. 22—40.

A Festival of Symeon and Anna is kept on the following day.

be reproved. Hear us, O Lord, through the same Jesus Christ, to whom, with thee and the Holy Ghost, be all honour and glory, now and for evermore. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. ii. 19.

NOW therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner-stone; in whom all the building, fitly framed together, groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord; in whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God, through the Spirit.

The Gospel. St. John xx. 24.

THOMAS, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe. And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you. Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side; and be not faithless, but believing. And Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord, and my God. Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed. And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book. But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his Name.

The Conversion of Saint Paul.

The Collect.

O GOD, who, through the preaching of the blessed Apostle Saint Paul, hast caused the light of the Gospel to shine throughout the world; Grant, we beseech thee, that we, having his wonderful conversion in remembrance, may shew forth our thankfulness unto thee for the same; by following the holy doctrine which he taught; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts ix. 1.

AND Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest, and desired of him letters to Damascus to the synagogues, that, if he found any of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem. And, as he journeyed, he came near Damascus, and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven. And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks. And he, trembling and astonished, said, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do. And the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man. And Saul arose from the earth, and when his eyes were opened he saw no man; but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus. And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink. And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, named Ananias, and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord. And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and inquire in the house of Judas for one called Saul, of Tarsus: for behold, he prayeth, and hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias, coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight. Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem; and here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all that call on thy Name. But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way; for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my Name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel: for I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my Name's sake. And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and, putting his hands on him, said, Brother Saul, the Lord, (even Jesus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest,) hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost. And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales; and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized. And when he had received meat, he was strengthened. Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus. And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God. But all that heard him were amazed, and said, Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this Name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he might bring them bound unto the chief priests? But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, proving that this is very Christ.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xix. 27.

PETER answered and said unto Jesus, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore? And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my Name's sake, shall receive an hundred-fold, and shall inherit everlasting life. But many that are first shall be last, and the last shall be first.

THE PRESENTATION OF CHRIST IN THE TEMPLE,

COMMONLY CALLED,

The Purification of Saint Mary the Virgin.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY and everliving God, we humbly beseech thy Majesty, that, as thy only-begotten Son was this day presented in the temple in substance of our flesh, so we may be presented unto thee with pure and clean hearts, by the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Mal. iii. 1.

BEHOULD, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple; even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in; behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts. But who may abide the day of his coming? and who shall stand when he appeareth? for he is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap. And he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may offer unto the Lord an offering in righteousness. Then shall the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasant unto the Lord, as in the days of old, and as in ¶ The history of Matthias is unknown. Sophronius, c. 380, relates that he preached in Æthiopia. Whether he died a natural death, or was martyred, is uncertain. In the old mode of reckoning there was some doubt as to the day on which he should be commemorated in Leap-year. The festival is mentioned in Athelstan's Psalter, 703, and occurs also in a German Martyrology, supposed to be nearly co-eval with Gregory the Great.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxl.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in Sar. Miss.

The Greek Church keeps a Festival of St Matthias on the 9th of August.

The Epistle is Acts i. 12—17, 21—26.

The Gospel is Luke x. 16—21.

St Matthias is represented as bearing a halbert; leaning upon a sword; holding a sword by the point; a lance, hatchet or axe; with a stone in his hand; with a carpenter's square; with a book and scymitar.

¶ Of the Festival of the Annunciation Bingham writes, that it was come into use before the Council of Trullo, 692; for that Council, renewing a prohibition of the Council of Laodicea, makes a further exception in behalf of the Annunciation, forbidding all festivals to be kept in Lent except the Sabbath and the Lord's-day and the Holy Annunciation; which shews that by this time it was become a noted festival, and therefore we may date its original at least as far back as the 7th century, when we find that sermons began to be made upon it.

former years. And I will come near to you to judgement, and I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, and against false-swearers, and against those that oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, and fear not me, saith the Lord of hosts.

The Gospel. St. Luke ii. 22.

AND when the days of her purification, according to the Law of Moses, were accomplished, they brought him to Jerusalem, to present him to the Lord; (as it is written in the Law of the Lord, Every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy to the Lord;) and to offer a sacrifice, according to that which is said in the Law of the Lord, A pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons. And behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and the same man was just and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel: and the Holy Ghost was upon him. And it was revealed unto him by the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ. And he came by the Spirit into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the Law, then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said, Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people; a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel. And Joseph and his mother marvelled at those things which were spoken of him. And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for a sign which shall be spoken against; (yea, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also;) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed. And there was one Anna a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser; she was of a great age, and had lived with an husband seven years from her virginity: and she was a widow of about fourscore and four years; which departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers night and day. And she coming in that instant gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem. And when they had performed all things according to the Law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee to their own city Nazareth. And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him.

Saint Matthias's Day.

The Collect.

O ALMIGHTY God, who into the place of the traitor Judas didst choose thy faithful servant Matthias to be of the number of the twelve Apostles; Grant that thy Church, being always preserved from false Apostles, may be ordered and guided by faithful and true pastors; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts i. 15.

IN those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said, (the number of the names together were about an hundred and twenty,) Men and brethren, this Scripture must needs have been fulfilled, which the Holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before concerning Judas, which was guide to them that took Jesus: for he was numbered with us, and had obtained part of this ministry. Now this man purchased a field with the reward of iniquity; and falling headlong he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out. And it was known unto all the dwellers at Jerusalem, insomuch as that field is called in their proper tongue, Acedama, that is to say, The field of blood. For it is written in the book of Psalms, Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein; and, His bishoprick let another take. Wherefore, of these men which have companied with us all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us, beginning from the baptism of John, unto that same day that he was taken up from us, must one be ordained to be a witness with us of his resurrection. And they appointed two, Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias. And they prayed, and said, Thou, Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen; that he may take part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place. And they gave forth their lots; and the lot fell upon Matthias, and he was numbered with the eleven Apostles.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xi. 25.

AT that time Jesus answered and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes. Even so, Father, for so it seemed good in thy sight. All things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him. Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.

The Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The Collect.

WE beseech thee, O Lord, pour thy grace into our hearts; that, as we have known the incarnation of thy Son Jesus Christ by the message of an angel, so by his cross and passion we may be brought unto the glory of his resurrection; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Isai. vii. 10.

MOREOVER, the Lord spake again unto Ahaz, saying, Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God; ask it either in the depth, or in the height above. But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord. And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David; Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also? Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a Virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel. Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil, and choose the good.

The Gospel. St. Luke i. 26.

AND in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee named Nazareth, to a Virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the Virgin's name was Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women. And when she saw him she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be. And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary; for thou hast found favour with God. And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a Son, and shalt call his name JESUS. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David. And he shall reign over the ¶ St Mark, the companion of St Peter, is related to have written his Gospel under the direction of that Apostle. He founded, or rather superintended, the Church of Alexandria, where he is said to have been martyred in attempting to stop the worship of Serapis, c. 64. His body was carried to Venice, 465. The festival is as old as 730.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxli.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

The Epistle in Sar. Miss. ends with v. 13, not 16, as in our Order.

The Gospel ended with v. 7, not with v. 11, as ours.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is 1 Pet. v. 6—14.

The Gospel is Luke x. 16—21.

The Great Litany of St Mark's Day was instituted by Gregory the Great, 590, on occasion of a pestilence in Rome. It was received in England by the Council of Cloveshoo, 747.

Seven processions set out from different Churches, and met in one principal Church for a solemn service. Thus commenced the Litanía Septena; and from the circumstances of its origin the Litany on St Mark's Day is called the Litanía Major, although the service used does not differ from that of the rogations.

St Mark is represented with a lion by his side; seated, a fig-tree behind him; strangled; dragged by the neck.

¶ Of the Evangelistic symbols the following interpretation may be given:

The angel with human face, assigned to St Matthew, alludes to the humanity of our Lord, on which he especially dwells.

The lion of St Mark represents the royal character of the Son of David.

The ox, or calf, of St Luke sets forth the sacrificial nature of the Redeemer.

The soaring sublimity of St John is expressed by the eagle.

¶ Philip the Apostle lived for some time, and died at Hierapolis in Phrygia. He had two unmarried daughters, who attained a great age and were buried at Hierapolis.

If James, the son of Alphæus, were not the same person as James the Bishop of Jerusalem, we know nothing of his history. If he were, then he presided for 30 years over the Church there, and was martyred, 62; he received his death-blow from a fuller's club.

We find the Festival of St Philip and St James in Bede, 730. In other calendars a separate day is assigned to St James, June 22nd.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxxxiii.

The Collect was composed in 1549, and ran as follows: 'Almighty God, whom truly to know is everlasting life:

grant us perfectly to know thy Son Jesus Christ to be the way, the truth, and the life, as thou hast taught St Philip and other the Apostles; through Jesus Christ our Lord.'

This was altered to its present form in 1662.

The Epistle in Sar. Miss. is Wisdom v. 1—6.

The Gospel in Sar. Miss. and in MS. of Leofric is the same as ours.

In the Greek Church the Festival of St Philip is kept on the 14th of November.

The Epistle is Acts viii. 26—39.

This selection has reference to Philip the Deacon.

The Gospel, John i. 44—51, to Philip the Apostle.

James, the son of Alphæus, is commemorated on the 9th of October.

The Epistle is 1 Cor. iv. 9—16.

The Gospel is Matt. ix. 36—x. 8.

James, the Lord's brother, the first Bishop of Jerusalem, is commemorated on the 23rd of October.

The Epistle is Gal. i. 11—19.

The Gospel is Matt. xiii. 54—58.

St James is represented with a fuller's club in his hand; as a child with a toy-mill in his hand; as a child with a palm-branch; his brains beaten out with a fuller's club; a saw in his hand.

St Philip is represented with a basket in his hand; a basket held up; a basket with bread; two loaves and a cross; three loaves in his hand; cross in his left, money in right hand; bearing a knotted cross; crucified with his head downwards; with a tall cross and book; devils and idols driven away and overthrown by the cross from an altar; serpent drawn from beneath an altar of Mars; a spear and double cross.

¶ The history of Barnabas, apart from the facts recorded in Scripture, is very obscure. A late and suspicious tradition connects him with the foundation of the Church in Milan; the evidence for his having been stoned to death at Salamis by the unbelieving Jews is unworthy of credit.

The Epistle bearing his name, if genuine, proves him to have survived the destruction of Jerusalem. Its authenticity is however very doubtful; Burton considers it a document of the early part of the 2nd century.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxlii.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

In the Sar. Miss. the Epistle is merely the Epistle in 'Vigilia unius Apostoli,' viz. Eph. ii. 19—22; but in the Roman Miss. vers. 1—3 of Acts xiii. are added to our Epistle.

The Gospel in Sar. Miss. is the same as ours.

house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end. Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man? And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God. And behold, thy cousin Elisabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age; and this is the sixth month with her who was called barren: for with God nothing shall be impossible. And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.

Saint Mark's Day.

The Collect.

O ALMIGHTY God, who hast instructed thy holy Church with the heavenly doctrine of thy Evangelist Saint Mark; Give us grace, that, being not like children carried away with every blast of vain doctrine, we may be established in the truth of thy holy Gospel; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Ephes. iv. 7.

UNTO every one of us is given grace, according to the measure of the gift of Christ. Wherefore he saith, When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men. (Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth? He that descended is the same also that ascended up far above all heavens, that he might fill all things.) And he gave some Apostles, and some Prophets, and some Evangelists, and some Pastors and Teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ; till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ; that we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive; but speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ: from whom the whole body fitly joined together, and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body, unto the edifying of itself in love.

The Gospel. St. John xv. 1.

I AM the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit; for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples. As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love. If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love. These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

Saint Philip and Saint James's Day.

The Collect.

O ALMIGHTY God, whom truly to know is everlasting life; Grant us perfectly to know thy Son Jesus Christ to be the way, the truth, and the life; that, following the steps of thy holy Apostles, Saint Philip and Saint James, we may stedfastly walk in the way that leadeth to eternal life; through the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. St. James i. 1.

JAMES, a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad, greeting. My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing. If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him. But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering; for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven with the wind, and tossed. For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord. A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways. Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted; but the rich in that he is made low; because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away. For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

The Gospel. St. John xiv. 1.

AND Jesus said unto his disciples, Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you: and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also. And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know. Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest, and how can we know the way? Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me. If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him. Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father? Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? The words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself; but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works. Believe me, that I am in the Father, and the Father in me; or else believe me for the very works' sake. Verily, verily I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my Name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask any thing in my Name, I will do it.

Saint Barnabas the Apostle.

The Collect.

O LORD God Almighty, who didst endue thy holy Apostle Barnabas with singular gifts of the Holy Ghost; Leave us not, we beseech thee, destitute of thy manifold gifts, nor yet of

In the Greek Church Barnabas and Bartholomew are commemorated together on the 11th of June.

The Epistle is Acts xi. 19—30.

The Gospel is Luke x. 16—21.

The Festival of St Barnabas is noted in Bede and in calendars of the 8th century.

Barnabas is represented as holding St Matthew's Gospel; as stoned; as pressing a stone to his breast; as burnt to death; with an open book and staff; with three stones; with a fire near him.

¶ If our Lord's birth be celebrated on the 25th of December, the birth of John the Baptist would naturally precede this date by six months. In the increment and decrement of days from these periods respectively, allusion is found by Augustine and Cæsarius of Arles to the passage, 'He must increase, but I must decrease.'

There is a manifest reason for commemorating the birth of John the Baptist; the natalitia of other holy men are the days of their death, their heavenly, not their earthly birth.

The institution of the festival is as old as the 4th or 5th century.

The Decollation of St John, Aug. 29th, is of a later date, and was of far more restricted acceptance.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxliii.

The Collect was composed in 1549, but the word penance was used instead of repentance; this was altered in 1604.

The portion for the Epistle is found in a Gallican Lectionary; it ends there with the words 'work before him.'

In the Sar. Miss. the portion is Is. xlix. 1—7.

In the Sar. Miss., the MS. of Leofric, and Com. Pam. the Gospel ends with v. 68.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Rom. xiii. 11—xiv. 1—4.

The morning Gospel is Luke i. 24, 25, 57—68, 76, 80.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is Luke i. 1—25, 57—68, 76, 80.

St John is represented with a lamb on a book, small cross, close crown or cap; tunic of camel's hair; cope fastened with two leather thongs crossed; with a lamb on a book; with lamb and cross on a book; lamb and cross; lamb; lamb's trotter; lamb and locust; his head on a dish.

¶ See notes on Conversion of St Paul.

The Apostles Peter and Paul are said to have suffered martyrdom at Rome on the same day, 29th of June, A.D. 67, by order of Nero. The day is, however, disputed, some placing the martyrdom on the 22nd of February, 68. In the Sar. Miss. the day still bears the names of both Apostles. Of all the festivals of the Apostles this claims to be the most ancient; it dates from the 4th century.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxliv.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

The Epistle and Gospel are the same as in the Sar. Miss., in MS. of Leofric, and Com. Pam.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is 2 Cor. xi. 21—xii. 9.

The morning Gospel is John xxi. 14—25.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is Matt. xvi. 13—19.

St Peter is represented with a key in his hand; with a key and church; key and double-barred cross; with two golden keys; with one gold and one silver key; with two keys, open book, with the words 'Credo in Deum Patrem omnipotentem'; with keys and closed book; keys and cross; keys held back to back so as to give the appearance of a cross held downwards; in chains in prison; weeping, cock crowing near him; meeting our Saviour on the Appian way; crucified with his head downwards; banner with six roses.

SAINT JOHN BAPTIST'S DAY.—SAINT PETER'S DAY.

grace to use them alway to thy honour and glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts xi. 22.

FINDINGS of these things came unto the ears of the Church which was in Jerusalem; and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch. Who, when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad; and exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord. For he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost, and of faith; and much people was added unto the Lord. Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Saul. And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves with the Church, and taught much people; and the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch. And in these days came prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioch. And there stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified by the Spirit, that there should be great dearth throughout all the world; which came to pass in the days of Claudius Caesar. Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea. Which also they did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

The Gospel. St. John xv. 12.

THIS is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you. Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you. Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my Name, he may give it you.

Saint John Baptist's Day.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, by whose providence thy servant John Baptist was wonderfully born, and sent to prepare the way of thy Son our Saviour, by preaching of repentance; Make us so to follow his doctrine and holy life, that we may truly repent according to his preaching; and after his example constantly speak the truth, boldly rebuke vice, and patiently suffer for the truth's sake; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Isai. xl. 1.

COMFORT ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, That her warfare is accomplished; that her iniquity is pardoned: for she hath received of the Lord's hand double for all her sins. The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a high-way for our God. Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low, and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain. And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. The voice said, Cry. And he said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the goodness thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass withereth, the flowerfadeth, because the Spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it: surely the people is grass. The grass withereth, the flowerfadeth; but the word of our God shall stand for ever. O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain: O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid: say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God. Behold, the Lord God will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him. He shall feed his flock like a shepherd; he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young.

The Gospel. St. Luke i. 57.

ELISABETH'S full time came that she should be delivered; and she brought forth a son. And her neighbours and her cousins heard how the Lord had shewed great mercy upon her; and they rejoiced with her. And it came to pass, that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child; and they called him Zacharias, after the name of his father. And his mother answered and said, Not so; but he shall be called John. And they said unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name. And they made signs to his father, how he would have him called. And he asked for a writing-table, and wrote, saying, His name is John. And they marvelled all. And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue loosed, and he spake, and praised God. And fear came on all that dwelt round about them; and all these sayings were noised abroad throughout all the hill-country of Judea. And all they that had heard them laid them up in their hearts, saying, What manner of child shall this be? And the hand of the Lord was with him. And his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel: for he hath visited and redeemed his people, and hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David; as he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began; that we should be saved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us; to perform the mercy promised to our fathers, and to remember his holy covenant; the oath which he swore to our father Abraham, that he would grant unto us, that we, being delivered out of the hands of our enemies, might serve him without fear, in holiness and righteousness before him all the days of our life. And thou, Child, shalt be called the Prophet of the Highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways; to give knowledge of salvation unto his people, by the remission of their sins, through the tender mercy of our God, whereby the day-spring from on high hath visited us; to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace. And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit; and was in the deserts till the day of his shewing unto Israel.

Saint Peter's Day.

The Collect.

O 'ALMIGHTY God, who by thy Son Jesus Christ didst give to thy Apostle Saint Peter many excellent gifts, and commandedst him earnestly to feed thy flock; Make, we beseech thee, all Bishops and Pastors diligently to preach thy holy Word, and the people obediently to follow the same, that they may receive the crown of everlasting glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts xli. 1.

ABOUT that time Herod the king stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the Church. And he killed James the brother of John with the sword. And, because he saw it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further to take Peter also. (Then were the days of unleavened bread.) And when he had apprehended him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to keep him, intending after Easter to bring him forth to the people. Peter therefore ¶ In 1549 a Collect, Epistle, and Gospel were appointed for the 22nd of July, in remembrance of Mary Magdalene.

The Introit was Ps. cxlvi.

The Collect, composed in 1549, was 'Merciful Father, give us grace that we may never presume to sin, through the example of any creature; but if it shall chance us at any time to offend thy divine majesty, that then we may truly repent and lament the same after the example of Mary Magdalene, and by lively faith obtain remission of all our sins, through the only merits of thy Son our Saviour Christ.'

The portion for the Epistle was Prov. xxxi. 10—31, as in Sar. Miss.

The Gospel, Luke vii. 36—50, as in Sar. Miss.

The earliest mention of the festival is in the Council of Toulouse, A.D. 1229.

The Greek Church keeps a festival on this day.

The Epistle is 1 Cor. ix. 2—12.

The Gospel is Luke viii. 1—3.

It is very doubtful whether this passage in St Luke refers to Mary Magdalene.

Mary Magdalene is represented with a box of ointment in her hand; holding a vase; holding a boat and an open book; preaching to King René at Marseilles; holding a crucifix, open book before her with a skull upon it; skull in her hand or at her feet; angels taking her up to heaven; standing covered with her flowing hair; standing at the entrance of a cave, ointment-box on a book at her feet; receiving the Holy Communion from St Maximin.

¶ The Festival of St James is noted in a Martyrology of the 10th century, and in the Calendar of Athelstan's Psalter, A.D. 703. The translation of his body to Compostella is mythical.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxlviii.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

In the Sar. Miss. the Epistle is Eph. ii. 19—22.

In the Rom. Miss. the Epistle is 1 Cor. iv. 9—15.

The Gospel in Sar. Miss. ends with v. 23, not 28, as in our order.

In the Greek Church the festival of St James is April 30th.

The Epistle is Acts xii. 1—11.

The Gospel is Luke ix. 1—6.

St James is represented as a pilgrim with staff; with staff and shells; with staff, shell, hat and wallet; with staff and wallet with shell upon it; as a child with staff and wallet; with staff and book; holding a shell; on a white charger, conquering the Saracens; with a sword.

¶ A festival in honour of the seven martyred Maccabees, instituted in the 4th century, was celebrated with great solemnity on the 1st of August. Chrysostom, Gregory Nazianzen, and Augustine have homilies upon it.

¶ From a comparison of the Gospel narratives it is commonly inferred that Bartholomew is the same person as Nathaniel. He is said to have preached in India, and to have left a copy of St Matthew's Gospel in Hebrew there. The authority for this is Pantæus, A.D. c. 185. It is probable that by the term India the country south of Persia, perhaps Arabia Felix, is intended. The manner of Bartholomew's death, though variously given in martyrologies, is wholly uncertain. His festival is mentioned in Calendars of the 8th century.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxv.

'Omnipotens sempiterne Deus qui hujus dici venerandam sanctamque lætitiã in beati Bartholomæi Apostoli tui festivitati tribuisti, da Ecclesiæ tuæ quæsumus et amare quod credidit et prædicare quod docuit. Per Dominum nostrum.' Sar. Miss., MS. of Leofric, Sacrament. of Greg.

The portion for the Epistle and Gospel are the same in Sar. Miss.

In the Greek Church Bartholomew is commemorated with Barnabas on the 11th of June.

St Bartholomew is represented with a knife and book; with a knife in his hand, the devil under his feet; healing a Princess of Armenia.

¶ St Matthew is said, by writers of the 4th and 5th centuries, to have preached in Ethiopia; whether African or Asiatic Ethiopia is not stated. His history, except what we find in Scripture, is very uncertain. The festival of St Matthew is mentioned in a martyrology of the 10th century and in the Calendar of Athelstan's Psalter, A.D. 703.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxvii.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

The portion for the Epistle in the Sar. Miss. is Ezek. i. 10—13.

The Gospel in Sar. Miss. and in Com. Pam. is the same as ours.

In the Greek Church St Matthew is commemorated on the 16th of November.

The Epistle is 1 Cor. iv. 9—16.

The Gospel in the Greek Church is the same as ours.

St Matthew is represented as leaning on a short sword; ditto, with a dolphin at his feet; holding a money-bag; or three money-bags; holding a money-box; with an angel near him, crowned; angel holding inkstand for him; with halbert, book, and inkhorn; with axe and book; with battle-axe; with square; with tall cross of wood.

was kept in prison; but prayer was made without ceasing of the Church unto God for him. And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains; and the keepers before the door kept the prison. And behold, the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison; and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands. And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals: and so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me. And he went out and followed him; and wist not that it was true which was done by the angel; but thought he saw a vision. When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them of his own accord; and they went out, and passed on through one street, and forthwith the angel departed from him. And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that the Lord hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xvi. 13.

WHEN Jesus came into the coasts of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I, the Son of man, am? And they said, Some say that thou art John the Baptist, some Elias, and others Jeremias, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

Saint James the Apostle.

The Collect.

GRANT, O merciful God, that as thine holy Apostle Saint James, leaving his father and all that he had, without delay was obedient unto the calling of thy Son Jesus Christ, and followed him; so we, forsaking all worldly and carnal affections, may be evermore ready to follow thy holy commandments; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xx. 20.

WHEN came to him the mother of Zebedee's children with her sons, worshipping him, and desiring a certain thing of him. And he said unto her, What wilt thou? She saith unto him, Grant that these my two sons may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on the left, in thy kingdom. But Jesus answered and said, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with? They say unto him, We are able. And he saith unto them, Ye shall drink indeed of my cup, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with: but to sit on my right hand, and on my left, is not mine to give; but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father. And when the ten heard it, they were moved with indignation against the two brethren. But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them. But it shall not be so among you; but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant: even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.

Saint Bartholomew the Apostle.

The Collect.

O ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, who didst give to thine Apostle Bartholomew grace truly to believe and to preach thy Word; Grant, we beseech thee, unto thy Church, to love that Word which he believed, and both to preach and receive the same; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Acts v. 12.

BY the hands of the Apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people: (and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch; and of the rest durst no man join himself to them; but the people magnified them: and believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women;) insomuch that they brought forth the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow some of them. There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits; and they were healed every one.

The Gospel. St. Luke xxii. 24.

AND there was also a strife among them, A which of them should be accounted the greatest. And he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and they that exercise authority upon them are called benefactors. But ye shall not be so: but he that is greatest among you, let him be as the younger; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve. For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? is not he that sitteth at meat? but I am among you as he that serveth. Ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations. And I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me; that ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Saint Matthew the Apostle.

The Collect.

O ALMIGHTY God, who by thy blessed Son didst call Matthew from the receipt of custom to be an Apostle and Evangelist; Grant us grace to forsake all covetous desires, and inordinate love of riches, and to follow the same thy Son Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. 2 Cor. iv. 1.

THEREFORE seeing we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not; but

A festival of St Michael and All Angels, to commemorate the community of service between angels and men, has been observed since the 5th century.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxliii.

'Deus qui miro ordine angelorum ministeria hominumque dispensas concede propitius ut quibus tibi ministrantibus in cælo semper assistitur ab his in terra vita nostra muniatur.' Miss. Sar., MS. of Leofric, Sacrament. of Greg.

In Sar. Miss. the portion for the Epistle is Rev. i. 1—6.

The Gospel in Sar. Miss. and in Com. Pam. is the same as ours.

In the Greek Church the festival of St Michael and the Bodiless Powers is on the 8th of November.

The Epistle is Heb. ii. 2—10.

The morning Gospel is Matt. xviii. 10—20.

The Gospel at the Liturgy is Luke x. 16—21.

St Michael is represented in armour, striking a dragon with a sword; with a pair of scales, a black devil in one, a white figure in the other; with a pair of scales, devils in one, souls in the other, one devil fallen out and scale rising; weighing souls, devil depressing one scale; with sword and scales, two men in one, millstone in the other, which a dragon is pulling down; holding scales, devil pulling down one scale, soul in the other, the Virgin Mary throwing in a rosary, which weighs it down; holding scales, Satan pulling down one scale, St Michael piercing him with a cross-staff; with a lance and shield; piercing Satan with a long cross; ditto, and a short cross in his hand.

¶ The history of St Luke is to be gathered from the Acts and the Epistles of St Paul. Burton supposes him to have been a proselyte of Antioch, to have been left in charge of the Church at Philippi between the 1st and 2nd visit of the Apostle Paul, to have attended the Apostle in his two imprisonments at Cæsarea and at Rome, during which periods he may have been engaged on his Gospel and on the Acts respectively. He was believed to have been of the 70 disciples, but the preface to his Gospel rather militates against this supposition.

That he was a physician we know from Scripture; that he was a painter is a tradition of a later age, and seems to have arisen from the existence of a Byzantine hermit in the 10th century, who painted pictures of the Virgin. Jerome records that St Luke lived to be 84. He is said to have preached in Bithynia. His festival is mentioned in the Carthage Calendar, A.D. 484.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cxxxvii.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

In Sar. Miss. the portion for the Epistle was Ezek. i. 10—13.

The Gospel is the same as ours.

In the Greek Church the Epistle is Col. iv. 5—18.

The Gospel is Luke x. 16—21.

St Luke is represented with an ox lying near him; painting a portrait of the Virgin; holding a picture of the Virgin; with painting materials about him as a physician.

¶ St Simon is said to have preached in Egypt, Cyrene, and Mauritania.

St Jude is stated by Hegesippus to have married and left descendants, who were summoned before Domitian as possible aspirants to the kingdom of Judea. They shewed their horny hands, and convinced the emperor that the kingdom which they sought was not of this world.

According to Eusebius, who quotes Hegesippus, Symon, the Bishop of Jerusalem, who was martyred in the reign of Trajan, at the age of 120, was the son of Cleophas and brother of our Lord. By some he is identified with Simon the Canaanite. Simon and Jude are said by some to have preached the Gospel together, and Jude, as well as Simon, to have been crucified in the reign of Trajan. This last is very improbable.

The festival dates from the 11th century.

Introit in 1549, Ps. cl.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

In Sar. Miss. the Epistle is Rom. viii. 28—39.

The Gospel in Sar. Miss. and in Com. Pam. ends with v. 25, not, as ours, v. 27.

In the Greek Church St Simon Zelotes is commemorated on the 10th of May.

The Epistle is 1 Cor. iv. 9—16. There is no special Gospel.

St Jude is commemorated on June 10th. The Epistle of Jude is read.

The Gospel is John xiv. 21—24.

The Apostle Thaddeus' is commemorated on the 21st of August. No special Epistle is appointed. The Gospel is Mar. iii. 13—21.

St Simon is represented with a fish in his hand; a fish on the leaves of a closed book held with the leaves upwards; two fishes in his hand; an oar in his hand; a fuller's bat; a saw in his hand; sawn through longitudinally.

St Jude is represented with a boat in his hand; a child with a boat in his hand; with a boat-hook; a carpenter's square; a fuller's bat in his hand; a ship with sails in his hand; carrying loaves or fish; with a club; an inverted cross; with a medallion of our Saviour on his breast or in his hand; with a halbert.

have renounced the hidden things of dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor handling the Word of God deceitfully, but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God. But if our Gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost: in whom the God of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious Gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them. For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake. For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God, in the face of Jesus Christ.

The Gospel. St. Matth. ix. 9.

AND as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him. And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many Publicans and sinners came, and sat down with him and his disciples. And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Master with Publicans and sinners? But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice; for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

Saint Michael and all Angels.

The Collect.

OVERLASTING God, who hast ordained and constituted the services of Angels and men in a wonderful order; Mercifully grant, that as thy holy Angels always do thee service in heaven, so by thy appointment they may succour and defend us on earth; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Rev. xii. 7.

THERE was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels; and prevailed not, neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the devil and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world; he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night. And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death. Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabitants of the earth, and of the sea: for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.

The Gospel. St. Matth. xviii. 1.

AT the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the Kingdom of heaven? And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them, and said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the Kingdom of heaven. And whoso shall receive one such little child in my Name, receiveth me. But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea. Woe unto the world because of offences: for it must needs be that offences come: but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh. Wherefore if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into everlasting fire. And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into hell-fire. Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

Saint Luke the Evangelist.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, who calledst Luke the Physician, whose praise is in the Gospel, to be an Evangelist, and Physician of the soul; May it please thee, that, by the wholesome medicines of the doctrine delivered by him, all the diseases of our souls may be healed; through the merits of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 2 Tim. iv. 5.

WATCH thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an Evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry. For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing. Do thy diligence to come shortly unto me: for Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world, and is departed unto Thessalonica; Crescens to Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia. Only Luke is with me. Take Mark and bring him with thee: for he is profitable to me for the ministry. And Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus. The cloke that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee; and the books, but especially the parchments. Alexander the copper-smith did me much evil: the Lord reward him according to his works. Of whom be thou ware also, for he hath greatly withstood our words.

The Gospel. St. Luke x. 1.

THE Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place whither he himself would come. Therefore said he unto them, The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest. Go your ways; behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves. Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes, and salute no man by the way. And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house. And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it; if not, it shall turn to you again. And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give: for the labourer is worthy of his hire.

Saint Simon and Saint Jude, Apostles.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, who hast built thy Church upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the head corner-stone; Grant us so to be joined together in unity of spirit by their doctrine, that we may be made an holy temple acceptable unto thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ The commemoration of special saints and martyrs was observed by the Churches with which they were connected from a very early period. In addition to this the Church observed a day, probably Trinity Sunday, in memory of all saints. So Chrysostom tells us. In A.D. 610 Pope Boniface the 4th dedicated the Pantheon, of which he had obtained possession, to the Virgin and all saints. From this ultimately arose the festival of All Saints, which was observed in the 8th century, and became general after the decree of Pope Gregory IV. in A.D. 834.

Introit in 1549 was Ps. cxlix.

The Collect was composed in 1549.

The Epistle in the Sar. Miss. is the same as ours.

The Gospel ends with 'great is your reward in heaven.'

The Greek Church keeps this festival on the Sunday after Whitsunday.

The Epistle is Heb. xi. 33—xii. 1.

The Gospel is Matt. x. 32, 33, 37, 38 xix. 27—30.

THE HOLY COMMUNION.

¶ The earliest description of Christian worship, including Holy Communion, is given by Justin Martyr, A.D. 148, in these words:

'On the day called Sunday all the members of our body either in town or country meet together; the memorials of the Apostles, or the writings of the Prophets, are read for a certain space; at the end of these selections the president addresses the hearers, urging and encouraging them to rule their lives according to the excellent lessons that they have heard; then we all rise together and offer prayers; when these are ended, as we said before, bread, wine, and water are brought forth; the president utters both supplications and thanksgivings, as the occasion serves, to which the people respond with their Amen. From the offerings thus blessed one portion is distributed to those who are present, all of whom partake of the feast; another is conveyed by the deacons to those who are absent. The rich and liberal make contributions as their good-will prompts them; the whole contribution is entrusted to the care of the president, who is thus able to relieve orphans,' &c.

¶ In 1549 the first rubric required that the names should be given over night, or in the morning before matins, or else immediately after. When the habit of uniting the morning services had become general, the rubric assumed its present form in 1662.

¶ In primitive times the custom was that all the baptized worshippers should receive the Lord's Supper, except one class of penitents who were allowed to remain and hear the prayers, but not to offer their gifts or to communicate. Those who did not remain for the administration were subject to ecclesiastical censure. The Apostolical Canons of the Council of Antioch, 341, require that disorderly persons should be excommunicated. In Chrysostom's time laxity in communicating had commenced; he reproves it. In the Council of Agde, 506, the withdrawal of persons unwilling to communicate is recognised, and in the Council of Orleans, 511, not disapproved.

In early ages the bishop was directed to refuse, preliminary to communion, the gifts of men at envy and variance with their brethren; of noted and known oppressors of the poor; of thieves and harlots; of fraudulent hucksters; of covetous and adulterers; of fornicators; of those that oppressed the widow and fatherless; of those who filled the prisons with innocent persons, or evil-entreated their servants with stripes, famine, and hard bondage, and laid waste whole cities; corrupters and dishonest lawyers, idol-makers, extortionate publicans and fraudulent dealers; soldiers that accuse falsely, and are not content with their wages, but oppress the poor; murderers, hangmen, and unrighteous judges; drunkards, blasphemers, and effeminate; all usurers, and generally very wicked men that lived in rebellion against the will of God.

¶ Bingham takes the Liturgy in the Apostolical Constitutions as an example of the early mode of celebrating the Lord's Supper.

1 Τῆ τοῦ ἡλίου λεγομένη ἡμέρα πάντων κατὰ πόλεις ἢ ἀγροὺς μενόντων ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ συνέλευσις γίνεται, καὶ τὰ ἀπομνημονεύματα τῶν ἀποστόλων ἢ τὰ συγγράμματα τῶν προφητῶν ἀναγινώσκεται μέχρις ἐγχωρεῖ· εἶτα παυσάμενου τοῦ ἀναγινώσκοντος ὁ προεστὼς διὰ λόγου τὴν νοθεσίαν καὶ πρόκλησιν τῆς τῶν καλῶν τούτων μιμήσεως ποιεῖται· ἔπειτα ἀνιστάμεθα κοινῇ πάντες καὶ εὐχὰς πέμπομεν· καὶ ὡς προέφημεν παυσάμενων ἡμῶν τῆς εὐχῆς,

The Epistle. St. Jude 1.

JUDE, the servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ, and called: Mercy unto you, and peace, and love be multiplied. Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you, that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints. For there are certain men crept in unawares, who were before of old ordained to this condemnation; ungodly men, turning the grace of our God into lasciviousness, and denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ. I will therefore put you in remembrance, though ye once knew this, how that the Lord, having saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed them that believed not. And the angels which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgement of the great day. Even as Sodom and Gomorrhah, and the cities about them in like manner giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire. Likewise also these filthy dreamers defile the flesh, despise dominion, and speak evil of dignities.

The Gospel. St. John xv. 17.

THESE things I command you, that ye love one another. If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you. Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than the lord: if they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have kept my saying, they will keep yours also. But all these things will they do unto you for my Name's sake, because they know not him that sent me. If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: but now they have no cloke for their sin. He that hateth me hateth my Father also. If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had sin; but now have they both seen, and hated both me and my Father. But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law, They hated me without a cause. But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me. And ye also shall bear witness, because ye have been with me from the beginning.

All Saints' Day.The Collect.

O ALMIGHTY God, who hast knit together thine elect in one communion and fellowship, in the mystical body of thy Son Christ our Lord; Grant us grace so to follow thy blessed Saints in all virtuous and godly living, that we may come to those unspeakable joys, which thou hast prepared for them that unfeignedly love thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For the Epistle. Rev. vii. 2.

AND I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God; and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth, and the sea, saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. And I heard the number of them which were sealed; and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand, of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Nephtholim were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Issachar were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand.

After this I beheld, and lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb. And all the angels stood round about the throne, and about the elders, and the four beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God, saying, Amen; Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen.

The Gospel. St. Matth. v. 1.

JESUS, seeing the multitudes, went up into a mountain; and when he was set, his disciples came unto him. And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying, Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace-makers: for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceeding glad; for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

The service commenced with silent prayer on the part of the worshippers. This was followed by a bidding prayer proclaimed by the deacon. The petitions offered in this prayer assume the form of a litany for the Church of Christ and for those as yet not brought within the fold. The form given in the Apostolical Constitutions may well have served as the prototype of our own Litany. The people respond, at the close of each petition, 'Kyrie eleeson' (Κύριε ἐλέησον). These prayers were said by the deacon and people, kneeling; at their close the deacon bade the people rise.

The bishop, or chief minister present, then collected the petitions in an invocation to God that the prayers made might be heard and answered. The people answered, Amen.

Next to the prayer of invocation came the offertory. The offerings consisted of money and gifts of various kinds, including bread and wine. None but actual communicants were permitted to offer. Cyprian informs us that the collection from the people was made by the deacon, who presented it, with the names of those who offered, to the priest. From the gifts a portion of bread and wine was set apart to be consecrated. Wafers were first introduced in the 11th or 12th centuries, and their introduction was then condemned. The wine for the consecration was usually mixed with water.

The deacon exclaims, 'Let us pay attention.'

The bishop says, 'The peace of God be with you all.' The people answer, 'And with thy spirit.'

The deacon, 'Salute ye one another with a holy kiss. Clerics salute clerics; men, men; women, women.'

The priests wash their hands.

Non-communicants, catechumens, penitents, unbelievers and heretics are dismissed. Communicants are encouraged to draw near.

The deacons bring the elements. The bishop makes a silent prayer, then, signing the cross on his forehead, says, 'The grace of Almighty God, and the love of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. The people, And with thy spirit. The bishop, Lift up your hearts. People, We lift them up unto the Lord. Bishop, Let us give thanks unto the Lord. People, It is meet and right so to do. The bishop, It is very meet and right above all things to praise thee, the true God, who art before all creatures,' &c.

The prayer rehearses the wonderful works of God the Creator, and concludes with a seraphic hymn, in which the people join, saying, 'Holy, holy, holy,

Lord of hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory: blessed art thou for ever. Amen.'

The bishop then recites the wonders of redemption, concluding this narrative with an account of the consecration of the elements by our Lord, an offering of the gifts unto God, and a prayer that he will send the Holy Spirit upon the sacrifice which is a witness of the suffering of the Lord Jesus, that he may make the bread the body of Christ and the cup the blood of Christ, that they who partake of it may be confirmed in godliness and obtain remission of sins; may be delivered from the devil and his impostures; may be filled with the Holy Ghost, and be made worthy of Christ and obtain eternal life.

Then the various members of the Christian Church living and dead, the latter as still belonging to the Church, not as sinners in purgatory, are remembered in prayer. Blessings are invoked on these in their various offices and needs. Help and forgiveness are asked for the catechumens, the penitent, the lapsed, and the absent. (The terms, offer, προσφέρωμεν, and pray, παρακαλοῦμεν, are used indiscriminately.) This portion concludes with an aspiration that all creation may be united in glorifying the blessed Trinity. The people answer, Amen. The bishop again says, 'The peace of God be with you all.' People, 'And with thy spirit.' The deacon recites another litany for the faithful, the people answer, Amen. The deacon exclaims, 'Let us pay attention.' The bishop, 'Holy things to the holy' (τὰ ἅγια τοῖς ἁγίοις). The people, 'There is one Holy, one Lord, one Jesus Christ, to the glory of God the Father, blessed for ever, Amen. Glory be to God on high, and in earth peace, good will towards men. Hosanna to the Son of David: blessed be the Lord God, that came in the name of the Lord and manifested himself unto us: Hosanna in the highest.' Then followed the act of communicating.

The author of the Constitutions speaks of the form of communicating in this manner: 'Let the bishop give the oblation, saying, "The body of Christ;" and let the receiver answer, Amen. Let the deacon hold the cup, and when he gives it say, "The blood of Christ, the cup of life;" and let him that drinks it say, Amen.' The 34th Psalm was sung whilst the people were communicating.

After reception of the elements and removal of the remainder of them into the pastophoria (vestry), the deacon admonishes the people to return thanks. Then they are bidden to rise and com-

THE ORDER OF THE

ADMINISTRATION OF THE LORD'S SUPPER,

OR

HOLY COMMUNION.

¶ So many as intend to be partakers of the holy Communion shall signify their names to the Curate, at least some time the day before.

¶ And if any of those be an open and notorious evil liver, or have done any wrong to his neighbours by word or deed, so that the Congregation be thereby offended; the Curate, having knowledge thereof, shall call him and advertise him, that in any wise he presume not to come to the Lord's Table, until he hath openly declared himself to have truly repented and amended his former naughty life, that the Congregation may thereby be satisfied, which before were offended; and that he hath recompensed the parties, to whom he hath done wrong; or at least declare himself to be in full purpose so to do, as soon as he conveniently may.

¶ The same order shall the Curate use with those betwixt whom he perceiveth malice and hatred to reign; not suffering them to be partakers of the Lord's Table, until he know them to be reconciled. And if one of the parties so at variance be content to forgive from the bottom of his heart all that the other hath trespassed against him, and to make amends for that he himself hath offended; and the other party will not be persuaded to a godly unity, but remain still in his frowardness and malice: the Minister in that case ought to admit the penitent person to the holy Communion, and not him that is obstinate. Provided that every Minister to repelling any, as is specified in this, or the next precedent Paragraph of this Rubrick, shall be obliged to give an account of the same to the Ordinary within fourteen days after at the farthest. And the Ordinary shall proceed against the offending person according to the Canon.

¶ The Table, at the Communion-time having a fair white linen cloth upon it, shall stand in the Body of the Church, or in the Chancel, where Morning and Evening Prayer are appointed to be said. And the Priest standing at the North-side of the Table shall say the Lord's Prayer, with the Collect following, the people kneeling.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY God, unto whom all hearts be open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid; Cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love thee, and worthily magnify thy holy Name; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest, turning to the people, rehearse distinctly all the TEN COMMANDMENTS; and the people still kneeling shall, after every Commandment, ask God mercy for their transgression thereof for the time past, and grace to keep the same for the time to come, as followeth.

Minister.

GOD spake these words, and said; I am the Lord thy God: Thou shalt have none other gods but me.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not make to thyself any graven image, nor the likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth. Thou shalt not bow down to them, nor worship them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, and visit the sins of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me, and shew mercy unto thousands in them that love me, and keep my commandments.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not hold him guiltless, that taketh his Name in vain.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath-day. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all that thou hast to do; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God. In it thou shalt do no manner of work, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, thy cattle, and the stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Honour thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long in the land, which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt do no murder.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not steal.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and incline our hearts to keep this law.

Minister. Thou shalt not covet thy neigh-mend themselves to God in Christ. Upon this the bishop commends them to God in a general thanksgiving and concise prayer, that the former petitions may be granted.

The people are bidden to bow their heads, the bishop pronounces a benediction, ascribing glory to God, praying him for his great name's sake to bless and sanctify his people, and concluding with a doxology. The deacon dismissed the congregation with the words 'Go in peace.'

¶ See rubric on vestments before the Order for Morning Prayer.

¶ In 1549 the last rubric was, 'The priest standing humbly afore the midst of the altar,' &c.

The word 'altar' was changed on the remonstrance of Bishop Hooper. The question was not however set at rest, for the position of the tables appointed to take the place of altars excited controversy. Should they be placed altar-wise, and where? Queen Elizabeth tried to moderate the fury of the opposing parties, but the dispute raged through the period of the Commonwealth, and the opinions held on it became a badge of party. After the Restoration attention was paid more to the convenience of administration than to the position of the table.

¶ Cœlestine, Bishop of Rome, 423—431, appointed an introduction of psalmody. Introits owe their origin to Gregory the Great. The Lord's Prayer is thought to have been concealed from catechumens in the earliest ages, but subsequently it became the custom for the priest to commence almost, if not quite, every service with it. Its use at this place was enjoined in the Sar. Miss. In the Reformed Office of 1549 it was appointed to be said in this place, but it was not actually printed here until 1662.

¶ The Collect for Purity, which occurs in MS. of Leofr., may be found also in the Sacramentary of Alcuin: 'Deus cui omne cor patet et omnis voluntas loquitur et quem nullum latet secretum, purifica per infusionem Sancti Spiritus cogitationes cordis nostri ut te perfecte diligere et digne laudare mereamur. Per Christum Dominum nostrum. Amen.'

¶ In 1549 the Introit followed the Collect for Purity. Then the priest was to say, or the clerks were to sing,

'Lord, have mercy upon us.

'Christ, have mercy upon us.

'Lord, have mercy upon us.'

'Glory be to God on high,' and the hymn, 'We bless thee, we praise thee,' &c., succeeded. The priest, at the close of these, turned to the people and said,

'The Lord be with you.

People, And with thy spirit.

Priest, Let us pray.'

In 1552 the Decalogue was introduced to follow the Collect for Purity. Polanus and Alasco had set the example of reading the Ten Commandments at the commencement of the Communion Service. In our Prayer-book this lesson from Scripture took the place of the additional introduction, which was then omitted. The insertion of the response at the end of each commandment is peculiar to our service. A similar prayer is found at the end of the second table in the Sar. Miss. as recited in Lent: 'Misereere mei Domine quoniam infirmus sum, sana me Domine.'

The Greek Liturgies uniformly commence with a Litany. This is followed by anthems and collects, by the Prayer of Entrance into the Sanctuary, by the Trisagion and the hymn of the Trisagion, in the Liturgies of Basil and Chrysostom. The Epistle and Gospel are then read.

The Prayer of the Trisagion runs thus: 'O holy God, who dwellest among the saints; thou whom the seraphim in triple voice of praise glorify, the cherubim adore, and all the heavenly hosts worship; thou who hast called into being all things out of nothing; who hast created man in thy image and likeness, and hast enriched him with all thy good gifts; thou who givest wisdom and understanding to him that asketh thee, that dost not overlook the sinner, but grantest repentance unto salvation; thou who hast permitted us, thy humble and unworthy servants, as at this time, to stand before the glory of thy holy mercy-seat, and to offer to thee our bounden tribute of worship and adoration: receive, O Lord, at the mouth even of us sinners, this thrice holy hymn (τρισάγιον), and look upon us in thy goodness. Forgive us every sin, either of wilfulness or ignorance. Sanctify our souls and bodies, and grant that we may serve thee in righteousness all the days of our life. . . . For thou our God art holy: to thee we ascribe glory, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, now, always, and to all eternity.'

¶ In the Liturgy of the orthodox Church of Alexandria, to which Palmer refers first the origin of collects, there were petitions for the king and Church before the reading of the lessons.

At the collect for the emperor in the Alexandrian Church the deacon proclaimed, 'Pray ye for the emperor.' The people thrice responded, 'Lord, have mercy upon him.' Then the priest or bishop offered the prayer, which ran as follows:

'O Lord God, our Governor, Father

THE COMMUNION.

bour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his servant, nor his maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is his.

People. Lord, have mercy upon us, and write all these thy laws in our hearts, we beseech thee.

¶ Then shall follow one of these two Collects for the Queen, the Priest standing as before, and saying,

Let us pray.

ALMIGHTY God, whose kingdom is everlasting, and power infinite; Have mercy upon the whole Church; and so rule the heart of thy chosen Servant VICTORIA, our Queen and Governor, that she (knowing whose minister she is) may above all things seek thy honour and glory: and that we, and all her subjects (duly considering whose authority she hath) may faithfully serve, honour, and humbly obey her, in thee, and for thee, according to thy blessed Word and ordinances; through Jesus Christ our Lord, who with thee and the Holy Ghost liveth and reigneth, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

Or,

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, we are taught by thy holy Word, that the hearts of Kings are in thy rule and governance, and that thou dost dispose and turn them as it seemeth best to thy godly wisdom: We humbly beseech thee so to dispose and govern the heart of VICTORIA thy Servant, our Queen and Governor, that, in all her thoughts, words, and works, she may ever seek thy honour and glory, and study to preserve thy people committed to her charge, in wealth, peace, and godliness: Grant this, O merciful Father, for thy dear Son's sake, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall be said the Collect of the Day. And immediately after the Collect the Priest shall read the Epistle, saying, The Epistle [or, The portion of Scripture appointed for the Epistle] is written in the — Chapter of — beginning at the — Verse. And the Epistle ended, he shall say, Here endeth the Epistle. Then shall he read the Gospel (the people all standing up) saying, The holy Gospel is written in the — Chapter of — beginning at the — Verse. And the Gospel ended, shall be sung or said the Creed following, the people still standing, as before.

I BELIEVE in one God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, And of all things visible and invisible:

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God, Begotten of his Father before all worlds, God of God, Light of Light, Very God of very God, Begotten, not made, Being of one substance with the Father, By whom all things were made: Who for us men, and for our salvation came down from heaven, And was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, And was made man, And was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate. He suffered and was buried, And the third day he rose again according to the Scriptures, And ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of the Father. And he shall come again with glory to judge both the quick and the dead: Whose kingdom shall have no end.

And I believe in the Holy Ghost, The Lord and Giver of life, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son, Who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified, Who spake by the Prophets. And I believe one Catholick and Apostolick Church. I acknowledge one Baptism for the remission of sins, And I look for the Resurrection of the dead, And the life of the world to come. Amen.

¶ Then the Curate shall declare unto the people what Holy-days, or Fasting-days, are in the Week following to be observed. And then also (if occasion be) shall notice be given of the Communion; and Briefs, Citations, and Excommunications read. And nothing shall be proclaimed or published in the Church, during the time of Divine Service, but by the Minister: nor by him any thing, but what is prescribed in the Rules of this Book, or enjoined by the Queen, or by the Ordinary of the place.

¶ Then shall follow the Sermon, or one of the Homilies already set forth, or hereafter to be set forth, by authority.

¶ Then shall the Priest return to the Lord's Table, and begin the Offertory, saying one or more of these Sentences following, as he thinketh most convenient in his discretion.

LET your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. St. Matth. v.

Lay not up for yourselves treasure upon the earth; where the rust and moth doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven; where neither rust nor moth doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal. St. Matth. vi.

Whosoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do unto them; for this is the Law and the Prophets. St. Matth. vii.

Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. St. Matth. vii.

Zacchæus stood forth, and said unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have done any wrong to any man, I restore four-fold. St. Luke xix.

Who goeth a warfare at any time of his own cost? Who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? Or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock? 1 Cor. ix.

If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great matter if we shall reap your worldly things? 1 Cor. ix.

Do ye not know, that they who minister about holy things live of the sacrifice; and they who wait at the altar are partakers with the altar? Even so hath the Lord also ordained, that they who preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel. 1 Cor. ix.

He that soweth little shall reap little; and he that soweth plenteously shall reap plenteously. Let every man do according as he is disposed in his heart, not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver. 2 Cor. ix.

Let him that is taught in the Word minister unto him that teacheth, in all good things. Be not deceived, God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap. Gal. vi.

While we have time, let us do good unto all men; and specially unto them that are of the household of faith. Gal. vi.

Godliness is great riches, if a man be content with that he hath: for we brought nothing into the world, neither may we carry any thing out. 1 Tim. vi.

Charge them who are rich in this world, that they be ready to give, and glad to distribute; laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may attain eternal life. 1 Tim. vi.

God is not unrighteous, that he will forget your works, and labour that proceedeth of love; which love ye have shewed for his Name's sake, who have ministered unto the saints, and yet do minister. Hebr. vi.

To do good, and to distribute, forget not; for with such sacrifices God is well pleased. Hebr. xiii.

Whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his com-of our Lord God and Saviour Jesus Christ, we pray and beseech thee to preserve our emperor in peace, strength, and righteousness. O Lord, subdue before him every enemy and foe; take thine arms and shield and arise to help him. O Lord, grant him victory, that he may have a peaceful mind towards us and thy holy name; that so in the tranquillity of his days we may have a calm and quiet life in all piety and godliness, through the grace and mercy and love of thy only-begotten Son. Through whom and with whom, to thee and the most holy, good, and life-giving Spirit, be glory and dominion now and ever and world without end.' The people answered, Amen.

Our collects for the king were composed and introduced at this part of the service in 1549. The original of the second is to be found in a Scottish prayer composed in accordance with the decree of a Synod of the Scottish Church in 1225, that five prayers, the first of them for the king, the second for the Church, should be used here. The collect for the day originally preceded that for the king. The order was changed in 1662, after the example of the Scottish Liturgy.

In Lyons, Vienne, Tours, Rouen, and other French Churches, petitions for the king, queen, bishops, judges, army, &c. followed the collect for the day, as in our Prayer-book.

¶ The Injunctions of Elizabeth appointed an Epistler and Gospeller in copes; these officers are still recognized at Durham and in some other places. If the priest were alone, he read the Epistle from the south side, the Gospel from the north side of the altar, which were called Cornu Epistolæ and Cornu Evangelii respectively.

In primitive times the Epistle, more anciently called the Apostle, and the Gospel were read from the ambon, or pulpit. The Injunctions of Elizabeth give the alternative of another convenient place.

For remarks on the mode of reading the Epistle and Gospel, see p. 62.

The Gradual following the Epistle and the Sequences of Notker, introduced in the 8th century, were discontinued at the Reformation. In Spain and Gaul 'Alleluia' was said at the end of the Gospel. In many English Churches the people acclaim, 'Thanks be to thee, O Lord, for thy holy Gospel.'

In the Liturgies of Chrysostom, Basil, and the Presanctified, a prayer for blessing on the Gospel follows it. To this succeeds a litany, a prayer for the catechumens, and their dismissal.

¶ The Creed framed at the General Council of Nice, A.D. 325, ended with the words, 'I believe in the Holy Ghost.' The later clauses were added at the Council of Constantinople, A.D. 381, though they seem to have been in use before that time.

The repetition of the Creed at the Liturgy was first introduced by Peter Fullo, Patriarch of Antioch, A.D. 471, into his own Church. Timotheus of Constantinople introduced it into that Liturgy A.D. 511. Thence it found its way into the West. It was originally repeated, and in the East is still repeated, after the dismissal of the catechumens. In the Uses of Sarum, York, and Hereford, however, it occupies the same position as in our Liturgy.

To the clause, 'Proceedeth from the Father,' the Western Church added 'and from the Son' (Filioque), in the 5th century. Though intended as a protest against Arianism, the alteration by one portion of the Church of a Creed composed at an œcumenical council is much to be regretted. Any addition or revision of a Creed of the Catholic Church ought to have received the assent of Eastern as well as of Western Christendom.

¶ The declaration of holy days and fasting days at this place was ordered in 1552.

The direction to publish briefs, citations, excommunications, banns of matrimony, and notice of communion, was added in 1662. The word 'brief' is explained by Dr Hook as 'the sovereign letters patent, authorizing a collection for a charitable purpose, as they are now styled Queen's Letters.'

'Citation' by the same author is defined as 'a precept under the seal of the ecclesiastical judge, commanding the person against whom the complaint is made to appear before him, on a certain day and at a certain place therein mentioned, to answer the complaint in such a cause, &c.'

The custom of making public announcements in this place may be traced in our Church at least as far back as the 14th century.

Hincmar, in the 9th century, directs that excommunications should be read before the Gospel, not after it, as was then customary, lest the offenders should leave the Church and escape them.

By 26 George II. c. 33, s. 1, the first Marriage Act, the publication of banns is prescribed after the 2nd lesson.

In addition to these announcements a form of bidding prayer is appointed by the Canons of A.D. 1603 to be used here.

¶ Whilst these Sentences are in reading, the Deacons, Church-wardens, or other fit person appointed for that purpose, shall receive the Alms for the Poor, and other devotions of the people, in a decent bason to be provided by the Parish for that purpose; and reverently bring it to the Priest, who shall humbly present and place it upon the holy Table.

¶ And when there is a Communion, the Priest shall then place upon the Table so much Bread and Wine, as he shall think sufficient. After which done, the Priest shall say,

Let us pray for the whole state of Christ's Church militant here in earth.

ALmighty and everliving God, who by thy holy Apostle hast taught us to make prayers, and supplications, and to give thanks, for all men; We humbly beseech thee most mercifully [ to accept our alms and oblations, and*] to receive these our prayers, which we offer unto thy Divine Majesty; beseeching thee to inspire continually the universal Church with the spirit of truth, unity, and concord: And grant, that all they that do confess thy holy Name may agree in the truth of thy holy Word, and live in unity, and godly love. We beseech thee also to save and defend all Christian Kings, Princes, and Governors; and specially thy Servant VICTORIA our Queen; that under her we may be godly and quietly governed: And grant unto her whole Council, and to all that are put in authority under her, that they may truly and indifferently minister justice, to the punishment of wickedness and vice, and to the maintenance of thy true religion, and virtue. Give grace, O heavenly Father, to all Bishops and Curates, that they may both by their life and doctrine set forth thy true and lively Word, and rightly and duly administer thy holy Sacraments: And to all thy people give thy heavenly grace; and especially to this congregation here present; that, with meek heart and due reverence, they may hear, and receive thy holy Word; truly serving thee in holiness and righteousness all the days of their life. And we most humbly beseech thee of thy goodness, O Lord, to comfort and succour all them, who in this transitory life are in trouble, sorrow, need, sickness, or any other adversity. And we also beseech thy holy Name for all thy servants departed this life in thy faith and fear; beseeching thee to give us grace so to follow their good examples, that with them we may be partakers of thy heavenly kingdom: Grant this, O Father, for Jesus Christ's sake, our only Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

¶ When the Minister giveth warning for the celebration of the holy Communion, (which he shall always do upon the Sunday, or some Holy-day, immediately preceding,) after the Sermon or Homily ended, he shall read this Exhortation following.

DEARLY beloved, on —day next I purpose, through God's assistance, to administer to all such as shall be religiously and devoutly disposed the most comfortable Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ; to be by them received in remembrance of his meritorious Cross and Passion; whereby alone we obtain remission of our sins, and are made partakers of the Kingdom of heaven. Wherefore it is our duty to render most humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God our heavenly Father, for that he hath given his Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, not only to die for us, but also to be our spiritual food and sustenance in that holy Sacrament. Which being so divine and comfortable a thing to them who receive it worthily, and so dangerous to them that will presume to receive it unworthily; my duty is to exhort you in the mean season to consider the dignity of that holy mystery, and the great peril of the unworthy receiving thereof; and so to search and examine your own consciences, (and that not lightly, and after the manner of dissemblers with God; but so) that ye may come holy and clean to such a heavenly Feast, in the marriage-garment required by God in holy Scripture, and be received as worthy partakers of that holy Table.

The way and means thereto is; First, to examine your lives and conversations by the rule of God's commandments; and whereinsoever ye shall perceive yourselves to have offended, either by will, word, or deed, there to bewail your own sinfulness, and to confess yourselves to Almighty God, with full purpose of amendment of life. And if ye shall perceive your offences to be such as are not only against God, but also against your neighbours; then ye shall reconcile yourselves unto them; being ready to make restitution and satisfaction, according to the uttermost of your powers, for all injuries and wrongs done by you to any other; and being likewise ready to forgive others that have offended you, as ye would have forgiveness of your offences at God's hand: for otherwise the receiving of the holy Communion doth nothing else but increase your damnation. Therefore if any of you be a blasphemer of God, an hinderer or slanderer of his Word, an adulterer, or be in malice, or envy, or in any other grievous crime, repent you of your sins, or else come not to that holy Table; lest, after the taking of that holy Sacrament, the devil enter into you, as he entered into Judas, and fill you full of all iniquities, and bring you to destruction both of body and soul.

And because it is requisite, that no man should come to the holy Communion, but with a full trust in God's mercy, and with a quiet conscience; therefore if there be any of you, who by this means cannot quiet his own conscience herein, but requireth further comfort or counsel, let him come to me, or to some other discreet and learned Minister of God's Word, and open his grief; that by the ministry of God's holy Word he may receive the benefit of absolution, together with ghostly counsel and advice, to the quieting of his conscience, and avoiding of all scruple and doubtfulness.

¶ Or, in case he shall see the people negligent to come to the holy Communion, instead of the former, he shall use this Exhortation.

DEARLY beloved brethren, on — I intend, by God's grace, to celebrate the Lord's Supper: unto which, in God's behalf, I bid you all that are here present; and beseech you, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, that ye will not refuse to come thereto, being so lovingly called and bidden by God himself. Ye know how grievous and unkind a thing it is, when a man hath prepared a rich feast, decked his table with all kind of provision, so that there lacketh nothing but the guests to sit down; and yet they who are called (without any cause) most unthankfully refuse to come. Which of you in such a case would not be moved? Who would not think a great injury and wrong done unto him?

universal. The first great preacher of the Roman Church was Leo I., A.D. 441—461. In the middle ages great ignorance prevailed, and preaching was disused.

The Constitutions of Archbp Peckham, A.D. 1281, require the priest to explain the Creed, the commandments of the Law, and the Gospel, the good works to be done, the sins to be avoided, the principal Christian virtues, and the doctrine of the sacraments. This was to be done quarterly. Archbp Arundel renewed this Constitution in A.D. 1408, and required that the customary, i.e. bidding prayers, should be said at the same time.

Alfric, Bishop of Wilton, in 990 and 991 collected two books of homilies which he had composed, and dedicated them to Archbishop Sigeric, who ordered them to be read in Church. The same Alfric enjoined an explanation of the Gospel, the Creed, and the Lord's Prayer on Sundays and holy days. He was made Archbishop of Canterbury in 994.

The Injunctions of Edw. VI., 1547, require that, when there is no sermon, the priest should recite the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, and the Apostles' Creed from the pulpit. In a Liber Festivalis of Henry VIII. is found a collection of homilies for all the holy days of the year.

The first book of Homilies was printed in 1547. Its authorship is ascribed mainly to Cranmer, Ridley, and Latimer. It was reprinted in A.D. 1560.

The second book of Homilies appeared in A.D. 1563; Bp Jewel is believed to have had a great share in its composition. See more on the Homilies in note to Art. xxxv.

¶ An interesting account of the various modes of presenting offerings is given by Palmer, Orig. Lit. 4th ed., Vol. II. p. 67. In the East the contributions are made before the commencement of the Liturgy; they seem to have been so made from the earliest times. In the West it has been the practice to offer during the service.

An anthem, termed Offertory, was sung during the collection of the offerings; to this our Sentences correspond. In A.D. 1549 the option of singing them was given.

In A.D. 1549 the people were directed to come themselves and offer unto the poor men's box: the accustomed offerings were also to be made to the curate. Non-communicants then left the "quire."

In A.D. 1552 the churchwardens, or others appointed by them, gathered the devotion of the people and put it into the poor men's box, and the accustomed offerings were paid to the curate.

In the Greek Church, after the dismissal of the catechumens, the priest unfolds and spreads the linen cloth.

¶ A prayer for the whole Church of Christ was universal in primitive Liturgies. In 1549 our present prayer for the Church militant formed the first part of the prayer of consecration. The words, 'militant here on earth,' were added at the instance of Bucer in 1552.

In 1662 the phrase, accept our alms, was amplified into 'accept our alms and oblations.'

The word 'oblations' has been by many referred to the other devotions of the people, i.e. the offerings for the curate, &c. formerly prescribed. Alms and oblations are coupled together so closely, and with so little apparent distinction, that it is natural to ascribe to them a similar character rather than to understand one as eleemosynary and the other votive. Moreover, the votive offering of the elements, though common, was not universal in primitive Liturgies. If, however, we refer to the Scottish Liturgy, which furnished many hints to our revisers in 1662, we there find a direction introduced into the rubric, that the presbyter shall offer up the bread and wine. The concurrent introduction of the word 'oblations' affords a very strong presumption that our Reformers in 1662 intended a reference to the elements of bread and wine, as well as to the pecuniary contributions of the people.

¶ From very early times the prayer for the Church of Christ was made to include commemoration of the dead. They are mentioned in the Liturgy of the Apostolical Constitutions. The idea was to preserve unbroken the communion of saints. It was, however, for the dead who had departed this life in the faith and fear of Christ, for the Virgin, the saints and holy men, that prayer was offered, not with any idea of benefiting souls in Purgatory, which was an invention of later ages. In the sense of maintaining the brotherhood in Christ of all Christians, whether on earth or in the unseen world, a prayer for the consummation of bliss to them was retained in 1549, in 1552 it was omitted lest countenance should seem to be given to the doctrine of Purgatory. The simple commemoration was added in 1662 after the Scotch Liturgy.

The prayer for the Catholic Church in the Liturgy of the Apostolical Constitutions, the main features of which survive in Greek Liturgies of the present day, comprises petitions for the bishops and clergy; for kings and magistrates; for the dead in general and for persons specially mentioned; for the living members of each particular Church and every

THE COMMUNION.

Wherefore, most dearly beloved in Christ, take ye good heed, lest ye, withdrawing yourselves from this holy Supper, provoke God's indignation against you. It is an easy matter for a man to say, I will not communicate, because I am otherwise hindered with worldly business. But such excuses are not so easily accepted and allowed before God. If any man say, I am a grievous sinner, and therefore am afraid to come: wherefore then do ye not repent and amend? When God calleth you, are ye not ashamed to say ye will not come? When ye should return to God, will ye excuse yourselves, and say ye are not ready? Consider earnestly with yourselves how little such feigned excuses will avail before God. They that refused the feast in the Gospel, because they had bought a farm, or would try their yokes of oxen, or because they were married, were not so excused, but counted unworthy of the heavenly feast. I, for my part, shall be ready; and, according to mine Office, I bid you in the Name of God, I call you in Christ's behalf, I exhort you, as ye love your own salvation, that ye will be partakers of this holy Communion. And as the Son of God did vouchsafe to yield up his soul by death upon the Cross for your salvation; so it is your duty to receive the Communion in remembrance of the sacrifice of his death, as he himself hath commanded; which if ye shall neglect to do, consider with yourselves how great injury ye do unto God, and how sore punishment hangeth over your heads for the same; when ye wilfully abstain from the Lord's Table, and separate from your brethren, who come to feed on the banquet of that most heavenly food. These things if ye earnestly consider, ye will by God's grace return to a better mind: for the obtaining whereof we shall not cease to make our humble petitions unto Almighty God our heavenly Father.

¶ At the time of the celebration of the Communion, the Communicants being conveniently placed for the receiving of the holy Sacrament, the Priest shall say this Exhortation.

DEARLY beloved in the Lord, ye that mind to come to the holy Communion of the Body and Blood of our Saviour Christ, must consider how Saint Paul exhorteth all persons diligently to try and examine themselves, before they presume to eat of that Bread, and drink of that Cup. For as the benefit is great, if with a true penitent heart and lively faith we receive that holy Sacrament; (for then we spiritually eat the flesh of Christ, and drink his blood; then we dwell in Christ, and Christ in us; we are one with Christ, and Christ with us;) so is the danger great, if we receive the same unworthily. For then we are guilty of the Body and Blood of Christ our Saviour; we eat and drink our own damnation, not considering the Lord's Body; we kindle God's wrath against us; we provoke him to plague us with divers diseases, and sundry kinds of death. Judge therefore yourselves, brethren, that ye be not judged of the Lord; repent you truly for your sins past; have a lively and stedfast faith in Christ our Saviour; amend your lives, and be in perfect charity with all men; so shall ye be meet partakers of those holy mysteries. And above all things ye must give most humble and hearty thanks to God, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, for the redemption of the world by the death and passion of our Saviour Christ, both God and man; who did humble himself, even to the death upon the Cross, for us, miserable sinners, who lay in darkness and the shadow of death; that he might make us the children of God, and exalt us to everlasting life. And to the end that we should always remember the exceeding great love of our Master, and only Saviour, Jesus Christ, thus dying for us, and the innumerable benefits which by his precious blood-shedding he hath obtained to us; he hath instituted and ordained holy mysteries, as pledges of his love, and for a continual remembrance of his death, to our great and endless comfort. To him therefore, with the Father and the Holy Ghost, let us give (as we are most bounden) continual thanks; submitting ourselves wholly to his holy will and pleasure, and studying to serve him in true holiness and righteousness all the days of our life. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say to them that come to receive the holy Communion,

YE that do truly and earnestly repent you of your sins, and are in love and charity with your neighbours, and intend to lead a new life, following the commandments of God, and walking from henceforth in his holy ways; Draw near with faith, and take this holy Sacrament to your comfort; and make your humble confession to Almighty God, meekly kneeling upon your knees.

¶ Then shall this general Confession be made, in the name of all those that are minded to receive the holy Communion, by one of the Ministers; both he and all the people kneeling humbly upon their knees, and saying,

ALMIGHTY God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Maker of all things, Judge of all men; We acknowledge and bewail our manifold sins and wickedness, Which we, from time to time, most grievously have committed, By thought, word, and deed, Against thy Divine Majesty, Provoking most justly thy wrath and indignation against us. We do earnestly repent, And are heartily sorry for these our misdoings; The remembrance of them is grievous unto us; The burden of them is intolerable. Have mercy upon us, Have mercy upon us, most merciful Father; For thy Son our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, Forgive us all that is past; And grant that we may ever hereafter serve and please thee In newness of life, To the honour and glory of thy Name; Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest (or the Bishop, being present), stand up, and turning himself to the people, pronounce this A bsolution.

ALMIGHTY God, our heavenly Father, who of his great mercy hath promised forgiveness of sins to all them that with hearty repentance and true faith turn unto him; Have mercy upon you; pardon and deliver you from all your sins; confirm and strengthen you in all goodness; and bring you to everlasting life; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

Hear what comfortable words our Saviour Christ saith unto all that truly turn to him.

COME unto me all that travail and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you. St. Matth. xi. 28.

So God loved the world, that he gave his only-begotten Son, to the end that all that believe in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. St. John iii. 16.

Hear also what Saint Paul saith.

This is a true saying, and worthy of all men to be received, That Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. 1 Tim. i. 15.

Hear also what Saint John saith.

If any man sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; and he is the propitiation for our sins. 1 St. John ii. 1.

¶ After which the Priest shall proceed, saying,

Lift up your hearts.

Answer. We lift them up unto the Lord.

Priest. Let us give thanks unto our Lord God.

Answer. It is meet and right so to do.

order in it; for those in sickness, slavery, banishment, proscription; for those who travel by sea or by land; for enemies and persecutors, heretics, and unbelievers; for catechumens, energumens, and penitents; for healthful and fruitful seasons, and for absent brethren. It concludes with a doxology to the Trinity.

In the Liturgy of Chrysostom the prayer at the placing of the elements on the holy table is as follows:

‘O Lord God Almighty, the only holy one who receivest the sacrifice of praise from those who call upon thee with all their heart, accept the prayer of us sinners, and bring it before thy holy altar; strengthen us to offer unto thee both gifts and spiritual sacrifices for our sins and the ignorances of the people. Grant that we may find grace in thy sight, that our sacrifice may be acceptable unto thee, and that the good spirit of thy grace may rest upon us and upon these gifts which we lay before thee, and upon all thy people.’

¶ The Exhortations are an introduction of the Reformation period. The substance of the first is to be found in Hermann’s Consultation; it appeared in the Supplementary Service for the People’s Communion in 1548; in 1549 it was placed before the Offertory Sentences. As it then stood it gave toleration to auricular confession.

Until 1662 these exhortations were used at the time of actual celebration of the Lord’s Supper.

The phrase, ‘Therefore, if any of you be a blasphemer,’ &c., was introduced into the first exhortation when this became a preliminary notice of communion in 1662. It formerly occurred in the address to communicants.

The second exhortation, with a different commencement, is said to have been the work of Peter Martyr. Until 1662 the order of the exhortations was different. Palmer draws a parallel between these exhortations, containing as they do admonitions to brotherly kindness and the Apostolic kiss of peace. This was wisely discontinued, to avoid scandal. From 1552 to 1662 non-communicants were here warned to withdraw.

In the Liturgies of Chrysostom, Basil, and the Presanctified, the priest pronounces at this part, ‘Peace be to all.’ In the two former the deacon exhorts to mutual love, that the people may in unity of spirit confess Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. The Creed is recited, the priest and deacon kiss the elements lying under the cloth.

The third exhortation, as well as the two preceding, is peculiar to the Reformed Offices. It was probably deemed desirable to give the people instruction in the meaning of the Holy Communion, and caution against former errors. In the Liturgies of Chrysostom and Basil we have a short exhortation from the deacon at this point, ‘Stand we with reverence, stand we with devotion; let us take heed to offer the holy offering in peace.’ The people subjoin, ‘The oblation of peace; the sacrifice of praise.’

In the Liturgy of the Church of Jerusalem the deacon bade the people draw near with the fear of God, with faith and charity.

In the Liturgy of Basil the deacon proclaimed, ‘Incline your heads to the Lord.’ And then the bishop blessed them, saying, ‘O Lord, our Ruler, Father of mercies, and God of all comfort; bless, sanctify, keep, strengthen, and defend those who have bowed down their heads unto thee; remove them from every evil work, fit them for every good work, and grant that they may, without condemnation, be partakers of these pure and life-giving sacraments for the remission of their sins and the communion of the Holy Ghost.’

¶ In primitive times the priest appears to have made a long confession of his sins in silence, and the people did the same. Confessions were afterwards introduced at the beginning of Liturgies. Our present position is more like that of primitive times. Before the Reformation the priest and people confessed separately, and the priest then invoked a blessing upon the people. We have united the confessions.

¶ The absolution in Salisbury Missal is, ‘Misereatur vestri omnipotens Deus, et dimittat vobis omnia peccata vestra, liberet vos ab omni malo, conservet et confirmet in bono, et ad vitam perducat aeternam.’

Our form resembles that in Hermann’s Consultation.

¶ The extracts from Scripture, except the first, were interwoven in a long form of Confession and Absolution found in Hermann’s Consultation. Two passages, John iii. 35 and part of 36, Acts x. 43, which occur in his form were omitted. The object of interweaving these quotations manifestly was to confirm the view of absolution there enunciated by the words of Scripture.

Our Reformers separated the extracts from the Absolution, introduced the verse from St Matthew, and called attention to the comfortable words of the Gospel. The injunction to listen is not unlike the proclamation made when Scripture is read in the Greek Church.

¶ The Versicles have been used as introductory to the Prayer of Consecration from the earliest times.

¶ Then shall the Priest turn to the Lord's Table, and say,

IT is very meet, right, and our bounden duty, that we should at all times, and in all places, give thanks unto thee, O Holy Father, Almighty, Everlasting God. Trinity Sunday.

¶ Here shall follow the Proper Preface, according to the time, if there be any specially appointed: or else immediately shall follow, THEREFORE with Angels and Archangels, and with all the company of heaven, we laud and magnify thy glorious Name; evermore praising thee, and saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory: Glory be to thee, O Lord most High. Amen.

PROPER PREFACES.

Upon Christmas Day, and seven days after.

BECAUSE thou didst give Jesus Christ thine only Son to be born as at this time for us; who, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, was made very man of the substance of the Virgin Mary his mother; and that without spot of sin, to make us clean from all sin. Therefore with Angels, &c.

Upon Easter Day, and seven days after.

BUT chiefly are we bound to praise thee for the glorious Resurrection of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord: for he is the very Paschal Lamb, which was offered for us, and hath taken away the sin of the world; who by his death hath destroyed death, and by his rising to life again hath restored to us everlasting life. Therefore with Angels, &c.

Upon Ascension Day, and seven days after.

THROUGH thy most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ our Lord; who after his most glorious Resurrection manifestly appeared to all his Apostles, and in their sight ascended up into heaven to prepare a place for us; that where he is, thither we might also ascend, and reign with him in glory. Therefore with Angels, &c.

Upon Whit Sunday, and six days after.

THROUGH Jesus Christ our Lord; according to whose most true promise, the Holy Ghost came down as at this time from heaven with a sudden great sound, as it had been a mighty wind, in the likeness of fiery tongues, lighting upon the Apostles, to teach them, and to lead them to all truth; giving them both the gift of divers languages, and also boldness with fervent zeal constantly to preach the Gospel unto all nations; whereby we have been brought out of darkness and error into the clear light and true knowledge of thee, and of thy Son Jesus Christ. Therefore with Angels, &c.

Upon the Feast of Trinity only.

WHO art one God, one Lord; not one only Person, but three Persons in one Substance. For that which we believe of the glory of the Father, the same we believe of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, without any difference or inequality. Therefore with Angels, &c.

¶ After each of which Prefaces shall immediately be sung or said,

THEREFORE with Angels and Archangels, and with all the company of heaven, we laud and magnify thy glorious Name; evermore praising thee, and saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory: Glory be to thee, O Lord most High. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest, kneeling down at the Lord's Table, say in the name of all them that shall receive the Communion this Prayer following.

WE do not presume to come to this thy Table, O merciful Lord, trusting in our own righteousness, but in thy manifold and great mercies. We are not worthy so much as to gather up the crumbs under thy Table. But thou art the same Lord, whose property is always to have mercy: Grant us therefore, gracious Lord, so to eat the flesh of thy dear Son Jesus Christ, and to drink his blood, that our sinful bodies may be made clean by his body, and our souls washed through his most precious blood, and that we may evermore dwell in him, and he in us. Amen.

¶ When the Priest, standing before the Table, hath so ordered the Bread and Wine, that he may with the more readiness and decency break the Bread before the people, and take the Cup into his hands, he shall say the Prayer of Consecration, as followeth.

ALMIGHTY God, our heavenly Father, who of thy tender mercy didst give thine only Son Jesus Christ to suffer death upon the cross for our redemption; who made there (by his one oblation of himself once offered) a full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice, oblation, and satisfaction, for the sins of the whole world; and did institute, and in his holy Gospel command us to continue, a perpetual memory of that his precious death, until his coming again; Hear us, O merciful Father, we most humbly beseech thee; and grant that we receiving these thy creatures of bread and wine, according to thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ's holy institution, in remembrance of his death and passion, may be partakers of his most blessed Body and Blood: who, in the same night that he was betrayed, (a) took Bread; and, when he had given thanks, (b) he brake it, and gave it to his disciples, saying, Take, eat, (c) this is my Body which is given for you: Do this in remembrance of me. Likewise after supper he (d) took the Cup; and, when he had given thanks, he gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of this; for this (e) is my Blood of the New Testament, which is shed for you and for many for the remission of sins: Do this, as oft as ye shall drink it, in remembrance of me. Amen.

(a) Here the Priest is to take the Paten into his hands:

(b) And here to break the Bread:

(c) And here to lay his hand upon all the Bread.

(d) Here he is to take the Cup into his hand:

(e) And here to lay his hand upon every vessel (be it Challice or Flagon) in which there is any Wine to be consecrated.

¶ Then shall the Minister first receive the Communion in both kinds himself, and then proceed to deliver the same to the Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, in like manner, (if any be present,) and after that to the people also in order, into their hands, all meekly kneeling. And, when he delivereth the Bread to any one, he shall say,

THE Body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for thee, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life. Take and eat this in remembrance that Christ died for thee, and feed on him in thy heart by faith with thanksgiving.

¶ And the Minister that delivereth the Cup to any one shall say,

THE Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was shed for thee, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life. Drink this in remembrance that Christ's Blood was shed for thee, and be thankful.

In the Liturgies of Basil and Chrysostom, the priest says,

'The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God the Father, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all.

Choir, And with thy spirit.

Priest, Let us lift up our hearts.

Choir, We lift them up unto the Lord.

Priest, Let us give thanks to the Lord.

Choir, It is right and just to worship Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, a consubstantial, indivisible Trinity.

Priest, It is right and just to hymn thee, to bless thee, to praise thee, to give thanks unto thee in every place of thy dominion. For thou art God ineffable, inconceivable, invisible, incomprehensible, immortal, unchangeable, thou and thine only-begotten Son and thy Holy Spirit. Thou didst call us into being out of nothing, and when we fell didst raise us again and ceasedst not acting in our behalf until thou broughtest us to heaven and gavest us thy kingdom in the life to come. For all these things we render thanks to thee and to thy only-begotten Son and thy Holy Spirit, for all thy bounties, known or unknown, manifest or hidden. We give thanks to thee also for this holy service which thou hast deigned to receive at our hands; thou before whom stand thousands of archangels, ten thousands of angels, cherubim and seraphim of six wings, full of eyes, dwelling on high, swift of flight, who loudly raise in jubilant song their triumphant hymn.

Choir, Holy, holy, holy, Lord of hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory. Hosanna in the highest: blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.'

The prayer in Basil's Liturgy is longer, but it begins with a similar introduction and ends with the seraphic hymn.

¶ In 1549 these Prefaces were to be used only on the day itself; this arrangement was altered in 1552.

The Greeks produce variety by using different Liturgies. The Liturgy of Basil is appointed for Sundays in Lent, except Palm Sunday; for Maundy Thursday and Easter-eve, on which two days there are special Prefaces; for Christmas-eve, the eve of the Epiphany, and St Basil's Day, Jan. 1st. At other times of consecration the Liturgy of Chrysostom is read. The Liturgy of the Presanctified is used in Lent, during which season consecration is forbidden, except on Saturdays, Sundays, Holy Thursday, Easter-eve, and the Festival of the Annunciation; and the communicants receive of elements previously consecrated.

1st Pref. 'Deus, qui per beatæ Mariæ sacræ Virginitis partum sine humana concupiscentia procreatum, in Filii tui membra venientes paternis fecisti præjudiciis non teneri: Præsta, quæsumus, ut hujus creaturæ novitate suscepta vetustatis antiquæ contagiis exuamur. Per eundem Dominum.' Collect for Christmas-eve in Sacram. of Gelasius, Sacram. of Leofric.

2nd Pref. Sacram. of Gelasius, Leofric, Salisb., York, and Hereford Missals.

3rd Pref. Sacram. of Gregory the Great, Leofr., Salisb., York, and Hereford.

4th Pref. 'In hoc præcipue die, in quo sacratissimum Pascha quinquaginta dierum mysteriis tegitur; et per sua vestigia recursantibus dierum spatiis, colleguntur: et dispersio linguarum quæ in confusione facta fuerat, per Spiritum Sanctum adunatur. Hodie enim de cælis repente sonum audientes Apostoli, unius Fidei symbolum exceperunt: et linguis variis Evangelii tui gloriam gentibus tradiderunt per Christum Dominum nostrum.' Gallican Liturgy.

5th Pref. Sacram. of Gelasius, Leofr., Miss. of Salisb., York, and Hereford.

¶ The use of the Tersanctus before the Prayer of Consecration has been customary from Apostolic times. In 1549 the paragraph containing the Tersanctus was divided into two portions, the preliminary part and the Tersanctus itself. The rubric preceding was, 'After which preface shall follow immediately.' The rubric succeeding was, 'This the clerks shall also sing.' The succeeding rubric was omitted in 1552; in 1604 the division of the paragraph was also omitted.

¶ The term 'Lord's Table' was substituted in 1662 for 'God's Board,' which had been used from 1549 to 1604. 'Holy Table' was the expression in the Scotch Liturgy before the Prayer of Consecration.

The part intervening between the Tersanctus and the prayer of consecration varied in early times. In the Liturgy of Basil we have a prayer similar to our own:

'Therefore, O all-holy Lord, do we thy sinful and unworthy servants, who have been permitted to minister at thy holy altar, not for our righteousnesses, for we have done no good thing upon earth, but for thy mercies and compassions which thou hast shed on us abundantly, approach thy holy altar. Do thou, our God, who hast received these gifts, cleanse us from all pollution of the flesh and spirit, and teach us to perfect holiness in thy fear, in order that, receiving in a pure testimony of our conscience our portion in these hallowed gifts, we may be united to the holy body and blood of thy Christ; and that, having worthily received them, we may obtain the indwelling of Christ in our hearts, and become temples of the Holy Ghost.'

¶ 'We do not,' &c. This prayer appears first in the Communion Service of 1548.

¶ The word 'altar' is used before the Prayer of Consecration in 1549.

¶ The prayer for the whole state of Christ's Church is prefixed to the Prayer of Consecration, and the sign of the cross is made upon the elements. This portion of our Liturgy resembles the Oriental Liturgies of Cæsarea, Antioch, and Constantinople; it is not at all like those of Milan or Rome.

In the Prayer of Consecration it was usual to invoke the Holy Ghost upon the elements. In the Liturgy of Chrysostom we have, 'We offer to thee these thy gifts from thine own, who art in all things and through all things. Moreover, we offer unto thee this reasonable unbloody service, and entreat, pray, and beseech thee, send down thy Holy Spirit upon us and on these gifts which we present before thee.' Similarly in Scotch Lit. This invocation was, however, not universal. In 1549 the elements are called holy gifts, the memorial commanded by Christ.

In all Liturgies the words of institution, more or less full, have been used. In the consecration of the bread our Liturgy is nearest to the Spanish and Gallican in that of the wine to the Constantinopolitan. The bread was usually broken after the Prayer of Consecration. The direction to break it during the prayer appears peculiar to our Liturgy.

In the Greek Church the priest further prays, 'Make this bread the precious body of thy Christ; the contents of this cup the precious blood of thy Christ; having changed them by thy Holy Spirit.' After making mention of the dead and the living in prayer, the priest elevates the bread, exclaiming, 'Holy portions to holy men' (Τὰ ἅγια τοῖς ἁγίοις). He divides it into four parts, saying, 'Behold divided and subdivided the Lamb of God, who is divided and not sundered, who supplies continual food and is never exhausted, but consecrates the partakers.' He takes a portion of the bread, makes with it the sign of the cross on the cup, saying, 'Let the cup be filled with the gift of faith and of the Holy Ghost' (πλήρωμα ποτηρίου πίστεως πνεύματος ἁγίου). He blesses warm water, saying, 'Blessed* be the fervour of thy saints, always, now, and for evermore' (ἡ ξέσις τῶν ἁγίων σου); and pours it into the cup with the words, 'The fervour of faith, full of the Holy Ghost.' He administers to himself the bread with these words, 'The precious, all-holy Body of our Lord God and Saviour Jesus Christ is given to me, N. a priest, for remission of my sins unto eternal life (το τίμιον καὶ πανάγιον Σῶμα τοῦ Κυρίου καὶ Θεοῦ καὶ Σωτήρος ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ μεταδίδοταί μοι τῷ δεῖνι) 'Iereῖ εἰς ἄφεσίν μου ἁμαρτιῶν καὶ εἰς ζωὴν αἰώνιον. He administers to the deacon: 'To N. sacred deacon, is given, &c.' He drinks the wine thrice: 'I, N. am a partaker of the precious holy blood of our Lord God and Saviour Jesus Christ for remission of my sins unto eternal life (Μεταλαμβάνω ἐγὼ [ὁ δεῖνα] τὸ τίμιον καὶ ἅγιον αἶμα τοῦ Κυρίου καὶ Θεοῦ καὶ Σωτήρος ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ εἰς ἄφεσίν μου ἁμαρτιῶν καὶ εἰς ζωὴν αἰώνιον). Similarly to the deacon.

As the priest distributes the mysteries to each of the people, he says, 'N. the servant of God, is a partaker of the undefiled holy body and blood, &c.' The people approach with arms crossed on their breasts. In the administration to the people the bread is dipped into the wine and given from a spoon.

A doxology was usually introduced before communion, to which the people answered, Amen. The Lord's Prayer also was commonly said before communion from the 5th century downwards. It was appointed in 1549 immediately after the Prayer of Consecration. In primitive times an anthem (κοινωνικόν, communio) was sung whilst the people communicated. The 34th, the 45th, the 133rd, the 139th, and the 145th Psalms are mentioned as having been used for this purpose in early times. The custom continues in other Churches than our own, and in 1549 the clerks were directed to sing, 'O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world; have mercy upon us.' Twice, 'O Lamb, &c. grant us thy peace.'

In the 2nd and 3rd centuries the minister presenting the bread said, 'The body of Christ.' Ans. 'Amen.' In the time of Gregory the Great the form had been changed into a prayer: 'The body of our Lord Jesus Christ preserve thy soul. Amen.'

The first of our two clauses of delivery of the elements was used in 1549, according to ancient usage; it is so still in Scotch Lit.; the second was substituted in 1552; the two were combined in 1559.

Bingham writes, quoting from Cardinal Bona, 'That the faithful always and in all places, from the very first foundation of the Church to the 12th century, were used to communicate under the species of bread and wine; and in the beginning of that age the use of the cup began by little and little to be laid aside, whilst many bishops interdicted the wine to the people, for fear of irreverence and effusion. And what they did first for their own Churches was afterward confirmed by a canonical sanction in the Council of Constance, A. D. 1416.

In 1549 the priest was directed to put into the chalice a little pure and clean water. The mixture of water was in accordance with primitive usage, as is seen in Justin Martyr's account. It was the ordinary practice in the English Church until the Reformation. The mixture is not essential to the validity of the sacrament, and was omitted in 1552 for the sake of simplicity. Bishops Andrewes and Laud, however, practised it.

¶ In primitive times all who were admissible to holy communion communicated. When the attempts to check by reproof and censure the withdrawal of the negligent had failed, excuse for the practice began to be made under the plea of reverence for so holy an ordinance. The custom of distributing bread blessed, but not consecrated (εὐλογία), to non-communicants was then introduced. The first distinct notice of this custom is found in the Council of Nantes, c. A. D. 890.

¶ The rubric for a second consecration was added in 1662.

¶ In 1549 a considerable number of passages from Scripture were appointed to be said or sung as Post Communion Anthems. In 1552 these were omitted. The Lord's Prayer was transposed so as to follow, not precede, the act of communion. The earlier position is more in accordance with primitive usage.

¶ In 1549 the first form of thanksgiving was the conclusion of the Prayer of Consecration. It was called in the Scotch Liturgy, 1637, the Prayer of Oblation. No ancient form exactly corresponds to it; one expression, however, appears to be derived from the corresponding part of the Canon of the Sarum Use: 'Ut quotquot ex hac altaris participatione sacrosanctum Filii tui corpus et sanguinem sumpserimus omni benedictione cœlesti et gratia repleamur.'

¶ In Basil's Liturgy we have the following prayer, corresponding in great measure to our second form of thanksgiving: 'We thank thee, O Lord our God, for the reception of these holy, pure, immortal, heavenly mysteries which thou hast given for the blessing, the sanctification, the healing of our souls and bodies. Do thou, Lord of all, grant that the communion of the holy body and blood of thy Christ may conduce in us to unswerving faith, to love unfeigned, to increase of wisdom, to healing of our souls and bodies, to deliverance from all evil, to observance of thy commandments, and to a favourable acceptance at the dreadful judgement-seat of thy Christ.'

After this or a similar thanksgiving the deacon addresses the people in the Liturgies of Basil, Chrysostom, and the Presanctified: 'Stand upright: Having received these divine, holy, undefiled, immortal, life-giving, awful mysteries of Christ, let us, as is meet, give thanks unto the Lord. Help, save, pity, and preserve us during this whole day, that it may be perfect in thy fear, holy and peaceful, for thou art our sanctification; to thee we ascribe glory, to the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, now, always, and for ever and ever.

'Choir, Amen.

'The priest, Let us go forth in peace.

'The deacon, Let us beseech the Lord.'

The priest says a dismissal prayer, commending the Church collectively and individually to the holy Trinity.

¶ A dismissal Hymn was early introduced. It may be compared with the hymn sung after supper by our Lord and his disciples. The origin of the 'Gloria in Excelsis' is lost in remote antiquity. We find it in the Eastern Church as early as the time of Athanasius. It appears in the Late Evening Service, but is not found in Liturgies. Its authorship has been ascribed, but without sufficient grounds, to Telesphorus, bishop of Rome, A. D. 150. It is certainly earlier than Hilary, 4th century. Symmachus, bishop of Rome, A. D. 500, is thought to have appointed its use on Sundays and holy-days at the beginning of the Office.

¶ The first clause of the benediction, taken from Phil. iv. 7, was appointed in 1548; the second was added in 1549; it resembles blessings given in Hermann's Consultation and in Anglo-Saxon Offices.

Our form is longer than the usual benediction of dismissal, which with the Greeks was, 'Go in peace,' or the like words. With the Roman Church the conclusion is, 'In nomine Patris,' &c. Long benedictory prayers among the Greeks are not uncommon.

¶ The addition of the final six collects is in accordance with the usage of old Sacramentaries.

'Adesto Domine supplicationibus nostris; et viam famulorum tuorum in salutis tuæ prosperitate dispone; ut inter omnes viæ et vitæ hujus varietates tuo semper protegantur auxilio per Dominum.' Sacram. Gelas., MS. Leofr., Miss. Sar.

'Dirigere et sanctificare et regere dignare Domine Deus quæsumus corda et corpora nostra in lege tua et in operibus mandatorum tuorum; ut hic et in æternum te auxiliante sani et salvi esse mereamur per Dominum nostrum Jesum, qui tecum vivit,' &c. Sacram. Gregor., Brev. Sar.

The 3rd collect was composed in 1549, so also the 5th and 6th.

THE COMMUNION.

¶ If the consecrated Bread or Wine be all spent before all have communicated, the Priest is to consecrate more according to the Form before prescribed; beginning at [Our Saviour Christ in the same night, &c.] for the blessing of the Bread; and at [Likewise after Supper, &c.] for the blessing of the Cup.

¶ When all have communicated, the Minister shall return to the Lord's Table, and reverently place upon it what remaineth of the consecrated Elements, covering the same with a fair linen cloth.

¶ Then shall the Priest say the Lord's Prayer, the people repeating after him every Petition.

¶ After shall be said as followeth.

O LORD and heavenly Father, we thy humble servants entirely desire thy fatherly goodness mercifully to accept this our sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving; most humbly beseeching thee to grant, that by the merits and death of thy Son Jesus Christ, and through faith in his blood, we and all thy whole Church may obtain remission of our sins, and all other benefits of his passion. And here we offer and present unto thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy, and lively sacrifice unto thee; humbly beseeching thee, that all we, who are partakers of this holy Communion, may be fulfilled with thy grace and heavenly benediction. And although we be unworthy, through our manifold sins, to offer unto thee any sacrifice, yet we beseech thee to accept this our bounden duty and service; not weighing our merits, but pardoning our offences, through Jesus Christ our Lord; by whom, and with whom, in the unity of the Holy Ghost, all honour and glory be unto thee, O Father Almighty, world without end. Amen.

Or this.

ALmighty and everliving God, we most heartily thank thee, for that thou dost vouchsafe to feed us, who have duly received these holy mysteries, with the spiritual food of the most precious Body and Blood of thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ; and dost assure us thereby of thy favour and goodness towards us; and that we are very members incorporate in the mystical body of thy Son, which is the blessed company of all faithful people; and are also heirs through hope of thy everlasting kingdom, by the merits of the most precious death and passion of thy dear Son. And we most humbly beseech thee, O heavenly Father, so to assist us with thy grace, that we may continue in that holy fellowship, and do all such good works as thou hast prepared for us to walk in; through Jesus Christ our Lord, to whom, with thee and the Holy Ghost, be all honour and glory, world without end. Amen.

¶ Then shall be said or sung,

GLORY be to God on high, and in earth peace, good will towards men. We praise thee, we bless thee, we worship thee, we glorify thee, we give thanks to thee for thy great glory, O Lord God, heavenly King, God the Father Almighty.

¶ Upon the Sundays and other Holy-days (if there be no Communion) shall be said all that is appointed at the Communion, until the end of the general Prayer [For the whole state of Christ's Church militant here in earth] together with one or more of these Collects last before rehearsed, concluding with the Blessing.

O Lord, the only begotten Son Jesu Christ; O Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, receive our prayer. Thou that sittest at the right hand of God the Father, have mercy upon us.

For thou only art holy; thou only art the Lord; thou only, O Christ, with the Holy Ghost, art most high in the glory of God the Father. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest (or Bishop if he be present) shall let them depart with this Blessing.

THE peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord: and the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be amongst you and remain with you always. Amen.

¶ Collects to be said after the Offertory, when there is no Communion, every such day one or more; and the same may be said also, as often as occasion shall serve, after the Collects either of Morning or Evening Prayer, Communion, or Litany, by the discretion of the Minister.

ASSIST us mercifully, O Lord, in these our supplications and prayers, and dispose the way of thy servants towards the attainment of everlasting salvation; that, among all the changes and chances of this mortal life, they may ever be defended by thy most gracious and ready help; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O ALMIGHTY Lord, and everlasting God, vouchsafe, we beseech thee, to direct, sanctify, and govern, both our hearts and bodies, in the ways of thy laws, and in the works of thy commandments; that through thy most mighty protection, both here and ever, we may be preserved in body and soul; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

GRANT, we beseech thee, Almighty God, that the words, which we have heard this day with our outward ears, may through thy grace be so grafted inwardly in our hearts, that they may bring forth in us the fruit of good living, to the honour and praise of thy Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

PREVENT us, O Lord, in all our doings with thy most gracious favour, and further us with thy continual help; that in all our works begun, continued, and ended in thee, we may glorify thy holy Name, and finally by thy mercy obtain everlasting life; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ALmighty God, the fountain of all wisdom, who knowest our necessities before we ask, and our ignorance in asking; We beseech thee to have compassion upon our infirmities; and those things, which for our unworthiness we dare not, and for our blindness we cannot ask, vouchsafe to give us, for the worthiness of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ALmighty God, who hast promised to hear the petitions of them that ask in thy Son's Name; We beseech thee mercifully to incline thine ears to us that have made now our prayers and supplications unto thee; and grant, that those things, which we have faithfully asked according to thy will, may effectually be obtained, to the relief of our necessity, and to the setting forth of thy glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

'Actiones nostras quæsumus Domine et aspirando præveni et adjuvando prosequere ut cuncta nostra operatio et a te semper incipiat et per te cœpta finiatur. Per,' &c. Sacram. Gregor.

¶ In the rubrics of 1549 it was directed that on Wednesdays and Fridays after the Litany the priest should put on a plain albe, or surplice, with a cope, and say all things appointed to be said at the altar, until after the Offertory. He was to conclude with collects and a benediction. Similarly on other week days, when there were no communicants.

The permission to the priest, given in one of the rubrics at the commencement of the Communion office of 1549, to use a vestment or cope at the ministration of the holy communion, has occasioned some cavil; the cope not being an eucharistic robe. Since, however, it is here provided, that on Wednesdays and Fridays, when there is not any celebration, the priest shall say what is to be said of the Communion Office in a cope, it may reasonably be conjectured that the vestment or chasuble was to be used on Sundays when there was a celebration of the holy communion, the cope when the service stopped short of such celebration.

¶ It was contemplated by our Reformers, that on Sunday there always would be holy communion. In cathedral and collegiate churches it is prescribed by the rubric. In 1549 a rubric was framed with the view of securing communicants every Sunday. The parishioners were to provide the elements in turn; those to whose turn it fell were to form the nucleus of the communicants. The definite number, four, or three at the least, was inserted in 1552.

The provision of the bread and wine by the curate and churchwardens at the charges of the parish was ordered in 1552, and the parish was discharged of such sums of money or other duties as hitherto they had paid for the same, by order of their houses every Sunday.

In 1549 unleavened bread, round as it was afore, but without any manner of print and something more larger and thicker than it was, so that it may be aptly divided in divers pieces, and the division of each into not less than two pieces is prescribed. For this wheaten bread was substituted in 1552.

Justin Martyr, in his account of Christian worship, A.D. 148, mentions that the Eucharist was sent to absent members of the Church. Irenæus, c. A.D. 200, in reproving Victor for excommunicating the Asiatic Churches, mentions that the predecessors of Victor, though differing in opinion from the Asiatics, yet sent these Churches the Eucharist in token of brotherly love. The Council of Laodicea, c. A.D. 360, absolutely forbade the practice of sending the sacraments from one diocese to another under the notion of eulogiæ. As a substitute for these consecrated elements other eulogiæ, 'panis benedictus,' not 'consecratus,' were introduced. These are the present avri-dwpa of the Greeks.

The persons to whom the Eucharist was especially sent were the sick, the prisoners, the penitents, at the point of death.

It is probably to this use that the author of the Apostolical Constitutions refers when he orders the deacon to carry into the vestry the remains of the consecrated elements. The rest was to be consumed by the clergy and the faithful; no catechumen was to eat or drink of them. This direction is given in the canons of Theophilus, bishop of Alexandria, A.D. 385—412.

The Council of Macon, A.D. 588, appoints that the remains of the consecrated elements should be preserved in the vestry, and on Wednesdays and Fridays given to children brought to church in order to receive them. The same custom prevailed up to the 14th century at Constantinople. Cyprian, Augustine, and Pope Innocent, his contemporary, speak of infants as receiving the Eucharist, a custom which continued for eleven centuries in the Gallican Church, in others even longer.

According to the practice of the Church of Jerusalem in the 5th century, the remainder of the consecrated elements was burned the same day. It was customary on some occasions to reserve a portion for future communion, as is the case still when the Liturgy of the Pre-sanctified is used among the Greeks, or on Good Friday in the Latin Church.

¶ Missa sicca, a service of the Liturgy without consecration, is first mentioned by Peter Cantor c. A.D. 1200. It appears to have been encouraged in order that priests who were forbidden to consecrate more than once a day might receive fees for saying mass more than once. It long prevailed despite opposition.

¶ Of the oblations in primitive times a portion was appropriated to the maintenance of the clergy; of the rest, excepting what was required for consecration, a feast was made. These feasts gave occasion to scandal as being accompanied with excess. All feasting in church was prohibited by Ambrose, discouraged by Augustine, prohibited by the Council of Laodicea, c. A.D. 360, 2nd Council of Orleans, A.D. 541, and the Council of Trullo, A.D. 691.

¶ In the declension of primitive fervour

the habit, once general, of weekly communion, had become the exception. When laxity had so far prevailed, the Council of Agde, c. A.D. 506, required all to communicate at Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide. The 3rd Council of Tours, A.D. 813, decreed that all laymen who were not under the impediment of greater sins should receive three times a year at least if not more frequently. Still the custom of weekly communion continued to be observed among the devout. The rubric of 1549 exacted one a year.

¶ In 1549 a rubric enjoined that for the avoidance of abuse, the people should commonly receive the Sacrament at the Priest's hands in their mouths. It was admitted that the primitive custom was to receive it in their hands, but the superstitious use of the bread carried away by communicants was alleged in support of the injunction. The rubric was omitted in 1552.

¶ It has been held that Easter offerings are due of common right and not by custom only. They were regarded by Baron Gilbert as a compensation for personal tithes. They are due at the rate of twopence a head. But by custom the amount may be larger. If the custom be disputed the case must be decided in common law courts. If the custom be not disputed, the Ecclesiastical courts have jurisdiction.

By stat. 2 & 3 Edw. VI. c. 13, all persons who by the laws or customs of this realm ought to make or pay their offerings, are to pay the same yearly to the parson, vicar, proprietor, or their deputies or farmers, of the parishes where they dwell or abide at the four customary offering days and in default thereof to pay such offerings at Easter then next following.

The four customary offering days were Christmas, Easter, Whitsuntide and the feast of the dedication of the parish church. For the two last, by an Act of Henry VIII. 1536, Midsummer and Michaelmas were substituted.

By the rubric customary payments were confirmed, voluntary ones were left optional.

Easter offerings, mortuaries, and surplice fees may now be commuted as tithes are commuted.

¶ The rubric for the distribution of the offertory was added in 1662. In primitive times it was usual to divide the offerings into four portions, 1. For the poor, 2. For the bishop, 3. For the Church, and its ornaments, 4. For the clergy.

¶ The declaration concerning kneeling was added as a rubric by order of Council in 1552, was omitted in 1559, restored in 1662, when the words "corporal presence of Christ's natural flesh and blood" were substituted for "real and essential presence there being of Christ's natural flesh and blood."

OF PUBLIC BAPTISM OF INFANTS.

¶ The words "of infants" were added in 1662.

The rubric of 1549 commenced thus: "It appeareth by ancient writers, that the Sacrament of Baptism in the old time was not commonly ministered but at two times in the year, at Easter and Whitsuntide; at which time it was openly ministered in the presence of all the congregation: which custom (now being grown out of use), although it cannot for many considerations be well restored again, yet it is thought good to follow the same as near as conveniently may be. Wherefore the people," &c. This preface was omitted in 1662, the rubric commencing at once with the direction, "The people are to be admonished," and going on as in 1549, except that the words "English tongue" were replaced by "vulgar tongue," and that the concluding clause of 1549 "children ought at all times to be baptized, either at the Church or else at home," which was altered in 1552 to "children may at all times be baptized at home," was restricted to the time of baptism. Hermann's Consultation bore the same witness concerning the early practice, and imposed a like restriction.

The second paragraph was inserted in 1662. The Sarum Manual enjoined that one man and one woman should be sponsors, except an approved custom permitted more, but under no circumstances allowed more than three. The Synod of Worcester (A.D. 1240) enjoined that each male should have two male sponsors at least and one female, and each female two female sponsors and one male. Tertullian (A.D. 192) speaks of the promises made by the sponsors in baptism. "Anciently no more than one sponsor was required, and that was a man for a man and a woman for a woman."—BINGHAM.

The third paragraph substantially as in 1549, except that the people were to assemble at the church-door. The change of place of assembly from the church-door to the font was made in 1552. The last sentence, containing the direction that the font should be filled with pure water at each time of baptism, was added in 1662.

PUBLICK BAPTISM OF INFANTS.

- ¶ And there shall be no celebration of the Lord's Supper, except there be a convenient number to communicate with the Priest, according to his discretion.
- ¶ And if there be not above twenty persons in the Parish of discretion to receive the Communion; yet there shall be no Communion, except four (or three at the least) communicate with the Priest.
- ¶ And in Cathedral and Collegiate Churches, and Colleges, where there are many Priests and Deacons, they shall all receive the Communion with the Priest every Sunday at the least, except they have a reasonable cause to the contrary.
- ¶ And to take away all occasion of dissension, and superstition, which any person hath or might have concerning the Bread and Wine, it shall suffice that the Bread be such as is usual to be eaten; but the best and purest Wheat Bread that conveniently may be gotten.
- ¶ And if any of the Bread and Wine remain unconsecrated, the Curate shall have it to his own use; but if any remain of that which was consecrated, it shall not be carried out of the Church, but the Priest and such other of the Communicants as he shall then call unto him, shall, immediately after the Blessing, reverently eat and drink the same.
- ¶ The Bread and Wine for the Communion shall be provided by the Curate and the Churchwardens at the charges of the Parish.
- ¶ And note, that every Parishioner shall communicate at the least three times in the year, of which Easter to be one. And yearly at Easter every Parishioner shall reckon with the Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or his or their Deputy or Deputies; and pay to them or him all Ecclesiastical Duties, accustomedly due, then and at that time to be paid.
- ¶ After the Divine Service ended, the money given at the Offertory shall be disposed of to such pious and charitable uses, as the Minister and Churchwardens shall think fit. Wherein if they disagree, it shall be disposed of as the Ordinary shall appoint.

“WHEREAS it is ordained in this Office for the Administration of the Lord's Supper, that the Communicants should receive the same kneeling; (which order is well meant, for a signification of our humble and grateful acknowledgement of the benefits of Christ therein given to all worthy Receivers, and for the avoiding of such profanation and disorder in the holy Communion, as might otherwise ensue;) yet, lest the same kneeling should by any persons, either out of ignorance and infirmity, or out of malice and obstinacy, be misconstrued and depraved; It is hereby declared, That thereby no Adoration is intended, or ought to be done, either unto the Sacramental Bread or Wine there bodily received, or unto any Corporal presence of Christ's natural Flesh and Blood. For the Sacramental Bread and Wine remain still in their very natural substances, and therefore may not be adored; (for that were Idolatry, to be abhorred of all faithful Christians;) and the natural Body and Blood of our Saviour Christ are in Heaven, and not here; it being against the truth of Christ's natural Body to be at one time in more places than one.”

THE MINISTRATION OF PUBLICK BAPTISM OF INFANTS, TO BE USED IN THE CHURCH.

- ¶ The people are to be admonished, that it is most convenient that Baptism should not be administered but upon Sundays, and other Holy-days, when the most number of people come together; as well for that the Congregation there present may testify the receiving of them that be newly baptized into the number of Christ's Church; as also because in the Baptism of Infants every Man present may be put in remembrance of his own profession made to God in his Baptism. For which cause also it is expedient that Baptism be ministered in the vulgar tongue. Nevertheless, (if necessity so require,) Children may be baptized upon any other day.
- ¶ And note, that there shall be for every Male-child to be baptized two Godfathers and one Godmother; and for every Female, one Godfather and two Godmothers.
- ¶ When there are Children to be baptized, the Parents shall give knowledge thereof over night, or in the morning before the beginning of Morning Prayer, to the Curate. And then the Godfathers and Godmothers, and the people with the Children, must be ready at the Font, either immediately after the last Lesson at Morning Prayer, or else immediately after the last Lesson at Evening Prayer, as the Curate by his discretion shall appoint. And the Priest coming to the Font, (which is then to be filled with pure Water,) and standing there, shall say,

HATH this Child been already baptized, or no?

¶ If they answer, No: Then shall the Priest proceed as followeth.

DEARLY beloved, forasmuch as all men are conceived and born in sin; and that our Saviour Christ saith, None can enter into the kingdom of God, except he be regenerate and born anew of Water and of the Holy Ghost; I beseech you to call upon God the Father, through our Lord Jesus Christ, that of his bounteous mercy he will grant to this Child that thing which by nature he cannot have; that he may be baptized with Water and the Holy Ghost, and received into Christ's holy Church, and be made a lively member of the same.

¶ The question, "Hath this child been already baptized or no?" was part of the rubric till 1662. A like question was enjoined in the Sarum Manual.

¶ This first exhortation as in 1549. It is similar to the earlier part of the exhortation in Hermann's Consult. "The office of holy baptism, according to the English ritual, may be divided into three parts: first, the introduction, . . . extending from the beginning to the prayer which follows the exhortation after the Gospel; secondly, the preparatory office, including the renunciations and professions; and, thirdly, the action of the holy sacrament, and the conclusion."—PALMER.

In ancient times candidates for baptism were received into the class of catechumens some time before they were actually baptized. This reception was accompanied by various rites, such as signing with the cross, the imposition of hands, exorcisms, and the giving of salt. At the time when our offices were reformed this making the infant a catechumen was immediately followed by its baptism. This is the modern custom of the Roman and Greek Churches. The introduction corresponds to the "Ordo ad catechumenum faciendum" of the Sarum Manual.

¶ This prayer is substantially as in 1552, which differed from the prayer of 1549 in the following particulars. The prayer of 1549 asserted the destruction "by floods of water (of) the whole world for sin, except eight persons," and the drowning "in the Red Sea (of) wicked King Pharaoh, with all his army;" and prayed "that by this wholesome laver of regeneration whatsoever sin is in them may be washed clean away; that they, being delivered from thy wrath, may be received into the ark of Christ's Church, and so saved from perishing." The form of 1549 was almost identical with that in Hermann's Consult., which derived it from Luther's form. The office of 1549 thus continues:

"Here shall the priest ask what shall be the name of the child; and when the godfathers and godmothers have told the name, then shall he make a cross upon the child's forehead and breast, saying,

"N. Receive the sign of the holy cross, both in thy forehead, and in thy breast, in token that thou shalt not be ashamed to confess thy faith in Christ crucified, and manfully to fight under his banner against sin, the world, and the devil, and to continue his faithful soldier and servant unto thy life's end. Amen."

This giving of the cross was taken from the old Office.

¶ The prayer "Almighty and immortal God" as in 1549. It is a faithful translation from a prayer in the Sarum Office for making a catechumen, where it followed the first and preceded the second "Adjuration." An "adjuration or exorcism" followed it in the office of 1549, made up of the various adjurations in the Sarum Office for making a catechumen. The Greek Church still preserves the exorcism. The prayer in the Sarum Office is ordered to be said for a male child only. It is found in manuscripts older than A.D. 900. There is a very similar prayer in Hermann's Consult.

¶ The direction to the people to stand up at the reading of the Gospel was inserted in 1662. The Gospel as in 1549. The same Gospel was appointed in Hermann's Consult. The Sarum office for making a catechumen had for Gospel St Matthew's record of the same incident. The custom of reading this portion of St Matthew's Gospel dates from A.D. 1100 at least.

¶ As in 1552. This "brief exhortation" was in part taken from Hermann's Consult. The form of 1549 differed from that of 1552 only in the conclusion, which was, "Let us faithfully and devoutly give thanks unto him, and say the prayer which the Lord himself hath taught us. And in declaration of our faith, let us also recite the articles contained in our Creed." The saying of the Lord's Prayer and the recital of the Creed after the Gospel were enjoined in the Sarum Office.

¶ The prayer following the "brief exhortation" is as in 1549. It was taken from Hermann's Consult. Here in 1549 was concluded the "introductory office," which was gone through at the church-door. Then followed the ceremony of introducing the children into the church, with the words, "The Lord vouchsafe to receive you into his holy household, and to keep and govern you always in the same, that you may have everlasting life. Amen." The formula of introduction, which concluded the Sarum Office for making a catechumen, was: "Enter into the temple of God; that thou mayest have eternal life, and mayest live for ever."

¶ This address as in 1549, except that in 1662 the words "to lay his hands upon them, to bless them" were omitted, the word "forsake" was changed to "renounce," and the clause "until he come of age to take it upon himself" inserted. The address of 1549 seems to have been adapted from Hermann's Consult.

¶ In the rubric of 1549 the priest was to "demand of the child . . . these questions following: first naming the child, and saying, N. dost thou" . . . The demands were put separately, the renunciations being three and the professions three. They were taken from the Sarum Office. In 1552 the priest was to "de-

PUBLICK BAPTISM OF INFANTS.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

Let us pray.

ALmighty and everlasting God, who of thy great mercy didst save Noah and his family in the ark from perishing by water; and also didst safely lead the children of Israel thy people through the Red Sea, figuring thereby thy holy Baptism; and by the Baptism of thy well-beloved Son Jesus Christ, in the river Jordan, didst sanctify Water to the mystical washing away of sin; We beseech thee, for thine infinite mercies, that thou wilt mercifully look upon this Child; wash him and sanctify him with the Holy Ghost; that he, being delivered from thy wrath, may be received into the ark of Christ's Church; and being stedfast in faith, joyful through hope, and rooted in charity, may so pass the waves of this troublesome world, that finally he may come to the land of everlasting life, there to reign with thee world without end; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ALmighty and immortal God, the aid of all that need, the helper of all that flee to thee for succour, the life of them that believe, and the resurrection of the dead; We call upon thee for this Infant, that he, coming to thy holy Baptism, may receive remission of his sins by spiritual regeneration. Receive him, O Lord, as thou hast promised by thy well-beloved Son, saying, Ask, and ye shall have; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: So give now unto us that ask; let us that seek find; open the gate unto us that knock; that this Infant may enjoy the everlasting benediction of thy heavenly washing, and may come to the eternal kingdom which thou hast promised by Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the people stand up, and the Priest shall say,

Hear the words of the Gospel, written by Saint Mark, in the tenth Chapter, at the thirteenth Verse.

THEY brought young children to Christ, that he should touch them; and his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus saw it, he was much displeas'd, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein. And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them.

¶ After the Gospel is read, the Minister shall make this brief Exhortation upon the words of the Gospel.

DELOVED, ye hear in this Gospel the words of our Saviour Christ, that he commanded the children to be brought unto him; how he blamed those that would have kept them from him; how he exhorted all men to follow their innocency. Ye perceive how by his outward gesture and deed he declared his good will toward them; for he embraced them in his arms, he laid his hands upon them, and blessed them. Doubt ye not therefore, but earnestly believe, that he will likewise favourably receive this present Infant; that he will embrace him with the arms of his mercy; that he will give unto him the blessing of eternal life, and make him partaker of his everlasting kingdom. Wherefore we being thus persuaded of the good will of our heavenly Father towards this Infant, declared by his Son Jesus Christ; and nothing doubting but that he favourably alloweth this charitable work of ours in bringing this Infant to his holy Baptism; let us faithfully and devoutly give thanks unto him, and say,

ALmighty and everlasting God, heavenly Father, we give thee humble thanks, for that thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace, and faith in thee: Increase this knowledge, and confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to this Infant, that he may be born again, and be made an heir of everlasting salvation; through our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, now and for ever. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest speak unto the Godfathers and Godmothers on this wise.

DEARLY beloved, ye have brought this Child here to be baptized, ye have prayed that our Lord Jesus Christ would vouchsafe to receive him, to release him of his sins, to sanctify him with the Holy Ghost, to give him the kingdom of heaven, and everlasting life. Ye have heard also that our Lord Jesus Christ hath promised in his Gospel to grant all these things that ye have prayed for: which promise he, for his part, will most surely keep and perform. Wherefore, after this promise made by Christ, this Infant must also faithfully, for his part, promise by you that are his surties, (until he come of age to take it upon himself.) that he will renounce the devil and all his works, and constantly believe God's holy Word, and obediently keep his commandments.

I demand therefore,

DOST thou, in the name of this Child, renounce the devil and all his works, the vain pomp and glory of the world, with all covetous desires of the same, and the carnal desires of the flesh, so that thou wilt not follow, nor be led by them?

Answer. I renounce them all.

Minister.

DOST thou believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth?

And in Jesus Christ his only-begotten Son our Lord? And that he was conceived by the Holy Ghost; born of the Virgin Mary; that he suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried; that he went down into hell, and also did rise again the third day; that he ascended into heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty; and from thence shall come again at the end of the world, to judge the quick and the dead?

And dost thou believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy Catholick Church; the Communion of Saints; the Remission of sins; the Resurrection of the flesh; and everlasting life after death?

Answer. All this I stedfastly believe.

Minister.

WILT thou be baptized in this faith?

Answer. That is my desire.

Minister.

WILT thou then obediently keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of thy life?

Answer. I will.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

OMERCIFUL God, grant that the old Adam in this Child may be so buried, that the new man may be raised up in him. Amen.

Grant that all carnal affections may die in him, and that all things belonging to the Spirit may live and grow in him. Amen.

Grant that he may have power and strength to have victory, and to triumph, against the devil, the world, and the flesh. Amen.

Grant that whosoever is here dedicated to thee by our office and ministry may also be endued with heavenly virtues, and everlastingly rewarded, through thy mercy, O blessed Lord God, who dost live, and govern all things, world without end. Amen.

ALmighty, everliving God, whose most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ, for the forgiveness of our sins, did shed out of his most mand of the godfathers and godmothers these questions: Dost thou forsake the devil," &c. as at present. In 1662 the rubric was omitted, the words "I demand therefore" were placed at the head of the demands, and the words "in the name of this child" were inserted. The word "forsake" was then replaced by "renounce." In Hermann's Consult. the demands were addressed to the godfathers and parents. The renunciations here called for were required by the Church from candidates for baptism from the earliest ages. They are mentioned by Tertullian. In their position in the service, preceding the benediction of the water, our ritual agrees with that of Constantinople and Antioch. In the Sarum and other Western rituals they followed the "Benedictio Fontis."

The profession in 1549, as in the Sarum Office, was simply "I believe." When in 1552 the three professions were proposed together, the answer was changed to the present form. In the Eastern Church the professions follow immediately after the renunciations, the Nicene (Constantinopolitan) Creed being the one recited.

The question: "Wilt thou be baptized in this faith?" and the answer as in 1552. The Office of 1549 had, following the Sarum Office: "M. What dost thou desire? A. Baptism. M. Wilt thou be baptized? A. I will."

The question and promise of obedience were added in 1662. This promise is of great antiquity. It is mentioned by Justin Martyr (A. D. 140). The Greek Church has: "Dost thou accord with Christ? A. I do accord."

¶ The petitions, following the professions, were placed in their present position in 1552. They were taken from the form of consecration of the Font of 1549. They seem to have been derived from the "Contestatio Fontis" of the old Gallican Office.

¶ The prayer "Almighty, everliving God" is as in 1552, with the exception of the clause "Sanctify this water to the mystical washing away of sin," which was inserted in 1662; and as a consequence the word "therein," after "to be baptized," was substituted for "in this water." The consecration of the water, which was omitted in 1552, was thus restored. The prayer of 1552 was the concluding prayer in the form of consecration of the Font of 1549, omitting the words "prepared for the ministration of thy holy sacrament." This form of consecration of 1549 was to be used whenever the water in the Font was changed, which was to be once a month at the least. The not changing of the water at each baptism was in accordance with the Western practice. Our present practice accords with the Eastern.

¶ Trine immersion was ordered in the rubric of 1549, following the Sarum Office. In 1552 single immersion only was enjoined. The indulgence of affusion for weak children was granted in 1549 and continued in 1552. In 1662 dipping remained the rule, but the proviso was then added, "if they shall certify that the child may well endure it." Trine immersion or affusion was the ancient rule. Tertullian witnesses to it. Single immersion was first introduced in the Spanish Church in the 7th century, in opposition to the Arians, who contended that the three immersions supported their doctrine of a difference in essence of the Three Divine Persons. Trine immersion or affusion is the universal practice of the Eastern and Roman Churches at the present day. See Bingham, B. XI. c. XI. ss. 6—8.

¶ This formula of baptism has always been used throughout the Western Church. In the Eastern the formula now used is, "N., the servant of God, is baptized in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

"Then the godfathers and godmothers shall take and lay their hands upon the child; and the Minister shall put upon him his white vesture, commonly called the chrisin; and say,

"Take this white vesture for a token of the innocency which, by God's grace, in this holy sacrament of baptism, is given unto thee; and for a sign whereby thou art admonished, so long as thou livest, to give thyself to innocency of living, that, after this transitory life, thou mayst be partaker of the life everlasting. Amen.

"Then the Priest shall anoint the infant upon the head, saying,

"Almighty God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath regenerate thee by water and the Holy Ghost, and hath given unto thee remission of all thy sins; he vouchsafe to anoint thee with the unction of his holy Spirit, and bring thee to the inheritance of everlasting life."

The form used in anointing was taken from the Sarum Manual. The form used in giving the chrisin was expanded from the same source.

¶ The reception as in 1552, when it was first inserted, except that the direction to make the "cross upon the child's forehead" was prefixed as a rubric. The address, "Seeing now," &c. with the Lord's Prayer and the thanksgiving folprecious side both water and blood; and gave commandment to his disciples, that they should go teach all nations, and baptize them In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; Regard, we beseech thee, the supplications of thy congregation; Sanctify this Water to the mystical washing away of sin; and grant that this Child, now to be baptized therein, may receive the fulness of thy grace, and ever remain in the number of thy faithful and elect children; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest shall take the Child into his hands, and shall say to the Godfathers and Godmothers, Name this Child.

¶ And then naming it after them (if they shall certify him that the Child may well endure it) he shall dip it in the Water discreetly and warily, saying,

NI baptize thee In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

¶ But if they certify that the Child is weak, it shall suffice to pour Water upon it, saying the foresaid words,

NI baptize thee In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest shall say,

WE receive this Child into the congregation of Christ's flock, and do Here the Priest shall make a Cross upon the Child's forehead. sign him with the sign of the Cross, in token that hereafter he shall not be ashamed to confess the faith of Christ crucified, and manfully to fight under his banner, against sin, the world, and the devil; and to continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto his life's end. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

SEEING now, dearly beloved brethren, that this Child is regenerate, and grafted into the body of Christ's Church, let us give thanks unto Almighty God for these benefits; and with one accord make our prayers unto him, that this Child may lead the rest of his life according to this beginning.

¶ Then shall be said, all kneeling;

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

WE yield thee hearty thanks, most merciful Father, that it hath pleased thee to regenerate this Infant with thy Holy Spirit, to receive him for thine own Child by adoption, and to incorporate him into thy holy Church. And humbly we beseech thee to grant, that he, being dead unto sin, and living unto righteousness, and being buried with Christ in his death, may crucify the old man, and utterly abolish the whole body of sin; and that, as he is made partaker of the death of thy Son, he may also be partaker of his resurrection; so that finally, with the residue of thy holy Church, he may be an inheritor of thine everlasting kingdom; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then, all standing up, the Priest shall say to the Godfathers and Godmothers this Exhortation following.

FORASMUCH as this Child hath promised by you his sureties to renounce the devil and all his works, to believe in God, and to serve him; ye must remember, that it is your parts and duties to see that this Infant be taught, so soon as he shall be able to learn, what a solemn vow, promise, and profession, he hath here made by you. And that he may know these things the better, ye shall call upon him to hear Sermons; and chiefly ye shall provide, that he may learn the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments, in the vulgar tongue, and all other things which a Christian ought to know and believe to his soul's health; and that this Child may be virtuously brought up to lead a godly and a Christian life; remembering always, that Baptism doth represent unto us our profession; which is, to follow the example of our Saviour Christ, and to be made like unto him; that, as he died, and rose again for us, so should we, who are baptized, die from sin, and rise again unto righteousness; continually mortifying all our evil and corrupt affections, and daily proceeding in all virtue and godliness of living.

¶ Then shall he add and say,

YE are to take care that this Child be brought to the Bishop to be confirmed by him, so soon as he can say the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments, in the vulgar tongue, and be further instructed in the Church-Catechism set forth for that purpose.

IT is certain by God's Word, that Children which are baptized, dying before they commit actual sin, are undoubtedly saved.

To take away all scruple concerning the use of the sign of the Cross in Baptism; the true explication thereof, and the just reasons for the retaining of it, may be seen in the xxxth Canon, first published in the Year MDCIV.

lowing it, was also added in 1552. In 1662 the words "thy holy congregation" in the thanksgiving were replaced by "thy holy Church." The form of reception was evidently derived from the form used at the giving of the cross in 1549, quoted above. "The conclusion of the Office of Baptism resembles that described in the Apostolical Constitutions, where the newly baptized are directed to repeat the Lord's prayer and another concluding prayer. An order also, somewhat similar to ours, is observable in the monuments of the ancient Gallican Church."—PALMER.

¶ The exhortation, "Forasmuch as," comes down from 1549 with a very few verbal alterations. In the Sarum Office the godfathers and godmothers were charged to have the child taught the Paternoster, Ave Maria, and Credo. The concluding address, "Ye are to take care," was inserted in its present form in 1662. The substance of it was previously given in a rubric, appended to the exhortation.

OF PRIVATE BAPTISM.

¶ The title of this Office in 1549 was "of them that be baptized in private houses in time of necessity." In 1604 the words "that be" were replaced by that "are to be," and the clause, "by the minister of the parish or any other lawful minister that can be procured," was added. The present title was prefixed in 1662.

The first rubric of 1549, which remained unaltered till 1662, was "The pastors and curates shall oft admonish the people, that they defer not the baptism of infants any longer than the Sunday, or other holy-day next after the child be born, unless upon a great and reasonable cause declared to the curate, and by him approved."

The second rubric as in 1604, except that the words, "And when great need," of that rubric were replaced by the words, "But when need," in 1662. The rubric of 1549, "And also they shall warn them, that without great cause and necessity, they baptize not children at home in their houses; and when great need shall compel them so to do, that then they minister on this fashion," remained unchanged till 1604.

The third rubric dates from 1662. The rubric of 1604, which it displaced, was "First, let the lawful Minister, and them that be present, call upon God for his grace, and say the Lord's Prayer, if time will suffer. And then the child being named by some one that is present, the said lawful Minister shall dip it in water, or pour water upon it, saying these words." The rubric of 1549, which remained unaltered till 1604, was, "First let them that be present call upon God for his grace, and say the Lord's Prayer, if the time will suffer. And then one of them shall name the child, and dip him in the water, or pour water upon him, saying these words."

¶ The formula of baptism as in 1549.

The thanksgiving was first added in 1662. See Office of Public Baptism.

¶ The rubric of 1549, which began like the present, "And let them not doubt," continued, "to the intent the priest may examine and try, whether the child be lawfully baptized or no. And if those that bring any child to the church do answer that he is already baptized; then shall the priest examine them further." This was altered in 1604. The form of 1604 was modified in 1662 by inserting after the words "by him privately before used," "In which case he shall say, I certify you," &c.

The present form of the questions respecting the alleged baptism dates from 1604. It was based on the form of 1549.

In 1604 there was a question, last of all, "Whether think you the child to be lawfully and perfectly baptized," and in 1549 another still, the third, "Whether they called upon God for grace and succour in that necessity." The questions of 1604 implied that the thinking the child to be lawfully and perfectly baptized was essential to the sacrament.

¶ The certificate as in 1549, except that the words "ye have done well" were altered in 1604 to "all is well done;" and that the words "made the child of God and heir of everlasting life" were altered in 1552 to "received into the number... life," as they now stand.

¶ The gospel and exhortation following it as in 1549, except that the exhortation concluded, as in the introductory part of

THE MINISTRATION OF PRIVATE BAPTISM OF CHILDREN IN HOUSES.

¶ The Curates of every Parish shall often admonish the people, that they defer not the Baptism of their Children longer than the first or second Sunday next after their birth, or other Holy-day falling between, unless upon a great and reasonable cause, to be approved by the Curate.

¶ And also they shall warn them, that without like great cause and necessity they procure not their Children to be baptized at home in their houses. But when need shall compel them so to do, then Baptism shall be administered on this fashion:

¶ First, let the Minister of the Parish (or, in his absence, any other lawful Minister that can be procured) with them that are present call upon God, and say the Lord's Prayer, and so many of the Collects appointed to be said before in the Form of Publick Baptism, as the time and present exigence will suffer. And then, the Child being named by some one that is present, the Minister shall pour Water upon it, saying these words;

N I baptize thee In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

¶ Then, all kneeling down, the Minister shall give thanks unto God, and say,

WE yield thee hearty thanks, most merciful Father, that it hath pleased thee to regenerate this Infant with thy Holy Spirit, to receive him for thine own Child by adoption, and to incorporate him into thy holy Church. And we humbly beseech thee to grant, that as he is now made partaker of the death of thy Son, so he may be also of his resurrection; and that finally, with the residue of thy Saints, he may inherit thine everlasting kingdom; through the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ And let them not doubt, but that the Child so baptized is lawfully and sufficiently baptized, and ought not to be baptized again. Yet nevertheless, if the Child, which is after this sort baptized, do afterward live, it is expedient that it be brought into the Church, to the intent that, if the Minister of the same Parish did himself baptize that Child, the Congregation may be certified of the true Form of Baptism, by him privately before used: In which case he shall say thus,

I CERTIFY you, that according to the due and prescribed Order of the Church, at such a time, and at such a place, before divers witnesses I baptized this Child.

¶ But if the Child were baptized by any other lawful Minister, then the Minister of the Parish, where the Child was born or christened, shall examine and try whether the Child be lawfully baptized, or no. In which case, if those that bring any Child to the Church do answer, that the same Child is already baptized, then shall the Minister examine them further, saying,

BY whom was this Child baptized?
Who was present when this Child was baptized?

Because some things essential to this Sacrament may happen to be omitted through fear or haste, in such times of extremity; therefore I demand further of you,

With what matter was this Child baptized?
With what words was this Child baptized?

¶ And if the Minister shall find by the answers of such as bring the Child, that all things were done as they ought to be; then shall not he christen the Child again, but shall receive him as one of the flock of true Christian people, saying thus,

I CERTIFY you, that in this case all is well done, and according unto due order, concerning the baptizing of this Child; who being born in original sin, and in the wrath of God, is now, by the laver of Regeneration in Baptism, received into the number of the children of God, and heirs of everlasting life: for our Lord Jesus Christ doth not deny his grace and mercy unto such Infants, but most lovingly doth call them unto him, as the holy Gospel doth witness to our comfort on this wise.

St. Mark x. 13.

THEY brought young children to Christ, that he should touch them; and his disciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Jesus saw it, he was much displeas'd, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein. And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them.

¶ After the Gospel is read, the Minister shall make this brief Exhortation upon the words of the Gospel.

DELOVED, ye hear in this Gospel the words of our Saviour Christ, that he commanded the children to be brought unto him; how he blamed those that would have kept them from him; how he exhorted all men to follow their innocency. Ye perceive how by his outward gesture and deed he declared his good will toward them; for he embraced them in his arms, he laid his hands upon them, and blessed them. Doubt ye not therefore, but earnestly believe, that he hath likewise favourably received this present Infant; that he hath embraced him with the arms of his mercy; and (as he hath promised in his holy Word) will give unto him the blessing of eternal life, and make him partaker of his everlasting kingdom. Wherefore, we being thus persuaded of the good will of our heavenly Father, declared by his Son Jesus Christ, towards this Infant, let us faithfully and devoutly give thanks unto him, and say the Prayer which the Lord himself taught us:

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

ALmighty and everlasting God, heavenly Father, we give thee humble thanks, that thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace, and faith in thee; Increase this knowledge, and confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to this Infant, that he, being born again, and being made an heir of everlasting salvation, through our Lord the Office of Public Baptism, with the words "and in declaration of our faith, let us recite the articles contained in our Creed." This clause was not omitted till 1662.

After the Lord's prayer in 1549 there was a rubric, "Then shall they say the Creed." This was omitted in 1552, though the clause of the exhortation enjoining its recitation was retained till 1662.

¶ The prayer, "Almighty and everlasting God," is from the Office of 1549, where it followed the putting on of the chrism after the Profession. It was retained in 1552 after the Profession, and was moved to its present place in 1662.

The variations in the renunciations and professions from those of 1549 are the same as in the Office of Public Baptism. The professions were followed in 1549 by the putting on of the chrism with the formula, given in the Office of Public Baptism, without any anointing.

The reception, the address, "Seeing now," and the prayer following it were first added in 1662.

The address to the sponsors is almost verbally the same as in 1549. The chief alteration, which was made in 1662, was the substitution of "vulgar tongue" for "English tongue."

¶ The last rubric of 1549 was, "But if they which bring the infants to the church, do make an uncertain answer to the priest's questions, and say that they cannot tell what they thought, did, or said, in that great fear and trouble of mind (as oftentimes it chanceth); then let the priest baptize him in form above written, concerning Public Baptism, saying that at the dipping of the child in the Font he shall use this form of words." This rubric was altered in 1604 to the present form, with the single exception, that in 1662 the words "before appointed for Public Baptism of Infants" were substituted for "above written concerning Public Baptism."

¶ The rubric appended to the Office of Public Baptism respecting the salvation of baptized children was added in 1662. In 1549 there was a rubric prefixed to the Confirmation Office, which stated "that it is certain by God's word, that children, being baptized (if they depart out of this life in their infancy) are undoubtedly saved." This was altered in 1552 to "that children being baptized have all things necessary for their salvation; and be undoubtedly saved," and so remained till 1662. The institution of a Christian man (A.D. 1537) pronounced that "infants and children, dying in their infancy, shall undoubtedly be saved (by the Sacrament of Baptism) or else not."

The Sarum Manual enjoined that each parish priest should often, on the Sunday, set forth to his parishioners the form of baptizing, in order that, if need be, they might know how to baptize infants. The English formula, which they were to be instructed to use, was "I cristene the N. in the name of the Fadir, and of the Sone, and of the Holy Gost. Amen;" sprinkling water on the child, or dipping it in the water thrice or once at least. If the child, thus baptized, survived, it was to be brought to the church, where the whole of the service, with the exception of the actual baptism, was to be gone through. If the answers of the layman, who baptized the child, were uncertain, the priest was to baptize the child conditionally by sprinkling or dipping with the formula, "If thou art baptized, I do not re-baptize thee: but if thou art not already baptized, I baptize thee, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen." The Sarum rubric permitted lay-baptism in cases of necessity only. The permission in Hermann's Consult. was guarded by a like restriction. The Judicial Committee of Privy Council ruled in Escott v. Martin, that, in the Church of England, lay-baptism, though not encouraged, is not disallowed.

The reference to the Canon, for the true explication of the use of the sign of the cross in baptism, was added in 1662.

PRIVATE BAPTISM OF INFANTS.

Jesus Christ, may continue thy servant, and attain thy promise; through the same our Lord Jesus Christ thy Son, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, now and for ever. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest demand the Name of the Child; which being by the Godfathers and Godmothers pronounced, the Minister shall say,

DOST thou, in the name of this Child, renounce the devil and all his works, the vain pomp and glory of this world, with all covetous desires of the same, and the carnal desires of the flesh, so that thou wilt not follow, nor be led by them?

Answer. I renounce them all.

Minister.

DOST thou believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth?

And in Jesus Christ his only-begotten Son our Lord? And that he was conceived by the Holy Ghost; born of the Virgin Mary; that he suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried; that he went down into hell, and also did rise again the third day; that he ascended into heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty; and from thence shall come again at the end of the world, to judge the quick and the dead?

And dost thou believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy Catholic Church; the Communion of Saints; the Remission of sins; the Resurrection of the flesh; and everlasting life after death?

Answer. All this I stedfastly believe.

Minister.

WILT thou then obediently keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of thy life?

Answer. I will.

¶ Then the Priest shall say,

WE receive this Child into the congregation of Christ's flock, and do sign him with the sign of the Cross, in token that hereafter he shall not be ashamed to confess the faith of Christ crucified, and manfully to fight under his banner, against sin, the world, and the devil; and to continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto his life's end. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

SEEING now, dearly beloved brethren, that this Child is by Baptism regenerate, and grafted into the body of Christ's Church, let us give thanks unto Almighty God for these benefits; and with one accord make our prayers unto him, that he may lead the rest of his life according to this beginning.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

WE yield thee most hearty thanks, most merciful Father, that it hath pleased thee to regenerate this Infant with thy Holy Spirit, to receive him for thine own Child by adoption, and to incorporate him into thy holy Church. And humbly we beseech thee to grant, that he, being dead unto sin, and living unto righteousness, and being buried with Christ in his death, may crucify the old man, and utterly abolish the whole body of sin; and that, as he is made partaker of the death of thy Son, he may also be partaker of his resurrection; so that finally, with the residue of thy holy Church, he may be an inheritor of thine everlasting kingdom; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then, all standing up, the Minister shall make this Exhortation to the Godfathers and Godmothers.

FORASMUCH as this Child hath promised by you his sureties to renounce the devil and all his works, to believe in God, and to serve him; ye must remember, that it is your parts and duties to see that this Infant be taught, so soon as he shall be able to learn, what a solemn vow, promise, and profession he hath made by you. And that he may know these things the better, ye shall call upon him to hear Sermons; and chiefly ye shall provide, that he may learn the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments, in the vulgar tongue, and all other things which a Christian ought to know and believe to his soul's health; and that this Child may be virtuously brought up to lead a godly and a Christian life; remembering alway, that Baptism doth represent unto us our profession; which is, to follow the example of our Saviour Christ, and to be made like unto him; that, as he died, and rose again for us, so should we, who are baptized, die from sin, and rise again unto righteousness; continually mortifying all our evil and corrupt affections, and daily proceeding in all virtue and godliness of living.

¶ But if they which bring the Infant to the Church do make such uncertain answers to the Priest's questions, as that it cannot appear that the Child was baptized with Water, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, (which are essential parts of Baptism,) then let the Priest baptize it in the form before appointed for Publick Baptism of Infants; saving that at the dipping of the Child in the Font, he shall use this form of words.

IF thou art not already baptized, N. I baptize thee in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

OF BAPTISM OF ADULTS.

¶ This Office for the administration of adult baptism was added in 1662. The composition of it is attributed to Dr George Griffith, Bp of St Asaph. The want of such an Office was much felt at the Restoration, many children having been left unbaptized during the Rebellion.

Justin Martyr (A.D. 140) witnesses that fasting was a discipline practised before baptism by the converts of his time.

The Sarum Office has the following rubric: "If the person to be baptized cannot speak, either because he is an infant or dumb or sick or otherwise unable, then his sponsors shall answer, in his stead, all the questions put at baptism. But, if he can speak, then he shall answer for himself every question, except the question of his name alone, which the sponsors shall always answer."

¶ The following is the complete form of 1549 for the Consecration of the Font:

"The water in the Font shall be changed every month once at the least; and afore any child be baptized in the water so changed, the priest shall say at the Font these prayers following.

"O most merciful God our Saviour Jesu Christ, who hast ordained the element of water for the regeneration of thy faithful people, upon whom, being baptized in the river of Jordan, the holy Ghost came down in likeness of a dove; Send down, we beseech thee, the same thy holy Spirit to assist us, and to be present at this our invocation of thy holy name. Sanctify + this fountain of baptism, thou that art the sanctifier of all things, that by the power of thy word, all those that shall be baptized therein may be spiritually regenerated, and made the children of everlasting adoption. Amen.

"O merciful God, grant that the old Adam, in them that shall be baptized in this fountain, may be so buried, that the new man may be raised up again. Amen.

"Grant that all carnal affections may die in them: and that all things belonging to the Spirit may live and grow in them. Amen.

"Grant to all them which at this fountain forsake the devil and all his works: that they may have power and strength to have victory, and to triumph against him, the world, and the flesh. Amen.

"Whosoever shall confess thee, O Lord: recognise him also in thy kingdom. Amen.

"Grant that all sin and vice here may be so extinct: that they never have power to reign in thy servants. Amen.

"Grant that whosoever here shall begin to be of thy flock: may evermore continue in the same. Amen.

"Grant that all they which for thy sake in this life do deny and forsake themselves; may win and purchase thee, (O Lord) which art everlasting treasure. Amen.

"Grant that whosoever is here dedicated to thee by our office and ministry: may also be endued with heavenly virtues, and everlastingly rewarded through thy mercy, O blessed Lord God, who dost live and govern all things world without end. Amen.

"The Lord be with you.

"A. And with thy spirit.

"Almighty everliving God, whose most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ, for thy forgiveness of our sins, did shed out his most precious side both water and blood, and gave commandment to his disciples that they should go teach: nations, and baptize them in the name the Father, the Son, and the holy Ghost. Regard, we beseech thee, the supplications of thy congregation, and grant that all thy servants which shall be baptized in this water, prepared for the ministration of thy holy sacrament, may receive the fulness of thy grace, and ever remain in the number of thy faithful, and elect children, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

THE MINISTRATION OF

BAPTISM TO SUCH AS ARE OF RIPER YEARS,

AND ABLE TO ANSWER FOR THEMSELVES.

¶ When any such persons, as are of riper years, are to be baptized, timely notice shall be given to the Bishop, or whom he shall appoint for that purpose, a week before at the least, by the Parents, or some other discreet persons; that so due care may be taken for their Examination, whether they be sufficiently instructed in the Principles of the Christian Religion; and that they may be exhorted to prepare themselves with Prayers and Fasting for the receiving of this holy Sacrament.

¶ And if they shall be found fit, then the Godfathers and Godmothers (the people being assembled upon the Sunday or Holy-day appointed) shall be ready to present them at the Font immediately after the second Lesson, either at Morning or Evening Prayer, as the Curate in his discretion shall think fit.

¶ And standing there, the Priest shall ask, whether any of the persons here presented be baptized, or no: If they shall answer, No; then shall the Priest say thus,

DEARLY beloved, forasmuch as all men are conceived and born in sin, (and that which is born of the flesh is flesh,) and they that are in the flesh cannot please God, but live in sin, committing many actual transgressions; and that our Saviour Christ saith, None can enter into the kingdom of God, except he be regenerate and born anew of Water and of the Holy Ghost; I beseech you to call upon God the Father, through our Lord Jesus Christ, that of his bounteous goodness he will grant to these persons that which by nature they cannot have; that they may be baptized with Water and the Holy Ghost, and received into Christ's holy Church, and be made lively members of the same.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

Let us pray.

(¶ And here all the Congregation shall kneel.)

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, who of thy great mercy didst save Noah and his family in the ark from perishing by water; and also didst safely lead the children of Israel thy people through the Red Sea, figuring thereby thy holy Baptism; and by the Baptism of thy well-beloved Son Jesus Christ, in the river Jordan, didst sanctify the element of water to the mystical washing away of sin; We beseech thee, for thine infinite mercies, that thou wilt mercifully look upon these thy servants; wash them and sanctify them with the Holy Ghost, that they, being delivered from thy wrath, may be received into the ark of Christ's Church; and being stedfast in faith, joyful through hope, and rooted in charity, may so pass the waves of this troublesome world, that finally they may come to the land of everlasting life, there to reign with thee world without end; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ALMIGHTY and immortal God, the aid of all that need, the helper of all that flee to thee for succour, the life of them that believe, and the resurrection of the dead; We call upon thee for these persons, that they, coming to thy holy Baptism, may receive remission of their sins by spiritual regeneration. Receive them, O Lord, as thou hast promised by thy well-beloved Son, saying, Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: So give now unto us that ask; let us that seek find; open the gate unto us that knock; that these persons may enjoy the everlasting benediction of thy heavenly washing, and may come to the eternal kingdom which thou hast promised by Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the people stand up, and the Priest shall say,

Hear the words of the Gospel, written by Saint John, in the third Chapter, beginning at the first Verse.

THERE was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews. The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God; for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him. Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? Can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born? Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof; but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

¶ After which he shall say this Exhortation following.

BELOVED, ye hear in this Gospel the express words of our Saviour Christ, that except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. Whereby ye may perceive the great necessity of this Sacrament, where it may be had. Likewise, immediately before his ascension into heaven, (as we read in the last Chapter of Saint Mark's Gospel,) he gave command to his disciples, saying, Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned. Which also sheweth unto us the great benefit we reap thereby. For which cause Saint Peter the Apostle, when upon his first preaching of the Gospel many were pricked at the heart, and said to him and the rest of the Apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do? replied and said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is to you and your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. And with many other words exhorted he them, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation. For (as the same Apostle testifieth in another place) even Baptism doth also now save us, (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience towards God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Doubt ye not therefore,

¶ The Office of Baptism, now used in the Greek Church, is as follows.

Before actual baptism the catechumen is brought to the priest, who unrobes him, leaving him clad in a single garment alone, breathes thrice into his face, and crosses him thrice on the forehead and breast; then lays his hand upon his head and prays that the catechumen may overcome the world, the flesh, and the devil; and, walking in God's commandments, be a faithful member of the Church of Christ. He then exorcises the devil, prays again in the catechumen's behalf, once more emphatically beseeches that the evil spirit may be subdued and crushed, breathing on the catechumen's mouth, forehead, and breast. He then turns him towards the West and asks, "Dost thou renounce Satan? and all his works? and all his angels? and all his service? and all his pomps?" The catechumen, or his sponsor in case of a barbarian or child, replies, "I renounce them." This is done thrice. Then the priest says thrice, "Didst thou renounce Satan?" The catechumen answers each time, "I did renounce him." The priest upon this says, "Blow upon and spit upon him." He then turns the catechumen to the East and asks, "Dost thou accord with Christ? A. I do accord." Thrice. "Pr. Didst thou accord? A. I did accord. Pr. Dost thou believe? A. I believe him as King and God." The catechumen repeats the Nicene Creed, re-affirms his accord with Christ, and adds, "I worship Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, a consubstantial, indivisible Trinity." The priest rejoins, "Blessed be God, who will have all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth, now, always, and for ever. Amen." The priest concludes this part of the service with a prayer for grace.

The next part of the service begins with the priest pronouncing the words, "Blessed be the kingdom of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, now, always, and for ever. Amen."

The deacon recites the short Litany, commencing with the peace suffrages. Into it are introduced the following petitions:

"For the sanctification of this water by the power, the energy, and ingress of the Holy Ghost, let us beseech the Lord.

"That the grace of redemption, the blessing of the Jordan, may be sent down upon it, let us beseech the Lord.

"That the cleansing energy of the incomprehensible Trinity may hover over these waters, let us beseech the Lord.

"That we may be enlightened with the light of knowledge and godliness by the ingress of the Holy Ghost, let us beseech the Lord.

"That this water may be an averter of every snare of enemies, visible or invisible, let us beseech the Lord.

"That he, who is now to be baptized in it, may become worthy of the eternal kingdom, let us beseech the Lord.

"For him who approaches this holy illumination and his salvation, let us beseech the Lord.

"That he may prove himself a son of light and an inheritor of everlasting joys, let us beseech the Lord.

"That he may be grafted into Christ and be a partaker of the death and resurrection of Christ our God, let us beseech the Lord.

"That his robe of baptism and earnest of the Spirit may be preserved spotless and unblemished in the terrible day of Christ our God, let us beseech the Lord.

"That this water may be to him a laver of regeneration for the remission of sins and a robe of immortality, let us beseech the Lord."

A secret prayer is offered by the priest, that God will pardon his unworthiness and accept his service.

He then prays for the consecration of the water by the descent of the Holy Ghost, and consecrates it by making the sign of the cross upon it and breathing upon it thrice.

The following portion of the prayer may be compared with our own form:

"Manifest thyself, O Lord, in this water, and grant that he, who is now to be baptized therein, may be transformed, by putting off the old man which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts, and putting on the new man which is renewed after the image of him that created him; that, as he is made conformable to the likeness of the death of our Lord in baptism, so he may be a partaker of his resurrection; and that, having kept the gift of thy Holy Spirit and increased the deposit of his grace, he may receive the crown of his heavenly calling, and be numbered with the firstborn who are written in heaven by our God and Lord Jesus Christ."

Oil is consecrated, and before baptism the body is anointed in its various parts, with a prayer for each act of unction.

When this is over the priest holds the catechumen upright, looking towards the East, and baptizes him in this form:

"N. The servant of God is baptized in the name of the Father, Amen; and of the Son, Amen; and of the Holy Ghost, but earnestly believe, that he will favourably receive these present persons, truly repenting, and coming unto him by faith; that he will grant them remission of their sins, and bestow upon them the Holy Ghost; that he will give them the blessing of eternal life, and make them partakers of his everlasting kingdom.

Wherefore we being thus persuaded of the good will of our heavenly Father towards these persons, declared by his Son Jesus Christ; let us faithfully and devoutly give thanks to him, and say,

ALMIGHTY and everlasting God, heavenly Father, we give thee humble thanks, for that thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace, and faith in thee: Increase this knowledge, and confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to these persons that they may be born again, and be made heirs of everlasting salvation; through our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, now and for ever. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest shall speak to the persons to be baptized on this wise:

WELL-BELOVED, who are come hither desiring to receive holy Baptism, ye have heard how the congregation hath prayed, that our Lord Jesus Christ would vouchsafe to receive you and bless you, to release you of your sins, to give you the kingdom of heaven, and everlasting life. Ye have heard also, that our Lord Jesus Christ hath promised in his holy Word to grant all those things that we have prayed for; which promise he, for his part, will most surely keep and perform.

Wherefore, after this promise made by Christ, ye must also faithfully, for your part, promise in the presence of these your Witnesses, and this whole congregation, that ye will renounce the devil and all his works, and constantly believe God's holy Word, and obediently keep his commandments.

¶ Then shall the Priest demand of each of the persons to be baptized, severally, these Questions following:

Question.

DOST thou renounce the devil and all his works, the vain pomp and glory of the world, with all covetous desires of the same, and the carnal desires of the flesh, so that thou wilt not follow, nor be led by them?

Answer. I renounce them all.

Question.

DOST thou believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth?

And in Jesus Christ his only-begotten Son our Lord? And that he was conceived by the Holy Ghost; born of the Virgin Mary; that he suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried; that he went down into hell, and also did rise again the third day; that he ascended into heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty; and from thence shall come again at the end of the world, to judge the quick and the dead?

And dost thou believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy Catholick Church; the Communion of Saints; the Remission of sins; the Resurrection of the flesh; and everlasting life after death?

Answer. All this I stedfastly believe.

Question.

WILT thou be baptized in this faith?

Answer. That is my desire.

Question.

WILT thou then obediently keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of thy life?

Answer. I will endeavour so to do, God being my helper.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

OMERCIFUL God, grant that the old Adam in these persons may be so buried, that the new man may be raised up in them. Amen.

Grant that all carnal affections may die in them, and that all things belonging to the Spirit may live and grow in them. Amen.

Grant that they may have power and strength to have victory, and to triumph, against the devil, the world, and the flesh. Amen.

Grant that they, being here dedicated to thee by our office and ministry, may also be endued with heavenly virtues, and everlastingly rewarded, through thy mercy, O blessed Lord God, who dost live, and govern all things, world without end. Amen.

ALMIGHTY, everliving God, whose most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ, for the forgiveness of our sins, did shed out of his most precious side both water and blood, and gave commandment to his disciples, that they should go teach all nations, and baptize them In the Name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost; Regard, we beseech thee, the supplications of this congregation; sanctify this Water to the mystical washing away of sin; and grant that the persons now to be baptized therein may receive the fulness of thy grace, and ever remain in the number of thy faithful and elect children, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest take each person to be baptized by the right hand, and placing him conveniently by the Font, according to his discretion, shall ask the Godfathers and Godmothers the Name; and then shall dip him in the water, or pour water upon him, saying,

NI baptize thee In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

WE receive this person into the congregation of Christ's flock; and do *Here the Priest shall make a Cross upon the person's forehead. sign him with the sign of the Cross, in token that hereafter he shall not be ashamed to confess the faith of Christ crucified, and manfully to fight under his banner, against sin, the world, and the devil; and to continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto his life's end. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

SEERING now, dearly beloved brethren, that these persons are regenerate, and grafted into the body of Christ's Church, let us give thanks unto Almighty God for these benefits, and with one accord make our prayers unto him, that they may lead the rest of their life according to this beginning.

¶ Then shall be said the Lord's Prayer, all kneeling.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

WE yield thee humble thanks, O heavenly Father, that thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace, and faith in thee; increase this knowledge, and confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to these persons; that, being now born again, and made heirs of everlasting salvation, through our Lord Jesus Christ, they may continue thy Amen; now, always, and for ever and ever. Amen." At each clause the priest dips him into the water.

He then commences the psalm, "Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven," &c. the people following him.

The newly baptized is vested.

The priest gives thanks for the regeneration and prays, "Keep him in thy holiness, strengthen him in the true faith, save him from the evil one and all his devices, and preserve his soul with thy saving fear in purity and righteousness, that so, pleasing thee in every deed and word, he may be a son and inheritor of thy heavenly kingdom."

The priest anoints the baptized with the holy chrism, saying, "The seal of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

With the presenter of the child for baptism and the child he makes a circuit, and the verse is sung, "Ye who are baptized unto Christ have put on Christ. Alleluia."

The prelude, or introit (προκείμενον), "The Lord is my light and my Saviour; the Lord is the shield of my life." The Epistle, Rom. vi. 3—11. The Gospel, Matt. xxviii. 16—20. A Litany and benediction conclude the service.

At the end of seven days the child is brought again to the church. The priest prays that the grace, given in baptism, may be confirmed in him. He says, "Peace to all. Bow we our heads to the Lord.

"He, who has put upon himself thee Christ our God, has bowed with us to thee his head; grant that he may continue an unflinching adversary against those who vainly war against him and us; and by the crown of thy immortal conquest enable us to be victorious unto the end. For it is thine to pity and save with thy eternal Father, and thy all-holy, good, life-giving, Spirit, now, always, and for ever and ever. Amen."

He uncovers the child, and sprinkles it with water, saying, "Thou wast justified, wast enlightened," &c. He sponges the child and concludes, "Thou wast baptized, thou wast enlightened, thou wast anointed, wast washed, in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, now, always, and for ever and ever. Amen."

servants, and attain thy promises; through the same Lord Jesus Christ thy Son, who liveth and reigneth with thee, in the unity of the same Holy Spirit, everlastingly. Amen.

¶ Then, all standing up, the Priest shall use this Exhortation following; speaking to the Godfathers and Godmothers first.

FORASMUCH as these persons have promised in your presence to renounce the devil and all his works, to believe in God, and to serve him; ye must remember, that it is your part and duty to put them in mind, what a solemn vow, promise, and profession they have now made before this congregation, and especially before you their chosen witnesses. And ye are also to call upon them to use all diligence to be rightly instructed in God's holy Word; that so they may grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ, and live godly, righteously, and soberly in this present world.

(¶ And then, speaking to the new baptized persons, he shall proceed, and say,)

AND as for you, who have now by Baptism put on Christ, it is your part and duty also, being made the children of God and of the light, by faith in Jesus Christ, to walk answerably to your Christian calling, and as becometh the children of light; remembering always that Baptism representeth unto us our profession; which is, to follow the example of our Saviour Christ, and to be made like unto him; that as he died, and rose again for us; so should we, who are baptized, die from sin, and rise again unto righteousness; continually mortifying all our evil and corrupt affections, and daily proceeding in all virtue and godliness of living.

¶ It is expedient that every person, thus baptized, should be confirmed by the Bishop so soon after his Baptism as conveniently may be; that so he may be admitted to the holy Communion.

¶ If any persons not baptized in their infancy shall be brought to be baptized before they come to years of discretion to answer for themselves; it may suffice to use the Office for Publick Baptism of Infants, or (in case of extreme danger) the Office for Private Baptism; only changing the word [infant] for [Child or Person] as occasion requireth.

¶ BEFORE the revision of 1662 the Catechism was prefixed to the Order of Confirmation. After the title, "Confirmation, wherein is contained a Catechism for children," followed the rubrics, which remained with a few minor verbal alterations till 1662.

"To the end that confirmation may be ministered to the more edifying of such as shall receive it (according to St Paul's doctrine, who teacheth that all things should be done in the Church, to the edification of the same), it is thought good that none hereafter should be confirmed, but such as can say in their mother tongue the Articles of the Faith, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments. And can also answer to such questions of this short Catechism, as the Bishop (or such as he shall appoint) shall by his discretion appose them in. And this order is most convenient to be observed for divers considerations.

"First, because that when children come to the years of discretion, and have learned what their godfathers and godmothers promised for them in baptism, they may then themselves with their own mouth, and with their own consent, openly before the Church, ratify and confess the same; and also promise that, by the grace of God, they will evermore endeavour themselves faithfully to observe and keep such things, as they by their own mouth and confession have assented unto.

"Secondly, forasmuch as confirmation is ministered to them that be baptized, that by imposition of hands, and prayer, they may receive strength and defence against all temptations to sin, and the assaults of the world and the devil; it is most meet to be ministered when children come to that age, that partly by the frailty of their own flesh, partly by the assaults of the world and the devil, they begin to be in danger to fall into sin.

"Thirdly, for that it is agreeable with the usage of the Church, in times past, whereby it was ordained that confirmation should be ministered to them that were of perfect age, that they being instructed in Christ's religion, should openly profess their own faith, and promise to be obedient unto the will of God.

"And that no man shall think that any detriment shall come to children by deferring of their confirmation, he shall know for truth, that it is certain by God's word, that children, being baptized (if they depart out of this life in their infancy) are undoubtedly saved."

In 1604 the title was altered to "The Order of Confirmation, or laying on of hands upon children baptized, and able to render an account of their faith, according to the Catechism following."

¶ On the insertion of a Catechism in the Prayer-book Mr Procter remarks:

"The insertion in the Prayer-book of such an authorized exposition of the elements of the Christian faith and practice belongs to the Reformation. English versions and expositions of the Lord's Prayer and Creed had existed in early times. But immediately before the Reformation, it appears that these elements were by no means generally known. The origin of our rubrics about catechizing may be referred to the Injunctions issued in 1536 and 1538, which ordered the curates to teach the people the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, and the Ten Commandments, sentence by sentence, on Sundays and holy-days, and to make all persons recite them when they came to confession. And when the great hindrance to reformation was removed by the death of Henry, the instruction of the young and the ignorant was among the first particulars to which the advisers of Edward directed their efforts, in the Injunctions of 1547: and as soon as a book of service was prepared, a Catechism was placed in it, that the exposition of these Christian elements might not depend on the care or ability of the curates."

There is inserted in the Confirmation Office of Hermann's Consult. a catechism, according to which the parish priests "shall diligently prepare the children, whom they purpose to offer to confirmation, to make their confession of faith and profession of christen communion and obedience decently and semely." This Catechism begins thus:

"Demaunde. Dost thou profess thyself to be a christian? Answer. I profess to be. D. What is to be a christian? A. To bee borne agayne in Christ, and to have remission of sinnes, and participation of everlastyng lyfe through him. D. Whereby trustest thou, that these thyngs be geven the? A. Because I am baptized in the name of the father, the sonne, and the holye gost. D. What belevest thou of God the father, the sonne, and the holy gost? A. The same that the articles of our Crede do comprehend? D. Rehearse them. A. I do beleve in God," &c. It does not appear that any part of our Catechism was taken from Hermann's. The following question and answer in it resemble ours more than the

A CATECHISM,

THAT IS TO SAY,

AN INSTRUCTION TO BE LEARNED OF EVERY PERSON, BEFORE HE BE BROUGHT TO BE CONFIRMED BY THE BISHOP.

Question.

WHAT is your Name?

Answer. N. or M.

Question. Who gave you this Name?

Answer. My Godfathers and Godmothers in my Baptism; wherein I was made a member of Christ, the child of God, and an inheritor of the kingdom of heaven.

Question. What did your Godfathers and Godmothers then for you?

Answer. They did promise and vow three things in my name. First, that I should renounce the devil and all his works, the pomps and vanity of this wicked world, and all the sinful lusts of the flesh. Secondly, that I should believe all the Articles of the Christian Faith. And thirdly, that I should keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of my life.

Question. Dost thou not think that thou art bound to believe, and to do, as they have promised for thee?

Answer. Yes verily; and by God's help so I will. And I heartily thank our heavenly Father, that he hath called me to this state of salvation, through Jesus Christ our Saviour. And I pray unto God to give me his grace, that I may continue in the same unto my life's end.

Catechist.

Rehearse the Articles of thy Belief.

Answer.

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth:

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord, Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary, Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried, He descended into hell; The third day he rose again from the dead, He ascended into heaven, And sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty; From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost; The holy Catholic Church; The Communion of Saints; The Forgiveness of sins; The Resurrection of the Body; And the Life everlasting. Amen.

Question. What dost thou chiefly learn in these Articles of thy Belief?

Answer. First, I learn to believe in God the Father, who hath made me, and all the world.

Secondly, in God the Son, who hath redeemed me, and all mankind.

Thirdly, in God the Holy Ghost, who sanctifieth me, and all the elect people of God.

Question.

You said, that your Godfathers and Godmothers did promise for you, that you should keep God's Commandments. Tell me how many there be?

Answer. Ten.

Question. Which be they?

Answer.

THE same which God spake in the twentieth Chapter of Exodus, saying, I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

I. Thou shalt have none other gods but me.

II. Thou shalt not make to thyself any graven image, nor the likeness of any thing that is in heaven-above, or in the earth beneath, or in the water under the earth. Thou shalt not bow down to them, nor worship them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, and visit the sins of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me, and shew mercy unto thousands in them that love me, and keep my commandments.

III. Thou shalt not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his Name in vain.

IV. Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath-day. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all that thou hast to do; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God. In it thou shalt do no manner of work, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, thy cattle, and the stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it.

V. Honour thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

VI. Thou shalt do no murder.

VII. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

VIII. Thou shalt not steal.

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

X. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his servant, nor his maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is his.

Question.

What dost thou chiefly learn by these Commandments?

Answer. I learn two things: my duty towards God, and my duty towards my Neighbour.

Question. What is thy duty towards God?

Answer. My duty towards God, is to believe in him, to fear him, and to love him with all my heart, with all my mind, with all my soul, and with all my strength; to worship him, to give him thanks, to put my whole trust in him, to call upon him, to honour his holy Name and his Word, and to serve him truly all the days of my life.

Question. What is thy duty towards thy Neighbour?

Answer. My duty towards my Neighbour, is to love him as myself, and to do to all men, as I would they should do unto me: To love, honour, and succour my father and mother; To honour and obey the Queen, and all that are put in authority under her: To submit myself to all my governors, teachers, spiritual pastors and masters: To order myself lowly and reverently to all my betters: To hurt no body by word nor deed: To be true and just in all my dealing: To bear no malice nor hatred in my heart: To keep my hands from picking and stealing, and my tongue from evil-speaking, lying, and slandering: To keep my body in temperance, sobriety, and chastity: Not to covet nor desire other men's goods; but to learn and labour truly to get mine own living, and to do my duty in that state of life, unto which it shall please God to call me.

others. "D. Doeth that please the then, and doest thou allowe it, and wilt thou continue in the same, that thy godfathers promysed and professed in thy name at holy baptisme, when in thy steede they renounced Satan, and the world, and bound the to Christe and to this congregation that thou shouldest be thorowelie obedient to the Gospel? A. I allowe these things, and by the healpe of oure Lord Jesus Christe, I wil continue in the same unto thende."

The preface to the Commandments was added in 1552, when the Commandments were first given at full length. In 1549 they were given thus:

"I. Thou shalt have none other gods but me.

"II. Thou shalt not make to thyself any graven image, nor the likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, nor in the water under the earth. Thou shalt not bow down to them nor worship them.

"III. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

"IV. Remember that thou keep holy the Sabbath-day.

"V. Honour thy father and thy mother.

"VI. Thou shalt do no murder.

"VII. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

¶ At the end of the Confirmation Office of 1549 were the following rubrics:

"The curate of every parish, once in six weeks at the least, upon warning by him given, shall upon some Sunday or holy-day, half an hour before evensong, openly in the church instruct and examine so many children of his parish sent unto him, as the time will serve, and, as he shall think convenient, in some part of this Catechism.

"And all fathers, mothers, masters and dames, shall cause their children, servants, and prentices (which are not yet confirmed) to come to the church at the day appointed, and obediently hear and be ordered by the curate, until such time as they have learned all that is here appointed for them to learn."

The former of these was altered in 1552 to "The curate of every parish, or some other at his appointment, shall diligently, upon Sundays and holy-days, half an hour before evensong," &c. This was altered to the present form in 1662.

In the latter rubric the parenthetical clause, "which are not yet confirmed," was replaced in 1552 by "which have not learned their Catechism."

The rubric, "So soon as children," was till 1662, "So soon as the children can say in their mother-tongue the Articles of the Faith, the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, and also can answer to such questions of this short Catechism, as the Bishop (or such as he shall appoint) shall by his discretion appose them in; then shall they be brought to the Bishop by one that shall be his godfather, or godmother, that every child may have a witness of his confirmation."

Also at the end of the Confirmation Office of 1549 was this rubric, which remained unchanged in wording and position till 1662:

"And whensoever the Bishop shall give knowledge for children to be brought afore him to any convenient place, for their confirmation, then shall the curate of every parish either bring, or send in writing, the names of all those children of his parish which can say the Articles of their Faith, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments, and also how many of them can answer to the other questions contained in this Catechism."

The last rubric was, till 1662, "And the Bishop shall confirm them on this wise."

"VIII. Thou shalt not steal.

"IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

"X. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his servant, nor his maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is his."

In the "duty towards my neighbour" the Catechism of 1549 had, "To honour and obey the king, and his ministers." This was replaced in 1662 by the present wording.

The Catechism of 1549 concluded with the paraphrase of the Lord's Prayer. So far it is now nearly as it was first put forth. In 1604 the explanation of the sacraments was added. The composition of this explanation is attributed to Bp Overall, who was then Dean of St Paul's and Prolocutor of Convocation. This explanation was revised in 1662, when the present questions and answers displaced the following: "Q. What is the outward visible sign or form in baptism? A. Water; wherein the person baptized is dipped, or sprinkled with it, In the name, &c. Q. Why then are infants baptized, when by reason of their tender age they cannot perform them? A. Yes; they do perform them by their sureties, who promise and vow them both in their names; which when they come to age, themselves are bound to perform."

A CATECHISM.

Catechist.

My good Child, know this, that thou art not able to do these things of thyself, nor to walk in the Commandments of God, and to serve him, without his special grace; which thou must learn at all times to call for by diligent prayer. Let me hear therefore, if thou canst say the Lord's Prayer.

Answer.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

Question. What desirest thou of God in this Prayer?

Answer. I desire my Lord God our heavenly Father, who is the giver of all goodness, to send his grace unto me, and to all people; that we may worship him, serve him, and obey him, as we ought to do. And I pray unto God, that he will send us all things that be needful both for our souls and bodies; and that he will be merciful unto us, and forgive us our sins; and that it will please him to save and defend us in all dangers ghostly and bodily; and that he will keep us from all sin and wickedness, and from our ghostly enemy, and from everlasting death. And this I trust he will do of his mercy and goodness, through our Lord Jesus Christ. And therefore I say, Amen, So be it.

Question.

HOW many Sacraments hath Christ ordained in his Church?

Answer. Two only, as generally necessary to salvation, that is to say, Baptism, and the Supper of the Lord.

Question. What meanest thou by this word Sacrament?

Answer. I mean an outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace given unto us, ordained by Christ himself, as a means whereby we receive the same, and a pledge to assure us thereof.

Question. How many parts are there in a Sacrament?

Answer. Two; the outward visible sign, and the inward spiritual grace.

Question. What is the outward visible sign or form in Baptism?

Answer. Water; wherein the person is baptized In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

Question. What is the inward and spiritual grace?

Answer. A death unto sin, and a new birth unto righteousness: for being by nature born in sin, and the children of wrath, we are hereby made the children of grace.

Question. What is required of persons to be baptized?

Answer. Repentance, whereby they forsake sin; and Faith, whereby they stedfastly believe the promises of God made to them in that Sacrament.

Question. Why then are Infants baptized, when by reason of their tender age they cannot perform them?

Answer. Because they promise them both by their Sureties; which promise, when they come to age, themselves are bound to perform.

Question. Why was the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper ordained?

Answer. For the continual remembrance of the sacrifice of the death of Christ, and of the benefits which we receive thereby.

Question. What is the outward part or sign of the Lord's Supper?

Answer. Bread and Wine, which the Lord hath commanded to be received.

Question. What is the inward part, or thing signified?

Answer. The Body and Blood of Christ, which are verily and indeed taken and received by the faithful in the Lord's Supper.

Question. What are the benefits whereof we are partakers thereby?

Answer. The strengthening and refreshing of our souls by the Body and Blood of Christ, as our bodies are by the Bread and Wine.

Question. What is required of them who come to the Lord's Supper?

Answer. To examine themselves, whether they repent them truly of their former sins, stedfastly purposing to lead a new life; have a lively faith in God's mercy through Christ, with a thankful remembrance of his death; and be in charity with all men.

¶ The Curate of every Parish shall diligently upon Sundays and Holy-days, after the second Lesson at Evening Prayer, openly in the Church instruct and examine so many Children of his Parish sent unto him, as he shall think convenient, in some part of this Catechism.

¶ And all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, and Dames, shall cause their Children, Servants, and Apprentices, (which have not learned their Catechism,) to come to the Church at the time appointed, and obediently to hear, and be ordered by the Curate, until such time as they have learned all that is here appointed for them to learn.

¶ So soon as Children are come to a competent age, and can say, in their Mother Tongue, the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments; and also can answer to the other Questions of this short Catechism; they shall be brought to the Bishop. And every one shall have a Godfather, or a Godmother, as a Witness of their Confirmation.

¶ And whensoever the Bishop shall give knowledge for Children to be brought unto him for their Confirmation, the Curate of every Parish shall either bring, or send in writing, with his hand subscribed thereunto, the names of all such persons within his Parish, as he shall think fit to be presented to the Bishop to be confirmed. And, if the Bishop approve of them, he shall confirm them in manner following.

OF CONFIRMATION.

¶ IN the Prayer-book of 1549 this Office is headed, "Confirmation, wherein is contained a Catechism for children." In 1604 this heading was altered to "The Order of Confirmation, or laying on of hands upon children baptized, and able to render an account of their faith, according to the Catechism following." The Office itself was styled in 1549 "Confirmation." To this was added in 1604 "or laying on of hands." The further addition was made in 1662.

The rubric, "Upon the day appointed," was prefixed in 1662.

¶ The address to the candidates, with their answer, was added in 1662.

¶ The first and second versicles and responses are as in 1549, when the Office opened with them, following the Sarum Office. The third of 1549 was, as in the Sarum Office, "B. The Lord be with you. A. And with thy spirit."

The prayer, "Almighty and everliving God," as in 1549, except that the phrase, "Send down from heaven, we beseech thee (O Lord), upon them thy holy Ghost the Comforter with the manifold," was, in 1552, altered to "strengthen them we beseech thee (O Lord), with the holy Ghost the Comforter, and daily increase in them thy manifold." The prayer of 1549 was an exact translation of the first prayer in the Sarum Office. This prayer is found in the Sacramentary of Gelasius (A.D. 494), but is probably much more ancient.

"Sign them (O Lord) and mark them to be thine for ever, by the virtue of thy holy cross and passion. Confirm and strength (sic) them with the inward unction of thy holy Ghost, mercifully unto everlasting life. Amen.

"Then the Bishop shall cross them in the forehead, and lay his hand upon their head, saying,

¶ The final rubric is from the Office of 1549, with the addition of the words, "or be ready and desirous to be confirmed." The rule prescribed in the Sarum Manual was that no one should be admitted to communicate, save when dying, except he had been confirmed or had been reasonably hindered from receiving confirmation.

¶ In the primitive Church confirmation was administered as soon as possible after baptism, even in the case of infants. Indeed S. Gregory Nazianzen declares, that as every age is fit for receiving baptism, so every age is fit for receiving confirmation. In the Western Church, however, the custom of deferring the rite till the candidate has passed the period of infancy is now established universally. In the Greek Church Confirmation is still administered by the priest immediately after baptism. The mode of administering the rite has been described already in the account of the Greek Office of Baptism.

¶ Chrism is a mixture of oil and balm, blessed by the bishop. In the English Church, as in the rest of the Western Church, before 1549, the priest made with it the sign of the cross on the crown of the infant's head immediately after baptizing it, and the Bishop in confirmation made with it the sign of the cross on the child's forehead. In the Greek Church, where the confirmation follows the baptism, there is but one anointing with the chrism.

Chrism was used to signify the grace of the Holy Ghost. In the time of Tertullian (A.D. 192) its use was evidently well established. The English Church laid it aside in 1549, influenced, probably, by the example of Archbishop Hermann.

THE ORDER OF CONFIRMATION,

OR LAYING ON OF HANDS UPON THOSE THAT ARE BAPTIZED AND COME TO YEARS OF DISCRETION.

¶ Upon the day appointed, all that are to be then confirmed, being placed, and standing in order, before the Bishop; he (or some other Minister appointed by him) shall read this Preface following.

TO the end that Confirmation may be ministered to the more edifying of such as shall receive it, the Church hath thought good to order, That none hereafter shall be Confirmed, but such as can say the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments; and can also answer to such other Questions, as in the short Catechism are contained: which order is very convenient to be observed; to the end, that children, being now come to the years of discretion, and having learned what their Godfathers and Godmothers promised for them in Baptism, they may themselves, with their own mouth and consent, openly before the Church, ratify and confirm the same; and also promise, that by the grace of God they will evermore endeavour themselves faithfully to observe such things, as they, by their own confession, have assented unto.

¶ Then shall the Bishop say,

DO ye here, in the presence of God, and of this congregation, renew the solemn promise and vow that was made in your name at your Baptism; ratifying and confirming the same in your own persons, and acknowledging yourselves bound to believe, and to do, all those things, which your Godfathers and Godmothers then undertook for you?

¶ And every one shall audibly answer,
I do.

The Bishop.

OUR help is in the Name of the Lord;
Answer. Who hath made heaven and earth.
Bishop. Blessed be the Name of the Lord;
Answer. Henceforth, world without end.
Bishop. Lord, hear our prayers.
Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

The Bishop. Let us pray.

ALMIGHTY and everliving God, who hast vouchsafed to regenerate these thy servants by Water and the Holy Ghost, and hast given unto them forgiveness of all their sins; Strengthen them, we beseech thee, O Lord, with the Holy Ghost the Comforter, and daily increase in them thy manifold gifts of grace; the spirit of wisdom and understanding; the spirit of counsel and ghostly strength; the spirit of knowledge and true godliness; and fill them, O Lord, with the spirit of thy holy fear, now and for ever. Amen.

¶ Then all of them in order kneeling before the Bishop, he shall lay his hand upon the head of every one severally, saying,

DEFEND, O Lord, this thy Child [or this thy Servant] with thy heavenly grace, that he may continue thine for ever; and daily increase in thy Holy Spirit more and more, until he come unto thy everlasting kingdom. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Bishop say,

The Lord be with you.
Answer. And with thy spirit.

¶ And (all kneeling down) the Bishop shall add,
Let us pray.

¶ And this Collect.

ALMIGHTY and everliving God, who makest us both to will and to do those things that be good and acceptable unto thy divine Majesty; We make our humble supplications unto thee for these thy servants, upon whom (after the example of thy holy Apostles) we have now laid our hands, to certify them (by this sign) of thy favour and gracious goodness towards them. Let thy fatherly hand, we beseech thee, ever be over them; let thy Holy Spirit ever be with them; and so lead them in the knowledge and obedience of thy Word, that in the end they may obtain everlasting life; through our Lord Jesus Christ, who with thee and the Holy Ghost liveth and reigneth, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

ALMIGHTY Lord, and everlasting God, vouchsafe, we beseech thee, to direct, sanctify, and govern, both our hearts and bodies, in the ways of thy laws, and in the works of thy commandments; that, through thy most mighty protection both here and ever, we may be preserved in body and soul; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

¶ Then the Bishop shall bless them, saying thus,
THE Blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be upon you, and remain with you for ever. Amen.

¶ And there shall none be admitted to the holy Communion, until such time as he be confirmed, or be ready and desirous to be confirmed.

¶ The title of the Office as in 1549.

The rubric of 1549 was, "First the Banns must be asked three several Sunday or holy-days, in the service time, the people being present, after the accustomed manner." This was altered in 1662 to "First the Banns of all that are to be married together must be published in the Church three several Sundays, or holy-days, in the time of divine service, immediately before the sentences for the offertory; the curate saying after the accustomed manner." The present rubric is in accordance with 4 Geo. IV. c. 76. The Sarum Office directed that the Banns (Bannum = proclamation) should be asked on three solemn days separated from each other by one common day at least, openly during mass, when the greater part of the people were present.

¶ The form for the publication of Banns was first given in 1662. The rubric following it is as in 1549, and is in accordance with the rule laid down in the Sarum Manual.

¶ The next rubric is as in 1549, except that the words "and time" were inserted in 1662, and the clause was then added, "and there standing together, the man on the right hand, and the woman on the left," from the Sarum Office. The address is almost word for word as in 1549. The beginning and ending of it were taken from the Sarum Office; the rest was probably suggested by the address in Hermann's Consult.

¶ The admonition, "I require and charge you both," &c. as in 1549. There is a similar admonition in the Sarum Office. The York Manual has an English form very like our own. The rubric, which follows the admonition, is, as in 1549, somewhat expanded from the Sarum rubric.

¶ The question, "Wilt thou." &c. as in 1549, taken from the Sarum Office. The part of the service, commencing with this question and ending with the blessing after the giving of the ring, was called the espousals.

¶ The question, "Who giveth this woman," &c. as in 1549. The York Manual had "Who gyves me this wyfe." The rubric, "Then shall they give their troth to each other in this manner," was added in 1662. The rubric, "The minister," &c. was, till 1662, "And the minister, receiving the woman at her father's or friend's hands, shall cause the man to take the woman by the right-hand, and so either to give their troth to other, the man first saying."

¶ The form for plighting the troth is as in 1549, except that "depart" was altered to "do part" in 1662. The form of 1549 was taken from the Sarum Office, save that for "if holy chyrche it woll ordeyne" was substituted "according to God's holy ordinance."

¶ In the Office of 1549, as in the Sarum Office, the man was to give "a ring and other tokens of spousage, as gold or silver." In 1552 all mention of gifts besides the ring was omitted, and the words were added, "with the accustomed duty to the priest and clerk." In 1662 the words, "holding the ring there," were inserted. The form of 1549 had, "With this ring I thee wed, this gold and silver I thee give," &c. The rubric and form of 1549 were taken from the Sarum Office.

¶ The rubric, "Then the man, leaving the ring upon the fourth finger of the woman's left-hand," &c. as in 1549. The words, "they shall both kneel down," were added in 1662. The Sarum Office ordered that the bridegroom should put the ring on the woman's thumb, saying, "In nomine Patris;" then on the second finger (the forefinger), saying, "et Filii;" then on the third finger, saying, "et Spiritus Sancti;" then on the fourth finger, saying, "Amen;" and there leave the ring: because there is a vein going thence to the heart, and by the resonance of silver is signified the inner love which should be always fresh between them.

The prayer, "O eternal God," &c. seems to have been compiled from two prayers in the Sarum Office, which were offered at the blessing of the ring. In 1552 a parenthetical clause "after bracelets and jewels of gold given of the one to the other for tokens of their matrimony," between "Rebecca" and "lived faithfully" was omitted.

¶ The joining of the hands and the announcement of the union are as in 1549. The benediction as in 1552. The Office of 1549 had, following the Sarum, "God the Father bless you. † God the Son keep you. God the holy Ghost lighten your understanding. The Lord mercifully . . . , that you may have remission of your sins in this life, and in the world to come life everlasting."

¶ In the Greek Church, at the espousals, the bridegroom and bride are brought after the Liturgy to the doors of the sanctuary. A gold and a silver ring are laid on the holy table: the gold for the man, the silver for the woman. The priest crosses them thrice with these rings, gives them lighted tapers, and blesses God.

SOLEMNIZATION OF MATRIMONY.

First the Banns of all that are to be married together must be published in the Church three several Sundays, during the time of Morning Service, or of Evening Service, (if there be no Morning Service,) immediately after the second Lesson; the Curate saying after the accustomed manner,

I PUBLISH the Banns of Marriage between M. of — and N. of —. If any of you know cause, or just impediment why these two persons should not be joined together in holy Matrimony, ye are to declare it. This is the first [second, or third] time of asking.

And if the persons that are to be married dwell in divers Parishes, the Banns must be asked in both Parishes; and the Curate of the one Parish shall not solemnize Matrimony betwixt them, without a Certificate of the Banns being thrice asked, from the Curate of the other Parish.

At the day and time appointed for solemnization of Matrimony, the persons to be married shall come into the body of the Church with their friends and neighbours: and there standing together, the Man on the right hand, and the Woman on the left, the Priest shall say,

DEARLY beloved, we are gathered together here in the sight of God, and in the face of this congregation, to join together this Man and this Woman in holy Matrimony; which is an honourable estate, instituted of God in the time of man's innocency, signifying unto us the mystical union that is betwixt Christ and his Church; which holy estate Christ adorned and beautified with his presence, and first miracle that he wrought, in Cana of Galilee; and is commended of Saint Paul to be honourable among all men: and therefore is not by any to be enterprised, nor taken in hand, unadvisedly, lightly, or wantonly, to satisfy men's carnal lusts and appetites, like brute beasts that have no understanding; but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, soberly, and in the fear of God; duly considering the causes for which Matrimony was ordained.

First, It was ordained for the procreation of children, to be brought up in the fear and nurture of the Lord, and to the praise of his holy Name.

Secondly, It was ordained for a remedy against sin, and to avoid fornication; that such persons as have not the gift of continency might marry, and keep themselves undefiled members of Christ's body.

Thirdly, It was ordained for the mutual society, help, and comfort, that the one ought to have of the other, both in prosperity and adversity. Into which holy estate these two persons present come now to be joined. Therefore if any man can shew any just cause, why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter for ever hold his peace.

And also, speaking unto the persons that shall be married, he shall say,

I REQUIRE and charge you both, as ye will answer at the dreadful day of judgement when the secrets of all hearts shall be disclosed, that if either of you know any impediment, why ye may not be lawfully joined together in Matrimony, ye do now confess it. For be ye well assured, that so many as are coupled together otherwise than God's Word doth allow are not joined together by God; neither is their Matrimony lawful.

At which day of Marriage, if any man do allege and declare any impediment, why they may not be coupled together in Matrimony, by God's Law, or the Laws of this Realm; and will be bound, and sufficient sureties with him, to the parties; or else put in a Caution (to the full value of such charges as the persons to be married do thereby sustain) to prove his allegation: then the solemnization must be deferred, until such time as the truth be tried.

If no impediment be alleged, then shall the Curate say unto the Man,

M. WILT thou have this Woman to thy wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of Matrimony? Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honour, and keep her in sickness and in health; and, forsaking all other, keep thee only unto her, so long as ye both shall live?

The Man shall answer,
I will.

Then shall the Priest say unto the Woman,

N. WILT thou have this Man to thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of Matrimony? Wilt thou obey him, and serve him, love, honour, and keep him in sickness and in health; and, forsaking all other, keep thee only unto him, so long as ye both shall live?

The Woman shall answer,
I will.

Then shall the Minister say,

Who giveth this Woman to be married to this Man?

Then shall they give their troth to each other in this manner.

The Minister, receiving the Woman at her father's or friend's hands, shall cause the Man with his right hand to take the Woman by her right hand, and to say after him as followeth.

I M. take thee N. to my wedded wife, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death us do part, according to God's holy ordinance; and thereto I plight thee my troth.

Then shall they loose their hands; and the Woman, with her right hand taking the Man by his right hand, shall likewise say after the Minister,

I N. take thee M. to my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish, and to obey, till death us do part, according to God's holy ordinance; and thereto I give thee my troth.

Then shall they again loose their hands; and the Man shall give unto the Woman a Ring, laying the same upon the book with the accustomed duty to the Priest and Clerk. And the Priest, taking the Ring, shall deliver it unto the Man, to put it upon the fourth finger of the Woman's left hand. And the Man holding the Ring there, and taught by the Priest, shall say,

WITH this Ring I thee wed, with my body I thee worship, and with all my worldly goods I thee endow: In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

The deacon says a Litany with special suffrages.

The priest prays,

“O eternal God, who bringest into one things that are divided, and renderest the bond of their covenant unbroken; thou, who didst bless Isaac and Rebecca and didst make them heirs of thy promise; do thou bless these thy servants, and guide them in every good work. For thou art merciful,” &c.

He prays that the espousals may be blessed.

He gives the gold ring to the man, saying to him, “N. The servant of God, espouses M. the handmaid of God, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, now, always, and for ever and ever. Amen.”

He gives the silver ring to the woman, saying to her, “M. the handmaid of God, espouses N.” &c.

After this has been thrice repeated the rings are changed by the bridesmaid and groomsmen.

The priest then offers a prayer for their happiness and cites Scriptural examples of the value attached to the symbol of the ring. A Litany and dismissal end the espousals.

¶ The rubric at the commencement of the second part of the service is as in 1552. The direction in 1549 was, “Then shall they go into the quire,” &c.; in the Sarum Office, “to the altar step.” The Psalms as in 1549. The Sarum Office used the former. The latter was probably added to be used when the woman was past child-bearing.

¶ The lesser Litany, the Lord’s Prayer, and the versicles and responses, as in 1549 and as in the Sarum Office. The rubric of 1549 had “altar,” which was altered to “Lord’s Table” in 1552.

The prayer, “O God of Abraham,” &c. as in 1552. It only differs from the prayer of 1549, which was taken from the Sarum Office, in substituting “And as thou didst send thy blessing upon Abraham and Sara” for “And as thou didst send thy angel Raphael to Thobie and Sara, the daughter of Raguel.” The original is found in a MS. of A. D. 1000. Martene, L. i. c. ix. art. v.

¶ The prayer, “O merciful Lord,” &c. was altered in 1662 from the form of 1549. That form had “see their children’s children unto the third and fourth generation,” following the Sarum Use. This prayer occurs in the Sarum Office in the mass, which followed the marriage ceremony.

The prayer, “O God, who by thy mighty,” &c. was altered in 1662 from the form of 1549 by the omission after the words, “obedient to her husband,” of the words, “as Rachel, wise as Rebecca, faithful and obedient as Sara.” The prayer of 1549 was slightly abbreviated from a prayer in the Sarum Office, which followed the consecration in the wedding mass. It is found in a MS. of A. D. 1100. Martene, De Antiquis Ecclesie Ritibus, L. i. c. ix. art. v.

¶ The final blessing is as in 1549 and as in the Sarum Office. It is found in the MS. mentioned in the last paragraph. In 1549 the blessing was given with the sign of the cross. This was omitted in 1552, when our present rubric was substituted for “Then shall the priest bless the man and the woman, saying.”

¶ In 1549 followed the rubric, “Then shall be said, after the Gospel, a sermon, wherein ordinarily (so oft as there is any marriage) the office of man and wife shall be declared, according to holy Scripture. Or if there be no sermon, the minister shall read this that followeth.” In 1552 this was altered to “Then shall begin the Communion, and after the Gospel shall be said a sermon,” &c. The present rubric dates from 1662; the exhortation from 1549.

¶ In the Greek Church the coronation of the bridegroom and bride, which is appointed to follow the espousals, begins with the 138th Psalm, sung by the priest, the people responding at the end of each verse, “Glory to thee, our God, glory to thee.”

A Litany follows with special suffrages for the welfare, fruitfulness, and prosperity, temporal and eternal, of the married pair.

The priest makes a long prayer, citing instances of happy marriages, and praying that this may be like these. Another prayer follows, which, after detailing the institution of marriage, continues, “Do thou now, O Lord our God, send down thy heavenly grace upon these thy servants N. and M. and grant that this damsel may be in all things obedient to her husband, and that this thy servant may be the head of the wife, that so they may live according to thy will. Bless them, O Lord our God, as thou didst bless Abraham and Sarah. Bless them as thou didst bless Isaac and Rebecca. Grant them goodly offspring; that, having all sufficiency, they may abound in every good work, well-pleasing to thee; that they may see their children’s children as young olive-branches round about their table; and that, having been pleasing in thy sight, they may shine as lights in heaven; through thee our Lord, to whom,” &c.

Another prayer for harmonious intercourse and fruitfulness follows.

SOLEMNIZATION OF MATRIMONY.

Then the Man leaving the Ring upon the fourth finger of the Woman's left hand, they shall both kneel down; and the Minister shall say,

Let us pray.

O ETERNAL God, Creator and Preserver of all mankind, Giver of all spiritual grace, the Author of everlasting life; Send thy blessing upon these thy servants, this man and this woman, whom we bless in thy Name; that, as Isaac and Rebecca lived faithfully together, so these persons may surely perform and keep the vow and covenant betwixt them made, (whereof this Ring given and received is a token and pledge,) and may ever remain in perfect love and peace together, and live according to thy laws; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall the Priest join their right hands together, and say,

Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder.

Then shall the Minister speak unto the people.

FORASMUCH as M. and N. have consented together in holy wedlock, and have witnessed the same before God and this company, and thereto have given and pledged their troth either to other, and have declared the same by giving and receiving of a Ring, and by joining of hands; I pronounce that they be Man and Wife together, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

And the Minister shall add this Blessing.

GOD the Father, God the Son, God the Holy Ghost, bless, preserve, and keep you; the Lord mercifully with his favour look upon you; and so fill you with all spiritual benediction and grace, that ye may so live together in this life, that in the world to come ye may have life everlasting. Amen.

Then the Minister or Clerks, going to the Lord's Table, shall say or sing this Psalm following.

Beati omnes. Psal. cxxviii.

BLESSED are all they that fear the Lord: and walk in his ways.

For thou shalt eat the labour of thine hands: O well is thee, and happy shalt thou be.

Thy wife shall be as the fruitful vine; upon the walls of thine house;

Thy children like the olive-branches: round about thy table.

Lo, thus shall the man be blessed: that feareth the Lord.

The Lord from out of Zion shall so bless thee: that thou shalt see Jerusalem in prosperity all thy life long;

Yea, that thou shalt see thy children's children: and peace upon Israel.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

Or this Psalm.

Deus miscreatur. Psal. lxxvii.

GOD be merciful unto us, and bless us: and shew us the light of his countenance, and be merciful unto us.

That thy way may be known upon earth: thy saving health among all nations.

Let the people praise thee, O God: yea, let all the people praise thee.

O let the nations rejoice and be glad: for thou shalt judge the folk righteously, and govern the nations upon earth.

Let the people praise thee, O God: yea, let all the people praise thee.

Then shall the earth bring forth her increase: and God, even our own God, shall give us his blessing.

God shall bless us: and all the ends of the world shall fear him.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

The Psalm ended, and the Man and the Woman kneeling before the Lord's Table, the Priest standing at the Table, and turning his face towards them, shall say,

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Answer. Christ, have mercy upon us.

Minister. Lord, have mercy upon us.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

Minister. O Lord, save thy servant, and thy handmaid;

Answer. Who put their trust in thee.

Minister. O Lord, send them help from thy holy place;

Answer. And evermore defend them.

Minister. Be unto them a tower of strength,

Answer. From the face of their enemy.

Minister. O Lord, hear our prayer.

Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

Minister.

GOD of Abraham, God of Isaac, God of Jacob, bless these thy servants, and sow the seed of eternal life in their hearts; that whatsoever in thy holy Word they shall profitably learn, they may in deed fulfil the same. Look, O Lord, mercifully upon them from heaven, and bless them. And as thou didst send thy blessing upon Abraham and Sarah, to their great comfort, so vouchsafe to send thy blessing upon these thy servants; that they obeying thy will, and always being in safety under thy protection, may abide in thy love unto their lives' end; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

This Prayer next following shall be omitted, where the Woman is past child-bearing.

MERCIFUL Lord, and heavenly Father, by whose gracious gift mankind is increased; We beseech thee, assist with thy blessing these two persons, that they may both be fruitful in procreation of children, and also live together so long in godly love and honesty, that they may see their children christianly and virtuously brought up, to thy praise and honour; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

GOD, who by thy mighty power hast made all things set in order) didst appoint, that out of man (created after thine own image and similitude) woman should take her beginning; and, knitting them together, didst teach that it should never be lawful to put asunder those whom thou by Matrimony hadst made one: O God, who hast consecrated the state of Matrimony to such an excellent mystery, that in it is signified and represented the spiritual marriage and unity betwixt Christ and his Church; Look mercifully upon these thy servants, that both this man may love his wife, according to thy Word, (as Christ did love his spouse the Church, who gave himself for it, loving and cherishing it even as his own flesh,) and also that this woman may be loving and amiable, faithful and obedient to her husband; and in all quietness, sobriety, and peace, be a follower of holy and godly matrons. O Lord, bless them both, and grant them to inherit thy everlasting kingdom; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The priest takes two chaplets. Crowning the bridegroom, he says,

"N. the servant of God, arrays himself with M. the handmaid of God, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

Crowning the bride, he says,

"M. the handmaid of God, arrays herself," &c.

This is done thrice. And he thrice blesses them, saying, "O Lord our God, crown them with honour and worship." The prelude, πρὸ κείμενον, follows: "Thou hast put crowns of precious stones upon their heads. They asked life of thee, and thou gavest it them."

The Epistle is Eph. v. 20—30.

"Alleluia. Do thou, Lord, guard and preserve them."

The Gospel is St John ii. 1—11.

The deacon recites a Litany introducing petitions for special persons.

The priest prays, "O Lord our God, who in thy lifegiving ministry didst vouchsafe to honour with thy presence the marriage at Cana in Galilee, do thou preserve in peace and concord thy servants, N. and M. whom thou hast permitted to be united in wedlock; render their marriage honourable; preserve their bed undefiled; vouchsafe that their intercourse may continue unstained; and grant them a prosperous old age, doing thy commandments with a perfect heart. For thou art our God, a God to pity and to save; and to thee we ascribe glory with," &c.

Versicles and responses are then sung.

The priest and people say the Lord's Prayer. A loving cup is brought, which the priest blesses and gives to the bride and bridegroom thrice. He makes them move round, while hymns are sung.

The priest then raises the bridegroom's chaplet, saying, "Be thou, O bridegroom, magnified as Abraham; be thou blessed as Isaac; be thou multiplied as Jacob; walking in peace and accomplishing in righteousness the commandments of God."

Raising the bride's chaplet, he says, "Be thou, O bride, magnified as Sarah; be thou gladdened as Rebecca; be thou multiplied as Rachel; rejoicing in thine own husband; keeping the commandments of the law; for so God hath willed."

Two more prayers and the dismissal follow.

After eight days the chaplets are laid aside, and the priest prays that the future life of the newly married may be prosperous.

¶ The rubric of 1549 was, "The new married persons, (the same day of their marriage) must receive the holy Communion." This rubric remained unaltered till 1662. In the Sarum Office the wedding Mass formed a part of the Marriage Service.

It is probable that the Christian Church, from the very earliest times, marked by some religious ceremony the marriage of her members. Tertullian (A. D. 192) writes, "How can we sufficiently set forth the happiness of that marriage, which the Church effects (conciat), and the oblation confirms, and the benediction seals, and the angels report, and the Father ratifies." Tertull. ad Uxor. Lib. II. c. 8.

OF THE VISITATION OF THE SICK.

¶ THE order respecting "notice" was first introduced in 1662. The rest of the rubric is as in 1549.

¶ The salutation as in 1549. It was taken from the Sarum Office. In that Office the priest, on his way to the sick man's house, was directed to say the seven penitential psalms with the anthem, "Remember not," &c. In 1549 the priest, on coming into the sick man's presence, was directed to say the 144th Psalm, with this anthem, "Remember not," &c.

The answer, "Spare us, good Lord," was added in 1662.

¶ The words, "Then the minister shall say, Let us pray," were prefixed in 1662. The prayer, "Christ, have mercy upon us," was then put in italics, indicating that it was to be said as a response. The last clause of the Lord's Prayer was then also added to the others, instead of being said as a response. The Kyries, Lord's Prayer, versicles and responses, were taken from the Sarum Office, and are as in 1549.

The prayer, "O Lord, look down," &c. as in 1549. It was taken from the Sarum Office.

The prayer, "Hear us, Almighty," &c. of 1549, after the words, "grieved with sickness," continued, "Visit him, O Lord, as thou didst visit Peter's wife's mother, and the captain's servant. And as thou preservedst Thobie and Sara by thy angel from danger, so restore unto this sick person his former health (if it be thy will), or else give him grace," &c. All

THE VISITATION OF THE SICK.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

ALMIGHTY God, who at the beginning did create our first parents, Adam and Eve, and did sanctify and join them together in marriage; pour upon you the riches of his grace, sanctify and bless you, that ye may please him both in body and soul, and live together in holy love unto your lives' end. Amen.

After which, if there be no Sermon declaring the duties of Man and Wife, the Minister shall read as followeth.

ALL ye that are married, or that intend to take the holy estate of Matrimony upon you, hear what the holy Scripture doth say as touching the duty of husbands towards their wives, and wives towards their husbands.

Saint Paul, in his Epistle to the Ephesians, the fifth Chapter, doth give this commandment to all married men; Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the Church, and gave himself for it, that he might sanctify and cleanse with the washing of water, by the Word; that he might present it to himself a glorious Church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy, and without blemish. ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself; for no man ever yet hated his own flesh, but cherisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the Church: for we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones. For this cause shall man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife; and they two shall be one flesh. This is a great mystery; but I speak concerning Christ and the Church. Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular so love his wife, even as himself.

Likewise the same Saint Paul, writing to the Colossians, speaketh thus to all men that are married; Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them.

Hear also what Saint Peter, the Apostle of

It is convenient that the new-married persons should receive the holy Communion at the time of their Marriage, or at the first opportunity after their Marriage.

Christ, who was himself a married man, saith unto them that are married; Ye husbands, dwell with your wives according to knowledge; giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers be not hindered.

Hitherto ye have heard the duty of the husband toward the wife. Now likewise, ye wives, hear and learn your duties toward your husbands, even as it is plainly set forth in holy Scripture.

Saint Paul, in the aforementioned Epistle to the Ephesians, teacheth you thus; Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the Church; and he is the Saviour of the body. Therefore as the Church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing. And again he saith, Let the wife see that she reverence her husband.

And in his Epistle to the Colossians, Saint Paul giveth you this short lesson; Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as it is fit in the Lord.

Saint Peter also doth instruct you very well, thus saying; Ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the Word, they also may without the Word be won by the conversation of the wives; while they behold your chaste conversation coupled with fear. Whose adorning, let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel; but let it be the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible; even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price. For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands; even as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord; whose daughters ye are as long as ye do dwell, and are not afraid with any amazement.

THE ORDER FOR

THE VISITATION OF THE SICK.

When any person is sick, notice shall be given thereof to the Minister of the Parish; who, coming into the sick person's house, shall say,

PEACE be to this house, and to all that dwell in it.

When he cometh into the sick man's presence he shall say, kneeling down,

REMEMBER not, Lord, our iniquities, nor the iniquities of our forefathers: Spare us, O Lord, spare thy people, whom thou hast redeemed with thy most precious blood, and be not angry with us for ever.

Answer. Spare us, good Lord.

¶ Then the Minister shall say,

Let us pray.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil. Amen.

Minister. O Lord, save thy servant;

Answer. Which putteth his trust in thee.

Minister. Send him help from thy holy place;

Answer. And evermore mightily defend him.

Minister. Let the enemy have no advantage of him;

Answer. Nor the wicked approach to hurt him.

Minister. Be unto him, O Lord, a strong tower,

Answer. From the face of his enemy.

Minister. O Lord, hear our prayers.

Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

Minister.

O LORD, look down from heaven, behold, visit, and relieve this thy servant. Look upon him with the eyes of thy mercy, give him comfort and sure confidence in thee, defend him from the danger of the enemy, and keep him in perpetual peace and safety; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

but the concluding sentence of this prayer was taken from the Sarum Office. In 1552 the reference to Thobie and Sara was omitted, and in 1662 the prayer was expanded into its present form.

¶ The exhortation, "Dearly beloved," &c. as in 1549. The latter part of it was taken from the Sarum Office.

¶ The further exhortation, "Take therefore," &c. is almost word for word as in 1549. It remained unaltered till 1662, when the words, "good part," were substituted for "good worth," the verses of Scripture quoted were taken from the authorised version, and the sentence following them, "These words, good brother, are God's words, and written in holy Scripture," was altered to "These words, good brother, are written in holy Scripture."

¶ The question concerning the Creed as in 1549. In the Sarum Office the sick man was questioned in like manner concerning his faith. The answer was added in 1662. The Sarum Office had, "All this I stedfastly believe, as holy mother Church believes," &c.

¶ The rubric, "Then shall the minister examine," &c. is as in 1549, except that the words, "whether he repent him truly of his sins," were inserted in 1662. The rubric of 1549, concerning the moving to almsgiving, was, "The minister may not forget nor omit to move the sick person (and that most earnestly) to liberality toward the poor." It was altered in 1662. Also in 1662 the words, "be moved to make a special confession of his sins," were substituted for "make a special confession;" and the words, "if he humbly and heartily desire it," were inserted after "absolve him." The rubric of 1549 concluded with the direction, "and the same form of absolution shall be used in all private confessions." This was omitted in 1552.

The formula of absolution has come down unaltered from 1549. It seems to have been based on the form in the Sarum Office. That form is not so strong as ours, inasmuch as, according to it, the priest absolved the penitent from those sins which he had heartily repented of and confessed, and from all other sins which, if he had remembered, he would have freely confessed, and restored him to the sacraments of the Church.

¶ The Collect, "O most merciful God," &c. was taken in 1549 from the Sarum Office. In 1662 the clause "strengthen him with thy blessed Spirit, and when thou art pleased to take him hence," was inserted. This prayer is found in the Sacramentary of Gelasius (A.D. 494). In a MS. cited by Martene (De Antiquis Ecclesie Ritibus, Vol. III. p. 582) of the year 800, it is placed in the Office of Extreme Unction.

¶ The Psalm as in 1549. In the Sarum Manual this Psalm and the anthem following it commenced the Office of Extreme Unction.

The rubric, following the Psalm, was in 1549, "Adding this anthem." The anthem, which was literally translated from the Sarum Manual, then was, "O Saviour of the world, save us, which by thy cross and precious blood hast redeemed us, help us, we beseech thee, O God." In 1662 the anthem was altered to its present form.

¶ The blessing, "The Almighty Lord," &c. as in 1549.

¶ After the blessing the Office of 1549 continued,

"If the sick person desire to be anointed, then shall the priest anoint him upon the forehead or breast only, making the sign of the cross, saying thus.

"As with this visible oil thy body outwardly is anointed, so our heavenly Father, almighty God, grant of his infinite goodness that thy soul inwardly may be anointed with the holy Ghost, who is the Spirit of all strength, comfort, relief, and gladness. And vouchsafe for his great mercy (if it be his blessed will) to restore unto thee thy bodily health and strength, to serve him; and send thee release of all thy pains, troubles, and diseases, both in body and mind. And howsoever his goodness (by his divine and unsearchable providence) shall dispose of thee; we, his unworthy ministers and servants, humbly beseech the eternal majesty to do with thee according to the multitude of his innumerable mercies, and to pardon thee all thy sins and offences committed by all thy bodily senses, passions, and carnal affections: who also vouchsafe mercifully to grant unto thee ghostly strength, by his holy Spirit, to withstand and overcome all temptations and assaults of thine adversary, that in no wise he prevail against thee: but that thou mayest have perfect victory and triumph against the devil, sin, and death; through Christ our Lord; who by his death hath overcome the prince of death; and with the Father and the holy Ghost, evermore liveth and reigneth, God, world without end. Amen."

This was followed by the 13th Psalm.

¶ The final benediction of our present Office, "Unto God's gracious mercy," &c. was added in 1662. It is found as a benediction in an Easter mass of the old Gallican Missal, exactly as in Numbers vi. 24—26.

The prayers, following the final benediction, were all added in 1662.

THE VISITATION OF THE SICK.

HEAR us, Almighty and most merciful God and Saviour; extend thy accustomed goodness to this thy servant who is grieved with sickness. Sanctify, we beseech thee, this thy fatherly correction to him; that the sense of his weakness may add strength to his faith, and seriousness to his repentance: That, if it shall be thy good pleasure to restore him to his former health, he may lead the residue of his life in thy fear, and to thy glory: or else, give him grace so to take thy visitation, that, after this painful life ended, he may dwell with thee in life everlasting; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Minister exhort the sick person after this form, or other like.

DEARLY beloved, know this, that Almighty God is the Lord of life and death, and of all things to them pertaining, as youth, strength, health, age, weakness, and sickness. Wherefore, whatsoever your sickness is, know you certainly, that it is God's visitation. And for what cause soever this sickness is sent unto you; whether it be to try your patience for the example of others, and that your faith may be found in the day of the Lord laudable, glorious, and honourable, to the increase of glory and endless felicity; or else it be sent unto you to correct and amend in you whatsoever doth offend the eyes of your heavenly Father; know you certainly, that if you truly repent you of your sins, and bear your sickness patiently, trusting in God's mercy, for his dear Son Jesus Christ's sake, and render unto him humble thanks for his fatherly visitation, submitting yourself wholly unto his will, it shall turn to your profit, and help you forward in the right way that leadeth unto everlasting life.

¶ If the person visited be very sick, then the Curate may end his exhortation in this place, or else proceed.

TAKE therefore in good part the chastisement of the Lord: For (as Saint Paul saith in the twelfth Chapter to the Hebrews) whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth. If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not? But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons. Furthermore, we have had fathers of our flesh, which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live? For they verily for a few days chastened us after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness. These words, good brother, are written in holy Scripture for our comfort and instruction; that we should patiently, and with thanksgiving, bear our heavenly Father's correction, whensoever by any manner of adversity it shall please his gracious goodness to visit us. And there should be no greater comfort to Christian persons, than to be made like unto Christ, by suffering patiently adversities, troubles, and sicknesses. For he himself went not up to joy, but first he suffered pain; he entered not into his glory before he was crucified. So truly our way to eternal joy is to suffer here with Christ; and our door to enter into eternal life is gladly to die with Christ; that we may rise again from death, and dwell with him in everlasting life. Now therefore, taking your sickness, which is thus profitable for you, patiently, I exhort you, in the Name of God, to remember the profession which you made unto God in your Baptism. And forasmuch as after this life there is an account to be given unto the righteous Judge, by whom all must be judged, without respect of persons, I require you to examine yourself and your estate, both toward God and man; so that, accusing and condemning yourself for your own faults, you may find mercy at our heavenly Father's hand for Christ's sake, and not be accused and condemned in that fearful judgement. Therefore I shall rehearse to you the Articles of our Faith, that you may know whether you do believe as a Christian man should, or no.

¶ Here the Minister shall rehearse the Articles of the Faith, saying thus,

DOST thou believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth?

And in Jesus Christ his only-begotten Son our Lord? And that he was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary; that he suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried; that he went down into hell, and also did rise again the third day; that he ascended unto heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty; and from thence shall come again at the end of the world, to judge the quick and the dead?

And dost thou believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy Catholic Church; the Communion of Saints; the Remission of sins; the Resurrection of the flesh; and everlasting Life after death?

¶ The sick person shall answer,

All this I stedfastly believe.

¶ Then shall the Minister examine whether he repent him truly of his sins, and be in charity with all the world; exhorting him to forgive, from the bottom of his heart, all persons that have offended him; and if he hath offended any other, to ask them forgiveness; and where he hath done injury or wrong to any man, that he make amends to the uttermost of his power. And if he hath not before disposed of his goods, let him then be admonished to make his Will, and to declare his Debts, what he oweth, and what is owing unto him; for the better discharging of his conscience, and the quietness of his Executors. But men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates, whilst they are in health.

¶ These words before rehearsed may be said before the Minister begin his Prayer, as he shall see cause.

¶ The Minister should not omit earnestly to move such sick persons as are of ability to be liberal to the poor.

¶ Here shall the sick person be moved to make a special Confession of his sins, if he feel his conscience troubled with any weighty matter. After which Confession, the Priest shall absolve him (if he humbly and heartily desire it) after this sort.

OUR Lord Jesus Christ, who hath left power to his Church to absolve all sinners who truly repent and believe in him, of his great mercy forgive thee thine offences: And by his authority committed to me, I absolve thee from all thy sins, In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

¶ And then the Priest shall say the Collect following.

Let us pray.

OMOST merciful God, who, according to the multitude of thy mercies, dost so put away the sins of those who truly repent, that thou rememberest them no more; Open thine eye of mercy upon this thy servant, who most earnestly desireth pardon and forgiveness. Renew in him (most loving Father) whatsoever hath been decayed by the fraud and malice of the devil, or by his own carnal will and frailness; preserve and continue this sick member in the unity of the Church; consider his contrition, accept his tears, assuage his pain, as shall seem to thee most expedient for him. And forasmuch as he putteth his full trust only in thy mercy, impute not unto him his former sins, but strengthen him with thy blessed Spirit; and, when thou art pleased to take him hence, take him unto thy favour, through the merits of thy most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ The Greeks employ exorcism in the case of sickness, regarding it in many instances as demoniacal possession. Forms by Basil and Chrysostom are given in the Euchologium. The following service is also used.

The Priest begins with a blessing. He says Ps. cxliii. xxiii. xxvii. lxiii. li. An Invocation of the Virgin with a Doxology to the Trinity follows.

To these is appended an office of supplication to our Lord, the Virgin, and the Saints. It consists mainly of short invocations to God for mercy with which Theotokia are largely mingled.

The first may serve as a specimen.

O Lord my Creator and Redeemer, help of the faithful, hasten and save me from the present danger. Thy servant cries unto thee, O only compassionate one.

Thou, who alone knowest our weakness, speedily rescue and save, O Saviour, thy servant from his present affliction and the oppressing enemy.

Hymns and Doxologies are interspersed with these addresses.

A series of Prayers follows. The subjoined are two of them:

O holy Father, healer of our souls and bodies, who hast sent thy only-begotten Son our Lord Jesus Christ healing every disease and redeeming us from death, heal this thy servant from the weakness of soul and body that besets him by the grace of thy Christ, and quicken him as it shall seem expedient unto thee, that he may shew due thankfulness and honour unto thee in good works, through the intercession of the blessed mother of God the ever Virgin Mary and all thy Saints. For thou art the fount of healing, to thee we ascribe glory, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, now, always, and for ever and ever.

O Lord our God, who curest by a word alone terrible and deeply rooted diseases, who didst heal a fever of the mother-in-law of Peter; do thou, O Lord, now also heal this thy servant of the plague which afflicts him, thou who chastenest in compassion and healest in mercy, thou who canst remove all disease and weakness; raise him from a bed of sickness and a couch of suffering, laying upon him the balm of thy mercy; grant him perfect health and soundness. For thou art the healer of our souls and bodies, to thee we ascribe glory, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, now, always, and for ever and ever. Amen.

A Gospel from Mark v. 24—34.

For a person at the point of death.

The priest pronounces a blessing; the Trisagion; the invocation of the Trinity; the Lord's Prayer; Kyrie elesson twelve times; the Invitatory founded on Ps. xc. v. Pss. lxx. cxliii. li.

Short supplications for help to God, mingled with Theotokia, follow.

A longer prayer is added, in which the dissolution of the body, which has suffered the corruption of sin, is treated as a mercy; and God is besought to render this dissolution easy, and to take the spirit to the place where the spirits tarry until the general resurrection.

The next prayer headed, 'For a soul under judgment,' is:

O Lord, our God Almighty, who wouldest have all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth, who wouldest not the death of a sinner but that he should be converted and live, we beseech and entreat thee release the soul of this thy servant, N, from all curse: for it is thou alone who releasest them that are fettered, that raisest up them that are broken down, thou the hope of the hopeless. Bid, O Lord, the soul of thy servant, N, depart in peace and rest in the everlasting mansions with all thy saints: through thy only-begotten Son, with whom and thy all holy life-giving Spirit, thou art blessed, now, always, and for ever. Amen.

THE VISITATION OF THE SICK.

¶ Then shall the Minister say this Psalm.

In te, Domine, speravi. Psal. lxxi.

IN thee, O Lord, have I put my trust; let me never be put to confusion: but rid me, and deliver me in thy righteousness; incline thine ear unto me, and save me.

Be thou my strong hold, whereunto I may always resort: thou hast promised to help me; for thou art my house of defence, and my castle.

Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the ungodly: out of the hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.

For thou, O Lord God, art the thing that I long for: thou art my hope, even from my youth.

Through thee have I been holden up ever since I was born: thou art he that took me out of my mother's womb; my praise shall always be of thee.

I am become as it were a monster unto many: but my sure trust is in thee.

O let my mouth be filled with thy praise: that I may sing of thy glory and honour all the day long.

Cast me not away in the time of age: forsake me not when my strength falleth me.

For mine enemies speak against me, and they that lay wait for my soul take their counsel together, saying: God hath forsaken him, persecute him, and take him; for there is none to deliver him.

Go not far from me, O God: my God, haste thee to help me.

Let them be confounded and perish that are against my soul: let them be covered with shame and dishonour that seek to do me evil.

As for me, I will patiently abide away: and will praise thee more and more.

My mouth shall daily speak of thy righteousness and salvation: for I know no end thereof.

I will go forth in the strength of the Lord God: and will make mention of thy righteousness only.

Thou, O God, hast taught me from my youth up until now: therefore will I tell of thy wonderful works.

Forsake me not, O God, in mine old age, when I am gray-headed: until I have shewed thy strength unto this generation, and thy power to all them that are yet for to come.

Thy righteousness, O God, is very high, and great things are they that thou hast done: O God, who is like unto thee?

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

¶ Adding this.

O SAVIOUR of the world, who by thy Cross and precious Blood hast redeemed us, Save us, and help us, we humbly beseech thee, O Lord.

¶ Then shall the Minister say,

THE Almighty Lord, who is a most strong tower to all them that put their trust in him, to whom all things in heaven, in earth, and under the earth, do bow and obey, be now and evermore thy defence; and make thee know and feel, that there is none other Name under heaven given to man, in whom, and through whom, thou mayest receive health and salvation, but only the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

¶ And after that shall say,

UNTO God's gracious mercy and protection we commit thee. The Lord bless thee, and keep thee. The Lord make his face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace, both now and evermore. Amen.

A Prayer for a sick child.

O ALMIGHTY God, and merciful Father, to whom alone belong the issues of life and death; Look down from heaven, we humbly beseech thee, with the eyes of mercy upon this child now lying upon the bed of sickness: Visit him, O Lord, with thy salvation; deliver him in thy good appointed time from his bodily pain, and save his soul for thy mercies' sake: That, if it shall be thy pleasure to prolong his days here on earth, he may live to thee, and be an instrument of thy glory, by serving thee faithfully, and doing good in his generation; or else receive him into those heavenly habitations, where the souls of them that sleep in the Lord Jesus enjoy perpetual rest and felicity. Grant this, O Lord, for thy mercies' sake, in the same thy Son our Lord Jesus Christ, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

A Prayer for a sick person, when there appeareth small hope of recovery.

O FATHER of mercies, and God of all comfort, our only help in time of need; We fly unto thee for succour in behalf of this thy servant, here lying under thy hand in great weakness of body. Look graciously upon him, O Lord; and the more the outward man decayeth, strengthen him, we beseech thee, so much the more continually with thy grace and Holy Spirit in the inner man. Give him unfeigned repentance for all the errors of his life past, and stedfast faith in thy Son Jesus; that his sins may be done away by thy mercy, and his pardon sealed in heaven, before he go hence, and be no more seen. We know, O Lord, that there is no word impossible with thee; and that, if thou wilt, thou canst even yet raise him up, and grant him a longer continuance amongst us: Yet, forasmuch as in all appearance the time of his dissolution draweth near, so fit and prepare him, we beseech thee, against the hour of death, that after his departure hence in peace, and in thy favour, his soul may be received into thine everlasting kingdom, through the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ, thine only Son, our Lord and Saviour. Amen.

A commendatory Prayer for a sick person at the point of departure.

O ALMIGHTY God, with whom do live the spirits of just men made perfect, after they are delivered from their earthly prisons; We humbly commend the soul of this thy servant, our dear brother, into thy hands, as into the hands of a faithful Creator, and most merciful Saviour; most humbly beseeching thee, that it may be precious in thy sight. Wash it, we pray thee, in the blood of that immaculate Lamb, that was slain to take away the sins of the world; that whatsoever defilements it may have contracted in the midst of this miserable and naughty world, through the lusts of the flesh, or the wiles of Satan, being purged and done away, it may be presented pure and without spot before thee. And teach us who survive, in this and other like daily spectacles of mortality, to see how frail and uncertain our own condition is; and so to number our days, that we may seriously apply our hearts to that holy and heavenly wisdom, whilst we live here, which may in the end bring us to life everlasting, through the merits of Jesus Christ thine only Son our Lord. Amen.

A Prayer for persons troubled in mind or in conscience.

O BLESSED Lord, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comforts; We beseech thee, look down in pity and compassion upon this thy afflicted servant. Thou writest bitter

OF THE COMMUNION OF THE SICK.

¶ THE present rubric is nearly the same as in 1552. The changes made in it in 1662 seem to have been made with the object of giving more encouragement to private communions. Thus we have "they may, in case of sudden visitation, have the less cause to be disquieted for lack of the same," instead of "they shall have no cause in their sudden visitation to be unquiet for lack of the same;" and "a good number to receive the communion with the sick person," was displaced by "three, or two at the least." The Scotch Prayer-book had "a sufficient number, at least two or three."

The Prayer-book of 1549 had the following rubrics:

"And if the same day there be a celebration of the holy communion in the church, then shall the priest reserve (at the open communion) so much of the Sacrament of the body and blood, as shall serve the sick person, and so many as shall communicate with him (if there be any).

"And so soon as he conveniently may, after the open communion ended in the church, shall go and minister the same, first to those that are appointed to communicate with the sick (if there be any), and last of all to the sick person himself. But before the curate distributes the holy communion, the appointed general confession must be made in the name of the communicants, the curate adding the absolution, with the comfortable sentences of Scripture following in the open communion. And after the communion ended, the Collect,

"Almighty and everliving God, we most heartily thank thee," &c.

"But if the day be not appointed for the open communion in the church, then (upon convenient warning given) the curate shall come and visit the sick person afore noon. And having a convenient place in the sick man's house (where he may reverently celebrate), with all things necessary for the same, and not being otherwise letted with the public service, or any other just impediment, he shall there celebrate the holy communion after such form and sort as hereafter is appointed."

The form of 1549 was,

Introit, Ps. cxvii. The lesser Litany, without repetition. The salutation. The Collect, Epistle, and Gospel, as at present. The service was then taken up immediately after the offertory, and continued "unto the end of the canon."

¶ The practice of reserving a portion of the Eucharist, consecrated in the Church, for absent members, was undoubtedly the most ancient. Justin Martyr (A.D. 140) speaks of it. Still private consecrations were allowed for the sick, and for prisoners in times of persecution. Cyprian (A.D. 250) gives directions concerning the latter case. See Bingham, l. xv. c. iv. 8—11. In allowing the reservation the Prayer-book of 1549 followed the practice of both the Eastern and Western Churches.

¶ The form of the present service dates from 1552.

¶ The first rubric, "After which," &c. was added in 1662.

¶ The next rubric as in 1552. except the words, "and last of all to the sick person," which were added in 1662. In 1549 there was the rubric,

"And if there be more sick persons to be visited the same day that the curate doth celebrate in any sick man's house, then shall the curate (there) reserve so much of the Sacrament of the body and blood as shall serve the other sick persons, and such as be appointed to communicate with them (if there be any), and shall immediately carry it, and minister it unto them."

¶ The rubric, "But if," &c. as in 1549. The same principle was enunciated in the Sarum Manual.

¶ The rubric, "When the sick person," &c. as in 1552. In 1549, in such a case, the priest was to commence the Visitation Office at "Remember not," &c. and continue to the Psalm, omitting the second part of the exhortation; and if the sick desired to be anointed, to use the appointed prayer without any Psalm.

¶ The last rubric was added in 1552.

OF THE BURIAL OF THE DEAD.

¶ THE first rubric was prefixed in 1662. It has been ruled, in Titchmarsh v. Chapman, that baptism with water in the name of the Holy Trinity is valid baptism, even when administered by a heretical layman.

¶ The second rubric is substantially as in 1549.

The burial service has undergone much change. In 1549 it was as follows: either into the church, or towards the grave.

"The priest meeting the corpse at the church stile, shall say: Or else the priests and clerks shall sing, and so go

"I am the resurrection, &c.

"I know that my Redeemer, &c.

things against him, and make him to possess his former iniquities; thy wrath lieth hard upon him, and his soul is full of trouble: But, O merciful God, who hast written thy holy Word for our learning, that we, through patience and comfort of thy holy Scriptures, might have hope; give him a right understanding of himself, and of thy threats and promises; that he may neither cast away his confidence in thee, nor place it any where but in thee. Give him strength against all his temptations, and heal all his distempers. Break not the bruised reed, nor quench the smoking flax. Shut not up thy tender mercies in displeasure; but make him to hear of joy and gladness, that the bones which thou hast broken may rejoice. Deliver him from fear of the enemy, and lift up the light of thy countenance upon him, and give him peace, through the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE COMMUNION OF THE SICK.

¶ Forasmuch as all mortal men be subject to many sudden perils, diseases, and sicknesses, and ever uncertain what time they shall depart out of this life; therefore, to the intent they may be always in a readiness to die, whensoever it shall please Almighty God to call them, the Curates shall diligently from time to time (but especially in the time of pestilence, or other infectious sickness) exhort their Parishioners to the often receiving of the holy Communion of the Body and Blood of our Saviour Christ, when it shall be publickly administered in the Church; that so doing, they may, in case of sudden visitation, have the less cause to be disquieted for lack of the same. But if the sick person be not able to come to the Church, and yet is desirous to receive the Communion in his house; then he must give timely notice to the Curate, signifying also how many there are to communicate with him, (which shall be three, or two at the least,) and having a convenient place in the sick man's house, with all things necessary so prepared, that the Curate may reverently minister, he shall there celebrate the holy Communion, beginning with the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel, here following.

The Collect.

ALMIGHTY, everliving God, Maker of mankind, who dost correct those whom thou dost love, and chastise every one whom thou dost receive; We beseech thee to have mercy upon this thy servant visited with thine hand, and to grant that he may take his sickness patiently, and recover his bodily health, (if it be thy gracious will;) and whensoever his soul shall depart from the body, it may be without spot presented unto thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Hebr. xii. 5.

MY son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him. For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth; and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

The Gospel. St. John v. 24.

VERILY, verily I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life.

¶ After which the Priest shall proceed according to the form before prescribed for the holy Communion, beginning at these words [Ye that do truly, &c.]

¶ At the time of the distribution of the holy Sacrament, the Priest shall first receive the Communion himself, and after minister unto them that are appointed to communicate with the sick, and last of all to the sick person.

¶ But if a man, either by reason of extremity of sickness, or for want of warning in due time to the Curate, or for lack of company to receive with him, or by any other just impediment, do not receive the Sacrament of Christ's Body and Blood, the Curate shall instruct him, that if he do truly repent him of his sins, and stedfastly believe that Jesus Christ hath suffered death upon the Cross for him, and shed his Blood for his redemption, earnestly remembering the benefits he hath thereby, and giving him hearty thanks therefore, he doth eat and drink the Body and Blood of our Saviour Christ profitably to his Soul's health, although he do not receive the Sacrament with his mouth.

¶ When the sick person is visited, and receiveth the holy Communion all at one time, then the Priest, for more expedition, shall cut off the form of the Visitation at the Psalm [In thee, O Lord, have I put my trust, &c.] and go straight to the Communion.

¶ In the time of the Plague, Sweat, or such other like contagious times of sickness or diseases, when none of the Parish or neighbours can be gotten to communicate with the sick in their houses, for fear of the infection, upon special request of the diseased, the Minister may only communicate with him.

"When they come at the grave, whiles the corpse is made ready to be laid into the earth, the priest shall say, or the priests and clerks shall sing,

"Man that is born of a woman, &c.

"In the midst of life... fall from thee.

"Then the priest, casting earth upon the corpse, shall say,

"I commend thy soul to God the Father almighty, and thy body to the ground; earth to earth,... all things to himself.

"Then shall be said or sung,

"I heard a voice, &c.

"Let us pray.

"We commend into thy hands of mercy (most merciful Father) the soul of this our brother departed, N. And his body we commit to the earth; beseeching thine infinite goodness, to give us grace to live in thy fear and love, and to die in thy favour; that when the judgment shall come, which thou hast committed to thy well-beloved Son, both this our brother, and we, may be found acceptable in thy sight, and receive that blessing which thy well-beloved Son shall then pronounce to all that love and fear thee, saying: Come, ye blessed children of my Father; receive the kingdom prepared for you before the beginning of the world. Grant this, merciful Father, for the honor of Jesu Christ, our only Saviour, Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

"This prayer shall also be added.

"Almighty God, we give thee hearty thanks for this thy servant, whom thou hast delivered from the miseries of this wretched world, from the body of death, and all temptation: And, as we trust, hast brought his soul, which he committed into thy holy hands, into sure consolation and rest. Grant, we beseech thee, that at the day of judgment his soul and all the souls of thy elect, departed out of this life, may with us and we with them, fully receive thy promises, and be made perfect altogether; through the glorious resurrection of thy Son Jesu Christ our Lord.

"These Psalms with other suffrages following, are to be said in the church, either before or after the burial of the corpse."

Ps. cxvi. cxxxix. cxlvi.

"Then shall follow the Lesson," &c. (1 Cor. xv. 20 to end).

"The Lesson ended, then shall the Priest say,

"Our Father, &c.

"Priest. Enter not (O Lord) into judgment with thy servant.

Grant this, we beseech thee, O merciful Father, through Jesu Christ our Mediator and Redeemer. Amen."

Collect. "O merciful God (as in the concluding Collect of the present office, but continuing) and at the general resurrection in the last day, both we and this our brother departed, receiving again our bodies, and rising again in thy most gracious favour, may with all thine elect saints, obtain eternal joy. Grant this, O Lord God, by the means of our advocate Jesu Christ; which, with thee and the Holy Ghost, liveth and reigneth one God for ever." Amen.

Ep. 1 Thess. iv. 13 to end. Gospel John vi. 37 to 40.

¶ The first change made in 1552 was in the committal to the grave. The present form was then substituted. The article "the" was introduced before "resurrection" in 1662.

In 1552 the Lesson was read after the committal of the body to the ground and the portion of the Service following the Lesson was altered to its present form.

The final benediction was added in 1662. There were no Psalms in the office of 1552. Those in the present office were added in 1662. The Lesson was then placed after them.

THE BURIAL OF THE DEAD.

¶ Here is to be noted, that the Office ensuing is not to be used for any that die unbaptized, or excommunicate, or have laid violent hands upon themselves.

¶ The Priest and Clerks meeting the Corpse at the entrance of the Church-yard, and going before it, either into the Church, or towards the Grave, shall say, or sing,

I AM the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord : he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live : and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. St. John xi. 25, 26.

I KNOW that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth. And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God : whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold, and not another. Job xix. 25, 26, 27.

WE brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away ; blessed be the Name of the Lord. 1 Tim. vi. 7. Job i. 21.

¶ After they are come into the Church, shall be read one or both of these Psalms following.

Dixi, Custodiam. Ps. xxxix.

I SAID, I will take heed to my ways : that I offend not in my tongue.

I will keep my mouth as it were with a bridle : while the ungodly is in my sight.

I held my tongue, and spake nothing : I kept silence, yea, even from good words ; but it was pain and grief to me.

My heart was hot within me, and while I was thus musing the fire kindled : and at the last I spake with my tongue ;

Lord, let me know mine end, and the number of my days : that I may be certified how long I have to live.

Behold, thou hast made my days as it were a span long : and mine age is even as nothing in respect of thee ; and verily every man living is altogether vanity.

For man walketh in a vain shadow, and disquieteth himself in vain : he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who shall gather them.

And now, Lord, what is my hope : truly my hope is even in thee.

Deliver me from all mine offences : and make me not a rebuke unto the foolish,

I became dumb, and opened not my mouth : for it was thy doing.

Take thy plague away from me : I am even consumed by means of thy heavy hand.

When thou with rebukes dost chasten man for sin, thou makest his beauty to consume away, like as it were a moth fretting a garment : every man therefore is but vanity.

Hear my prayer, O Lord, and with thine ears consider my calling : hold not thy peace at my tears.

For I am a stranger with thee : and a sojourner, as all my fathers were.

O spare me a little, that I may recover my strength : before I go hence, and be no more seen.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

Domine, refugium. Psalm xc.

LORD, thou hast been our refuge : from one generation to another.

Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever the earth and the world were made : thou art God from everlasting, and world without end.

Thou turnest man to destruction : again thou sayest, Come again, ye children of men.

For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday : seeing that is past as a watch in the night.

As soon as thou scatterest them, they are even as a sleep : and fade away suddenly like the grass.

In the morning it is green, and groweth up : but in the evening it is cut down, dried up, and withered.

For we consume away in thy displeasure : and are afraid at thy wrathful indignation.

Thou hast set our misdeeds before thee : and our secret sins in the light of thy countenance.

For when thou art angry all our days are gone : we bring our years to an end, as it were a tale that is told.

The days of our age are threescore years and ten ; and though men be so strong, that they come to fourscore years : yet is their strength then but labour and sorrow ; so soon passeth it away, and we are gone.

But who regardeth the power of thy wrath : for even thereafter as a man feareth, so is thy displeasure.

O teach us to number our days : that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

Turn thee again, O Lord, at the last : and be gracious unto thy servants.

O satisfy us with thy mercy, and that soon : so shall we rejoice and be glad all the days of our life.

Comfort us again now after the shame that thou hast plagued us : and for the years wherein we have suffered adversity.

Show thy servants thy work : and their children thy glory.

And the glorious Majesty of the Lord our God be upon us : prosper thou the work of our hands upon us, O prosper thou our handy-work.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

¶ Then shall follow the Lesson taken out of the fifteenth Chapter of the former Epistle of Saint Paul to the Corinthians.

1 Corinthians xv. 20.

NOW is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first-fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order : Christ the first-fruits ; afterward they that are Christ's, at his coming. Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father ; when he shall have put down all rule, and all authority, and power. For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death. For he hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith, all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put all things under him. And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all. Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all ? Why are they then baptized

¶ Our present service bears but slight resemblance as a whole to the old offices connected with the burial of the dead. Still a few fragments of these offices are imbedded in it. "I am the resurrection &c.," was sung, in the Sarum Office, as an Anthem at the grave after the corpse was covered with earth. "I know that my Redeemer, &c.," formed a response and versicle in the Vigilie mortuorum. Part of the Lesson was read, for the Epistle, in the Mass for the Dead. "Man that is born of a woman, &c.," was part of a Lesson in the Vigilie mortuorum. "In the midst of life," &c., and the two anthems following it were formed from an anthem, which was sung at Compline during a part of Lent. The form of committal to the grave of the Sarum Office was, "I commend thy soul to God the Father Almighty, earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, in the name of the Father," &c. The anthem "I heard a

¶ The Greeks have separate offices for Laics, for Monks, for Priests, and for Infants.

On the death of a laic the priest visits the house, says the Trisagion, the Holy Trinity, the Lord's Prayer, and certain Troparia; and prays for the repose of the soul of the departed. He adds the following prayer:

"O God of spirits and of all flesh, who hast trodden down death, hast subdued the devil, and hast given life to the world, do thou, O Lord, give rest to the soul of this thy servant, who has fallen asleep, in a place of light and verdure, in a place of refreshment, where sorrow, grief, and lamentation enter not; forgive him every sin of word, deed, or thought, in thy goodness and clemency; for there is no man who liveth and sinneth not. For thou alone art without sin. Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and thy word is truth; for thou art the resurrection, the life, and the refreshing of this thy servant who is fallen asleep, O Christ our God, to whom we ascribe glory with thy eternal Father and thy all-holy good and life-giving Spirit, now, always, and for ever and ever. Amen.

"Glory now," &c.

When the body is brought to the church Ps. xc. is sung.

This is followed by Ps. cxix. in its three divisions, between which prayer for the dead is offered.

The service after this mainly consists of short invocations having reference to death and to a future life. A very large number of these are used. Mingled with them are addresses to the Virgin for help, as if man's mortality was especially connected with the remembrance of Christ's birth.

voice," &c., was read, for the Epistle, in the daily Mass for the Dead. The lesser Litany, with the Lord's Prayer, was said in the Sarum Office both before and after the committal of the body to the grave. The suffrages, retained in 1549, followed in each case.

A prayer for the departed in the Sarum office begins thus: "O God, with whom do live the spirits of the dead, and in whom the souls of the elect, after they have laid aside the burden of the flesh, enjoy full felicity," &c. The continuation in 1549 of the prayer corresponding to this was taken from another prayer in the Sarum Office. In 1552 this prayer was displaced by the prayer, "Almighty God, with whom do live . . . and to haste thy kingdom; that we, with this our brother, and all other departed in the true," &c. This special mention of the person departed was omitted in 1662.

The Beatitudes are introduced.

The Epistle is 1 Thess. iv. 13—17; the Gospel, John v. 24—30.

Each of the priests present approaches the body and says silently the prayer, "O God of spirits," &c. raising his voice at the end and adding, "Thou art the resurrection, the life, and the refreshing."

The relatives salute the dead.

Sentences reflecting on the frailty of life and the lessons taught by death are read. Invocations of the Virgin again follow.

The body is borne to the grave with the hymns to the Trinity, the Lord's Prayer, &c. as in going to the church.

The priest takes dust in the shovel and sprinkles it crosswise on the body, saying, "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and all that dwell therein."

He throws wax or ashes from his censer upon the body. The grave is closed, and, with some of the short hymns, as at the commencement, and the blessing, the service is ended.

The service for monks very much resembles that for laics. The concluding Troparion, when dust is thrown upon the body, is worthy of note:

"O yawning earth, receive him who was formed of thee at first, and returns now to thee his mother. The Creator hath taken that which was in his likeness, do thou receive the body that belonged to thee."

The Office for the Burial of Priests, though longer, is of the same character for the dead? and why stand we in jeopardy every hour? I protest by your rejoicing, which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die daily. If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die. Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners. Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God. I speak this to your shame. But some man will say, How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come? Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die. And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain: But God giveth it a body, as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body. All flesh is not the same flesh; but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds. There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial; but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another. There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars; for one star differeth from another star in glory. So also is the resurrection of the dead: It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: It is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power: It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. And so it is written, The first man Adam was made a living soul; the last Adam was made a quickening spirit. Howbeit, that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual. The first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is the Lord from heaven. As is the earthy, such are they that are earthy: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly. And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly. Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption. Behold, I shew you a mystery: We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump, (for the trumpet shall sound,) and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality; then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

AT THE BURIAL OF THE DEAD.

¶ When they come to the Grave, while the Corpse is made ready to be laid into the earth, the Priest shall say, or the Priest and Clerks shall sing:

MAN that is born of a woman hath but a short time to live, and is full of misery. He cometh up, and is cut down, like a flower; he fleeth as it were a shadow, and never continueth in one stay.

In the midst of life we are in death: of whom may we seek for succour, but of thee, O Lord, who for our sins art justly displeas'd?

Yet, O Lord God most holy, O Lord most mighty, O holy and most merciful Saviour, deliver us not into the bitter pains of eternal death.

Thou knowest, Lord, the secrets of our hearts; shut not thy merciful ears to our prayer; but spare us, Lord most holy, O God most mighty, O holy and merciful Saviour, thou most worthy Judge eternal, suffer us not, at our last hour, for any pains of death, to fall from thee.

¶ Then, while the earth shall be cast upon the Body by some standing by, the Priest shall say,

FORASMUCH as it hath pleased Almighty God of his great mercy to take unto himself the soul of our dear brother here departed, we therefore commit his body to the ground; earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust; in sure and certain hope of the Resurrection to eternal life, through our Lord Jesus Christ; who shall change our vile body, that it may be like unto his glorious body, according to the mighty working, whereby he is able to subdue all things to himself.

¶ Then shall be said or sung,

I HEARD a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Write, From henceforth blessed are the dead which die in the Lord: even so saith the Spirit; for they rest from their labours.

¶ Then the Priest shall say,

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

Priest.

ALMIGHTY God, with whom do live the spirits of them that depart hence in the Lord, and with whom the souls of the faithful, after they are delivered from the burden of the flesh, are in joy and felicity: We give thee hearty thanks, for that it hath pleased thee to deliver this our brother out of the miseries of this sinful world; beseeching thee, that it may please thee, of thy gracious goodness, shortly to accomplish the number of thine elect, and to hasten thy kingdom; that we, with all those that are departed in the true faith of thy holy Name, may have our perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in thy eternal and everlasting glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Collect.

OMERCIFUL God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the resurrection and the life; in whom whosoever believeth shall live, though he die; and whosoever liveth, and believeth in him, shall not die eternally; who also hath taught us (by his holy Apostle Saint Paul) not to be sorry, as men without hope, for them that sleep in him; We meekly beseech thee, O Father, to raise us from the death of sin unto the life of righteousness; that, when we shall depart this life, we may rest in him, as our hope is this our brother doth; and that, at the general Resurrection in the last day, we may be found acceptable in thy sight; and receive that blessing, which thy well-beloved Son shall then pronounce to all that love and fear thee, saying, Come, ye blessed children of my Father, receive the kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the world: Grant this, we beseech thee, O merciful Father, through Jesus Christ, our Mediator and Redeemer. Amen.

THE grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen.

as the other Offices of Burial. In it the xxiii. xxiv. li. Ps. are used in addition to those of the other Offices. Rom. v. 12—21, John v. 17—24, 1 Cor. xv. 1—11, John vi. 35—39, Rom. vi. 9—11, John vi. 40—44, Rom. xiv. 6—9, John vi. 48

—54, are appointed as additional Epistles and Gospels.

In the Office for the Burial of Infants we have special allusions to the age of the dead, but the structure of the service is the same.

OF THE CHURCHING OF WOMEN.

¶ THIS Office was styled in 1549, as in the Sarum Manual, "The Order of the Purification of Women." In 1552 the present title was prefixed.

¶ The rubric of 1549 was, "The woman shall come into the church, and there shall kneel down in some convenient place, nigh unto the quire-door; and the priest standing by her shall say these words or such like, as the case shall require." In 1552, for "nigh unto the quire-door" was substituted "nigh unto the place where the table standeth." The present rubric was prefixed in 1662. Bp Burnet says that the words, "decently appparelled," which were then inserted, are interpreted to mean with a white covering or veil. Before 1549 this Office was said at the church-door.

In what part of the service this Office is to be inserted the rubric does not say. From Articles of Inquiry made by different bishops in the seventeenth century it appears, that the proper time for using the Office was then thought to be just before the Communion Service. The final rubric favours this view.

The address is as in 1552. In 1549, after "safe deliverance," were the words "and your child baptism."

Until 1662 the Psalm used was the 121st. This was one of the Psalms used in the Sarum Office.

The lesser Litany, the Lord's Prayer, the versicles and responses, and the concluding prayer, have come down unaltered from 1549, except that until 1662 the Lord's Prayer had not the doxology, and the last prayer had "walk in her vocation, according to thy will." These are all taken from the Sarum Office. In 1662 the second Kyrie was printed in italics.

by thy word all creatures rational and irrational, who didst bring into being all things out of nothing; we beseech and entreat thee purify from all sin and all pollution this thy handmaid, whom by thy will thou hast preserved and permitted to enter into thy holy Church; that she may be deemed worthy to partake, without condemnation, of thy holy mysteries." (If the child has not survived, the prayer ends here; if it be alive, the priest continues.) "And bless the child born of her. Increase, sanctify, direct, teach, guide him: for thou hast brought him to the birth and hast shewn him the light of this world: that so he may be deemed worthy of the mental light at the time which thou hast ordained, and be numbered among thy holy flock: through thy only-begotten Son, with whom thou art blessed together with thy all-holy, good, life-giving Spirit, now, always, and for ever and ever."

¶ The following is the Greek Office.

The Greeks appoint three prayers for the mother on the first day of the child's birth. On the 8th day the nurse is to bring the child to church, and prayer is made for him before the entrance to the nave. On the 40th day the mother and the future sponsor at the child's baptism are to bring the child. After an introductory service of the usual kind the mother, holding the child, bows her head; the priest crosses the child, and, touching his head, says,

Other prayers referring to the mother of the child follow. Allusion is made to the Presentation of Christ in the Temple. The child is taken in the priest's arms to various parts of the church as an introduction to the sanctuary. A boy is taken to the altar; a girl only to the central door of the screen. There is a separate form in case of miscarriage.

"Let us pray unto the Lord.

"O Lord God Almighty, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who didst create

¶ The final rubric of 1549 was, "The woman that is purified must offer her chrism and other accustomed offerings; and if there be a Communion, it is convenient that she receive the holy Communion." This was altered to the present form in 1552, when the putting of "the white vesture, commonly called the chrism," upon the newly baptized was abandoned. The Baptismal Office of 1549 had the rubric, "The minister shall command that the chrisms be brought to the church, and delivered to the priests after the accustomed manner, at the purification of the mother of every child."

¶ "How long a particular Office has been used in the Christian Church, for the thanksgiving and benediction of women after child-birth, it would be difficult to say; but it is probably most ancient, since we find that all the western rituals, and those of the patriarchate of Constantinople, contain such an Office." Palmer.

THANKSGIVING OF WOMEN AFTER CHILD-BIRTH,

COMMONLY CALLED,

THE CHURCHING OF WOMEN.

¶ The Woman, at the usual time after her Delivery, shall come into the Church decently apparelled, and there shall kneel down in some convenient place, as hath been accustomed, or as the Ordinary shall direct: And then the Priest shall say unto her,

FORASMUCH as it hath pleased Almighty God of his goodness to give you safe deliverance, and hath preserved you in the great danger of Child-birth; you shall therefore give hearty thanks unto God, and say,

¶ Then shall the Priest say the cxxvth Psalm,
Dilexi quoniam.

I AM well pleased: that the Lord hath heard the voice of my prayer;

That he hath inclined his ear unto me: therefore will I call upon him as long as I live.

The snares of death compassed me round about: and the pains of hell gat hold upon me.

I found trouble and heaviness, and I called upon the Name of the Lord: O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul.

Gracious is the Lord, and righteous: yea, our God is merciful.

The Lord preserveth the simple: I was in misery, and he helped me.

Turn again then unto thy rest, O my soul: for the Lord hath rewarded thee.

And why? thou hast delivered my soul from death: mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.

I will walk before the Lord: in the land of the living.

I believed, and therefore will I speak; but I was sore troubled: I said in my haste, All men are liars.

What reward shall I give unto the Lord: for all the benefits that he hath done unto me?

I will receive the cup of salvation: and call upon the Name of the Lord.

I will pay my vows now in the presence of all his people: in the courts of the Lord's house, even in the midst of thee, O Jerusalem. Praise the Lord.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

Or, Psalm cxxvii. Nisi Dominus.

EXCEPT the Lord build the house: their labour is but lost that build it.

Except the Lord keep the city: the watchman waketh but in vain.

It is but lost labour that ye haste to rise up early, and so late take rest, and eat the bread of carefulness: for so he giveth his beloved sleep.

Lo, children and the fruit of the womb: are an heritage and gift that cometh of the Lord.

Like as the arrows in the hand of the giant: even so are the young children.

Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them: they shall not be ashamed when they speak with their enemies in the gate.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest shall say,

Let us pray.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, The power, and the glory, For ever and ever. Amen.

Minister. O Lord, save this woman thy servant;

Answer. Who putteth her trust in thee.

Minister. Be thou to her a strong tower;

Answer. From the face of her enemy.

Minister. Lord, hear our prayer.

Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

Minister. Let us pray.

O ALMIGHTY God, we give thee humble thanks for that thou hast vouchsafed to deliver this woman thy servant from the great pain and peril of Child-birth; Grant, we beseech thee, most merciful Father, that she, through thy help, may both faithfully live, and walk according to thy will, in this life present; and also may be partaker of everlasting glory in the life to come; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ The Woman, that cometh to give her Thanks, must offer accustomed Offerings; and, if there be a Communion, it is convenient that she receive the holy Communion.

¶ In 1549 the title of this Office was "The first Day of Lent, commonly called Ash-Wednesday." For this was substituted in 1552 "A Commination against sinners, with certain prayers, to be used divers times in the year." The present title was prefixed in 1662.

The rubric of 1549 was "After Matins ended, the people being called together by the ringing of a bell, and assembled in the Church, the English Litany shall be said after the accustomed manner; which ended, the Priest shall go into the pulpit, and say thus." This rubric came down to 1662 with the single change of "Matins" into "Morning Prayer," made in 1552. The present rubric was substituted for it in 1662.

¶ The address, the sentences of Holy Scripture, and the homily following them, have come down from 1549. The wording of some of the sentences of Scripture was slightly altered in 1662.

The introduction of the "sentences of God's cursing against impenitent sinners" was most probably suggested by the sentences of the greater excommunication which were usually read in parish churches, before the Reformation, three or four times a year. The York Manual directs that the denunciations of evil-doers, "ye poyntes of ye gret cursyn," shall be published on the first or second Sunday in Lent, some Sunday after or before the Feast of St Mary Magdalene, and some Sunday in Advent.

¶ Of the "godly discipline" of the Primitive Church Bingham treats very fully in the 18th and 19th Books of his Antiquities. "The performance of penance," he writes, "anciently was a matter of considerable length and time, to examine men's behaviour and sincerity, and to make them give just testimony and evidence of real sorrow and hearty abhorrence of their sins, to satisfy the Church that they were sincere converts, by submitting to go through a long course of penance, according as the wisdom of the Church thought fit to impose it upon them. And upon this account the Church was used to divide her penitents into four distinct ranks or classes of different degrees, called by the Greeks, προσκλαίοντες, ἀκροώμενοι, υποπίπτοντες, and συνιστάμενοι; and by the Latins, flentes, audientes, substrati, and consistentes; that is, the mourners or weepers, the hearers, the substrators, and the co-standers.....

... "In the third and fourth century we commonly find the penitents distinguished into four orders: the first of which were the flentes, or mourners; who were rather candidates for penance, than penitents strictly speaking. Their station was in the church porch, where they lay prostrate, begging the prayers of the faithful as they went in, and desiring to be admitted to do public penance in the church. This is what Tertullian (A.D. 192) means when he says, 'they were used to fall down at the presbyter's feet, and kneel to the friends of God, and entreat all the brethren to recommend their petition, and intercede with heaven for them.'..... Gregory (Thaumaturgus, A.D. 254), says: 'The place of the mourners is without the gate of the church, where the sinner must stand and beg the prayers of the faithful as they enter in.' And St Basil (A.D. 370) thus describes the four stations of the penitents: 'The first year they are to weep before the gate of the church; the second year, to be admitted to hearing; the third year, to genuflexion, or repentance properly so called; and the fourth year, to stand with the faithful at prayers without partaking of the oblation.'

"When their (the mourners) petition was accepted, they were said to be admitted to penance; that is to have liberty to pass through the several stages of discipline, which the Church appointed.... Now, when men were admitted to this state, they were termed audientes, or hearers, which was the second order of penitents; or, if we please, the first of those that have any privilege to enter the church. They were allowed to stay and hear the Scriptures read and the sermon preached, but were obliged to depart before any of the common prayers began, with the rest of those, catechumens and others, who went by the general name of hearers only.....

"And in this they were distinguished from the penitents of the third order, who were called γονυκλίοντες and υποπίπτοντες by the Greeks, and genuflexentes or substrati by the Latins; that is, kneelers or prostrators, because they were allowed to stay and join in certain prayers particularly made for them while they were kneeling upon their knees..... The station of this sort of penitents was within the nave or body of the church, near unto the ambon, or reading-desk, where they received the bishop's imposition of hands and benediction.

"The last order of penitents were the συνιστάμενοι, consistentes, or co-standers so called from their having liberty, after the other penitents, energumens, and

A COMMINATION,

OR DENOUNCING OF GOD'S ANGER AND JUDGEMENTS AGAINST SINNERS.

WITH CERTAIN PRAYERS, TO BE USED ON THE FIRST DAY OF LENT, AND AT OTHER TIMES, AS THE ORDINARY SHALL APPOINT.

After Morning Prayer, the Litany ended according to the accustomed manner, the Priest shall, in the Reading-Pew or Pulpit, say,

BRETHREN, in the Primitive Church there was a godly discipline, that, at the beginning of Lent, such persons as stood convicted of notorious sin were put to open penance, and punished in this world, that their souls might be saved in the day of the Lord; and that others, admonished by their example, might be the more afraid to offend.

Instead whereof, (until the said discipline may be restored again, which is much to be wished,) it is thought good, that at this time (in the presence of you all) should be read the general sentences of God's cursing against impenitent sinners, gathered out of the seven and twentieth Chapter of Deuteronomy, and other places of Scripture; and that ye should answer to every Sentence, Amen: To the intent that, being admonished of the great indignation of God against sinners, ye may the rather be moved to earnest and true repentance; and may walk more warily in these dangerous days; fleeing from such vices, for which ye affirm with your own mouths the curse of God to be due.

CURSED is the man that maketh any carved or molten image, to worship it.

And the people shall answer and say, Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that curseth his father or mother.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that removeth his neighbour's landmark.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that maketh the blind to go out of his way.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that perverteth the judgement of the stranger, the fatherless, and widow.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that smiteth his neighbour secretly.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that lieth with his neighbour's wife.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that taketh reward to alay the innocent.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed is he that putteth his trust in man, and taketh man for his defence, and in his heart goeth from the Lord.

Answer. Amen.

Minister. Cursed are the unmerciful, fornicators, and adulterers, covetous persons, idolaters, slanderers, drunkards, and extortioners.

Answer. Amen.

Minister.

NOW seeing that all they are accursed (as the prophet David beareth witness) who do err and go astray from the commandments of God; let us (remembering the dreadful judgement hanging over our heads, and always ready to fall upon us) return unto our Lord God, with all contrition and meekness of heart; bewailing and lamenting our sinful life, acknowledging and confessing our offences, and seeking to bring forth worthy fruits of penance. For now is the axe put unto the root of the trees, so that every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God: he shall pour down rain upon the sinners, snares, fire and brimstone, storm and tempest; this shall be their portion to drink. For lo, the Lord is come out of his place to visit the wickedness of such as dwell upon the earth. But who may abide the day of his coming? Who shall be able to endure when he appeareth? His fan is in his hand, and he will purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the barn; but he will burn the chaff with unquenchable fire. The day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night: and when men shall say, Peace, and all things are safe, then shall sudden destruction come upon them, as sorrow cometh upon a woman travailing with child, and they shall not escape. Then shall appear the wrath of God in the day of vengeance, which obstinate sinners, through the stubbornness of their heart, have heaped unto themselves; which despised the goodness, patience, and long-sufferance of God, when he calleth them continually to repentance. Then shall they call upon me, (saith the Lord,) but I will not hear; they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me; and that, because they hated knowledge, and received not the fear of the Lord, but abhorred my counsel, and despised my correction. Then shall it be too late to knock when the door shall be shut; and too late to cry for mercy when it is the time of justice. O terrible voice of most just judgement, which shall be pronounced upon them, when it shall be said unto them, Go, ye cursed, into the fire everlasting, which is prepared for the devil and his angels. Therefore, brethren, take ye heed betime, while the day of salvation lasteth; for the night cometh, when none can work. But let us, while we have the light, believe in the light, and walk as children of the light; that we be not cast into utter darkness, where is weeping and gnashing of teeth. Let us not abuse the goodness of God, who calleth us mercifully to amendment, and of his endless pity promiseth us forgiveness of that which is past, if with a perfect and true heart we return unto him. For though our sins be as red as scarlet, they shall be made white as snow; and though they be like purple, yet they shall be made white as wool. Turn ye (saith the Lord) from all your wickedness, and your sin shall not be your destruction: Cast away from you all your ungodliness that ye have done: Make you new hearts, and a new spirit: Wherefore will ye die, O ye house of Israel, seeing that I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God? Turn ye then, and ye shall live. Although we have sinned, yet have we an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; and he is the propitiation for our sins. For he was wounded for our offences, and smitten for our wickedness. Let us therefore return unto him, who is the merciful receiver of all true penitent sinners; assuring ourselves that he is ready to receive us, and most willing to pardon us, if we come unto him with faithful repentance; if we submit ourselves unto him, and from henceforth walk in his ways; if we will take his easy yoke, catechumens, were dismissed, to stand with the faithful at the altar, and join in the common prayers, and see the oblation offered; but yet they might neither make their own oblations, nor partake of the Eucharist with them. This the Council of Nice (A.D. 325) calls, 'communicating with the people in prayers only without the oblation,' which for the crime of idolatry was to last for two years, after they had been three years hearers, and seven years prostrators before.".....

The penitents after remaining their allotted times among the consistentes, were re-admitted to full communion.

The penances imposed were of great severity and often of long continuance. Tertullian speaks of penitents being obliged to lie in sackcloth and ashes and to eat and drink only for the purpose of sustaining life. Jerome, describing the penance of Fabiola, a Roman lady of high rank, tells us that she put on sackcloth, publicly confessed her fault, and stood in the class of penitents in the Lateran Church, in the sight of the whole city of Rome. The ordinary course of penance often lasted for ten, fifteen, or twenty years; while for more heinous offences penance was imposed for life. Even such as were absolved, when supposed to be dying, were obliged to return to the class of penitents, if they recovered. And, ordinarily, offending members of the Church were admitted to penance but once. For the relapsed there was no second public discipline of restoration.

This public penitential discipline, in the course of time, was gradually relaxed, and finally became extinct, both in the Eastern and Western Churches. So late, however, as the twelfth century, "open penance" was imposed. For Gratian (A.D. 1130), writes: "On the first day of Lent, let all penitents, who are entering on or have entered on penance, present themselves at the church-door, to the bishop of the diocese, clad in sackcloth, barefooted, and with faces bowed to the earth, both by dress and mien confessing themselves guilty." They were then to be introduced into the church, and the seven penitential psalms were to be chanted. After prayer the bishop was to lay his hands upon them, to sprinkle them with holy water, and to put ashes and sackcloth on their heads. They were then to be driven out of the church, the bishop saying to them that as Adam was cast out of Paradise, so they for their sins were cast out of the church, and the clergy following them with the response, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return."

¶ In the mediæval service for the first day of Lent a sermon was to be preached if it were thought fit, the seven penitential Psalms were to be said, with the anthem "Remember not, Lord, our offences," and then the lesser Litany, the Lord's Prayer, and the versicles, as in our service. The prayer, "O Lord, we beseech thee," &c., which follows was also taken from the mediæval service. It is found in the Sacramentary of Gelasius (A.D. 494).

¶ The portion of the Office from the saying of the 51st Ps. to the end of the prayer, "O most mighty God," &c. has also come down from 1549.

The beginning of the prayer, "O most mighty God," &c., is taken from the Benedictio Cinerum, and the remainder is founded on one of the collects preceding the Benedictio in the mediæval service.

In 1549 the supplication, "Turn thou us," &c. was called an anthem: in 1555 the present rubric was prefixed to it. The prayer itself was formed of anthems which concluded the service in the Salisbury Missal. In 1662 the clause, "Through the merits," &c., was added.

The closing benediction was added in 1662.

¶ There is no Office in the Greek Prayer-book corresponding to our Communion Office. The Greek Church enjoins private confession, and has a special Office for the administration of the rite. The form of absolution in that Office is as follows:

"O my spiritual child, who dost confess to my humility, I, a humble sinner have no power on earth to remit sins. This God alone can do. Yet by reason of that divine charge, which was committed to the Apostles after the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ in thy words, Whosoever sins ye remit, &c. and by that encouraged, we say; whatsoever thou hast confessed to my lowly humility, and whatsoever thou hast omitted to confess, either through ignorance or any forgetfulness, may God forgive thee both in this world and in that which is to come."

The confessor then adds the prayer:

"God, who forgave David, when he had confessed his sins, by the ministry of the prophet Nathan, and Peter when he had bitterly bewailed his denial, and the harlot when she wept upon his feet, and the publican, and the prodigal, forgive thee, by the ministry of me a sinner all thy sins, both in this world and in that which is to come, and present thee blameless at his dread tribunal. Go in peace and think no more of the faults which thou hast confessed."

A COMMINATION.

and light burden upon us, to follow him in lowliness, patience, and charity, and be ordered by the governance of his Holy Spirit; seeking always his glory, and serving him duly in our vocation with thanksgiving: This if we do, Christ will deliver us from the curse of the law, and from the extreme malediction which shall light upon them that shall be set on the left hand; and he will set us on his right hand, and give us the gracious benediction of his Father, commanding us to take possession of his glorious kingdom: Unto which he vouchsafe to bring us all, for his infinite mercy. Amen.

¶ Then shall they all kneel upon their knees, and the Priest and Clerks kneeling (in the place where they are accustomed to say the Litany) shall say this Psalm.

Miserere mei, Deus. Psal. li.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, after thy great goodness: according to the multitude of thy mercies do away mine offences.

Wash me thoroughly from my wickedness: and cleanse me from my sin.

For I acknowledge my faults: and my sin is ever before me.

Against thee only have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight: that thou mightest be justified in thy saying, and clear when thou art judged.

Behold, I was shapen in wickedness: and in sin hath my mother conceived me.

But lo, thou requirest truth in the inward parts: and shalt make me to understand wisdom secretly.

Thou shalt purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: thou shalt wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Thou shalt make me hear of joy and gladness: that the bones which thou hast broken may rejoice.

Turn thy face away from my sins: and put out all my misdeeds.

Make me a clean heart, O God: and renew a right spirit within me.

Cast me not away from thy presence: and take not thy Holy Spirit from me.

O give me the comfort of thy help again: and establish me with thy free Spirit.

Then shall I teach thy ways unto the wicked: and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O God, thou that art the God of my health: and my tongue shall sing of thy righteousness.

Thou shalt open my lips, O Lord: and my mouth shall shew thy praise.

For thou desirest no sacrifice, else would I give it thee: but thou delightest not in burnt offerings.

The sacrifice of God is a troubled spirit: a broken and contrite heart, O God, shalt thou not despise.

O be favourable and gracious unto Sion: build thou the walls of Jerusalem.

Then shalt thou be pleased with the sacrifice of righteousness, with the burnt offerings and oblations: then shall they offer young bullocks upon thine altar.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

Answer. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

OUR Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

Minister. O Lord, save thy servants;

Answer. That put their trust in thee.

Minister. Send unto them help from above.

Answer. And evermore mightily defend them.

Minister. Help us, O God our Saviour.

Answer. And for the glory of thy Name deliver us; be merciful to us sinners, for thy Name's sake.

Minister. O Lord, hear our prayer.

Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

Minister. Let us pray.

O LORD, we beseech thee, mercifully hear our prayers, and spare all those who confess their sins unto thee; that they, whose consciences by sin are accused, by thy merciful pardon may be absolved; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

O MOST mighty God, and merciful Father, who hast compassion upon all men, and hatest nothing that thou hast made; who wouldst not the death of a sinner, but that he should rather turn from his sin, and be saved; Mercifully forgive us our trespasses; receive and comfort us, who are grieved and wearied with the burden of our sins. Thy property is always to have mercy; to thee only it appertaineth to forgive sins. Spare us therefore, good Lord, spare thy people, whom thou hast redeemed; enter not into judgement with thy servants, who are vile earth, and miserable sinners; but so turn thine anger from us, who meekly acknowledge our vileness, and truly repent us of our faults, and so make haste to help us in this world, that we may ever live with thee in the world to come; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the people say this that followeth, after the Minister.

TURN thou us, O good Lord, and so shall we be turned. Be favourable, O Lord, Be favourable to thy people, Who turn to thee in weeping, fasting, and praying. For thou art a merciful God, Full of compassion, Long-suffering, and of great pity. Thou sparest when we deserve punishment, And in thy wrath thinkest upon mercy. Spare thy people, good Lord, spare them, And let not thine heritage be brought to confusion. Hear us, O Lord, for thy mercy is great, And after the multitude of thy mercies look upon us; Through the merits and mediation of thy blessed Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then the Minister alone shall say,

THE Lord bless us, and keep us; the Lord lift up the light of his countenance upon us, and give us peace, now and for evermore. Amen.

There were three principal modes of singing the Psalms; 1st, the primitive form, the joint or collective act of the congregation in all that was sung, as Thorndike explains prophesying in the primitive church, in a choir guided by a leader, as Samuel led the prophets, 1 Sam. xix. 20—4; 2nd, a form as early as the third century, at least, when the congregation joined only in the end verses; 3rd, in the fourth century, when the Council of Laodicea, finding great inconveniences arise from the congregation joining in the psalms and service, directed that only the canonical singers, the chanters enrolled in the church list, should go up into the ambo, and sing out of the parchment. In all these forms the antiphonal mode prevailed. This summary is extracted from the double choir historically and practically considered, a Lecture by the Rev. Mackenzie E. C. Walcott, where much interesting matter concerning the early practice of choral singing and useful hints for choirs will be found collected. For examples of psalm singing among the Jews, Mr Walcott refers to Ex. xv. 1, 21. 1 Sam. xviii. 7. 2 Chron. v. 12. Ezra iii. 10, 11. Neh. xi. 17; xii. 40, 45, 46.

Concerning the Psalms and the Psalter Dr Hook writes, We cannot now ascertain all the psalms written by David, but their number probably exceeds seventy, and much less are we able to discover with any certainty the authors of the other psalms or the occasions upon which they were composed; a few of them were written after the return from the Babylonian captivity, and the 90th Psalm, as its title in the original in our Bible translation shews, is attributed to Moses. There is no subject on which learned men are so much at variance as the authorship of the Psalms, and the meaning of their titles. It is clear however that they may be divided into the following classes: Psalms of David; Psalms or Songs of the sons of Korah; Psalms of Asaph; Songs of Degrees; and again into Penitential Psalms, Hallelujah Psalms and Historical Psalms.

The whole collection of Psalms, usually divided into five books, is eminently prophetic of the Messiah. The first Book begins with the 1st and ends with the 41st Psalm, and the Hebrew word Le-David occurs before almost every Psalm. The second book begins with the 42nd Psalm, the third with the 73rd Psalm, the fourth with the 90th Psalm; the fifth with the 107th. The seven penitential Psalms are 6, 32, 38, 51, 102, 130, 143. These are appointed to be read in our Church on Ash-Wednesday. For many ages they had been used in the Western Churches in token of special humiliation.

The Psalms are pointed as they are to be sung or said in churches; by which is meant the colon in the middle of each verse, indicating the pause to be made not only in the chant but also in the recitation, as the words clearly imply; a direction commonly neglected by readers to the great prejudice of distinct enunciation.

The custom of repeating the Psalms alternately, or verse by verse, between the minister and the people is probably designed to supply the place of the ancient antiphon or the responsive chanting of the Psalms by two distinct choirs. It is remarkable that the same causes have had the same effects in influencing the translation of the Psalter, both in the Latin and the English Church. In the former the old Italian translation had become so familiar to the people, that St Jerome's translation from the Hebrew was never adopted; but the old version corrected considerably by St Jerome was used; a less correct edition by the Roman and a more carefully worded one by the Gallican church. The latter was in the course of time adopted by all the churches in communion with Rome with a few exceptions. In like manner the English Psalter does not follow the last translation (which is in the authorized version of the Bible) but that of Coverdale's Bible 1539, corrected, which had become familiar to the people from constant use. Church Dictionary.

Ps. ii. A Proper Psalm for Easter-Day.

Pss. iii. xxxviii. lxxiii. lxxxviii. ciii. cxliii. formed the Hexapsalmus of the Greek Morning office. After Ps. lxxiii. and before Ps. lxxxviii. was repeated, Glory, &c. and Alleluia. The Priest said the Morning Prayers' collects in a low tone before the Bema, whilst the choir proceeded with the 3 latter Psalms. At the end of cxliii. followed again the Glory and Alleluia. At the end of Ps. iii. ver. 5 was repeated. Ps.

iii. is in the Benedictine rule a Psalm of nocturns daily; in the English and Roman uses it occurs in the 12 Psalms of the first nocturn on Sunday.

Ps. iv. is the 1st Psalm in the Greek late evensong; it is also the 1st Psalm of compline.

Ps. v. was the first of the three used in the Eastern office of the 1st hour. It was, after the 51st the 1st Psalm of Monday Lauds.

PSALMS OF DAVID.

THE FIRST DAY.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM I. Beatus vir, qui non abiit, &c.

BLESSED is the man that hath not walked in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stood in the way of sinners : and hath not sat in the seat of the scornful.

2 But his delight is in the law of the Lord : and in his law will he exercise himself day and night.

3 And he shall be like a tree planted by the water-side : that will bring forth his fruit in due season.

4 His leaf also shall not wither : and look, whatsoever he doeth, it shall prosper.

5 As for the ungodly, it is not so with them : but they are like the chaff, which the wind scattereth away from the face of the earth.

6 Therefore the ungodly shall not be able to stand in the judgement : neither the sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

7 But the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous : and the way of the ungodly shall perish.

PSALM II. Quare fremuerunt gentes ?

WHY do the heathen so furiously rage together : and why do the people imagine a vain thing ?

2 The kings of the earth stand up, and the rulers take counsel together : against the Lord, and against his Anointed.

3 Let us break their bonds asunder : and cast away their cords from us.

4 He that dwelleth in heaven shall laugh them to scorn : the Lord shall have them in derision.

5 Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath : and vex them in his sore displeasure.

6 Yet have I set my King : upon my holy hill of Zion.

7 I will preach the law, whereof the Lord hath said unto me : Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

8 Desire of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance : and the utmost parts of the earth for thy possession.

9 Thou shalt bruise them with a rod of iron : and break them in pieces like a potter's vessel.

10 Be wise now therefore, O ye kings : be learned, ye that are judges of the earth.

11 Serve the Lord in fear : and rejoice unto him with reverence.

12 Kiss the Son, lest he be angry, and so ye perish from the right way : if his wrath be kindled, (yea, but a little,) blessed are all they that put their trust in him.

PSALM III. Domine, quid multiplicati ?

LORD, how are they increased that trouble me : many are they that rise against me.

2 Many one there be that say of my soul : There is no help for him in his God.

3 But thou, O Lord, art my defender : thou art my worship, and the lifter up of my head.

4 I did call upon the Lord with my voice : and he heard me out of his holy hill.

5 I laid me down and slept, and rose up again : for the Lord sustained me.

6 I will not be afraid for ten thousands of the people : that have set themselves against me round about.

7 Up, Lord, and help me, O my God : for thou smitest all mine enemies upon the cheek-bone ; thou hast broken the teeth of the ungodly.

8 Salvation belongeth unto the Lord : and thy blessing is upon thy people.

PSALM IV. Cum invocarem.

HEAR me when I call, O God of my righteousness : thou hast set me at liberty when I was in trouble ; have mercy upon me, and hearken unto my prayer.

2 O ye sons of men, how long will ye blaspheme mine honour : and have such pleasure in vanity, and seek after leasing ?

3 Know this also, that the Lord hath chosen to himself the man that is godly : when I call upon the Lord, he will hear me.

4 Stand in awe, and sin not : commune with your own heart, and in your chamber, and be still.

5 Offer the sacrifice of righteousness : and put your trust in the Lord.

6 There be many that say : Who will shew us any good ?

7 Lord, lift thou up : the light of thy countenance upon us.

8 Thou hast put gladness in my heart : since the time that their corn, and wine, and oil, increased.

9 I will lay me down in peace, and take my rest : for it is thou, Lord, only, that makest me dwell in safety.

PSALM V. Verba mea auribus.

PONDER my words, O Lord : consider my meditation.

2 O hearken thou unto the voice of my calling, my King, and my God : for unto thee will I make my prayer.

3 My voice shalt thou hear betimes, O Lord : early in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up.

4 For thou art the God that hast no pleasure in wickedness : neither shall any evil dwell with thee.

5 Such as be foolish shall not stand in thy sight : for thou hatest all them that work vanity.

6 Thou shalt destroy them that speak leasing : the Lord will abhor both the blood-thirsty and deceitful man.

Of the Greek Psalter, Neale gives the following account.

The whole Psalter is divided into twenty sections or cathismata.

I Ps. 1—8	XI Ps. 78—85
II 9—17	XII 86—91
III 18—24	XIII 92—101
IV 25—32	XIV 102—105
V 33—37	XV 106—109
VI 38—46	XVI 110—118
VII 47—55	XVII 119
VIII 56—64	XVIII 120—132
IX 65—70	XIX 133—143
X 71—77	XX 144—150

Each of these cathismata is divided into three staseis, and at the end of the latter only, not of each Psalm as in the Western Church, the Glory is said.

The general arrangement for the lection of the Psalms is as follows:

In the weeks of the Apocreois and Tyrophagus, the two weeks preceding

Lent, two cathismata are said at Matins, one at Vespers; so that the Psalter is said through once each week. In the six weeks of the Great Fast the quantity is doubled, the Psalter being repeated twice in each week. In Holy Week it is said once, but finishes on the Wednesday. From Maundy Thursday till the eve of the Anti-Pascha, Low Sunday, it is not said at all. At the first Vespers of Low Sunday it begins again, and till the twentieth of September two cathismata are said at Matins, one at Vespers. From the twentieth of September till the Vigil of the Nativity, three cathismata in Matins: one, namely the 18th, at Vespers, together with the 133rd and 136th Psalms. Thence to the octave of the Epiphany two at Matins, one at Vespers. Thence till the Saturday before the Apocreois one at Matins, one at Lauds, and two at Vespers.

In addition to the arrangement of the Psalter in cathismata the Greeks have various Psalms appropriated to the different services. The accompanying scheme is taken from the Horologion according to the monastic use of Jerusalem.

Daily nocturns, Ps. 51, 119, 121, 134.

Saturday 51, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70.

Dawn (In Lent, 51) 20, 21, 3, 38, 63, 88, 103, 143, 148, 149, 150.

1st hour, 51, 90, 101.

Mesorion of 1st hour, 46, 92, 93.

3rd hour, 17, 25, 51.

Mesorion of 3rd hour, 30, 32, 61.

6th hour, 54, 55, 91.

Mesorion of 6th hour, 56, 57, 70.

9th hour, 84, 85, 86.

Mesorion of 9th hour, 113, 138, 140.

Evensong, 104, 141, 142, 130, 117.

Late evensong, 51, 70, 143; in Lent, 70, 4, 6, 13, 25, 31, 91, 51, 102, 70, 143.

The following Psalms are used by the Greeks in various Offices:

In Baptism, after the immersion, Ps. 32.

In the Marriage Service, 128.

In the Visitation of the Sick, 102, 55, 23, 27, 51, 61.

In Confession of Penitents, 51.

In the Office for the Dying, 70, 102, 51.

In the Burial of laics, monks, and infants, 91, 119, 51; of priests, 119, 23, 24, 51, 84, 148, 149, 150.

For Festivals Canons, including portions of Psalms, are appointed rather than entire Psalms selected.

Ps. vi. is the 2nd Psalm in the Greek late evensong. It is also one of the Psalms appointed in the Roman office for the Visitation of the Sick. It is also a Proper Psalm for Ash-Wednesday.

Ps. viii. A Psalm in the Roman office for baptism of adults; also a Proper Psalm for Ascension-Day.

7 But as for me, I will come into thine house, even upon the multitude of thy mercy : and in thy fear will I worship toward thy holy temple.

8 Lead me, O Lord, in thy righteousness, because of mine enemies : make thy way plain before my face.

9 For there is no faithfulness in his mouth : their inward parts are very wickedness.

10 Their throat is an open sepulchre : they flatter with their tongue.

11 Destroy thou them, O God ; let them perish through their own imaginations : cast them out in the multitude of their ungodliness ; for they have rebelled against thee.

12 And let all them that put their trust in thee rejoice : they shall ever be giving of thanks, because thou defendest them ; they that love thy Name shall be joyful in thee ;

13 For thou, Lord, wilt give thy blessing unto the righteous : and with thy favourable kindness wilt thou defend him as with a shield.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM VI. Domine, ne in furore.

O LORD, rebuke me not in thine indignation : neither chasten me in thy displeasure.

2 Have mercy upon me, O Lord, for I am weak : O Lord, heal me, for my bones are vexed.

3 My soul also is sore troubled : but, Lord, how long wilt thou punish me ?

4 Turn thee, O Lord, and deliver my soul : O save me for thy mercy's sake.

5 For in death no man remembereth thee : and who will give thee thanks in the pit ?

6 I am weary of my groaning ; every night wash I my bed : and water my couch with my tears.

7 My beauty is gone for very trouble : and worn away because of all mine enemies.

8 Away from me, all ye that work vanity : for the Lord hath heard the voice of my weeping.

9 The Lord hath heard my petition : the Lord will receive my prayer.

10 All mine enemies shall be confounded, and sore vexed : they shall be turned back, and put to shame suddenly.

PSALM VII. Domine, Deus meus.

O LORD my God, in thee have I put my trust : save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me ;

2 Lest he devour my soul, like a lion, and tear it in pieces : while there is none to help.

3 O Lord my God, if I have done any such thing : or if there be any wickedness in my hands ;

4 If I have rewarded evil unto him that dealt friendly with me : yea, I have delivered him that without any cause is mine enemy ;

5 Then let mine enemy persecute my soul, and take me : yea, let him tread my life down upon the earth, and lay mine honour in the dust.

6 Stand up, O Lord, in thy wrath, and lift up thyself, because of the indignation of mine enemies : arise up for me in the judgement that thou hast commanded.

7 And so shall the congregation of the people come about thee ; for their sakes therefore lift up thyself again.

8 The Lord shall judge the people ; give sentence with me, O Lord : according to my righteousness, and according to the innocency that is in me.

9 O let the wickedness of the ungodly come to an end : but guide thou the just.

10 For the righteous God : trieth the very hearts and reins.

11 My help cometh of God : who preserveth them that are true of heart.

12 God is a righteous Judge, strong, and patient : and God is provoked every day.

13 If a man will not turn, he will whet his sword : he hath bent his bow, and made it ready.

14 He hath prepared for him the instruments of death : he ordaineth his arrows against the persecutors.

15 Behold, he travaileth with mischief : he hath conceived sorrow, and brought forth ungodliness.

16 He hath graven and digged up a pit : and is fallen himself into the destruction that he made for other.

17 For his travail shall come upon his own head : and his wickedness shall fall on his own pate.

18 I will give thanks unto the Lord, according to his righteousness : and I will praise the Name of the Lord most High.

PSALM VIII. Domine, Dominus noster.

O LORD our Governor, how excellent is thy Name in all the world : thou that hast set thy glory above the heavens !

2 Out of the mouth of very babes and sucklings hast thou ordained strength, because of thine enemies : that thou mightest still the enemy, and the avenger.

3 For I will consider thy heavens, even the works of thy fingers : the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained.

4 What is man, that thou art mindful of him : and the son of man, that thou visitest him ?

5 Thou madest him lower than the angels : to crown him with glory and worship.

6 Thou makest him to have dominion of the works of thy hands : and thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet ;

7 All sheep and oxen : yea, and the beasts of the field ;

8 The fowls of the air, and the fishes of the sea : and whatsoever walketh through the paths of the seas.

9 O Lord our Governor : how excellent is thy Name in all the world !

Morning Prayer.

PSALM IX. Confitebor tibi.

I WILL give thanks unto thee, O Lord, with my whole heart : I will speak of all thy marvellous works.

2 I will be glad and rejoice in thee : yea, my songs will I make of thy Name, O thou most Highest.

3 While mine enemies are driven back : they shall fall and perish at thy presence.

4 For thou hast maintained my right and my cause : thou art set in the throne that judgest right.

* Ps. 9 and 10 form one Ps. in the Vulgate; and the division adopted here does not exactly correspond to our division into Ps. 9 and 10.

† Magnificat is said every day at Vespers.

The Psalms throughout all these lists are numbered according to the numbering of our version.

There are proper Psalms and Canticles at Matins on Festivals. At Lauds the festival Psalms are 93, 100, 63, and 67. Benedicite, 148, 149, 150—the same as Roman Sunday Psalms. At Vespers, on Festivals, the Sunday Psalms are usually said.

5 Thou hast rebuked the heathen, and destroyed the ungodly : thou hast put out their name for ever and ever.

6 O thou enemy, destructions are come to a perpetual end : even as the cities which thou hast destroyed ; their memorial is perished with them.

7 But the Lord shall endure for ever : he hath also prepared his seat for judgement.

8 For he shall judge the world in righteousness : and minister true judgement unto the people.

9 The Lord also will be a defence for the oppressed : even a refuge in due time of trouble.

10 And they that know thy Name will put their trust in thee : for thou, Lord, hast never failed them that seek thee.

11 O praise the Lord which dwelleth in Sion : shew the people of his doings.

12 For, when he maketh inquisition for blood, he remembereth them : and forgetteth not the complaint of the poor.

13 Have mercy upon me, O Lord ; consider the trouble which I suffer of them that hate me : thou that liftest me up from the gates of death.

14 That I may shew all thy praises within the ports of the daughter of Sion : I will rejoice in thy salvation.

15 The heathen are sunk down in the pit that they made : in the same net which they hid privily, is their foot taken.

16 The Lord is known to execute judgement : the ungodly is trapped in the work of his own hands.

17 The wicked shall be turned into hell : and all the people that forget God.

18 For the poor shall not always be forgotten : the patient abiding of the meek shall not perish for ever.

19 Up, Lord, and let not man have the upper hand : let the heathen be judged in thy sight.

20 Put them in fear, O Lord : that the heathen may know themselves to be but men.

PSALM X. Ut quid, Domine !

WHY standest thou so far off, O Lord : and hidest thy face in the needful time of trouble ?

2 The ungodly for his own lust doth persecute the poor : let them be taken in the crafty wiliness that they have imagined.

3 For the ungodly hath made boast of his own heart's desire : and speaketh good of the covetous, whom God abhorreth.

4 The ungodly is so proud, that he careth not for God : neither is God in all his thoughts.

5 His ways are always grievous : thy judgements are far above out of his sight, and therefore defieth he all his enemies.

6 For he hath said in his heart, Tush, I shall never be cast down : there shall no harm happen unto me.

7 His mouth is full of cursing, deceit, and fraud : under his tongue is ungodliness and vanity.

8 He sitteth lurking in the thievish corners of the streets : and privily in his lurking dens doth he murder the innocent ; his eyes are set against the poor.

9 For he lieth waiting secretly, even as a lion lurketh he in his den : that he may ravish the poor.

10 He doth ravish the poor : when he getteth him into his net.

11 He falleth down, and humbleth himself : that the congregation of the poor may fall into the hands of his captains.

12 He hath said in his heart, Tush, God hath forgotten : he hideth away his face, and he will never see it.

13 Arise, O Lord God, and lift up thine hand : forget not the poor.

14 Wherefore should the wicked blaspheme God : while he doth say in his heart, Tush, thou God carest not for it.

15 Surely thou hast seen it : for thou beholdest ungodliness and wrong.

16 That thou mayest take the matter into thine hand : the poor committeth himself unto thee ; for thou art the helper of the friends.

17 Break thou the power of the ungodly and malicious : take away his ungodliness, and thou shalt find none.

18 The Lord is King for ever and ever : and the heathen are perished out of the land.

19 Lord, thou hast heard the desire of the poor : thou preparest their heart, and thine ear hearkeneth thereto ;

20 To help the fatherless and poor unto their right : that the man of the earth be no more exalted against them.

PSALM XI. In Domino confido.

IN the Lord put I my trust : how say ye then to my soul, that she should flee as a bird unto the hill ?

2 For lo, the ungodly bend their bow, and make ready their arrows within the quiver : that they may privily shoot at them which are true of heart.

3 For the foundations will be cast down : and what hath the righteous done ?

4 The Lord is in his holy temple : the Lord's seat is in heaven.

5 His eyes consider the poor : and his eyelids try the children of men.

6 The Lord alloweth the righteous : but the ungodly, and him that delighteth in wickedness doth his soul abhor.

7 Upon the ungodly he shall rain snares, fire and brimstone, storm and tempest : this shall be their portion to drink.

8 For the righteous Lord loveth righteousness : his countenance will behold the thing that is just.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM XII. Salvum me fac.

HELP me, Lord, for there is not one godly man left : for the faithful are minished from among the children of men.

2 They talk of vanity every one with his neighbour : they do but flatter with their lips, and dissemble in their double heart.

3 The Lord shall root out all deceitful lips : and the tongue that speaketh proud things ;

4 Which have said, With our tongue will we prevail : we are they that ought to speak, who is lord over us ?

5 Now for the comfortless troubles' sake of the needy : and because of the deep sighing of the poor,

6 I will up, saith the Lord : and will help

The Matin Pss. are divided into 10 Decurias, assigned through 2 wks., as above. Each Decuria is div. into 3 Nocturns, and Gloria is said only at the end of each Noct. At Matins on some festivals Canticles are said instead of Pss. as on Sundays; on some special Pss. are appointed; on some the Decuria for the day is not changed. At Lauds the direct Ps. is changed; at Vespers the fest. Pss. vary according to the festival. Directi, i. e.

every one from him that swelleth against him, and will set him at rest.

7 The words of the Lord are pure words : even as the silver, which from the earth is tried, and purified seven times in the fire.

8 Thou shalt keep them, O Lord : thou shalt preserve him from this generation for ever.

9 The ungodly walk on every side : when they are exalted, the children of men are put to rebuke.

PSALM XIII. Usque quo, Domine!

HOW long wilt thou forget me, O Lord, for ever : how long wilt thou hide thy face from me ?

2 How long shall I seek counsel in my soul, and be so vexed in my heart : how long shall mine enemies triumph over me ?

3 Consider, and hear me, O Lord my God : lighten mine eyes, that I sleep not in death.

4 Lest mine enemy say, I have prevailed against him : for if I be cast down, they that trouble me will rejoice at it.

5 But my trust is in thy mercy : and my heart is joyful in thy salvation.

6 I will sing of the Lord, because he hath dealt so lovingly with me : yea, I will praise the Name of the Lord most Highest.

PSALM XIV. Dixit insipiens.

THE fool hath said in his heart : There is no God.

2 They are corrupt, and become abominable in their doings : there is none that doeth good, no not one.

3 The Lord looked down from heaven upon the children of men : to see if there were any that would understand, and seek after God.

4 But they are all gone out of the way, they are altogether become abominable : there is none that doeth good, no not one.

5 Their throat is an open sepulchre, with their tongues have they deceived : the poison of asps is under their lips.

6 Their mouth is full of cursing and bitterness : their feet are swift to shed blood.

7 Destruction and unhappiness is in their ways, and the way of peace have they not known : there is no fear of God before their eyes.

8 Have they no knowledge, that they are all such workers of mischief : eating up my people as it were bread, and call not upon the Lord ?

9 There were they brought in great fear, even where no fear was : for God is in the generation of the righteous.

10 As for you, ye have made a mock at the counsel of the poor : because he putteth his trust in the Lord.

11 Who shall give salvation unto Israel out of Zion ? When the Lord turneth the captivity of his people : then shall Jacob rejoice, and Israel shall be glad.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XV. Domine, quis habitabit!

LORD, who shall dwell in thy tabernacle : or who shall rest upon thy holy hill ?

2 Even he, that leadeth an uncorrupt life : and doeth the thing which is right, and speaketh the truth from his heart.

3 He that hath used no deceit in his tongue, nor done evil to his neighbour : and hath not slandered his neighbour.

4 He that setteth not by himself, but is lowly in his own eyes : and maketh much of them that fear the Lord.

5 He that sweareth unto his neighbour, and disappointeth him not : though it were to his own hindrance.

6 He that hath not given his money upon usury : nor taken reward against the innocent.

7 Whoso doeth these things : shall never fall.

PSALM XVI. Conserva me, Domine.

PRESERVE me, O God : for in thee have I put my trust.

2 O my soul, thou hast said unto the Lord : Thou art my God, my goods are nothing unto thee.

3 All my delight is upon the saints, that are in the earth : and upon such as excel in virtue.

4 But they that run after another god : shall have great trouble.

5 Their drink-offerings of blood will I not offer : neither make mention of their names within my lips.

6 The Lord himself is the portion of mine inheritance, and of my cup : thou shalt maintain my lot.

7 The lot is fallen unto me in a fair ground : yea, I have a goodly heritage.

8 I will thank the Lord for giving me warning : my reins also chasten me in the night-season.

9 I have set God always before me : for he is on my right hand, therefore I shall not fall.

10 Wherefore my heart was glad, and my glory rejoiced : my flesh also shall rest in hope.

11 For why ? thou shalt not leave my soul in hell : neither shalt thou suffer thy Holy One to see corruption.

12 Thou shalt shew me the path of life ; in thy presence is the fulness of joy : and at thy right hand there is pleasure for evermore.

PSALM XVII. Exaudi, Domine.

HEAR the right, O Lord, consider my complaint : and hearken unto my prayer, that goeth not out of feigned lips.

2 Let my sentence come forth from thy presence : and let thine eyes look upon the thing that is equal.

3 Thou hast proved and visited mine heart in the night-season ; thou hast tried me, and shalt find no wickedness in me : for I am utterly purposed that my mouth shall not offend.

4 Because of men's works, that are done against the words of thy lips : I have kept me from the ways of the destroyer.

5 O hold thou up my goings in thy paths : that my footsteps slip not.

6 I have called upon thee, O God, for thou shalt hear me : incline thine ear to me, and hearken unto my words.

7 Shew thy marvellous loving-kindness, thou that art the Saviour of them which put their trust in thee : from such as resist thy right hand.

8 Keep me as the apple of an eye : hide me under the shadow of thy wings,

9 From the ungodly that trouble me :

On Festivals there are proper Psalms at Matins, usually 9 said in 3 Nocturns of 3 Psalms each; at Lauds, the Sunday Psalms are said; at Vespers (usually), either the Sunday Psalms or the 4 first Sunday Psalms with the last varied.

The Sarum arrangement is nearly identical with the Roman.

In it Ps. 22-26, which are in the present Roman use divided among the week days, are all said on Sunday at Prime between Ps. 54 and 118. There is also a short "Capitular Service" said after Lauds, Prime, and Compline on week-days during the larger part of the year, at which Ps. 123 is said at Lauds and Compline and Ps. 121 at Prime.

Ps. 51 (Miserere) was also said at Preces at all the hours in ordinary week-days. In the Roman use Preces are only said during Advent, Lent, and the Four Seasons; and then Ps. 130 (De profundis) is said at Lauds, Ps. 51 (Miserere) at Vespers, and no Ps. at the other hours. The proper Psalms for Festivals also are occasionally different from those in the Roman use.

mine enemies compass me round about to take away my soul.

10 They are inclosed in their own fat : and their mouth speaketh proud things.

11 They lie waiting in our way on every side : turning their eyes down to the ground ;

12 Like as a lion that is greedy of his prey : and as it were a lion's whelp, lurking in secret places.

13 Up, Lord, disappoint him, and cast him down : deliver my soul from the ungodly, which is a sword of thine ;

14 From the men of thy hand, O Lord, from the men, I say, and from the evil world : which have their portion in this life, whose bellies thou fillest with thy hid treasure.

15 They have children at their desire : and leave the rest of their substance for their babes.

16 But as for me, I will behold thy presence in righteousness : and when I awake up after thy likeness, I shall be satisfied with it.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM XVIII. Diligam te, Domine.

I WILL love thee, O Lord, my strength ; the Lord is my stony rock, and my defence : my Saviour, my God, and my might, in whom I will trust, my buckler, the horn also of my salvation, and my refuge.

2 I will call upon the Lord, which is worthy to be praised : so shall I be safe from mine enemies.

3 The sorrows of death compassed me : and the overflowings of ungodliness made me afraid.

4 The pains of hell came about me : the snares of death overtook me.

5 In my trouble I will call upon the Lord : and complain unto my God.

6 So shall he hear my voice out of his holy temple : and my complaint shall come before him, it shall enter even into his ears.

7 The earth trembled and quaked : the very foundations also of the hills shook, and were removed, because he was wroth.

8 There went a smoke out in his presence : and a consuming fire out of his mouth, so that coals were kindled at it.

9 He bowed the heavens also, and came down : and it was dark under his feet.

10 He rode upon the cherubins, and did fly : he came flying upon the wings of the wind.

11 He made darkness his secret place : his pavilion round about him with dark water, and thick clouds to cover him.

12 At the brightness of his presence his clouds removed : hail-stones, and coals of fire.

13 The Lord also thundered out of heaven, and the Highest gave his thunder : hail-stones, and coals of fire.

14 He sent out his arrows, and scattered them : he cast forth lightnings, and destroyed them.

15 The springs of waters were seen, and the foundations of the round world were discovered, at thy chiding, O Lord : at the blasting of the breath of thy displeasure.

16 He shall send down from on high to fetch me : and shall take me out of many waters.

17 He shall deliver me from my strongest enemy, and from them which hate me : for they are too mighty for me.

18 They prevented me in the day of my trouble : but the Lord was my upholder.

19 He brought me forth also into a place of liberty : he brought me forth, even because he had a favour unto me.

20 The Lord shall reward me after my righteous dealing : according to the cleanness of my hands shall he recompense me.

21 Because I have kept the ways of the Lord : and have not forsaken my God, as the wicked doth.

22 For I have an eye unto all his laws : and will not cast out his commandments from me.

23 I was also uncorrupt before him : and eschewed mine own wickedness.

24 Therefore shall the Lord reward me after my righteous dealing : and according unto the cleanness of my hands in his eyesight.

25 With the holy thou shalt be holy : and with a perfect man thou shalt be perfect.

26 With the clean thou shalt be clean : and with the froward thou shalt learn frowardness.

27 For thou shalt save the people that are in adversity : and shalt bring down the high looks of the proud.

28 Thou also shalt light my candle : the Lord my God shall make my darkness to be light.

29 For in thee I shall discomfit an host of men : and with the help of my God I shall leap over the wall.

30 The way of God is an undefiled way : the word of the Lord also is tried in the fire ; he is the defender of all them that put their trust in him.

31 For who is God, but the Lord : or who hath any strength, except our God ?

32 It is God, that girdeth me with strength of war : and maketh my way perfect.

33 He maketh my feet like harts' feet : and setteth me up on high.

34 He teacheth mine hands to fight : and mine arms shall break even a bow of steel.

35 Thou hast given me the defence of thy salvation : thy right hand also shall hold me up, and thy loving correction shall make me great.

36 Thou shalt make room enough under me for to go : that my footsteps shall not slide.

37 I will follow upon mine enemies, and overtake them : neither will I turn again till I have destroyed them.

38 I will smite them, that they shall not be able to stand ; but fall under my feet.

39 Thou hast girded me with strength unto the battle : thou shalt throw down mine enemies under me.

40 Thou hast made mine enemies also to turn their backs upon me : and I shall destroy them that hate me.

41 They shall cry, but there shall be none to help them : yea, even unto the Lord shall they cry, but he shall not hear them.

42 I will beat them as small as the dust before the wind : I will cast them out as the clay in the streets.

43 Thou shalt deliver me from the strivings of the people : and thou shalt make me the head of the heathen.

46 The strange children shall fail : and be afraid out of their prisons.

47 The Lord liveth, and blessed be my strong helper : and praised be the God of my salvation.

48 Even the God that seeth that I be avenged : and subdueth the people unto me.

49 It is he that delivereth me from my cruel enemies, and setteth me up above mine adversaries : thou shalt rid me from the wicked man.

50 For this cause will I give thanks unto thee, O Lord, among the Gentiles : and sing praises unto thy Name.

51 Great prosperity giveth he unto his King : and sheweth loving-kindness unto David his Anointed, and unto his seed for evermore.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XIX. Cœli enarrant.

THE heavens declare the glory of God : and the firmament sheweth his handy-work.

2 One day telleth another : and one night certifieth another.

3 There is neither speech nor language : but their voices are heard among them.

4 Their sound is gone out into all lands : and their words into the ends of the world.

5 In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun : which cometh forth as a bridegroom out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a giant to run his course.

6 It goeth forth from the uttermost part of the heaven, and runneth about unto the end of it again : and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

7 The law of the Lord is an undefiled law, converting the soul : the testimony of the Lord is sure, and giveth wisdom unto the simple.

8 The statutes of the Lord are right, and rejoice the heart : the commandment of the Lord is pure, and giveth light unto the eyes.

9 The fear of the Lord is clean, and endureth for ever : the judgements of the Lord are true, and righteous altogether.

10 More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold : sweeter also than honey, and the honey-comb.

11 Moreover, by them is thy servant taught : and in keeping of them there is great reward.

12 Who can tell how oft he offendeth : O cleanse thou me from my secret faults.

13 Keep thy servant also from presumptuous sins, lest they get the dominion over me : so shall I be undefiled, and innocent from the great offence.

14 Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart : be alway acceptable in thy sight,

15 O Lord : my strength, and my redeemer.

PSALM XX. Exaudi te Dominus.

THE Lord hear thee in the day of trouble : the Name of the God of Jacob defend thee ;

2 Send thee help from the sanctuary : and strengthen thee out of Sion ;

3 Remember all thy offerings : and accept thy burnt-sacrifice ;

4 Grant thee thy heart's desire : and fulfil all thy mind.

5 We will rejoice in thy salvation, and triumph in the Name of the Lord our God : the Lord perform all thy petitions.

6 Now know I, that the Lord helpeth his Anointed, and will hear him from his holy heaven : even with the wholesome strength of his right hand.

7 Some put their trust in chariots, and some in horses : but we will remember the Name of the Lord our God.

8 They are brought down, and fallen : but we are risen, and stand upright.

9 Save, Lord, and hear us, O King of heaven : when we call upon thee.

PSALM XXI. Domine, in virtute tua.

THE King shall rejoice in thy strength, O Lord : exceeding glad shall he be of thy salvation.

2 Thou hast given him his heart's desire : and hast not denied him the request of his lips.

3 For thou shalt prevent him with the blessings of goodness : and shalt set a crown of pure gold upon his head.

4 He asked life of thee, and thou gavest him a long life : even for ever and ever.

5 His honour is great in thy salvation : glory and great worship shalt thou lay upon him.

6 For thou shalt give him everlasting felicity : and make him glad with the joy of thy countenance.

7 And why? because the King putteth his trust in the Lord : and in the mercy of the most Highest he shall not miscarry.

8 All thine enemies shall feel thy hand : thy right hand shall find out them that hate thee.

9 Thou shalt make them like a fiery oven in time of thy wrath : the Lord shall destroy them in his displeasure, and the fire shall consume them.

10 Their fruit shalt thou root out of the earth : and their seed from among the children of men.

11 For they intended mischief against thee : and imagined such a device as they are not able to perform.

12 Therefore shalt thou put them to flight : and the strings of thy bow shalt thou make ready against the face of them.

13 Be thou exalted, Lord, in thine own strength : so will we sing, and praise thy power.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM XXII. Deus, Deus meus.

MY God, my God, look upon me ; why hast thou forsaken me : and art so far from my health, and from the words of my complaint ?

2 O my God, I cry in the day-time, but thou hearest not : and in the night-season also I take no rest.

3 And thou continuest holy : O thou worship of Israel.

Baptism of Adults.

Communion of the Sick.

51, and other Psalms and Canticles not specified, to be said in procession. The rubric is, 'Postremo Sacerdos Sacramentum gestans elevatum ante pectus sub umbella, dicens Psalmum "Miserere" et alios Psalmos et Cantica.'

Ps. xxiii. is appointed on Thursday at Prime.

It is used by the Greeks at the Burial of Priests, as was also the next Psalm.

Ps. xxiv. was a constant Psalm on the 1st day of the week in the Temple Service throughout the year. It is a Prime Psalm on Monday. According to the Roman use it is appointed as a Psalm in the Thanksgiving of Women after Childbirth and in the Burial of children.

Ps. xxv. was the 2nd Psalm at the office of the 3rd hour in the East. It is a Prime Psalm on Tuesday.

It was also the 4th Psalm in the Greek late evensong.

It is a proper Psalm for Ascension-
 Day.

4 Our fathers hoped in thee : they trusted in thee, and thou didst deliver them.

5 They called upon thee, and were holpen : they put their trust in thee, and were not confounded.

6 But as for me, I am a worm, and no man : a very scorn of men, and the outcast of the people.

7 All they that see me laugh me to scorn : they shoot out their lips, and shake their heads, saying,

8 He trusted in God, that he would deliver him : let him deliver him, if he will have him.

9 But thou art he that took me out of my mother's womb : thou wast my hope, when I hanged yet upon my mother's breasts.

10 I have been left unto thee ever since I was born : thou art my God even from my mother's womb.

11 O go not from me, for trouble is hard at hand : and there is none to help me.

12 Many oxen are come about me : fat bulls of Basan close me in on every side.

13 They gape upon me with their mouths : as it were a ramping and a roaring lion.

14 I am poured out like water, and all my bones are out of joint : my heart also in the midst of my body is even like melting wax.

15 My strength is dried up like a potsherd, and my tongue cleaveth to my gums : and thou shalt bring me into the dust of death.

16 For many dogs are come about me : and the council of the wicked layeth siege against me.

17 They pierced my hands and my feet ; I may tell all my bones : they stand staring and looking upon me.

18 They part my garments among them : and cast lots upon my vesture.

19 But be not thou far from me, O Lord : thou art my succour, haste thee to help me.

20 Deliver my soul from the sword : my darling from the power of the dog.

21 Save me from the lion's mouth : thou hast heard me also from among the horns of the unicorns.

22 I will declare thy Name unto my brethren : in the midst of the congregation will I praise thee.

23 O praise the Lord, ye that fear him : magnify him, all ye of the seed of Jacob, and ye of Israel ;

24 For he hath not despised, nor abhorred, the low estate of the poor : he hath not hid his face from him, but when he called unto him he heard him.

25 My praise is of thee in the great congregation : my vows will I perform in the sight of them that fear him.

26 The poor shall eat, and be satisfied : they that seek after the Lord shall praise him ; their heart shall live for ever.

27 All the ends of the world shall remember themselves, and be turned unto the Lord : and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before him.

28 For the kingdom is the Lord's : and he is the Governor among the people.

29 All such as be fat upon earth : have taken, and worshipped.

30 All they that go down into the dust shall kneel before him : and no man hath thickened his own soul.

31 My seed shall serve him : they shall be counted unto the Lord for a generation.

32 They shall come, and the heavens shall declare his righteousness : unto a people that shall be born, whom the Lord hath made.

PSALM XXIII. Dominus regit me.

THE Lord is my shepherd : therefore can I lack nothing.

2 He shall feed me in a green pasture : and lead me forth beside the waters of comfort.

3 He shall convert my soul : and bring me forth in the paths of righteousness, for his Name's sake.

4 Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil : for thou art with me ; thy rod and thy staff comfort me.

5 Thou shalt prepare a table before me against them that trouble me : thou hast anointed my head with oil, and my cup shall be full.

6 But thy loving-kindness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life : and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XXIV. Domini est terra.

THE earth is the Lord's, and all that therein is : the compass of the world, and they that dwell therein.

2 For he hath founded it upon the seas : and prepared it upon the floods.

3 Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord : or who shall rise up in his holy place ?

4 Even he that hath clean hands, and a pure heart : and that hath not lift up his mind unto vanity, nor sworn to deceive his neighbour.

5 He shall receive the blessing from the Lord : and righteousness from the God of his salvation.

6 This is the generation of them that seek him : even of them that seek thy face, O Jacob.

7 Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors : and the King of glory shall come in.

8 Who is the King of glory : it is the Lord strong and mighty, even the Lord mighty in battle.

9 Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors : and the King of glory shall come in.

10 Who is the King of glory : even the Lord of hosts, he is the King of glory.

PSALM XXV. Ad te, Domine, levavi.

UNTO thee, O Lord, will I lift up my soul ; my God, I have put my trust in thee : O let me not be confounded, neither let mine enemies triumph over me.

2 For all they that hope in thee shall not be ashamed : but such as transgress without a cause shall be put to confusion.

3 Shew me thy ways, O Lord : and teach me thy paths.

4 Lead me forth in thy truth, and learn me : for thou art the God of my salvation ; in thee hath been my hope all the day long.

5 Call to remembrance, O Lord, thy tender mercies : and thy loving-kindnesses, which have been ever of old.

6 O remember not the sins and offences of

Ps. xxvi. is a Prime Psalm on Wednesday.

Ps. xxvii. is appointed in the Greek office for the Visitation of the Sick.

my youth : but according to thy mercy think thou upon me, O Lord, for thy goodness.

7 Gracious and righteous is the Lord : therefore will he teach sinners in the way.

8 Them that are meek shall he guide in judgement : and such as are gentle, them shall he learn his way.

9 All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth : unto such as keep his covenant, and his testimonies.

10 For thy Name's sake, O Lord : be merciful unto my sin, for it is great.

11 What man is he, that feareth the Lord : him shall he teach in the way that he shall choose.

12 His soul shall dwell at ease : and his seed shall inherit the land.

13 The secret of the Lord is among them that fear him : and he will shew them his covenant.

14 Mine eyes are ever looking unto the Lord : for he shall pluck my feet out of the net.

15 Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me : for I am desolate, and in misery.

16 The sorrows of my heart are enlarged : O bring thou me out of my troubles.

17 Look upon my adversity and misery : and forgive me all my sin.

18 Consider mine enemies, how many they are : and they bear a tyrannous hate against me.

19 O keep my soul, and deliver me : let me not be confounded, for I have put my trust in thee.

20 Let perfectness and righteous dealing wait upon me : for my hope hath been in thee.

21 Deliver Israel, O God : out of all his troubles.

PSALM XXVI. Judica me, Domine.

BE thou my Judge, O Lord, for I have walked innocently : my trust hath been also in the Lord, therefore shall I not fall.

2 Examine me, O Lord, and prove me : try out my reins and my heart.

3 For thy loving-kindness is ever before mine eyes : and I will walk in thy truth.

4 I have not dwelt with vain persons : neither will I have fellowship with the deceitful.

5 I have hated the congregation of the wicked : and will not sit among the ungodly.

6 I will wash my hands in innocency, O Lord : and so will I go to thine altar ;

7 That I may shew the voice of thanksgiving : and tell of all thy wondrous works.

8 Lord, I have loved the habitation of thy house : and the place where thine honour dwelleth.

9 O shut not up my soul with the sinners : or my life with the blood-thirsty ;

10 In whose hands is wickedness : and their right hand is full of gifts.

11 But as for me, I will walk innocently : deliver me, and be merciful unto me.

12 My foot standeth right : I will praise the Lord in the congregations.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM XXVII. Dominus illuminatio.

THE Lord is my light, and my salvation ; whom then shall I fear : the Lord is the strength of my life ; of whom then shall I be afraid ?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies, and my foes, came upon me to eat up my flesh : they stumbled and fell.

3 Though an host of men were laid against me, yet shall not my heart be afraid : and though there rose up war against me, yet will I put my trust in him.

4 One thing have I desired of the Lord, which I will require : even that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the fair beauty of the Lord, and to visit his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he shall hide me in his tabernacle : yea, in the secret place of his dwelling shall he hide me, and set me up upon a rock of stone.

6 And now shall he lift up mine head : above mine enemies round about me.

7 Therefore will I offer in his dwelling an oblation with great gladness : I will sing, and speak praises unto the Lord.

8 Hearken unto my voice, O Lord, when I cry unto thee : have mercy upon me, and hear me.

9 My heart hath talked of thee, Seek ye my face : Thy face, Lord, will I seek.

10 O hide not thou thy face from me : nor cast thy servant away in displeasure.

11 Thou hast been my succour : leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation.

12 When my father and my mother forsake me : the Lord taketh me up.

13 Teach me thy way, O Lord : and lead me in the right way, because of mine enemies.

14 Deliver me not over into the will of mine adversaries : for there are false witnesses risen up against me, and such as speak wrong.

15 I should utterly have fainted : but that I believe verily to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living.

16 O tarry thou the Lord's leisure : be strong, and he shall comfort thine heart ; and put thou thy trust in the Lord.

PSALM XXVIII. Ad te, Domine.

UNTO thee will I cry, O Lord my strength : think no scorn of me ; lest, if thou make as though thou hearest not, I become like them that go down into the pit.

2 Hear the voice of my humble petitions, when I cry unto thee : when I hold up my hands towards the mercy-seat of thy holy temple.

3 O pluck me not away, neither destroy me with the ungodly and wicked doers : which speak friendly to their neighbours, but imagine mischief in their hearts.

4 Reward them according to their deeds : and according to the wickedness of their own inventions.

5 Recompense them after the work of their hands : pay them that they have deserved.

6 For they regard not in their mind the works of the Lord, nor the operation of his hands : therefore shall he break them down, and not build them up.

7 Praise be the Lord : for he hath heard the voice of my humble petitions.

8 The Lord is my strength, and my shield ; my heart hath trusted in him, and I am

Ps. xxix. was sung in the temple service on the evening of New Year's Day.

It is appointed in the Roman office for Baptism of adults.

Ps. xxx. is the 1st Psalm of the Messianic oration of the 3rd hour.

Ps. xxxi. is the 5th in the Greek late evening-song; vss. 1—6 are the 2nd Psalm of compline.

helped : therefore my heart danceth for joy, and in my song will I praise him.

9 The Lord is my strength : and he is the wholesome defence of his Anointed.

10 O save thy people, and give thy blessing unto thine inheritance : feed them, and set them up for ever.

PSALM XXIX. Aferte Domino.

BRING unto the Lord, O ye mighty, bring young rams unto the Lord : ascribe unto the Lord worship and strength.

2 Give the Lord the honour due unto his Name : worship the Lord with holy worship.

3 It is the Lord, that commandeth the waters : it is the glorious God, that maketh the thunder.

4 It is the Lord, that ruleth the sea ; the voice of the Lord is mighty in operation : the voice of the Lord is a glorious voice.

5 The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars : yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Libanus.

6 He maketh them also to skip like a calf : Libanus also, and Sirion, like a young unicorn.

7 The voice of the Lord divideth the flames of fire ; the voice of the Lord shaketh the wilderness : yea, the Lord shaketh the wilderness of Cades.

8 The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to bring forth young, and discovereth the thick bushes : in his temple doth every man speak of his honour.

9 The Lord sitteth above the water-flood : and the Lord remaineth a King for ever.

10 The Lord shall give strength unto his people : the Lord shall give his people the blessing of peace.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XXX. Exaltabo te, Domine.

I WILL magnify thee, O Lord, for thou hast set me up : and not made my foes to triumph over me.

2 O Lord my God, I cried unto thee : and thou hast healed me.

3 Thou, Lord, hast brought my soul out of hell : thou hast kept my life from them that go down to the pit.

4 Sing praises unto the Lord, O ye saints of his : and give thanks unto him for a remembrance of his holiness.

5 For his wrath endureth but the twinkling of an eye, and in his pleasure is life : heaviness may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.

6 And in my prosperity I said, I shall never be removed : thou, Lord, of thy goodness hast made my hill so strong.

7 Thou didst turn thy face from me : and I was troubled.

8 Then cried I unto thee, O Lord : and gat me to my Lord right humbly.

9 What profit is there in my blood : when I go down to the pit ?

10 Shall the dust give thanks unto thee : or shall it declare thy truth ?

11 Hear, O Lord, and have mercy upon me : Lord, be thou my helper.

12 Thou hast turned my heaviness into joy : thou hast put off my sackcloth, and girded me with gladness.

13 Therefore shall every good man sing of thy praise without ceasing : O my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.

PSALM XXXI. In te, Domine, speravi.

IN thee, O Lord, have I put my trust : let me never be put to confusion, deliver me in thy righteousness.

2 Bow down thine ear to me : make haste to deliver me.

3 And be thou my strong rock, and house of defence : that thou mayest save me.

4 For thou art my strong rock, and my castle : be thou also my guide, and lead me for thy Name's sake.

5 Draw me out of the net, that they have laid privily for me : for thou art my strength.

6 Into thy hands I commend my spirit : for thou hast redeemed me, O Lord, thou God of truth.

7 I have hated them that hold of superstitious vanities : and my trust hath been in the Lord.

8 I will be glad, and rejoice in thy mercy : for thou hast considered my trouble, and hast known my soul in adversities.

9 Thou hast not shut me up into the hand of the enemy : but hast set my feet in a large room.

10 Have mercy upon me, O Lord, for I am in trouble : and mine eye is consumed for very heaviness ; yea, my soul and my body.

11 For my life is waxen old with heaviness : and my years with mourning.

12 My strength faileth me, because of mine iniquity : and my bones are consumed.

13 I became a reproof among all mine enemies, but especially among my neighbours : and they of mine acquaintance were afraid of me ; and they that did see me without conveyed themselves from me.

14 I am clean forgotten, as a dead man out of mind : I am become like a broken vessel.

15 For I have heard the blasphemy of the multitude : and fear is on every side, while they conspire together against me, and take their counsel to take away my life.

16 But my hope hath been in thee, O Lord : I have said, Thou art my God.

17 My time is in thy hand ; deliver me from the hand of mine enemies : and from them that persecute me.

18 Shew thy servant the light of thy countenance : and save me for thy mercy's sake.

19 Let me not be confounded, O Lord, for I have called upon thee : let the ungodly be put to confusion, and be put to silence in the grave.

20 Let the lying lips be put to silence : which cruelly, disdainfully, and despitefully, speak against the righteous.

21 O how plentiful is thy goodness, which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee : and that thou hast prepared for them that put their trust in thee, even before the sons of men !

22 Thou shalt hide them privily by thine own presence from the provoking of all men : thou shalt keep them secretly in thy tabernacle from the strife of tongues.

23 Thanks be to the Lord : for he hath shewed me marvellous great kindness in a strong city.

24 And when I made haste, I said : I am cast out of the sight of thine eyes.

N.B. The numbering of the Psalms in the foregoing index "followeth the division of the Hebrews" and of the Authorized Version. In the Vulgate the ixth and xth Psalms, according to the Hebrew, are counted as the ixth. Hence after the ixth Psalm the Hebrew numbering is one in advance of the Latin up to Ps. cxlvi. Lat.; cxlvii. Heb. The 12th verse of Ps. cxlvii, Heb. 'Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem,' is the 1st verse of Ps. cxlvii. Lat. The cxlviiith and two following Psalms are numbered alike in the Hebrew and Latin. In a Vulgate index, therefore, the Psalm, Ut quid, Domine, would be omitted and the Psalm, Lauda Ierusalem Dominum, would be inserted as the cxlviiith.

Ps. xxxii. Proper Psalm for Ash-Wednesday. It is also the 2nd Psalm of the Mesorian of the 3rd hour. It is also used after the Immersion in the Greek baptismal office.

25 Nevertheless, thou hearest the voice of my prayer : when I cried unto thee.

26 O love the Lord, all ye his saints : for the Lord preserveth them that are faithful, and plentifully rewardeth the proud doer.

27 Be strong, and he shall establish your heart : all ye that put your trust in the Lord.

Ebrning Prayer.

PSALM XXXII. Beati, quorum.

BLESSED is he whose unrighteousness is forgiven : and whose sin is covered.

2 Blessed is the man unto whom the Lord imputeth no sin : and in whose spirit there is no guile.

3 For while I held my tongue : my bones consumed away through my daily complaining.

4 For thy hand is heavy upon me day and night : and my moisture is like the drought in summer.

5 I will acknowledge my sin unto thee : and mine unrighteousness have I not hid.

6 I said, I will confess my sins unto the Lord : and so thou forgavest the wickedness of my sin.

7 For this shall every one that is godly make his prayer unto thee, in a time when thou mayest be found : but in the great water-floods they shall not come nigh him.

8 Thou art a place to hide me in, thou shalt preserve me from trouble : thou shalt compass me about with songs of deliverance.

9 I will inform thee, and teach thee in the way wherein thou shalt go : and I will guide thee with mine eye.

10 Be ye not like to horse and mule, which have no understanding : whose mouths must be held with bit and bridle, lest they fall upon thee.

11 Great plagues remain for the ungodly : but whose putteth his trust in the Lord, mercy embraceth him on every side.

12 Be glad, O ye righteous, and rejoice in the Lord : and be joyful, all ye that are true of heart.

PSALM XXXIII. Exultate, justi.

REJOICE in the Lord, O ye righteous : for it becometh well the just to be thankful.

2 Praise the Lord with harp : sing praises unto him with the lute, and instrument of ten strings.

3 Sing unto the Lord a new song : sing praises lustily unto him with a good courage.

4 For the word of the Lord is true : and all his works are faithful.

5 He loveth righteousness and judgement : the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord.

6 By the word of the Lord were the heavens made : and all the hosts of them by the breath of his mouth.

7 He gathereth the waters of the sea together, as it were upon an heap : and layeth up the deep, as in a treasure-house.

8 Let all the earth fear the Lord : stand in awe of him, all ye that dwell in the world.

9 For he spake, and it was done : he commanded, and it stood fast.

10 The Lord bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought : and maketh the devices of the people to be of none effect, and casteth out the counsels of princes.

11 The counsel of the Lord shall endure for ever : and the thoughts of his heart from generation to generation.

12 Blessed are the people, whose God is the Lord Jehovah : and blessed are the folk, that he hath chosen to him to be his inheritance.

13 The Lord looked down from heaven, and beheld all the children of men : from the habitation of his dwelling he considereth all them that dwell on the earth.

14 He fashioneth all the hearts of them : and understandeth all their works.

15 There is no king that can be saved by the multitude of an host : neither is any mighty man delivered by much strength.

16 A horse is counted but a vain thing to save a man : neither shall he deliver any man by his great strength.

17 Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him : and upon them that put their trust in his mercy ;

18 To deliver their soul from death : and to feed them in the time of dearth.

19 Our soul hath patiently tarried for the Lord : for he is our help, and our shield.

20 For our heart shall rejoice in him : because we have hoped in his holy Name.

21 Let thy merciful kindness, O Lord, be upon us : like as we do put our trust in thee.

PSALM XXXIV. Benedicam Domino.

I WILL always give thanks unto the Lord : his praise shall ever be in my mouth.

2 My soul shall make her boast in the Lord : the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad.

3 O praise the Lord with me : and let us magnify his Name together.

4 I sought the Lord, and he heard me : yea, he delivered me out of all my fear.

5 They had an eye unto him, and were lightened : and their faces were not ashamed.

6 Lo, the poor crieth, and the Lord heareth him : yea, and saveth him out of all his troubles.

7 The angel of the Lord tarrieth round about them that fear him : and delivereth them.

8 O taste, and see, how gracious the Lord is : blessed is the man that trusteth in him.

9 O fear the Lord, ye that are his saints : for they that fear him lack nothing.

10 The lions do lack, and suffer hunger : but they who seek the Lord shall want no manner of thing that is good.

11 Come, ye children, and hearken unto me : I will teach you the fear of the Lord.

12 What man is he that lusteth to live : and would fain see good days ?

13 Keep thy tongue from evil : and thy lips, that they speak no guile.

14 Eschew evil, and do good : seek peace, and ensue it.

15 The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous : and his ears are open unto their prayers.

16 The countenance of the Lord is against them that do evil : to root out the remembrance of them from the earth.

17 The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth them : and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

18 The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a contrite heart : and will save such as be of an humble spirit.

OF THE RECITAL OF THE PSALMS ACCORDING TO THE MODERN JEWISH USE.

For the following tables of Psalms according to the present use of the Jews, we are indebted to the kindness of Dr Schiller-Szinessy.

Psalms used in the Ritual of the Ashkenazim (אשכנזים), i.e. the majority of the Jews inhabiting Germany, France, Poland, the Austrian States, Holland and England, are, Daily.

At Morning Service.

Ps. cxxii. The use of this Psalm is very recent, nor is it general.

Ps. xxx. This is recited before Baruch sheamar (ברוך שאמר); its use is general, but not very ancient.

Ps. cxlv. twice said during the service;

it is considered one of the most ancient in point of use. The Talmud B. Berachoth 4, b. mentions its recital as meritorious.

Pss. cxlvi—cl., the five Hallelujahs, (הללויה), are very ancient in point of use, though not so ancient as the cxlvth.

At Afternoon Service.

Psalm cxlv.

On the Majority of the Days of the Year.

At Morning Service.

Ps. c. This Psalm is used every day with the exception of Sabbaths, Festivals, the Eve of the Passover, the half-holidays of Passover, and the Eve of the Day of Atonement.

Ps. vi. Without the superscription, i.e. v. 1. This Psalm is recited every day, with the exception of the days of Sabbaths and Festivals, New Moon (ראש חודש), the two days of both Purim (פורים), the eight days of Chanuckah¹ (חנכה), the 9th and 15th of Ab², the 15th of Shebat³, the whole month of Nissan, the 23rd of Omer⁴ (עומר), the days from the commencement of Sivan, until after Pentecost, the Eves of New Year and the Day of Atonement, and the days intervening between the Day of Atonement and the Festival of Tabernacles, the day succeeding a Festival (אמרו חג), the morning when a child is circumcised, or when a bridegroom within 7 days (ז' ימי המשתה) is present (according to some, only the marriage day).

Ps. xx. This Psalm is recited every day with the exception of Sabbaths and Festivals, New Moon, Chanuckah, Purim, both the little and the great, the eves of Festivals, their half-holidays, the day succeeding a Festival, and the 9th of Ab⁵.

Ps. lxxxiii. is recited as the concluding Psalm with the exception of the days when Psalm vi. is not recited.

At Afternoon Service.

Ps. vi. without the superscription, i.e. v. 1, is recited every day, with the exception of Sabbaths and Festivals, New Moon, Purim, Chanuckah, the 9th and 15th of Ab, the 15th of Shebat, the 33rd of Omer (in all these cases the Psalm is also not recited on the preceding afternoon), the Eve of the Day of Atonement, and the days between that day and the Festival of Tabernacles.

¹ Chanuckah חנכה is observed for 8 days in commemoration of the Makbean victory over the forces of Antiochus Epiphanes. It is called so from the rededication of the temple, and the xxxth Psalm is recited thereon, both on account of its superscription and contents.

² The 15th of Ab is a half-holiday (i.e. a day of semi-sacred observance) for several reasons; vide Talm. B. Taanith 30 b. and 31 a.

³ The 15th of Shebat is a half-holiday on account of its being 'New Year' for the trees, i.e. they commence budding on that day, &c.

⁴ The 33rd of Omer (for this name vide Lev. xxiii. 15) is observed as the 'Scholars' feast,' because on that day none of the disciples (or rather followers) of Rabbi Akiba (in Bar Kochba's rising against the Romans) died (was slain).

⁵ The 9th of Ab is the anniversary of the destruction of both temples by the Babylonians and Romans. The other fasts alluded to in these 'tables,' are mentioned in the Bible; so is also that of the 9th of Ab (Zech. viii. 19).

19 Great are the troubles of the righteous : but the Lord delivereth him out of all.

20 He keepeth all his bones : so that not one of them is broken.

21 But misfortune shall slay the ungodly : and they that hate the righteous shall be desolate.

22 The Lord delivereth the souls of his servants : and all they that put their trust in him shall not be destitute.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XXXV. Judica, Domine.

PLEAD thou my cause, O Lord, with them that strive with me : and fight thou against them that fight against me.

2 Lay hand upon the shield and buckler : and stand up to help me.

3 Bring forth the spear, and stop the way against them that persecute me : say unto my soul, I am thy salvation.

4 Let them be confounded, and put to shame, that seek after my soul : let them be turned back, and brought to confusion, that imagine mischief for me.

5 Let them be as the dust before the wind : and the angel of the Lord scattering them.

6 Let their way be dark and slippery : and let the angel of the Lord persecute them.

7 For they have privily laid their net to destroy me without a cause : yea, even without a cause have they made a pit for my soul.

8 Let a sudden destruction come upon him unawares, and his net, that he hath laid privily, catch himself : that he may fall into his own mischief.

9 And, my soul, be joyful in the Lord : it shall rejoice in his salvation.

10 All my bones shall say, Lord, who is like unto thee, who deliverest the poor from him that is too strong for him : yea, the poor, and him that is in misery, from him that spoileth him ?

11 False witnesses did rise up : they laid to my charge things that I knew not.

12 They rewarded me evil for good : to the great discomfort of my soul.

13 Nevertheless, when they were sick, I put on sackcloth, and humbled my soul with fasting : and my prayer shall turn into mine own bosom.

14 I behaved myself as though it had been my friend, or my brother : I went heavily, as one that mourneth for his mother.

15 But in mine adversity they rejoiced, and gathered themselves together : yea, the very abjects came together against me unawares, making mouths at me, and ceased not.

16 With the flatterers were busy mockers : who gnashed upon me with their teeth.

17 Lord, how long wilt thou look upon this : O deliver my soul from the calamities which they bring on me, and my darling from the lions.

18 So will I give thee thanks in the great congregation : I will praise thee among much people.

19 O let not them that are mine enemies triumph over me ungodly : neither let them wink with their eyes that hate me without a cause.

20 And why ? their communing is not for peace : but they imagine deceitful words against them that are quiet in the land.

21 They gaped upon me with their mouths, and said : Fie on thee, fie on thee, we saw it with our eyes.

22 This thou hast seen, O Lord : hold not thy tongue then, go not far from me, O Lord.

23 Awake, and stand up to judge my quarrel : avenge thou my cause, my God, and my Lord.

24 Judge me, O Lord my God, according to thy righteousness : and let them not triumph over me.

25 Let them not say in their hearts, There, there, so would we have it : neither let them say, We have devoured him.

26 Let them be put to confusion and shame together, that rejoice at my trouble : let them be clothed with rebuke and dishonour, that boast themselves against me.

27 Let them be glad and rejoice, that favour my righteous dealing : yea, let them say alway, Blessed be the Lord, who hath pleasure in the prosperity of his servant.

28 And as for my tongue, it shall be talking of thy righteousness : and of thy praise all the day long.

PSALM XXXVI. Dixit injustus.

MY heart sheweth me the wickedness of the ungodly : that there is no fear of God before his eyes.

2 For he flattereth himself in his own sight : until his abominable sin be found out.

3 The words of his mouth are unrighteous, and full of deceit : he hath left off to behave himself wisely, and to do good.

4 He imagineth mischief upon his bed, and hath set himself in no good way : neither doth he abhor any thing that is evil.

5 Thy mercy, O Lord, reacheth unto the heavens : and thy faithfulness unto the clouds.

6 Thy righteousness standeth like the strong mountains : thy judgements are like the great deep.

7 Thou, Lord, shalt save both man and beast : How excellent is thy mercy, O God : and the children of men shall put their trust under the shadow of thy wings.

8 They shall be satisfied with the plenteousness of thy house : and thou shalt give them drink of thy pleasures, as out of the river.

9 For with thee is the well of life : and in thy light shall we see light.

10 O continue forth thy loving-kindness unto them that know thee : and thy righteousness unto them that are true of heart.

11 O let not the foot of pride come against me : and let not the hand of the ungodly cast me down.

12 There are they fallen, all that work wickedness : they are cast down, and shall not be able to stand.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM XXXVII. Noli amulari.

FRET not thyself because of the ungodly : neither be thou envious against the evildoers.

2 For they shall soon be cut down like the grass : and be withered even as the green herb.

At Afternoon Service.

Ps. xxiv. is recited at the carrying back of the scroll of the Law, to which Ps. xcii. is added, if it be on a Sabbath.

Pss. civ. cxx—cxxxiv. are recited after service on the sabbaths intervening between Tabernacles and Passover.

Ps. cxxxiv. precedes the Evening Service in its Time (מעריב בזמנו), i.e.

Pss. xcv—xcix. xxix. precede the Sabbath Psalms xcii. xciii. (see above).

cxliii—cxlviii. and the great (הלל הגדול)

viz. (cxxxv. and) cxxxvi. Before Grace on week days, Psalm cxxxvii; on Sabbaths, Festivals, Marriages, &c. cxxxvi.

is recited. The pious and learned love to recite constantly the תמניא אפי, or eight fold AB. i.e. cxix., and few of these neglect to recite every day a number of Psalms, artificially divided, however, so as to recite the whole Psalter every week.

⁶ Ps. xxvii. is recited morning and evening during the month of Elul, on account of these days being the precursors of the days of judgment and atonement; the contents will justify its appointment.

Ps. xxxviii. was said in the Greek morning office as one of the series Hexapsalmus. Vss. 21 and 22 were repeated at the end of it.

It is a proper Psalm for Ash-Wednesday.

3 Put thou thy trust in the Lord, and be doing good : dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed.

4 Delight thou in the Lord : and he shall give thee thy heart's desire.

5 Commit thy way unto the Lord, and put thy trust in him : and he shall bring it to pass.

6 He shall make thy righteousness as clear as the light : and thy just dealing as the noon-day.

7 Hold thee still in the Lord, and abide patiently upon him : but grieve not thyself at him, whose way doth prosper, against the man that doeth after evil counsels.

8 Leave off from wrath, and let go displeasure : fret not thyself, else shalt thou be moved to do evil.

9 Wicked doers shall be rooted out : and they that patiently abide the Lord, those shall inherit the land.

10 Yet a little while, and the ungodly shall be clean gone : thou shalt look after his place, and he shall be away.

11 But the meek-spirited shall possess the earth : and shall be refreshed in the multitude of peace.

12 The ungodly seeketh counsel against the just : and gnasheth upon him with his teeth.

13 The Lord shall laugh him to scorn : for he hath seen that his day is coming.

14 The ungodly have drawn out the sword, and have bent their bow : to cast down the poor and needy, and to slay such as are of a right conversation.

15 Their sword shall go through their own heart : and their bow shall be broken.

16 A small thing that the righteous hath : is better than great riches of the ungodly.

17 For the arms of the ungodly shall be broken : and the Lord upholdeth the righteous.

18 The Lord knoweth the days of the godly : and their inheritance shall endure for ever.

19 They shall not be confounded in the perilous time : and in the days of dearth they shall have enough.

20 As for the ungodly, they shall perish ; and the enemies of the Lord shall consume as the fat of lambs : yea, even as the smoke, shall they consume away.

21 The ungodly borroweth, and payeth not again : but the righteous is merciful, and liberal.

22 Such as are blessed of God shall possess the land : and they that are cursed of him shall be rooted out.

23 The Lord ordereth a good man's going : and maketh his way acceptable to himself.

24 Though he fall, he shall not be cast away : for the Lord upholdeth him with his hand.

25 I have been young, and now am old : and yet saw I never the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging their bread.

26 The righteous is ever merciful, and lenient : and his seed is blessed.

27 Flee from evil, and do the thing that is good : and dwell for evermore.

28 For the Lord loveth the thing that is right : he forsaketh not his that be godly, but they are preserved for ever.

29 The unrighteous shall be punished : as for the seed of the ungodly, it shall be rooted out.

30 The righteous shall inherit the land : and dwell therein for ever.

31 The mouth of the righteous is exercised in wisdom : and his tongue will be talking of judgement.

32 The law of his God is in his heart : and his goings shall not slide.

33 The ungodly seeth the righteous : and seeketh occasion to slay him.

34 The Lord will not leave him in his hand : nor condemn him when he is judged.

35 Hope thou in the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall promote thee, that thou shalt possess the land : when the ungodly shall perish, thou shalt see it.

36 I myself have seen the ungodly in great power : and flourishing like a green bay-tree.

37 I went by, and lo, he was gone : I sought him, but his place could no where be found.

38 Keep innocency, and take heed unto the thing that is right : for that shall bring a man peace at the last.

39 As for the transgressors, they shall perish together : and the end of the ungodly is, they shall be rooted out at the last.

40 But the salvation of the righteous cometh of the Lord : who is also their strength in the time of trouble.

41 And the Lord shall stand by them, and save them : he shall deliver them from the ungodly, and shall save them, because they put their trust in him.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XXXVIII. Domine, ne in furore.

PUT me not to rebuke, O Lord, in thine anger : neither chasten me in thy heavy displeasure.

2 For thine arrows stick fast in me : and thy hand presseth me sore.

3 There is no health in my flesh, because of thy displeasure : neither is there any rest in my bones, by reason of my sin.

4 For my wickednesses are gone over my head : and are like a sore burden, too heavy for me to bear.

5 My wounds stink, and are corrupt : through my foolishness.

6 I am brought into so great trouble and misery : that I go mourning all the day long.

7 For my loins are filled with a sore disease : and there is no whole part in my body.

8 I am feeble, and sore smitten : I have roared for the very disquietness of my heart.

9 Lord, thou knowest all my desire : and my groaning is not hid from thee.

10 My heart panteth, my strength hath failed me : and the sight of mine eyes is gone from me.

11 My lovers and my neighbours did stand looking upon my trouble : and my kinsmen stood afar off.

12 They also that sought after my life laid snares for me : and they that went about to do me evil talked of wickedness, and imagined deceit all the day long.

13 As for me, I was like a deaf man, and heard not : and as one that is dumb, who doth not open his mouth.

14 I became even as a man that heareth not : and in whose mouth are no reproofs.

15 For in thee, O Lord, have I put my trust : thou shalt answer for me, O Lord my God.

16 I have required that they, even mine enemies, should not triumph over me : for when my foot slipped, they rejoiced greatly against me.

17 And I, truly, am set in the plague : and my heaviness is ever in my sight.

18 For I will confess my wickedness : and be sorry for my sin.

19 But mine enemies live, and are mighty : and they that hate me wrongfully are many in number.

20 They also that reward evil for good are against me : because I follow the thing that good is.

21 Forsake me not, O Lord my God : be not thou far from me.

22 Haste thee to help me : O Lord God of my salvation.

PSALM XXXIX. Dixi, Custodiam.

I SAID, I will take heed to my ways : that I offend not in my tongue.

2 I will keep my mouth as it were with a bridle : while the ungodly is in my sight.

3 I held my tongue, and spake nothing : I kept silence, yea, even from good words ; but it was pain and grief to me.

4 My heart was hot within me, and while I was thus musing the fire kindled : and at the last I spake with my tongue ;

5 Lord, let me know mine end, and the number of my days : that I may be certified how long I have to live.

6 Behold, thou hast made my days as it were a span long : and mine age is even as nothing in respect of thee ; and verily every man living is altogether vanity.

7 For man walketh in a vain shadow, and disquieteth himself in vain : he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who shall gather them.

8 And now, Lord, what is my hope : truly my hope is even in thee.

9 Deliver me from all mine offences : and make me not a rebuke unto the foolish.

10 I became dumb, and opened not my mouth : for it was thy doing.

11 Take thy plague away from me : I am even consumed by the means of thy heavy hand.

12 When thou with rebukes dost chasten man for sin, thou makest his beauty to consume away, like as it were a moth fretting a garment : every man therefore is but vanity.

13 Hear my prayer, O Lord, and with thine ears consider my calling : hold not thy peace at my tears.

14 For I am a stranger with thee : and a sojourner, as all my fathers were.

15 O spare me a little, that I may recover my strength : before I go hence, and be no more seen.

PSALLM XL. Expectans expectavi.

I WAITED patiently for the Lord : and he inclined unto me, and heard my calling.

2 He brought me also out of the horrible pit, out of the mire and clay : and set my feet upon the rock, and ordered my goings.

3 And he hath put a new song in my mouth : even a thanksgiving unto our God.

4 Many shall see it, and fear : and shall put their trust in the Lord.

5 Blessed is the man that hath set his hope in the Lord : and turned not unto the proud, and to such as go about with lies.

6 O Lord my God, great are the wondrous works which thou hast done, like as be also thy thoughts which are to us-ward : and yet there is no man that ordereth them unto thee.

7 If I should declare them, and speak of them : they should be more than I am able to express.

8 Sacrifice, and meat-offering, thou wouldest not : but mine ears hast thou opened.

9 Burnt-offerings, and sacrifice for sin, hast thou not required : then said I, Lo, I come.

10 In the volume of the book it is written of me, that I should fulfil thy will, O my God : I am content to do it ; yea, thy law is within my heart.

11 I have declared thy righteousness in the great congregation : lo, I will not refrain my lips, O Lord, and that thou knowest.

12 I have not hid thy righteousness within my heart : my talk hath been of thy truth, and of thy salvation.

13 I have not kept back thy loving mercy and truth : from the great congregation.

14 Withdraw not thou thy mercy from me, O Lord : let thy loving-kindness and thy truth always preserve me.

15 For innumerable troubles are come about me ; my sins have taken such hold upon me that I am not able to look up : yea, they are more in number than the hairs of my head, and my heart hath failed me.

16 O Lord, let it be thy pleasure to deliver me : make haste, O Lord, to help me.

17 Let them be ashamed, and confounded together, that seek after my soul to destroy it : let them be driven backward, and put to rebuke, that wish me evil.

18 Let them be desolate, and rewarded with shame : that say unto me, Fie upon thee, fie upon thee.

19 Let all those that seek thee be joyful and glad in thee : and let such as love thy salvation say away, The Lord be praised.

20 As for me, I am poor and needy : but the Lord careth for me.

21 Thou art my helper and redeemer : make no long tarrying, O my God.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM XLI. Beatus qui intelligit.

BLESSED is he that considereth the poor and needy : the Lord shall deliver him in the time of trouble.

2 The Lord preserve him, and keep him alive, that he may be blessed upon earth : and deliver not thou him into the will of his enemies.

3 The Lord comfort him, when he lieth sick upon his bed : make thou all his bed in his sickness.

Ps. xlii. is appointed in the Roman office for Baptism of adults.

4 I said, Lord, be merciful unto me : heal my soul, for I have sinned against thee.

5 Mine enemies speak evil of me : When shall he die, and his name perish ?

6 And if he come to see me, he speaketh vanity : and his heart conceiveth falsehood within himself, and when he cometh forth he telleth it.

7 All mine enemies whisper together against me : even against me do they imagine this evil.

8 Let the sentence of guiltiness proceed against him : and now that he lieth, let him rise up no more.

9 Yea, even mine own familiar friend, whom I trusted : who did also eat of my bread, hath laid great wait for me.

10 But be thou merciful unto me, O Lord : raise thou me up again, and I shall reward them.

11 By this I know thou favourest me : that mine enemy doth not triumph against me.

12 And when I am in my health, thou upholdest me : and shalt set me before thy face for ever.

13 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel : world without end. Amen.

PSALM XLII. Quemadmodum.

LIKE as the hart desireth the water-brooks : so longeth my soul after thee, O God.

2 My soul is athirst for God, yea, even for the living God : when shall I come to appear before the presence of God ?

3 My tears have been my meat day and night : while they daily say unto me, Where is now thy God ?

4 Now when I think thereupon, I pour out my heart by myself : for I went with the multitude, and brought them forth into the house of God ;

5 In the voice of praise and thanksgiving : among such as keep holy-day.

6 Why art thou so full of heaviness, O my soul : and why art thou so disquieted within me ?

7 Put thy trust in God : for I will yet give him thanks for the help of his countenance.

8 My God, my soul is vexed within me : therefore will I remember thee concerning the land of Jordan, and the little hill of Hermon.

9 One deep calleth another, because of the noise of the water-pipes : all thy waves and storms are gone over me.

10 The Lord hath granted his loving-kindness in the day-time : and in the night-season did I sing of him, and made my prayer unto the God of my life.

11 I will say unto the God of my strength, Why hast thou forgotten me : why go I thus heavily, while the enemy oppresseth me ?

12 My bones are smitten asunder as with a sword : while mine enemies that trouble me cast me in the teeth ;

13 Namely, while they say daily unto me : Where is now thy God ?

14 Why art thou so vexed, O my soul : and why art thou so disquieted within me ?

15 O put thy trust in God : for I will yet thank him, which is the help of my countenance, and my God.

PSALM XLIII. Judica me, Deus.

GIVE sentence with me, O God, and defend my cause against the ungodly people : O deliver me from the deceitful and wicked man.

2 For thou art the God of my strength, why hast thou put me from thee : and why go I so heavily, while the enemy oppresseth me ?

3 O send out thy light and thy truth, that they may lead me : and bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy dwelling.

4 And that I may go unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy and gladness : and upon the harp will I give thanks unto thee, O God, my God.

5 Why art thou so heavy, O my soul : and why art thou so disquieted within me ?

6 O put thy trust in God : for I will yet give him thanks, which is the help of my countenance, and my God.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XLIV. Deus, auxilius.

WE have heard with our ears, O God, our fathers have told us : what thou hast done in their time of old ;

2 How thou hast driven out the heathen with thy hand, and planted them in : how thou hast destroyed the nations, and cast them out.

3 For they gat not the land in possession through their own sword : neither was it their own arm that helped them ;

4 But thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance : because thou hadst a favour unto them.

5 Thou art my King, O God : send help unto Jacob.

6 Through thee will we overthrow our enemies : and in thy Name will we tread them under, that rise up against us.

7 For I will not trust in my bow : it is not my sword that shall help me ;

8 But it is thou that savest us from our enemies : and putteth them to confusion that hate us.

9 We make our boast of God all day long : and will praise thy Name for ever.

10 But now thou art far off, and putteth us to confusion : and goest not forth with our armies.

11 Thou makest us to turn our backs upon our enemies : so that they which hate us spoil our goods.

12 Thou lettest us be eaten up like sheep : and hast scattered us among the heathen.

13 Thou sellest thy people for nought : and takest no money for them.

14 Thou makest us to be rebuked of our neighbours : to be laughed to scorn, and had in derision of them that are round about us.

15 Thou makest us to be a by-word among the heathen : and that the people shake their heads at us.

16 My confusion is daily before me : and the shame of my face hath covered me ;

17 For the voice of the slanderer and blasphemer : for the enemy and avenger.

18 And though all this be come upon us, yet do we not forget thee : nor behave ourselves frowardly in thy covenant.

19 Our heart is not turned back : neither our steps gone out of thy way ;

20 No, not when thou hast smitten us into the place of dragons : and covered us with the shadow of death.

21 If we have forgotten the Name of our God, and holden up our hands to any strange god : shall not God search it out ? for he knoweth the very secrets of the heart.

22 For thy sake also are we killed all the day long : and are counted as sheep appointed to be slain.

23 Up, Lord, why sleepest thou : awake, and be not absent from us for ever.

24 Wherefore hidest thou thy face : and forgettest our misery and trouble ?

25 For our soul is brought low, even unto the dust : our belly cleaveth unto the ground.

26 Arise, and help us : and deliver us for thy mercy's sake.

PSALM XLV. Eruclavit cor meum.

MY heart is inditing of a good matter : I speak of the things which I have made unto the King.

2 My tongue is the pen : of a ready writer.

3 Thou art fairer than the children of men : full of grace are thy lips, because God hath blessed thee for ever.

4 Gird thee with thy sword upon thy thigh, O thou most Mighty : according to thy worship and renown.

5 Good luck have thou with thine honour : ride on, because of the word of truth, of meekness, and righteousness ; and thy right hand shall teach thee terrible things.

6 Thy arrows are very sharp, and the people shall be subdued unto thee : even in the midst among the King's enemies.

7 Thy seat, O God, endureth for ever : the sceptre of thy kingdom is a right sceptre.

8 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity : wherefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

9 All thy garments smell of myrrh, aloes, and cassia : out of the Ivory palaces, whereby they have made thee glad.

10 Kings' daughters were among thy honourable women : upon thy right hand did stand the queen in a vesture of gold, wrought about with divers colours.

11 Harken, O daughter, and consider, incline thine ear : forget also thine own people, and thy father's house.

12 So shall the King have pleasure in thy beauty : for he is thy Lord God, and worship thou him.

13 And the daughter of Tyre shall be there with a gift : like as the rich also among the people shall make their supplication before thee.

14 The King's daughter is all glorious within : her clothing is of wrought gold.

15 She shall be brought unto the King in raiment of needle-work : the virgins that be her fellows shall bear her company, and shall be brought unto thee.

16 With joy and gladness shall they be brought : and shall enter into the King's palace.

17 Instead of thy fathers thou shalt have children : whom thou mayest make princes in all lands.

18 I will remember thy Name from one generation to another : therefore shall the people give thanks unto thee, world without end.

PSALM XLVI. Deus noster refugium.

GOD is our hope and strength : a very present help in trouble.

2 Therefore will we not fear, though the earth be moved : and though the hills be carried into the midst of the sea.

3 Though the waters thereof rage and swell : and though the mountains shake at the tempest of the same.

4 The rivers of the flood thereof shall make glad the city of God : the holy place of the tabernacle of the most Highest.

5 God is in the midst of her, therefore shall she not be removed : God shall help her, and that right early.

6 The heathen make much ado, and the kingdoms are moved : but God hath shewed his voice, and the earth shall melt away.

7 The Lord of hosts is with us : the God of Jacob is our refuge.

8 O come hither, and behold the works of the Lord : what destruction he hath brought upon the earth.

9 He maketh wars to cease in all the world : he breaketh the bow, and knappeth the spear in sunder, and burneth the chariots in the fire.

10 Be still then, and know that I am God : I will be exalted among the heathen, and I will be exalted in the earth.

11 The Lord of hosts is with us : the God of Jacob is our refuge.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM XLVII. Omnes gentes, plaudite.

CLAP your hands together, all ye people : O sing unto God with the voice of melody.

2 For the Lord is high, and to be feared : he is the great King upon all the earth.

3 He shall subdue the people under us : and the nations under our feet.

4 He shall choose out an heritage for us : even the worship of Jacob, whom he loved.

5 God is gone up with a merry noise : and the Lord with the sound of the trumpet.

6 O sing praises, sing praises unto our God : O sing praises, sing praises unto our King.

7 For God is the King of all the earth : sing ye praises with understanding.

8 God reigneth over the heathen : God sitteth upon his holy seat.

9 The princes of the people are joined unto the people of the God of Abraham : for God, which is very high exalted, doth defend the earth, as it were with a shield.

PSALM XLVIII. Magnus Dominus.

GREAT is the Lord, and highly to be praised : in the city of our God, even upon his holy hill.

2 The hill of Sion is a fair place, and the joy of the whole earth : upon the north-side lieth the city of the great King ; God is well known in her palaces as a sure refuge.

3 For lo, the kings of the earth : are gathered, and gone by together.

4 They marvelled to see such things : they were astonished, and suddenly cast down.

5 Fear came there upon them, and sorrow : as upon a woman in her travail.

6 Thou shalt break the ships of the sea : through the east-wind.

7 Like as we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the Lord of hosts, in the city

Ps. li. According to Basil the night service concluded with this Psalm. He writes, 'When the day began to dawn, all together as with one mouth and one heart raise the Psalm of Confession to the Lord, to which each supplies his own private words of repentance.' Athanasius gives it this title, 'the Psalm of Confession.' Cassian relates that it was appointed at the close of matins, which was introduced as distinct from the nocturnal service. It is still sung in the Greek morning office.

It is the 1st Psalm of the Western Lauds on Mondays, the 2nd in the Benedictine. It is a Burial Psalm in the Roman use, a Psalm in the Communion of the Sick. It is the 3rd Psalm of the 3rd hour office in the East. It is also used during the late evensong and in the Visitation of the Sick, the office for the dying, the confession of Penitents, and the Burial of the Dead.

It is used in the Commination Service on Ash-Wednesday.

of our God : God upholdeth the same for ever.

8 We wait for thy loving-kindness, O God : in the midst of thy temple.

9 O God, according to thy Name, so is thy praise unto the world's end : thy right hand is full of righteousness.

10 Let the mount Sion rejoice, and the daughter of Judah be glad : because of thy judgements.

11 Walk about Sion, and go round about her : and tell the towers thereof.

12 Mark well her bulwarks, set up her houses : that ye may tell them that come after.

13 For this God is our God for ever and ever : he shall be our guide unto death.

PSALM XLIX. Audite hæc, omnes.

O HEAR ye this, all ye people : ponder it with your ears, all ye that dwell in the world ;

2 High and low, rich and poor : one with another.

3 My mouth shall speak of wisdom : and my heart shall muse of understanding.

4 I will incline mine ear to the parable : and shew my dark speech upon the harp.

5 Wherefore should I fear in the days of wickedness : and when the wickedness of my heels compasseth me round about ?

6 There be some that put their trust in their goods : and boast themselves in the multitude of their riches.

7 But no man may deliver his brother : nor make agreement unto God for him ;

8 For it cost more to redeem their souls : so that he must let that alone for ever ;

9 Yea, though he live long : and see not the grave.

10 For he seeth that wise men also die, and perish together : as well as the ignorant and foolish, and leave their riches for other.

11 And yet they think that their houses shall continue for ever : and that their dwelling-places shall endure from one generation to another ; and call the lands after their own names.

12 Nevertheless, man will not abide in honour : seeing he may be compared unto the beasts that perish ; this is the way of them.

13 This is their foolishness : and their posterity praise their saying.

14 They lie in the hell like sheep, death gnaweth upon them, and the righteous shall have domination over them in the morning : their beauty shall consume in the sepulchre out of their dwelling.

15 But God hath delivered my soul from the place of hell : for he shall receive me.

16 Be not thou afraid, though one be made rich : or if the glory of his house be increased ;

17 For he shall carry nothing away with him when he dieth : neither shall his pomp follow him.

18 For while he lived, he counted himself an happy man : and so long as thou doest well unto thyself, men will speak good of thee.

19 He shall follow the generation of his fathers : and shall never see light.

20 Man being in honour hath no understanding : but is compared unto the beasts that perish.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM L. Deus deorum.

THE Lord, even the most mighty God, hath spoken : and called the world, from the rising up of the sun, unto the going down thereof.

2 Out of Sion hath God appeared : in perfect beauty.

3 Our God shall come, and shall not keep silence : there shall go before him a consuming fire, and a mighty tempest shall be stirred up round about him.

4 He shall call the heaven from above : and the earth, that he may judge his people.

5 Gather my saints together unto me : those that have made a covenant with me with sacrifice.

6 And the heavens shall declare his righteousness : for God is Judge himself.

7 Hear, O my people, and I will speak : I myself will testify against thee, O Israel ; for I am God, even thy God.

8 I will not reprove thee because of thy sacrifices, or for thy burnt-offerings : because they were not always before me.

9 I will take no bullock out of thine house : nor he-goat out of thy folds.

10 For all the beasts of the forest are mine : and so are the cattle upon a thousand hills.

11 I know all the fowls upon the mountains : and the wild beasts of the field are in my sight.

12 If I be hungry, I will not tell thee : for the whole world is mine, and all that is therein.

13 Thinkest thou that I will eat bulls' flesh : and drink the blood of goats ?

14 Offer unto God thanksgiving : and pay thy vows unto the most Highest.

15 And call upon me in the time of trouble : so will I hear thee, and thou shalt praise me.

16 But unto the ungodly said God : Why dost thou preach my laws, and takest my covenant in thy mouth ;

17 Whereas thou hatest to be reformed : and hast cast my words behind thee ?

18 When thou sawest a thief, thou consentedst unto him : and hast been partaker with the adulterers.

19 Thou hast let thy mouth speak wickedness : and with thy tongue thou hast set forth deceit.

20 Thou satest, and spakest against thy brother : yea, and hast slandered thine own mother's son.

21 These things hast thou done, and I held my tongue, and thou thoughtest wickedly, that I am even such a one as thyself : but I will reprove thee, and set before thee the things that thou hast done.

22 O consider this, ye that forget God : lest I pluck you away, and there be none to deliver you.

23 Whoso offereth me thanks and praise, he honoureth me : and to him that ordereth his conversation right will I shew the salvation of God.

PSALM LI. Miserere mei, Deus.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, after thy great goodness : according to the multitude of thy mercies do away mine offences.

Ps. liv. is the 1st Psalm at the Sixth Hour. It is appointed also in the Greek office for the Visitation of the Sick.

It is a fixed Psalm at Prime, Sunday and Week Day. It is a proper Psalm for Good Friday in the English Ritual.

2 Wash me thoroughly from my wickedness : and cleanse me from my sin.

3 For I acknowledge my faults : and my sin is ever before me.

4 Against thee only have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight : that thou mightest be justified in thy saying, and clear when thou art judged.

5 Behold, I was shapen in wickedness : and in sin hath my mother conceived me.

6 But lo, thou requirest truth in the inward parts : and shalt make me to understand wisdom secretly.

7 Thou shalt purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean : thou shalt wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

8 Thou shalt make me hear of joy and gladness : that the bones which thou hast broken may rejoice.

9 Turn thy face from my sins : and put out all my misdeeds.

10 Make me a clean heart, O God : and renew a right spirit within me.

11 Cast me not away from thy presence : and take not thy holy Spirit from me.

12 O give me the comfort of thy help again : and establish me with thy free Spirit.

13 Then shall I teach thy ways unto the wicked : and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

14 Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O God, thou that art the God of my health : and my tongue shall sing of thy righteousness.

15 Thou shalt open my lips, O Lord : and my mouth shall shew thy praise.

16 For thou desirest no sacrifice, else would I give it thee : but thou delightest not in burnt-offerings.

17 The sacrifice of God is a troubled spirit : a broken and contrite heart, O God, shalt thou not despise.

18 O be favourable and gracious unto Sion : build thou the walls of Jerusalem.

19 Then shalt thou be pleased with the sacrifice of righteousness, with the burnt-offerings and oblations : then shall they offer young bullocks upon thine altar.

PSALM LII. Quid gloriaris ?

WHY boastest thou thyself, thou tyrant : that thou canst do mischief ;

2 Whereas the goodness of God : endureth yet daily ?

3 Thy tongue imagineth wickedness : and with lies thou cuttest like a sharp razor.

4 Thou hast loved unrighteousness more than goodness : and to talk of lies more than righteousness.

5 Thou hast loved to speak all words that may do hurt : O thou false tongue.

6 Therefore shall God destroy thee for ever : he shall take thee, and pluck thee out of thy dwelling, and root thee out of the land of the living.

7 The righteous also shall see this, and fear : and shall laugh him to scorn ;

8 Lo, this is the man that took not God for his strength : but trusted unto the multitude of his riches, and strengthened himself in his wickedness.

9 As for me, I am like a green olive-tree in the house of God : my trust is in the tender mercy of God for ever and ever.

10 I will always give thanks unto thee for that thou hast done : and I will hope in thy Name, for thy saints like it well.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM LIII. Dixit insipiens.

THE foolish body hath said in his heart : There is no God.

2 Corrupt are they, and become abominable in their wickedness : there is none that doeth good.

3 God looked down from heaven upon the children of men : to see if there were any, that would understand, and seek after God.

4 But they are all gone out of the way, they are altogether become abominable : there is also none that doeth good, no not one.

5 Are not they without understanding that work wickedness : eating up my people as if they would eat bread ? they have not called upon God.

6 They were afraid where no fear was : for God hath broken the bones of him that besieged thee ; thou hast put them to confusion, because God hath despised them.

7 Oh, that the salvation were given unto Israel out of Sion : Oh, that the Lord would deliver his people out of captivity !

8 Then should Jacob rejoice : and Israel should be right glad.

PSALM LIV. Deus, in Nomine.

SAVE me, O God, for thy Name's sake : and avenge me in thy strength.

2 Hear my prayer, O God : and hearken unto the words of my mouth.

3 For strangers are risen up against me : and tyrants, which have not God before their eyes, seek after my soul.

4 Behold, God is my helper : the Lord is with them that uphold my soul.

5 He shall reward evil unto mine enemies : destroy thou them in thy truth.

6 An offering of a free heart will I give thee, and praise thy Name, O Lord : because it is so comfortable.

7 For he hath delivered me out of all my trouble : and mine eye hath seen his desire upon mine enemies.

PSALM LV. Exaudi, Deus.

HEAR my prayer, O God : and hide not thyself from my petition.

2 Take heed unto me, and hear me : how I mourn in my prayer, and am vexed.

3 The enemy crieth so, and the ungodly cometh on so fast : for they are minded to do me some mischief ; so maliciously are they set against me.

4 My heart is disquieted within me : and the fear of death is fallen upon me.

5 Fearfulness and trembling are come upon me : and an horrible dread hath overwhelmed me.

6 And I said, O that I had wings like a dove : for then would I flee away, and be at rest.

7 Lo, then would I get me away far off : and remain in the wilderness.

8 I would make haste to escape : because of the stormy wind and tempest.

9 Destroy their tongues, O Lord, and divide them : for I have spied unrighteousness and strife in the city.

10 Day and night they go about within the walls thereof : mischief also and sorrow are in the midst of it.

11 Wickedness is therein : deceit and guile go not out of their streets.

12 For it is not an open enemy, that hath done me this dishonour : for then I could have borne it.

13 Neither was it mine adversary, that did magnify himself against me : for then peradventure I would have hid myself from him.

14 But it was even thou, my companion : my guide, and mine own familiar friend.

15 We took sweet counsel together : and walked in the house of God as friends.

16 Let death come hastily upon them, and let them go down quick into hell : for wickedness is in their dwellings, and among them.

17 As for me, I will call upon God : and the Lord shall save me.

18 In the evening, and morning, and at noon-day will I pray, and that instantly : and he shall hear my voice.

19 It is he that hath delivered my soul in peace from the battle that was against me : for there were many with me.

20 Yea, even God, that endureth for ever, shall hear me, and bring them down : for they will not turn, nor fear God.

21 He laid his hands upon such as be at peace with him : and he brake his covenant.

22 The words of his mouth were softer than butter, having war in his heart : his words were smoother than oil, and yet be they very swords.

23 O cast thy burden upon the Lord, and he shall nourish thee : and shall not suffer the righteous to fall for ever.

24 And as for them : thou, O God, shalt bring them into the pit of destruction.

25 The blood-thirsty and deceitful men shall not live out half their days : nevertheless, my trust shall be in thee, O Lord.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM LVI. Miserere mei, Deus.

BE merciful unto me, O God, for man goeth about to devour me : he is daily fighting, and troubling me.

2 Mine enemies are daily in hand to swallow me up : for they be many that fight against me, O thou most Highest.

3 Nevertheless, though I am sometime afraid : yet put I my trust in thee.

4 I will praise God, because of his word : I have put my trust in God, and will not fear what flesh can do unto me.

5 They daily mistake my words : all that they imagine is to do me evil.

6 They hold all together, and keep themselves close : and mark my steps, when they lay wait for my soul.

7 Shall they escape for their wickedness : thou, O God, in thy displeasure shalt cast them down.

8 Thou tellest my flittings : put my tears into thy bottle : are not these things noted in thy book ?

9 Whensoever I call upon thee, then shall mine enemies be put to flight : this I know ; for God is on my side.

10 In God's word will I rejoice : in the Lord's word will I comfort me.

11 Yea, in God have I put my trust : I will not be afraid what man can do unto me.

12 Unto thee, O God, will I pay my vows : unto thee will I give thanks.

13 For thou hast delivered my soul from death, and my feet from falling : that I may walk before God in the light of the living.

PSALM LVII. Miserere mei, Deus.

BE merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me, for my soul trusteth in thee : and under the shadow of thy wings shall be my refuge, until this tyranny be over-past.

2 I will call unto the most high God : even unto the God that shall perform the cause which I have in hand.

3 He shall send from heaven : and save me from the reproof of him that would eat me up.

4 God shall send forth his mercy and truth : my soul is among lions.

5 And I lie even among the children of men, that are set on fire : whose teeth are spears and arrows, and their tongue a sharp sword.

6 Set up thyself, O God, above the heavens : and thy glory above all the earth.

7 They have laid a net for my feet, and pressed down my soul : they have digged a pit before me, and are fallen into the midst of it themselves.

8 My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed : I will sing, and give praise.

9 Awake up, my glory ; awake, lute and harp : I myself will awake right early.

10 I will give thanks unto thee, O Lord, among the people : and I will sing unto thee among the nations.

11 For the greatness of thy mercy reacheth unto the heavens : and thy truth unto the clouds.

12 Set up thyself, O God, above the heavens : and thy glory above all the earth.

PSALM LVIII. Si vere utique.

ARE your minds set upon righteousness, O ye congregation : and do ye judge the thing that is right, O ye sons of men ?

2 Yea, ye imagine mischief in your heart upon the earth : and your hands deal with wickedness.

3 The ungodly are froward, even from their mother's womb : as soon as they are born, they go astray, and speak lies.

4 They are as venomous as the poison of a serpent : even like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ears ;

5 Which refuseth to hear the voice of the charmer : charm he never so wisely.

6 Break their teeth, O God, in their mouths ; smite the jaw-bones of the lions, O Lord : let them fall away like water that runneth apace ; and when they shoot their arrows let them be rooted out.

7 Let them consume away like a snail, and be like the untimely fruit of a woman : and let them not see the sun.

8 Or ever your pots be made hot with thorns : so let indignation vex him, even as a thing that is raw.

9 The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance : he shall wash his footsteps in the blood of the ungodly.

Ps. lxi. is the 3rd Psalm in the Mesorian of the 3rd hour. It is appointed in the Greek office for the Visitation of the Sick. According to the Apost. Const. Morning Prayer began with Ps. lxiii. The 1st verse suggests it as appropriate. Chrysostom and Cassian also mention it as serving this purpose; and Athanasius commends it as suitable likewise for early morning devotions.

is a reward for the righteous : doubtless there is a God that judgeth the earth.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM LIX. Eripe me de inimicis.

DELIVER me from mine enemies, O God : defend me from them that rise up against me.

2 O deliver me from the wicked doers : and save me from the blood-thirsty men.

3 For lo, they lie waiting for my soul : the mighty men are gathered against me, without any offence or fault of me, O Lord.

4 They run and prepare themselves without my fault : arise thou therefore to help me, and behold.

5 Stand up, O Lord God of hosts, thou God of Israel, to visit all the heathen : and be not merciful unto them that offend of malicious wickedness.

6 They go to and fro in the evening : they grin like a dog, and run about through the city.

7 Behold, they speak with their mouth, and swords are in their lips : for who doth hear ?

8 But thou, O Lord, shalt have them in derision : and thou shalt laugh all the heathen to scorn.

9 My strength will I ascribe unto thee : for thou art the God of my refuge.

10 God sheweth me his goodness plentifully : and God shall let me see my desire upon mine enemies.

11 Slay them not, lest my people forget it : but scatter them abroad among the people, and put them down, O Lord, our defence.

12 For the sin of their mouth, and for the words of their lips, they shall be taken in their pride : and why ? their preaching is of cursing and lies.

13 Consume them in thy wrath, consume them, that they may perish : and know that it is God that ruleth in Jacob, and unto the ends of the world.

14 And in the evening they will return : grin like a dog, and will go about the city.

15 They will run here and there for meat : and grudge if they be not satisfied.

16 As for me, I will sing of thy power, and will praise thy mercy betimes in the morning : for thou hast been my defence and refuge in the day of my trouble.

17 Unto thee, O my strength, will I sing : for thou, O God, art my refuge, and my merciful God.

PSALM LX. Deus, repulisti nos.

O GOD, thou hast cast us out, and scattered us abroad : thou hast also been displeas'd ; O turn thee unto us again.

2 Thou hast moved the land, and divided it : heal the sores thereof, for it shaketh.

3 Thou hast shewed thy people heavy things : thou hast given us a drink of deadly wine.

4 Thou hast given a token for such as fear thee : that they may triumph because of the truth.

5 Therefore were thy beloved delivered : help me with thy right hand, and hear me.

6 God hath spoken in his holiness, I will rejoice, and divide Sichem : and mete out the valley of Succoth.

7 Gilead is mine, and Manasses is mine : Ephraim also is the strength of my head ; Judah is my law-giver ;

8 Moab is my wash-pot ; over Edom will I cast out my shoe : Philistia, be thou glad of me.

9 Who will lead me into the strong city : who will bring me into Edom ?

10 Hast not thou cast us out, O God : wilt not thou, O God, go out with our hosts ?

11 O be thou our help in trouble : for vain is the help of man.

12 Through God will we do great acts : for it is he that shall tread down our enemies.

PSALM LXI. Exaudi, Deus.

HEAR my crying, O God : give ear unto my prayer.

2 From the ends of the earth will I call upon thee : when my heart is in heaviness.

3 O set me up upon the rock that is higher than I : for thou hast been my hope, and a strong tower for me against the enemy.

4 I will dwell in thy tabernacle for ever : and my trust shall be under the covering of thy wings.

5 For thou, O Lord, hast heard my desires : and hast given an heritage unto those that fear thy Name.

6 Thou shalt grant the King a long life : that his years may endure throughout all generations.

7 He shall dwell before God for ever : O prepare thy loving mercy and faithfulness, that they may preserve him.

8 So will I always sing praise unto thy Name : that I may daily perform my vows.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM LXII. Nonne Deo ?

MY soul truly waiteth still upon God : for of him cometh my salvation.

2 He verily is my strength and my salvation : he is my defence, so that I shall not greatly fall.

3 How long will ye imagine mischief against every man : ye shall be slain all the sort of you ; yea, as a tottering wall shall ye be, and like a broken hedge.

4 Their device is only how to put him out whom God will exalt : their delight is in lies ; they give good words with their mouth, but curse with their heart.

5 Nevertheless, my soul, wait thou still upon God : for my hope is in him.

6 He truly is my strength and my salvation : he is my defence, so that I shall not fall.

7 In God is my health, and my glory : the rock of my might, and in God is my trust.

8 O put your trust in him always, ye people : pour out your hearts before him, for God is our hope.

9 As for the children of men, they are but vanity : the children of men are deceitful upon the weights, they are altogether lighter than vanity itself.

10 O trust not in wrong and robbery, give not yourselves unto vanity : if riches increase, set not your heart upon them.

11 God spake once, and twice I have also heard the same : that power belongeth unto God ;

Ps. lxi. is the 3rd Psalm of the Greek Hexapsalmus, said at the morning office. The last two verses are repeated. It is also the 3rd Psalm at Sunday Lauds in the Western office; again it is the 2nd Psalm after the 51st at Monday Lauds; the 4th in the Benedictine Sunday Lauds.

Pss. lxxv—lxxvii. are used in the Greek Nocturns for Saturdays.

12 And that thou, Lord, art merciful : for thou rewardest every man according to his work.

PSALM LXIII. Deus, Deus meus.

O GOD, thou art my God : early will I seek thee.

3 My soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh also longeth after thee : in a barren and dry land where no water is.

3 Thus have I looked for thee in holiness : that I might behold thy power and glory.

4 For thy loving-kindness is better than the life itself : my lips shall praise thee.

5 As long as I live will I magnify thee on this manner : and lift up my hands in thy Name.

6 My soul shall be satisfied, even as it were with marrow and fatness : when my mouth praiseth thee with joyful lips.

7 Have I not remembered thee in my bed : and thought upon thee when I was waking ?

8 Because thou hast been my helper : therefore under the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice.

9 My soul hangeth upon thee : thy right hand hath upholden me.

10 These also that seek the hurt of my soul : they shall go under the earth.

11 Let them fall upon the edge of the sword : that they may be a portion for foxes.

12 But the King shall rejoice in God ; all they also that swear by him shall be commended : for the mouth of them that speak lies shall be stopped.

PSALM LXIV. Exaudi, Deus.

HEAR my voice, O God, in my prayer : preserve my life from fear of the enemy.

2 Hide me from the gathering together of the froward ; and from the insurrection of wicked doers ;

3 Who have whet their tongue like a sword : and shoot out their arrows, even bitter words ;

4 That they may privily shoot at him that is perfect : suddenly do they hit him, and fear not.

5 They encourage themselves in mischief : and commune among themselves how they may lay snares, and say, that no man shall see them.

6 They imagine wickedness, and practise it : that they keep secret among themselves, every man in the deep of his heart.

7 But God shall suddenly shoot at them with a swift arrow : that they shall be wounded.

8 Yea, their own tongues shall make them fall : inasmuch that whoso seeth them shall laugh them to scorn.

9 And all men that see it shall say, This hath God done : for they shall perceive that it is his work.

10 The righteous shall rejoice in the Lord, and put his trust in him : and all they that are true of heart shall be glad.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM LXV. Te decet hymnus.

THOU, O God, art praised in Sion : and unto thee shall the vow be performed in Jerusalem.

2 Thou that hearest the prayer : unto thee shall all flesh come.

3 My misdeeds prevail against me : O be thou merciful unto our sins.

4 Blessed is the man, whom thou choosest, and receivest unto thee : he shall dwell in thy court, and shall be satisfied with the pleasures of thy house, even of thy holy temple.

5 Thou shalt shew us wonderful things in thy righteousness, O God of our salvation : thou that art the hope of all the ends of the earth, and of them that remain in the broad sea.

6 Who in his strength setteth fast the mountains : and is girded about with power.

7 Who stilleth the raging of the sea : and the noise of his waves, and the madness of the people.

8 They also that dwell in the uttermost parts of the earth shall be afraid at thy tokens : thou that makest the outgoings of the morning and evening to praise thee.

9 Thou visitest the earth, and blessest it : thou makest it very plenteous.

10 The river of God is full of water : thou preparest their corn, for so thou providest for the earth.

11 Thou waterest her furrows, thou sendest rain into the little valleys thereof : thou makest it soft with the drops of rain, and blessest the increase of it.

12 Thou crownest the year with thy goodness : and thy clouds drop fatness.

13 They shall drop upon the dwellings of the wilderness : and the little hills shall rejoice on every side.

14 The folds shall be full of sheep : the valleys also shall stand so thick with corn, that they shall laugh and sing.

PSALM LXVI. Jubilate Deo.

O BE joyful in God, all ye lands : sing praises unto the honour of his Name, make his praise to be glorious.

2 Say unto God, O how wonderful art thou in thy works : through the greatness of thy power shall thine enemies be found liars unto thee.

3 For all the world shall worship thee : sing of thee, and praise thy Name.

4 O come hither, and behold the works of God : how wonderful he is in his doing toward the children of men.

5 He turned the sea into dry land : so that they went through the water on foot ; there did we rejoice thereof.

6 He ruleth with his power for ever ; his eyes behold the people : and such as will not believe shall not be able to exalt themselves.

7 O praise our God, ye people : and make the voice of his praise to be heard ;

8 Who holdeth our soul in life : and suffereth not our feet to slip.

9 For thou, O God, hast proved us : thou also hast tried us, like as silver is tried.

10 Thou broughtest us into the snare : and laidest trouble upon our loins.

11 Thou sufferedst men to ride over our heads : we went through fire and water, and thou broughtest us out into a wealthy place.

12 I will go into thine house with burnt-offerings : and will pay thee my vows, which I promised with my lips, and spake with my mouth, when I was in trouble.

Ps. lxxvii. was the 4th Psalm of Sunday Lauds in the West. In the Benedictine Scheme it was the 1st Psalm of Sunday Lauds. It is appointed in the office for Matrimony.

Ps. lxxviii. A Proper Psalm for Whitsunday.

13 I will offer unto thee fat burnt-sacrifices, with the incense of rams : I will offer bullocks and goats.

14 O come hither, and hearken, all ye that fear God : and I will tell you what he hath done for my soul.

15 I called unto him with my mouth : and gave him praises with my tongue.

16 If I incline unto wickedness with mine heart : the Lord will not hear me.

17 But God hath heard me : and considered the voice of my prayer.

18 Praised be God who hath not cast out my prayer : nor turned his mercy from me.

PSALM LXVII. Deus misericorditer.

GOD be merciful unto us, and bless us : and shew us the light of his countenance, and be merciful unto us ;

2 That thy way may be known upon earth : thy saving health among all nations.

3 Let the people praise thee, O God : yea, let all the people praise thee.

4 O let the nations rejoice and be glad : for thou shalt judge the folk righteously, and govern the nations upon earth.

5 Let the people praise thee, O God : let all the people praise thee.

6 Then shall the earth bring forth her increase : and God, even our own God, shall give us his blessing.

7 God shall bless us : and all the ends of the world shall fear him.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM LXVIII. Exurgat Deus.

LET God arise, and let his enemies be scattered : let them also that hate him flee before him.

2 Like as the smoke vanisheth, so shalt thou drive them away : and like as wax melteth at the fire, so let the ungodly perish at the presence of God.

3 But let the righteous be glad and rejoice before God : let them also be merry and joyful.

4 O sing unto God, and sing praises unto his Name : magnify him that rideth upon the heavens, as it were upon an horse ; praise him in his Name JAH, and rejoice before him.

5 He is a Father of the fatherless, and defendeth the cause of the widows : even God in his holy habitation.

6 He is the God that maketh men to be of one mind in an house, and bringeth the prisoners out of captivity : but letteth the runagates continue in scarceness.

7 O God, when thou wentest forth before the people : when thou wentest through the wilderness,

8 The earth shook, and the heavens dropped at the presence of God : even as Sinai also was moved at the presence of God, who is the God of Israel.

9 Thou, O God, sentest a gracious rain upon thine inheritance : and refreshedst it when it was weary.

10 Thy congregation shall dwell therein : for thou, O God, hast of thy goodness prepared for the poor.

11 The Lord gave the word : great was the company of the preachers.

12 Kings with their armies did flee, and were discomfited : and they of the household divided the spoil.

13 Though ye have lien among the pots, yet shall ye be as the wings of a dove : that is covered with silver wings, and her feathers like gold.

14 When the Almighty scattered kings for their sake : then were they as white as snow in Salmon.

15 As the hill of Basan, so is God's hill : even an high hill, as the hill of Basan.

16 Why hop ye so, ye high hills ? this is God's hill, in the which it pleaseth him to dwell : yea, the Lord will abide in it for ever.

17 The chariots of God are twenty thousand, even thousands of angels : and the Lord is among them, as in the holy place of Sinai.

18 Thou art gone up on high, thou hast led captivity captive, and received gifts for men : yea, even for thine enemies, that the Lord God might dwell among them.

19 Praised be the Lord daily : even the God who helpeth us, and poureth his benefits upon us.

20 He is our God, even the God of whom cometh salvation : God is the Lord, by whom we escape death.

21 God shall wound the head of his enemies : and the hairy scalp of such a one as goeth on still in his wickedness.

22 The Lord hath said, I will bring my people again, as I did from Basan : mine own will I bring again, as I did sometime from the deep of the sea.

23 That thy foot may be dipped in the blood of thine enemies : and that the tongue of thy dogs may be red through the same.

24 It is well seen, O God, how thou goest : how thou, my God and King, goest in the sanctuary.

25 The singers go before, the minstrels follow after : in the midst are the damsels playing with the timbrels.

26 Give thanks, O Israel, unto God the Lord in the congregations : from the ground of the heart.

27 There is little Benjamin their ruler, and the princes of Judah their counsel : the princes of Zabulon, and the princes of Nephthali.

28 Thy God hath sent forth strength for thee : stablish the thing, O God, that thou hast wrought in us, 29 For thy temple's sake at Jerusalem : so shall kings bring presents unto thee.

30 When the company of the spear-men, and multitude of the mighty are scattered abroad among the beasts of the people, so that they humbly bring pieces of silver : and when he hath scattered the people that delight in war ;

31 Then shall the princes come out of Egypt : the Morians' land shall soon stretch out her hands unto God.

32 Sing unto God, O ye kingdoms of the earth : O sing praises unto the Lord ;

33 Who sitteth in the heavens over all from the beginning : lo, he doth send out his voice, yea, and that a mighty voice.

34 Ascribe ye the power to God over Israel : his worship, and strength is in the clouds.

35 O God, wonderful art thou in thy holy places : even the God of Israel ; he will give strength and power unto his people ; blessed be God.

Ps. lxi. A Proper Psalm for Good-Friday.

Ps. lxx. is the 3rd Psalm of the Mesorion of the 6th hour. It is also used in the late evensong and in the Greek office for the Dying.

Ps. lxxi. is appointed in the office for the Visitation of the Sick.

Ver. 7. of Ps. lxxi. concludes the Psalmody of the Eastern office for the 1st hour.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM LXIX. Salvum me fac.

SAVE me, O God : for the waters are come in, even unto my soul.

2 I stick fast in the deep mire, where no ground is : I am come into deep waters, so that the floods run over me.

3 I am weary of crying ; my throat is dry : my sight faileth me for waiting so long upon my God.

4 They that hate me without a cause are more than the hairs of my head : they that are mine enemies, and would destroy me guiltless, are mighty.

5 I paid them the things that I never took : God, thou knowest my simpleness, and my faults are not hid from thee.

6 Let not them that trust in thee, O Lord God of hosts, be ashamed for my cause : let not those that seek thee be confounded through me, O Lord God of Israel.

7 And why ? for thy sake have I suffered reproof : shame hath covered my face.

8 I am become a stranger unto my brethren : even an alien unto my mother's children.

9 For the zeal of thine house hath even eaten me : and the rebukes of them that rebuked thee are fallen upon me.

10 I wept, and chastened myself with fasting : and that was turned to my reproof.

11 I put on sackcloth also : and they jested upon me.

12 They that sit in the gate speak against me : and the drunkards make songs upon me.

13 But, Lord, I make my prayer unto thee : in an acceptable time.

14 Hear me, O God, in the multitude of thy mercy : even in the truth of thy salvation.

15 Take me out of the mire, that I sink not : O let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters.

16 Let not the water-flood drown me, neither let the deep swallow me up : and let not the pit shut her mouth upon me.

17 Hear me, O Lord, for thy loving-kindness is comfortable : turn thee unto me according to the multitude of thy mercies.

18 And hide not thy face from thy servant, for I am in trouble : O haste thee, and hear me.

19 Draw nigh unto my soul, and save it : O deliver me, because of mine enemies.

20 Thou hast known my reproof, my shame, and my dishonour : mine adversaries are all in thy sight.

21 Thy rebuke hath broken my heart ; I am full of heaviness : I looked for some to have pity on me, but there was no man, neither found I any to comfort me.

22 They gave me gall to eat : and when I was thirsty they gave me vinegar to drink.

23 Let their table be made a snare to take themselves withal : and let the things that should have been for their wealth be unto them an occasion of falling.

24 Let their eyes be blinded, that they see not : and ever bow thou down their backs.

25 Pour out thine indignation upon them : and let thy wrathful displeasure take hold of them.

26 Let their habitation be void : and no man to dwell in their tents.

27 For they persecute him whom thou hast smitten : and they talk how they may vex them whom thou hast wounded.

28 Let them fall from one wickedness to another : and not come into thy righteousnessness.

29 Let them be wiped out of the book of the living : and not be written among the righteous.

30 As for me, when I am poor and in heaviness : thy help, O God, shall lift me up.

31 I will praise the Name of God with a song : and magnify it with thanksgiving.

32 This also shall please the Lord : better than a bullock that hath horns and hoofs.

33 The humble shall consider this, and be glad : seek ye after God, and your soul shall live.

34 For the Lord heareth the poor : and despiseth not his prisoners.

35 Let heaven and earth praise him : the sea, and all that moveth therein.

36 For God will save Sion, and build the cities of Judah : that men may dwell there, and have it in possession.

37 The posterity also of his servants shall inherit it : and they that love his Name shall dwell therein.

PSALM LXX. Deus in adiutorium.

HASTE thee, O God, to deliver me : make haste to help me, O Lord.

2 Let them be ashamed and confounded that seek after my soul : let them be turned backward and put to confusion that wish me evil.

3 Let them for their reward be soon brought to shame : that cry over me, There, there.

4 But let all those that seek thee be joyful and glad in thee : and let all such as delight in thy salvation say alway, The Lord be praised.

5 As for me, I am poor and in misery : haste thee unto me, O God.

6 Thou art my helper, and my redeemer : O Lord, make no long tarrying.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM LXXI. In te, Domine, speravi.

IN thee, O Lord, have I put my trust, let me never be put to confusion : but rid me, and deliver me, in thy righteousness ; incline thine ear unto me, and save me.

2 Be thou my strong hold, whereunto I may alway resort : thou hast promised to help me, for thou art my house of defence, and my castle.

3 Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the ungodly : out of the hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.

4 For thou, O Lord God, art the thing that I long for : thou art my hope, even from my youth.

5 Through thee have I been holden up ever since I was born : thou art he that took me out of my mother's womb ; my praise shall be always of thee.

6 I am become as it were a monster unto many : but my sure trust is in thee.

7 O let my mouth be filled with thy praise : that I may sing of thy glory and honour all the day long.

8 Cast me not away in the time of age : forsake me not when my strength falleth me.

9 For mine enemies speak against me, and they that lay wait for my soul take their counsel together, saying : God hath forsaken him ; persecute him, and take him, for there is none to deliver him.

10 Go not far from me, O God : my God, haste thee to help me.

11 Let them be confounded and perish that are against my soul : let them be covered with shame and dishonour that seek to do me evil.

12 As for me, I will patiently abide always : and will praise thee more and more.

13 My mouth shall daily speak of thy righteousness and salvation : for I know no end thereof.

14 I will go forth in the strength of the Lord God : and will make mention of thy righteousness only.

15 Thou, O God, hast taught me from my youth up until now : therefore will I tell of thy wondrous works.

16 Forsake me not, O God, in mine old age, when I am gray-headed : until I have shewed thy strength unto this generation, and thy power to all them that are yet for to come.

17 Thy righteousness, O God, is very high : and great things are they that thou hast done ; O God, who is like unto thee ?

18 O what great troubles and adversities hast thou shewed me ! and yet didst thou turn and refresh me : yea, and broughtest me from the deep of the earth again.

19 Thou hast brought me to great honour : and comforted me on every side.

20 Therefore will I praise thee and thy faithfulness, O God, playing upon an instrument of musick : unto thee will I sing upon the harp, O thou Holy One of Israel.

21 My lips will be fain when I sing unto thee : and so will my soul whom thou hast delivered.

22 My tongue also shall talk of thy righteousness all the day long : for they are confounded and brought unto shame that seek to do me evil.

PSALM LXXII. Deus, iudicium.

GIVE the King thy judgements, O God : and thy righteousness unto the King's son.

2 Then shall he judge thy people according to right : and defend the poor.

3 The mountains also shall bring peace : and the little hills righteousness unto the people.

4 He shall keep the simple folk by their right : defend the children of the poor, and punish the wrong doer.

5 They shall fear thee, as long as the sun and moon endureth : from one generation to another.

6 He shall come down like the rain into a fleece of wool : even as the drops that water the earth.

7 In his time shall the righteous flourish : yea, and abundance of peace, so long as the moon endureth.

8 His dominion shall be also from the one sea to the other : and from the flood unto the world's end.

9 They that dwell in the wilderness shall kneel before him : his enemies shall lick the dust.

10 The kings of Tharsis and of the isles shall give presents : the kings of Arabia and Saba shall bring gifts.

11 All kings shall fall down before him : all nations shall do him service.

12 For he shall deliver the poor when he crieth : the needy also, and him that hath no helper.

13 He shall be favourable to the simple and needy : and shall preserve the souls of the poor.

14 He shall deliver their souls from falsehood and wrong : and dear shall their blood be in his sight.

15 He shall live, and unto him shall be given of the gold of Arabia : prayer shall be made ever unto him, and daily shall he be praised.

16 There shall be an heap of corn in the earth, high upon the hills : his fruit shall shake like Libanus, and shall be green in the city like grass upon the earth.

17 His Name shall endure for ever ; his Name shall remain under the sun among the posterities : which shall be blessed through him ; and all the heathen shall praise him.

18 Blessed be the Lord God, even the God of Israel : which only doeth wondrous things ;

19 And blessed be the Name of his Majesty for ever : and all the earth shall be filled with his Majesty. Amen, Amen.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM LXXIII. Quam bonus Israel!

TRULY God is loving unto Israel : even unto such as are of a clean heart.

2 Nevertheless, my feet were almost gone : my treadings had well-nigh slipt.

3 And why ? I was grieved at the wicked : I do also see the ungodly in such prosperity.

4 For they are in no peril of death : but are lusty and strong.

5 They come in no misfortune like other folk : neither are they plagued like other men.

6 And this is the cause that they are so holden with pride : and overwhelmed with cruelty.

7 Their eyes swell with fatness : and they do even what they lust.

8 They corrupt other, and speak of wicked blasphemy : their talking is against the most High.

9 For they stretch forth their mouth unto the heaven : and their tongue goeth through the world.

10 Therefore fall the people unto them : and thereout suck they no small advantage.

11 Tush, say they, how should God perceive it : is there knowledge in the most High ?

12 Lo, these are the ungodly, these prosper in the world, and these have riches in possession : and I said, Then have I cleansed my heart in vain, and washed mine hands in innocency.

13 All the day long have I been punished : and chastened every morning.

14 Yea, and I had almost said even as they : but lo, then I should have condemned the generation of thy children.

15 Then thought I to understand this : but it was too hard for me,

16 Until I went into the sanctuary of God : then understood I the end of these men ;

17 Namely, how thou dost set them in slippery places : and castest them down, and destroyest them.

18 Oh, how suddenly do they consume : perish, and come to a fearful end !

19 Yea, even like as a dream when one awaketh : so shalt thou make their image to vanish out of the city.

20 Thus my heart was grieved : and it went even through my reins.

21 So foolish was I, and ignorant : even as it were a beast before thee.

22 Nevertheless, I am always by thee : for thou hast holden me by my right hand.

23 Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel : and after that receive me with glory.

24 Whom have I in heaven but thee : and there is none upon earth that I desire in comparison of thee.

25 My flesh and my heart faileth : but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever.

26 For lo, they that forsake thee shall perish : thou hast destroyed all them that commit fornication against thee.

27 But it is good for me to hold me fast by God, to put my trust in the Lord God : and to speak of all thy works in the gates of the daughter of Sion.

PSALM LXXIV. Ut quid, Deus ?

O GOD, wherefore art thou absent from us so long : why is thy wrath so hot against the sheep of thy pasture ?

2 O think upon thy congregation : whom thou hast purchased, and redeemed of old.

3 Think upon the tribe of thine inheritance : and mount Sion, wherein thou hast dwelt.

4 Lift up thy feet, that thou mayest utterly destroy every enemy : which hath done evil in thy sanctuary.

5 Thine adversaries roar in the midst of thy congregations : and set up their banners for tokens.

6 He that hewed timber afore out of the thick trees : was known to bring it to an excellent work.

7 But now they break down all the carved work thereof : with axes and hammers.

8 They have set fire upon thy holy places : and have defiled the dwelling-place of thy Name, even unto the ground.

9 Yea, they said in their hearts, Let us make havock of them altogether : thus have they burnt up all the houses of God in the land.

10 We see not our tokens, there is not one prophet more : no, not one is there among us, that understandeth any more.

11 O God, how long shall the adversary do this dishonour : how long shall the enemy blaspheme thy Name, for ever ?

12 Why withdrawest thou thy hand : why pluckest thou not thy right hand out of thy bosom to consume the enemy ?

13 For God is my King of old : the help that is done upon earth he doeth it himself.

14 Thou didst divide the sea through thy power : thou brakest the heads of the dragons in the waters.

15 Thou smotest the heads of Leviathan in pieces : and gavest him to be meat for the people in the wilderness.

16 Thou broughtest out fountains and waters out of the hard rocks : thou driedst up mighty waters.

17 The day is thine, and the night is thine : thou hast prepared the light and the sun.

18 Thou hast set all the borders of the earth : thou hast made summer and winter.

19 Remember this, O Lord, how the enemy hath rebuked : and how the foolish people hath blasphemed thy Name.

20 O deliver not the soul of thy turtle-dove unto the multitude of the enemies : and forget not the congregation of the poor for ever.

21 Look upon the covenant : for all the earth is full of darkness, and cruel habitations.

22 O let not the simple go away ashamed : but let the poor and needy give praise unto thy Name.

23 Arise, O God, maintain thine own cause : remember how the foolish man blasphemeth thee daily.

24 Forget not the voice of thine enemies : the presumption of them that hate thee increaseth ever more and more.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM LXXV. Confitebimur tibi.

UNTO thee, O God, do we give thanks : yea, unto thee do we give thanks.

2 Thy Name also is so high : and that do thy wondrous works declare.

3 When I receive the congregation : I shall judge according unto right.

4 The earth is weak, and all the inhabitants thereof : I bear up the pillars of it.

5 I said unto the fools, Deal not so madly : and to the ungodly, Set not up your horn.

6 Set not up your horn on high : and speak not with a stiff neck.

7 For promotion cometh neither from the east, nor from the west : nor yet from the south.

8 And why ? God is the Judge : he putteth down one, and setteth up another.

9 For in the hand of the Lord there is a cup, and the wine is red : it is full mixed, and he poureth out of the same.

10 As for the dregs thereof : all the ungodly of the earth shall drink them, and suck them out.

11 But I will talk of the God of Jacob : and praise him for ever.

12 All the horns of the ungodly also will I break : and the horns of the righteous shall be exalted.

PSALM LXXVI. Notus in Judæa.

IN Jewry is God known : his Name is great in Israel.

2 At Salem is his tabernacle : and his dwelling in Sion.

3 There brake he the arrows of the bow : the shield, the sword, and the battle.

4 Thou art of more honour and might : than the hills of the robbers.

5 The proud are robbed, they have slept their sleep : and all the men whose hands were mighty have found nothing.

6 At thy rebuke, O God of Jacob : both the chariot and horse are fallen.

7 Thou, even thou art to be feared : and who may stand in thy sight when thou art angry ?

8 Thou didst cause thy judgement to be heard from heaven : the earth trembled, and was still,

9 When God arose to judgement : and to help all the meek upon earth.

10 The fierceness of man shall turn to thy praise : and the fierceness of them shalt thou refrain.

11 Promise unto the Lord your God, and keep it, all ye that are round about him : bring presents unto him that ought to be feared.

12 He shall refrain the spirit of princes : and is wonderful among the kings of the earth.

PSALM LXXVII. Voce mea ad Dominum.

I WILL cry unto God with my voice : even unto God will I cry with my voice, and he shall hearken unto me.

2 In the time of my trouble I sought the Lord : my sore ran, and ceased not in the night-season ; my soul refused comfort.

3 When I am in heaviness, I will think upon God : when my heart is vexed, I will complain.

4 Thou holdest mine eyes waking : I am so feeble, that I cannot speak.

5 I have considered the days of old : and the years that are past.

6 I call to remembrance my song : and in the night I commune with mine own heart, and search out my spirits.

7 Will the Lord absent himself for ever : and will he be no more intreated ?

8 Is his mercy clean gone for ever : and is his promise come utterly to an end for evermore ?

9 Hath God forgotten to be gracious : and will he shut up his loving-kindness in displeasure ?

10 And I said, It is mine own infirmity : but I will remember the years of the right hand of the most Highest.

11 I will remember the works of the Lord : and call to mind thy wonders of old time.

12 I will think also of all thy works : and my talking shall be of thy doings.

13 Thy way, O God, is holy : who is so great a God as our God ?

14 Thou art the God that doeth wonders : and hast declared thy power among the people.

15 Thou hast mightily delivered thy people : even the sons of Jacob and Joseph.

16 The waters saw thee, O God, the waters saw thee, and were afraid : the depths also were troubled.

17 The clouds poured out water, the air thundered : and thine arrows went abroad.

18 The voice of thy thunder was heard round about : the lightnings shone upon the ground ; the earth was moved, and shook withal.

19 Thy way is in the sea, and thy paths in the great waters : and thy footsteps are not known.

20 Thou leddest thy people like sheep : by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM LXXVIII. Attendite, popule.

HEAR my law, O my people : incline your ears unto the words of my mouth.

2 I will open my mouth in a parable : I will declare hard sentences of old ;

3 Which we have heard and known : and such as our fathers have told us ;

4 That we should not hide them from the children of the generations to come : but to shew the honour of the Lord, his mighty and wonderful works that he hath done.

5 He made a covenant with Jacob, and gave Israel a law : which he commanded our forefathers to teach their children ;

6 That their posterity might know it : and the children which were yet unborn ;

7 To the intent that when they came up : they might shew their children the same ;

8 That they might put their trust in God : and not to forget the works of God, but to keep his commandments ;

9 And not to be as their forefathers, a faithless and stubborn generation : a generation that set not their heart aright, and whose spirit cleaveth not stedfastly unto God ;

10 Like as the children of Ephraim : who being harnessed, and carrying bows, turned themselves back in the day of battle.

11 They kept not the covenant of God : and would not walk in his law ;

12 But forgot what he had done : and the wonderful works that he had shewed for them.

13 Marvellous things did he in the sight of our forefathers, in the land of Egypt : even in the field of Zoan.

14 He divided the sea, and let them go through : he made the waters to stand on an heap.

15 In the day-time also he led them with a cloud : and all the night through with a light of fire.

16 He clave the hard rocks in the wilderness : and gave them drink thereof, as it had been out of the great depth.

17 He brought waters out of the stony rock : so that it gushed out like the rivers.

18 Yet for all this they sinned more against him : and provoked the most Highest in the wilderness.

19 They tempted God in their hearts : and required meat for their lust.

20 They spake against God also, saying : Shall God prepare a table in the wilderness ?

21 He smote the stony rock indeed, that the water gushed out, and the streams flowed withal : but can he give bread also, or provide flesh for his people ?

22 When the Lord heard this, he was wroth : so the fire was kindled in Jacob, and there came up heavy displeasure against Israel ;

23 Because they believed not in God : and put not their trust in his help.

24 So he commanded the clouds above : and opened the doors of heaven.

25 He rained down manna also upon them for to eat : and gave them food from heaven.

26 So man did eat angels' food : for he sent them meat enough.

27 He caused the east-wind to blow under heaven : and through his power he brought in the south-west-wind.

28 He rained flesh upon them as thick as dust : and feathered fowls like as the sand of the sea.

29 He let it fall among their tents : even round about their habitation.

30 So they did eat, and were well filled ; for he gave them their own desire : they were not disappointed of their lust.

31 But while the meat was yet in their mouths, the heavy wrath of God came upon them, and slew the wealthiest of them : yea, and smote down the chosen men that were in Israel.

32 But for all this they sinned yet more : and believed not his wondrous works.

33 Therefore their days did he consume in vanity : and their years in trouble.

34 When he slew them, they sought him : and turned them early, and inquired after God.

35 And they remembered that God was their strength : and that the high God was their redeemer.

36 Nevertheless, they did but flatter him with their mouth : and dissembled with him in their tongue.

37 For their heart was not whole with him : neither continued they stedfast in his covenant.

38 But he was so merciful, that he forgave their misdeeds : and destroyed them not.

39 Yea, many a time turned he his wrath away : and would not suffer his whole displeasure to arise.

40 For he considered that they were but flesh : and that they were even a wind that passeth away, and cometh not again.

41 Many a time did they provoke him in the wilderness : and grieved him in the desert.

42 They turned back, and tempted God : and moved the Holy One in Israel.

43 They thought not of his hand : and of the day when he delivered them from the hand of the enemy ;

44 How he had wrought his miracles in Egypt : and his wonders in the field of Zoan.

45 He turned their waters into blood : so that they might not drink of the rivers.

46 He sent lice among them, and devoured them up : and frogs to destroy them.

47 He gave their fruit unto the caterpillar : and their labour unto the grasshopper.

48 He destroyed their vines with hail-stones : and their mulberry-trees with the frost.

49 He smote their cattle also with hail-stones : and their flocks with hot thunderbolts.

50 He cast upon them the furiousness of his wrath, anger, displeasure, and trouble : and sent evil angels among them.

51 He made a way to his indignation, and spared not their soul from death : but gave their life over to the pestilence ;

52 And smote all the first-born in Egypt : the most principal and mightiest in the dwellings of Ham.

53 But as for his own people, he led them forth like sheep : and carried them in the wilderness like a flock.

54 He brought them out safely, that they should not fear : and overwhelmed their enemies with the sea.

55 And brought them within the borders of his sanctuary : even to his mountain which he purchased with his right hand.

56 He cast out the heathen also before them : caused their land to be divided among them for an heritage, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents.

57 So they tempted, and displeased the most high God : and kept not his testimonies ;

58 But turned their backs, and fell away like their forefathers : starting aside like a broken bow.

59 For they grieved him with their hill-altars : and provoked him to displeasure with their images.

60 When God heard this, he was wroth : and took sore displeasure at Israel.

61 So that he forsook the tabernacle in Silo : even the tent that he had pitched among men.

62 He delivered their power into captivity : and their beauty into the enemy's hand.

63 He gave his people over also unto the sword : and was wroth with his inheritance.

64 The fire consumed their young men : and their maidens were not given to marriage.

65 Their priests were slain with the sword : and there were no widows to make lamentation.

66 So the Lord awaked as one out of sleep : and like a giant refreshed with wine.

67 He smote his enemies in the hinder parts : and put them to a perpetual shame.

68 He refused the tabernacle of Joseph : and chose not the tribe of Ephraim ;

69 But chose the tribe of Judah : even the hill of Sion which he loved.

70 And there he built his temple on high : and laid the foundation of it like the ground which he hath made continually.

71 He chose David also his servant : and took him away from the sheep-folds.

72 As he was following the ewes great with young ones he took him : that he might feed Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritance.

73 So he fed them with a faithful and true heart : and ruled them prudently with all his power.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM LXXIX. Deus, venerunt.

O GOD, the heathen are come into thine inheritance : thy holy temple have they defiled, and made Jerusalem an heap of stones.

2 The dead bodies of thy servants have they given to be meat unto the fowls of the air : and the flesh of thy saints unto the beasts of the land.

3 Their blood have they shed like water on every side of Jerusalem : and there was no man to bury them.

4 We are become an open shame to our enemies : a very scorn and derision unto them that are round about us.

5 Lord, how long wilt thou be angry : shall thy jealousy burn like fire for ever ?

Ps. lxxxi. was sung in the Temple Service on the 5th day of the week throughout the year. It was also sung on the New-Year's Day morning service.

Ps. lxxxii. was sung in the Temple Service on the 3rd day of the week throughout the year.

6 Pour out thine indignation upon the heathen that have not known thee : and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy Name.

7 For they have devoured Jacob : and laid waste his dwelling-place.

8 O remember not our old sins, but have mercy upon us, and that soon : for we are come to great misery.

9 Help us, O God of our salvation, for the glory of thy Name : O deliver us, and be merciful unto our sins, for thy Name's sake.

10 Wherefore do the heathen say : Where is now their God ?

11 O let the vengeance of thy servants' blood that is shed : be openly shewed upon the heathen in our sight.

12 O let the sorrowful sighing of the prisoners come before thee : according to the greatness of thy power, preserve thou those that are appointed to die.

13 And for the blasphemy wherewith our neighbours have blasphemed thee : reward thou them, O Lord, seven-fold into their bosom.

14 So we, that are thy people, and sheep of thy pasture, shall give thee thanks for ever : and will always be shewing forth thy praise from generation to generation.

PSALM LXXX. Qui regis Israel.

HEAR, O thou Shepherd of Israel, thou that ledest Joseph like a sheep : shew thyself also, thou that sittest upon the cherubims.

2 Before Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasses : stir up thy strength, and come, and help us.

3 Turn us again, O God : shew the light of thy countenance, and we shall be whole.

4 O Lord God of hosts : how long wilt thou be angry with thy people that prayeth ?

5 Thou feedest them with the bread of tears : and givest them plenteousness of tears to drink.

6 Thou hast made us a very strife unto our neighbours : and our enemies laugh us to scorn.

7 Turn us again, thou God of hosts : shew the light of thy countenance, and we shall be whole.

8 Thou hast brought a vine out of Egypt : thou hast cast out the heathen, and planted it.

9 Thou madest room for it : and when it had taken root it filled the land.

10 The hills were covered with the shadow of it : and the boughs thereof were like the goodly cedar-trees.

11 She stretched out her branches unto the sea : and her boughs unto the river.

12 Why hast thou then broken down her hedge : that all they that go by pluck off her grapes ?

13 The wild boar out of the wood doth root it up : and the wild beasts of the field devour it.

14 Turn thee again, thou God of hosts, look down from heaven : behold, and visit this vine ;

15 And the place of the vineyard that thy right hand hath planted : and the branch that thou madest so strong for thyself.

16 It is burnt with fire, and cut down : and they shall perish at the rebuke of thy countenance.

17 Let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand : and upon the son of man, whom thou madest so strong for thine own self.

18 And so will not we go back from thee : O let us live, and we shall call upon thy Name.

19 Turn us again, O Lord God of hosts : shew the light of thy countenance, and we shall be whole.

PSALM LXXXI. Exultate Deo.

SING we merrily unto God our strength : make a cheerful noise unto the God of Jacob.

2 Take the psalm, bring hither the tabret : the merry harp with the lute.

3 Blow up the trumpet in the new-moon : even in the time appointed, and upon our solemn feast-day.

4 For this was made a statute for Israel : and a law of the God of Jacob.

5 This he ordained in Joseph for a testimony : when he came out of the land of Egypt, and had heard a strange language.

6 I eased his shoulder from the burden : and his hands were delivered from making the pots.

7 Thou calledst upon me in troubles, and I delivered thee : and heard thee what time as the storm fell upon thee.

8 I proved thee also : at the waters of strife.

9 Hear, O my people, and I will assure thee, O Israel : if thou wilt hearken unto me,

10 There shall no strange god be in thee : neither shalt thou worship any other god.

11 I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt : open thy mouth wide, and I shall fill it.

12 But my people would not hear my voice : and Israel would not obey me.

13 So I gave them up unto their own hearts' lusts : and let them follow their own imaginations.

14 O that my people would have hearkened unto me : for if Israel had walked in my ways, 15 I should soon have put down their enemies : and turned my hand against their adversaries.

16 The haters of the Lord should have been found liars : but their time should have endured for ever.

17 He should have fed them also with the finest wheat-flour : and with honey out of the stony rock should I have satisfied thee.

Ebrning Prayer.

PSALM LXXXII. Deus stetit.

GOD standeth in the congregation of princes : he is a Judge among gods.

2 How long will ye give wrong judgement : and accept the persons of the ungodly ?

3 Defend the poor and fatherless : see that such as are in need and necessity have right.

4 Deliver the out-cast and poor : save them from the hand of the ungodly.

5 They will not be learned nor understand, but walk on still in darkness : all the foundations of the earth are out of course.

6 I have said, Ye are gods : and ye are all the children of the most Highest.

7 But ye shall die like men : and fall like one of the princes.

8 Arise, O God, and judge thou the earth :

Ps. lxxxv. is the 2nd Psalm of the 9th Hour office in the East. It is a Proper Psalm for Christmas-Day.

Ps. lxxxvi. is the 3rd Psalm of the 9th Hour office in the East. It is also one appointed in the Roman office for the Visitation of the Sick.

for thou shalt take all heathen to thine inheritance.

PSALM LXXXIII. Deus, quis similis!
HOLD not thy tongue, O God, keep not still silence : refrain not thyself, O God.

2 For lo, thine enemies make a murmuring : and they that hate thee have lift up their head.

3 They have imagined craftily against thy people : and taken counsel against thy secret ones.

4 They have said, Come, and let us root them out, that they be no more a people : and that the name of Israel may be no more in remembrance.

5 For they have cast their heads together with one consent : and are confederate against thee ;

6 The tabernacles of the Edomites, and the Ismaelites : the Moabites, and Hagarens ;

7 Gebal, and Ammon, and Amalek : the Philistines, with them that dwell at Tyre.

8 Assur also is joined with them : and have holpen the children of Lot.

9 But do thou to them as unto the Madianites : unto Sisera, and unto Jabin at the brook of Kison ;

10 Who perished at Endor : and became as the dung of the earth.

11 Make them and their princes like Oreb and Zeb : yea, make all their princes like as Zeba and Salmana ;

12 Who say, Let us take to ourselves : the houses of God in possession.

13 O my God, make them like unto a wheel : and as the stubble before the wind ;

14 Like as the fire that burneth up the wood : and as the flame that consumeth the mountains.

15 Persecute them even so with thy tempest : and make them afraid with thy storm.

16 Make their faces ashamed, O Lord : that they may seek thy Name.

17 Let them be confounded and vexed ever more and more : let them be put to shame, and perish.

18 And they shall know that thou, whose Name is Jehovah : art only the most Highest over all the earth.

PSALM LXXXIV. Quam dilecta!
OHOW amiable are thy dwellings : thou Lord of hosts !

2 My soul hath a desire and longing to enter into the courts of the Lord : my heart and my flesh rejoice in the living God.

3 Yea, the sparrow hath found her an house, and the swallow a nest where she may lay her young : even thy altars, O Lord of hosts, my King and my God.

4 Blessed are they that dwell in thy house : they will be always praising thee.

5 Blessed is the man whose strength is in thee : in whose heart are thy ways.

6 Who going through the vale of misery use it for a well : and the pools are filled with water.

7 They will go from strength to strength : and unto the God of gods appeareth every one of them in Sion.

8 O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer : hearken, O God of Jacob.

9 Behold, O God our defender : and look upon the face of thine Anointed.

10 For one day in thy courts : is better than a thousand.

11 I had rather be a door-keeper in the house of my God : than to dwell in the tents of ungodliness.

12 For the Lord God is a light and defence : the Lord will give grace and worship, and no good thing shall he withhold from them that live a godly life.

13 O Lord God of hosts : blessed is the man that putteth his trust in thee.

PSALM LXXXV. Benedixisti, Domine.
LORD, thou art become gracious unto thy land : thou hast turned away the captivity of Jacob.

2 Thou hast forgiven the offence of thy people : and covered all their sins.

3 Thou hast taken away all thy displeasure : and turned thyself from thy wrathful indignation.

4 Turn us then, O God our Saviour : and let thine anger cease from us.

5 Wilt thou be displeased at us for ever : and wilt thou stretch out thy wrath from one generation to another ?

6 Wilt thou not turn again, and quicken us : that thy people may rejoice in thee ?

7 Shew us thy mercy, O Lord : and grant us thy salvation.

8 I will hearken what the Lord God will say concerning me : for he shall speak peace unto his people, and to his saints, that they turn not again.

9 For his salvation is nigh them that fear him : that glory may dwell in our land.

10 Mercy and truth are met together : righteousness and peace have kissed each other.

11 Truth shall flourish out of the earth : and righteousness hath looked down from heaven.

12 Yea, the Lord shall shew loving-kindness : and our land shall give her increase.

13 Righteousness shall go before him : and he shall direct his going in the way.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM LXXXVI. Inclina, Domine.
BOW down thine ear, O Lord, and hear me : for I am poor, and in misery.

2 Preserve thou my soul, for I am holy : my God, save thy servant that putteth his trust in thee.

3 Be merciful unto me, O Lord : for I will call daily upon thee.

4 Comfort the soul of thy servant : for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.

5 For thou, Lord, art good and gracious : and of great mercy unto all them that call upon thee.

6 Give ear, Lord, unto my prayer : and ponder the voice of my humble desires.

7 In the time of my trouble I will call upon thee : for thou hearest me.

8 Among the gods there is none like unto thee, O Lord : there is not one that can do as thou doest.

9 All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship thee, O Lord : and shall glorify thy Name.

10 For thou art great, and doest wondrous things : thou art God alone.

11 Teach me thy way, O Lord, and I will walk in thy truth : O knit my heart unto thee, that I may fear thy Name.

12 I will thank thee, O Lord my God, with all my heart : and will praise thy Name for evermore.

13 For great is thy mercy toward me : and thou hast delivered my soul from the nethermost hell.

14 O God, the proud are risen against me : and the congregations of naughty men have sought after my soul, and have not set thee before their eyes.

15 But thou, O Lord God, art full of compassion and mercy : long-suffering, plentiful in goodness and truth.

16 O turn thee then unto me, and have mercy upon me : give thy strength unto thy servant, and help the son of thine handmaid.

17 Shew some token upon me for good, that they who hate me may see it, and be ashamed : because thou, Lord, hast holpen me, and comforted me.

PSALM LXXXVII. Fundamenta ejus.

HER foundations are upon the holy hills : the Lord loveth the gates of Sion more than all the dwellings of Jacob.

2 Very excellent things are spoken of thee : thou city of God.

3 I will think upon Rahab and Babylon : with them that know me.

4 Behold ye the Philistines also : and they of Tyre, with the Morians ; io, there was he born.

5 And of Sion it shall be reported that he was born in her : and the most High shall establish her.

6 The Lord shall rehearse it when he writeth unto the people : that he was born there.

7 The singers also and trumpeters shall he rehearse : All my fresh springs shall be in thee.

PSALM LXXXVIII. Domine Deus.

OLORD God of my salvation, I have cried day and night before thee : O let my prayer enter into thy presence, incline thine ear unto my calling.

2 For my soul is full of trouble : and my life draweth nigh unto hell.

3 I am counted as one of them that go down into the pit : and I have been even as a man that hath no strength.

4 Free among the dead, like unto them that are wounded, and lie in the grave : who are out of remembrance, and are cut away from thy hand.

5 Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit : in a place of darkness, and in the deep.

6 Thine indignation lieth hard upon me : and thou hast vexed me with all thy storms.

7 Thou hast put away mine acquaintance far from me : and made me to be abhorred of them.

8 I am so fast in prison : that I cannot get forth.

9 My sight faileth for very trouble : Lord, I have called dally upon thee, I have stretched forth my hands unto thee.

10 Dost thou shew wonders among the dead : or shall the dead rise up again, and praise thee ?

11 Shall thy loving-kindness be shewed in the grave : or thy faithfulness in destruction ?

12 Shall thy wondrous works be known in the dark : and thy righteousness in the land where all things are forgotten ?

13 Unto thee have I cried, O Lord : and early shall my prayer come before thee.

14 Lord, why abhorrest thou my soul : and hidest thou thy face from me ?

15 I am in misery, and like unto him that is at the point to die : even from my youth up thy terrors have I suffered with a troubled mind.

16 Thy wrathful displeasure goeth over me : and the fear of thee hath undone me.

17 They came round about me daily like water : and compassed me together on every side.

18 My lovers and friends hast thou put away from me : and hid mine acquaintance out of my sight.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM LXXXIX. Misericordias Domini.

MY song shall be alway of the loving-kindness of the Lord : with my mouth will I ever be shewing thy truth from one generation to another.

2 For I have said, Mercy shall be set up for ever : thy truth shalt thou stablish in the heavens.

3 I have made a covenant with my chosen : I have sworn unto David my servant ;

4 Thy seed will I stablish for ever : and set up thy throne from one generation to another.

5 O Lord, the very heavens shall praise thy wondrous works : and thy truth in the congregation of the saints.

6 For who is he among the clouds : that shall be compared unto the Lord ?

7 And what is he among the gods : that shall be like unto the Lord ?

8 God is very greatly to be feared in the council of the saints : and to be had in reverence of all them that are round about him.

9 O Lord God of hosts, who is like unto thee : thy truth, most mighty Lord, is on every side.

10 Thou rulest the raging of the sea : thou stillest the waves thereof when they arise.

11 Thou hast subdued Egypt, and destroyed it : thou hast scattered thine enemies abroad with thy mighty arm.

12 The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine : thou hast laid the foundation of the round world, and all that therein is.

13 Thou hast made the north and the south : Tabor and Hermon shall rejoice in thy Name.

14 Thou hast a mighty arm : strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand.

15 Righteousness and equity are the habitation of thy seat : mercy and truth shall go before thy face.

16 Blessed is the people, O Lord, that can rejoice in thee : they shall walk in the light of thy countenance.

17 Their delight shall be daily in thy Name : and in thy righteousness shall they make their boast.

18 For thou art the glory of their strength : and in thy loving-kindness thou shall lift up our horns.

19 For the Lord is our defence : the Holy One of Israel is our King.

Ps. xci. is the 3rd Psalm at the Sixth Hour office in the East. It is also used in the Burial Service, and is the 6th in the Greek Late Evensong. It is likewise the 3rd in Compline, and one of those appointed in the Roman Visitation of the Sick.

20 Thou spakest sometime in visions unto thy saints, and saidst : I have laid help upon one that is mighty ; I have exalted one chosen out of the people.

21 I have found David my servant : with my holy oil have I anointed him.

22 My hand shall hold him fast : and my arm shall strengthen him.

23 The enemy shall not be able to do him violence : the son of wickedness shall not hurt him.

24 I will smite down his foes before his face : and plague them that hate him.

25 My truth also and my mercy shall be with him : and in my Name shall his horn be exalted.

26 I will set his dominion also in the sea : and his right hand in the floods.

27 He shall call me, Thou art my Father : my God, and my strong salvation.

28 And I will make him my first-born : higher than the kings of the earth.

29 My mercy will I keep for him for evermore : and my covenant shall stand fast with him.

30 His seed also will I make to endure for ever : and his throne as the days of heaven.

31 But if his children forsake my law : and walk not in my judgements ;

32 If they break my statutes, and keep not my commandments : I will visit their offences with the rod, and their sin with scourges.

33 Nevertheless, my loving-kindness will I not utterly take from him : nor suffer my truth to fail.

34 My covenant will I not break, nor alter the thing that is gone out of my lips : I have sworn once by my holiness, that I will not fail David.

35 His seed shall endure for ever : and his seat is like as the sun before me.

36 He shall stand fast for evermore as the moon : and as the faithful witness in heaven.

37 But thou hast abhorred and forsaken thine Anointed : and art displeas'd at him.

38 Thou hast broken the covenant of thy servant : and cast his crown to the ground.

39 Thou hast overthrown all his hedges : and broken down his strong holds.

40 All they that go by spoil him : and he is become a reproach to his neighbours.

41 Thou hast set up the right hand of his enemies : and made all his adversaries to rejoice.

42 Thou hast taken away the edge of his sword : and givest him not victory in the battle.

43 Thou hast put out his glory : and cast his throne down to the ground.

44 The days of his youth hast thou shortened : and covered him with dishonour.

45 Lord, how long wilt thou hide thyself, for ever : and shall thy wrath burn like fire ?

46 O remember how short my time is : wherefore hast thou made all men for nought ?

47 What man is he that liveth, and shall not see death : and shall he deliver his soul from the hand of hell ?

48 Lord, where are thy old loving-kindnesses : which thou swarest unto David in thy truth ?

49 Remember, Lord, the rebuke that thy servants have : and how I do bear in my bosom the rebukes of many people ;

50 Wherewith thine enemies have blasphemed thee, and slandered the footsteps of thine Anointed : Praised be the Lord for evermore. Amen, and Amen.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XC. Domine, refugium.

LORD, thou hast been our refuge : from one generation to another.

2 Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever the earth and the world were made : thou art God from everlasting, and world without end.

3 Thou turnest man to destruction : again thou sayest, Come again, ye children of men.

4 For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday : seeing that is past as a watch in the night.

5 As soon as thou scatterest them they are even as a sleep : and fade away suddenly like the grass.

6 In the morning it is green, and groweth up : but in the evening it is cut down, dried up, and withered.

7 For we consume away in thy displeasure : and are afraid at thy wrathful indignation.

8 Thou hast set our misdeeds before thee : and our secret sins in the light of thy countenance.

9 For when thou art angry all our days are gone : we bring our years to an end, as it were a tale that is told.

10 The days of our age are threescore years and ten ; and though men be so strong that they come to fourscore years : yet is their strength then but labour and sorrow ; so soon passeth it away, and we are gone.

11 But who regardeth the power of thy wrath : for even thereafter as a man feareth, so is thy displeasure.

12 So teach us to number our days : that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

13 Turn thee again, O Lord, at the last : and be gracious unto thy servants.

14 O satisfy us with thy mercy, and that soon : so shall we rejoice and be glad all the days of our life.

15 Comfort us again now after the time that thou hast plagued us : and for the years wherein we have suffered adversity.

16 Shew thy servants thy work : and their children thy glory.

17 And the glorious Majesty of the Lord our God be upon us : prosper thou the work of our hands upon us, O prosper thou our handy-work.

PSALM XCI. Qui habitat.

WHOSO dwelleth under the defence of the most High : shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

2 I will say unto the Lord, Thou art my hope, and my strong hold : my God, in him will I trust.

3 For he shall deliver thee from the snare of the hunter : and from the noisome pestilence.

4 He shall defend thee under his wings, and thou shalt be safe under his feathers : his faithfulness and truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

5 Thou shalt not be afraid for any terror by night : nor for the arrow that flieth by day ;

Ps. xcii. is entitled a Psalm or Song for the Sabbath-day. It was used on the Sabbath in the Temple Service throughout the year. This Psalm occurs in the Mesorion of the 1st hour. It is also used at Lauds on Saturday throughout the West.

Ps. xciii. is the 1st of the Sunday Laud Psalms in the Western office. It occurs as the 3rd Psalm of the Mesorion of the 1st hour.

Ps. xciv. was a constant Psalm for the 4th day of the week in the Temple Service throughout the year.

6 For the pestilence that walketh in darkness : nor for the sickness that destroyeth in the noon-day.

7 A thousand shall fall beside thee, and ten thousand at thy right hand : but it shall not come nigh thee.

8 Yea, with thine eyes shalt thou behold : and see the reward of the ungodly.

9 For thou, Lord, art my hope : thou hast set thine house of defence very high.

10 There shall no evil happen unto thee : neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling.

11 For he shall give his angels charge over thee : to keep thee in all thy ways.

12 They shall bear thee in their hands : that thou hurt not thy foot against a stone.

13 Thou shalt go upon the lion and adder : the young lion and the dragon shalt thou tread under thy feet.

14 Because he hath set his love upon me, therefore will I deliver him : I will set him up, because he hath known my Name.

15 He shall call upon me, and I will hear him : yea, I am with him in trouble ; I will deliver him, and bring him to honour.

16 With long life will I satisfy him : and shew him my salvation.

PSALM XCII. Bonum est confiteri.

IT is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord : and to sing praises unto thy Name, O most Highest ;

2 To tell of thy loving-kindness early in the morning : and of thy truth in the night-season ;

3 Upon an instrument of ten strings, and upon the lute : upon a loud instrument, and upon the harp.

4 For thou, Lord, hast made me glad through thy works : and I will rejoice in giving praise for the operations of thy hands.

5 O Lord, how glorious are thy works : thy thoughts are very deep.

6 An unwise man doth not well consider this : and a fool doth not understand it.

7 When the ungodly are green as the grass, and when all the workers of wickedness do flourish : then shall they be destroyed for ever ; but thou, Lord, art the most Highest for evermore.

8 For lo, thine enemies, O Lord, lo, thine enemies shall perish : and all the workers of wickedness shall be destroyed.

9 But mine horn shall be exalted like the horn of an unicorn : for I am anointed with fresh oil.

10 Mine eye also shall see his lust of mine enemies : and mine ear shall hear his desire of the wicked that arise up against me.

11 The righteous shall flourish like a palm-tree : and shall spread abroad like a cedar in Libanus.

12 Such as are planted in the house of the Lord : shall flourish in the courts of the house of our God.

13 They also shall bring forth more fruit in their age : and shall be fat and well-liking.

14 That they may shew how true the Lord my strength is : and that there is no unrighteousness in him.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM XCIII. Dominus regnavit.

THE Lord is King, and hath put on glorious apparel : the Lord hath put on his apparel, and girded himself with strength.

2 He hath made the round world so sure : that it cannot be moved.

3 Ever since the world began hath thy seat been prepared : thou art from everlasting.

4 The floods are risen, O Lord, the floods have lift up their voice : the floods lift up their waves.

5 The waves of the sea are mighty, and rage horribly : but yet the Lord, who dwelleth on high, is mightier.

6 Thy testimonies, O Lord, are very sure : holiness becometh thine house for ever.

PSALM XCIV. Deus ultionum.

OLORD God, to whom vengeance belongeth : thou God, to whom vengeance belongeth, shew thyself.

2 Arise, thou Judge of the world : and reward the proud after their deserving.

3 Lord, how long shall the ungodly : how long shall the ungodly triumph ?

4 How long shall all wicked doers speak so disdainfully : and make such proud boasting ?

5 They smite down thy people, O Lord : and trouble thine heritage.

6 They murder the widow, and the stranger : and put the fatherless to death.

7 And yet they say, Tush, the Lord shall not see : neither shall the God of Jacob regard it.

8 Take heed, ye unwise among the people : O ye fools, when will ye understand ?

9 He that planted the ear, shall he not hear : or he that made the eye, shall he not see ?

10 Or he that nutureth the heathen : it is he that teacheth man knowledge, shall not he punish ?

11 The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man : that they are but vain.

12 Blessed is the man whom thou chastenest, O Lord : and teachest him in thy law ;

13 That thou mayest give him patience in time of adversity : until the pit be digged up for the ungodly.

14 For the Lord will not fail his people : neither will he forsake his inheritance ;

15 Until righteousness turn again unto judgement : all such as are true in heart shall follow it.

16 Who will rise up with me against the wicked : or who will take my part against the evil-doers ?

17 If the Lord had not helped me : it had not failed but my soul had been put to silence.

18 But when I said, My foot hath slipped : thy mercy, O Lord, held me up.

19 In the multitude of the sorrows that I had in my heart : thy comforts have refreshed my soul.

20 Wilt thou have any thing to do with the stool of wickedness : which imagineth mischief as a law ?

21 They gather them together against the soul of the righteous : and condemn the innocent blood.

Ps. xcv. The Greeks have founded the invitatory with which they begin their offices on this Psalm,

'Come, let us worship and fall down before God our king.

'Come, let us worship and fall down before Christ the king our God.

'Come, let us worship and fall down before Christ our king and God.'

In the West the Psalm or an Invitatory founded upon it has been constantly used.

22 But the Lord is my refuge : and my God is the strength of my confidence.

23 He shall recompense them their wickedness, and destroy them in their own malice : yea, the Lord our God shall destroy them.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM XCV. Venite, exultemus.

COME, let us sing unto the Lord : let us heartily rejoice in the strength of our salvation.

2 Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving : and shew ourselves glad in him with psalms.

3 For the Lord is a great God : and a great King above all gods.

4 In his hand are all the corners of the earth : and the strength of the hills is his also.

5 The sea is his, and he made it : and his hands prepared the dry land.

6 O come, let us worship and fall down : and kneel before the Lord our Maker.

7 For he is the Lord our God : and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand.

8 To-day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts : as in the provocation, and as in the day of temptation in the wilderness ;

9 When your fathers tempted me : proved me, and saw my works.

10 Forty years long was I grieved with this generation, and said : It is a people that do err in their hearts, for they have not known my ways ;

11 Unto whom I sware in my wrath : that they should not enter into my rest.

PSALM XCVI. Cantate Domino.

SING unto the Lord a new song : sing unto the Lord, all the whole earth.

2 Sing unto the Lord, and praise his Name : for he hath done his salvation from day to day.

3 Declare his honour unto the heathen : and his wonders unto all people.

4 For the Lord is great, and cannot worthily be praised : he is more to be feared than all gods.

5 As for all the gods of the heathen, they are mere but idols : but it is the Lord that made the heavens.

6 Glory and worship are before him : power and honour are in his sanctuary.

7 Ascribe unto the Lord, O ye kindreds of the people : ascribe unto the Lord worship and power.

8 Ascribe unto the Lord the honour due unto his Name : bring presents, and come into his courts.

9 O worship the Lord in the beauty of his holiness : let the whole earth stand in awe of his name.

10 Tell it out among the heathen that the Lord is King : and that it is he who hath made the round world so fast that it cannot be moved ; and how that he shall judge the people righteously.

11 Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad : let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is.

12 Let the field be joyful, and all that is in it : then shall all the trees of the wood rejoice before the Lord.

13 For he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth : and with righteousness to judge the world, and the people with his truth.

PSALM XCVII. Dominus regnavit.

THE Lord is King, the earth may be glad thereof : yea, the multitude of the isles may be glad thereof.

2 Clouds and darkness are round about him : righteousness and judgement are the habitation of his seat.

3 There shall go a fire before him : and burn up his enemies on every side.

4 His lightnings gave shine unto the world : the earth saw it, and was afraid.

5 The hills melted like wax at the presence of the Lord : at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth.

6 The heavens have declared his righteousness : and all the people have seen his glory.

7 Confounded be all they that worship carved images, and that delight in vain gods : worship him, all ye gods.

8 Sion heard of it, and rejoiced : and the daughters of Judah were glad, because of thy judgements, O Lord.

9 For thou, Lord, art higher than all that are in the earth : thou art exalted far above all gods.

10 O ye that love the Lord, see that ye hate the thing which is evil : the Lord preserveth the souls of his saints ; he shall deliver them from the hand of the ungodly.

11 There is sprung up a light for the righteous : and joyful gladness for such as are true-hearted.

12 Rejoice in the Lord, ye righteous : and give thanks for a remembrance of his holiness.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM XCVIII. Cantate Domino.

SING unto the Lord a new song : for he hath done marvellous things.

2 With his own right hand, and with his holy arm : hath he gotten himself the victory.

3 The Lord declared his salvation : his righteousness hath he openly shewed in the sight of the heathen.

4 He hath remembered his mercy and truth toward the house of Israel : and all the ends of the world have seen the salvation of our God.

5 Shew yourselves joyful unto the Lord, all ye lands : sing, rejoice, and give thanks.

6 Praise the Lord upon the harp : sing to the harp with a psalm of thanksgiving.

7 With trumpets also, and shawms : O shew yourselves joyful before the Lord the King.

8 Let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is : the round world, and they that dwell therein.

9 Let the floods clap their hands, and let the hills be joyful together before the Lord : for he is come to judge the earth.

10 With righteousness shall he judge the world : and the people with equity.

PSALM XCIX. Dominus regnavit.

THE Lord is King, be the people never so impatient : he sitteth between the cherubims, be the earth never so unquiet.

Ps. c. is the 2nd Sunday Lauds Psalm in the Western office.

Ps. ci. is the 3rd Psalm in the Eastern office of the 1st hour.

Ps. cii. is used in the Greek office for confession of Penitents and in that for the Dying, likewise in the late evensong. It is a Proper Psalm for Ash-Wednesday.

2 The Lord is great in Sion : and high above all people.

3 They shall give thanks unto thy Name : which is great, wonderful, and holy.

4 The King's power loveth judgement ; thou hast prepared equity : thou hast executed judgement and righteousness in Jacob.

5 O magnify the Lord our God : and fall down before his footstool, for he is holy.

6 Moses and Aaron among his priests, and Samuel among such as call upon his Name : these called upon the Lord, and he heard them.

7 He spake unto them out of the cloudy pillar : for they kept his testimonies, and the law that he gave them.

8 Thou heardest them, O Lord our God : thou forgavest them, O God, and punishedst their own inventions.

9 O magnify the Lord our God, and worship him upon his holy hill : for the Lord our God is holy.

PSALM C. Jubilare Deo.

O BE joyful in the Lord, all ye lands : serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song.

2 Be ye sure that the Lord he is God : it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves ; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

3 O go your way into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise : be thankful unto him, and speak good of his Name.

4 For the Lord is gracious, his mercy is everlasting : and his truth endureth from generation to generation.

PSALM CI. Misericordiam et judicium.

MY song shall be of mercy and judgement : unto thee, O Lord, will I sing.

2 O let me have understanding : in the way of godliness.

3 When wilt thou come unto me : I will walk in my house with a perfect heart.

4 I will take no wicked thing in hand ; I hate the sins of unfaithfulness : there shall no such cleave unto me.

5 A froward heart shall depart from me : I will not know a wicked person.

6 Whoso privily slandereth his neighbour : him will I destroy.

7 Whoso hath also a proud look and high stomach : I will not suffer him.

8 Mine eyes look upon such as are faithful in the land : that they may dwell with me.

9 Whoso leadeth a godly life : he shall be my servant.

10 There shall no deceitful person dwell in my house : he that telleth lies shall not tarry in my sight.

11 I shall soon destroy all the ungodly that are in the land : that I may root out all wicked doers from the city of the Lord.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM CII. Domine, exaudi.

HEAR my prayer, O Lord : and let my crying come unto thee.

2 Hide not thy face from me in the time of my trouble : incline thine ear unto me when I call ; O hear me, and that right soon.

3 For my days are consumed away like smoke : and my bones are burnt up as it were a fire-brand.

4 My heart is smitten down, and withered like grass : so that I forget to eat my bread.

5 For the voice of my groaning : my bones will scarce cleave to my flesh.

6 I am become like a pelican in the wilderness : and like an owl that is in the desert.

7 I have watched, and am even as it were a sparrow : that sitteth alone upon the house-top.

8 Mine enemies revile me all the day long : and they that are mad upon me are sworn together against me.

9 For I have eaten ashes as it were bread : and mingled my drink with weeping ;

10 And that because of thine indignation and wrath : for thou hast taken me up, and cast me down.

11 My days are gone like a shadow : and I am withered like grass.

12 But, thou, O Lord, shalt endure for ever : and thy remembrance throughout all generations.

13 Thou shalt arise, and have mercy upon Sion : for it is time that thou have mercy upon her, yea, the time is come.

14 And why ? thy servants think upon her stones : and it pitieth them to see her in the dust.

15 The heathen shall fear thy Name, O Lord : and all the kings of the earth thy Majesty ;

16 When the Lord shall build up Sion : and when his glory shall appear ;

17 When he turneth him unto the prayer of the poor destitute : and despiseth not their desire.

18 This shall be written for those that come after : and the people which shall be born shall praise the Lord.

19 For he hath looked down from his sanctuary : out of the heaven did the Lord behold the earth ;

20 That he might hear the mournings of such as are in captivity : and deliver the children appointed unto death ;

21 That they may declare the Name of the Lord in Sion : and his worship at Jerusalem ;

22 When the people are gathered together : and the kingdoms also, to serve the Lord.

23 He brought down my strength in my journey : and shortened my days.

24 But I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of mine age : as for thy years, they endure throughout all generations.

25 Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth : and the heavens are the work of thy hands.

26 They shall perish, but thou shalt endure : they all shall wax old as doth a garment ;

27 And as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed : but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

28 The children of thy servants shall continue : and their seed shall stand fast in thy sight.

PSALM CIII. Benedic, anima mea.

PRAISE the Lord, O my soul : and all that is within me praise his holy Name.

Ps. civ. was called by the Greeks the Evening office. It is a Proper Psalm for Prefatory Psalm, προοιμιακός ψαλμός, and Whitsunday. and was used at the commencement of the 2 Praise the Lord, O my soul : and forget not all his benefits ;

3 Who forgiveth all thy sin : and healeth all thine infirmities ;

4 Who saveth thy life from destruction : and crowneth thee with mercy and loving-kindness ;

5 Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things : making thee young and lusty as an eagle.

6 The Lord executeth righteousness and judgement : for all them that are oppressed with wrong.

7 He shewed his ways unto Moses : his works unto the children of Israel.

8 The Lord is full of compassion and mercy : long suffering, and of great goodness.

9 He will not alway be chiding : neither keepeth he his anger for ever.

10 He hath not dealt with us after our sins : nor rewarded us according to our wickednesses.

11 For look how high the heaven is in comparison of the earth : so great is his mercy also toward them that fear him.

12 Look how wide also the east is from the west : so far hath he set our sins from us.

13 Yea, like as a father pitieth his own children : even so is the Lord merciful unto them that fear him.

14 For he knoweth whereof we are made : he remembereth that we are but dust.

15 The days of man are but as grass : for he flourisheth as a flower of the field.

16 For as soon as the wind goeth over it, it is gone ; and the place thereof shall know it no more.

17 But the merciful goodness of the Lord endureth for ever and ever upon them that fear him : and his righteousness upon children's children ;

18 Even upon such as keep his covenant : and think upon his commandments to do them.

19 The Lord hath prepared his seat in heaven : and his kingdom ruleth over all.

20 O praise the Lord, ye angels of his, ye that excel in strength : ye that fulfil his commandment, and hearken unto the voice of his words.

21 O praise the Lord, all ye his hosts : ye servants of his that do his pleasure.

22 O speak good of the Lord, all ye works of his, in all places of his dominion : praise thou the Lord, O my soul.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM CIV. Benedic, anima mea.

PRAISE the Lord, O my soul : O Lord my God, thou art become exceeding glorious ; thou art clothed with majesty and honour.

2 Thou deckest thyself with light as it were with a garment : and spreadest out the heavens like a curtain.

3 Who layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters : and maketh the clouds his chariot, and walketh upon the wings of the wind.

4 He maketh his angels spirits : and his ministers a flaming fire.

5 He laid the foundations of the earth : that it never should move at any time.

6 Thou coveredst it with the deep like as with a garment : the waters stand in the hills.

7 At thy rebuke they flee : at the voice of thy thunder they are afraid.

8 They go up as high as the hills, and down to the valleys beneath : even unto the place which thou hast appointed for them.

9 Thou hast set them their bounds which they shall not pass : neither turn again to cover the earth.

10 He sendeth the springs into the rivers : which run among the hills.

11 All beasts of the field drink thereof : and the wild asses quench their thirst.

12 Beside them shall the fowls of the air have their habitation : and sing among the branches.

13 He watereth the hills from above : the earth is filled with the fruit of thy works.

14 He bringeth forth grass for the cattle : and green herb for the service of men ;

15 That he may bring food out of the earth, and wine that maketh glad the heart of man : and oil to make him a cheerful countenance, and bread to strengthen man's heart.

16 The trees of the Lord also are full of sap : even the cedars of Libanus which he hath planted ;

17 Wherein the birds make their nests : and the fir-trees are a dwelling for the stork.

18 The high hills are a refuge for the wild goats : and so are the stony rocks for the conies.

19 He appointed the moon for certain seasons : and the sun knoweth his going down.

20 Thou makest darkness that it may be night : wherein all the beasts of the forest do move.

21 The lions roaring after their prey : do seek their meat from God.

22 The sun ariseth, and they get them away together : and lay them down in their dens.

23 Man goeth forth to his work, and to his labour : until the evening.

24 O Lord, how manifold are thy works : in wisdom hast thou made them all ; the earth is full of thy riches.

25 So is the great and wide sea also : wherein are things creeping innumerable, both small and great beasts.

26 There go the ships, and there is that Leviathan : whom thou hast made to take his pastime therein.

27 These wait all upon thee : that thou mayest give them meat in due season.

28 When thou givest it them they gather it : and when thou openest thy hand they are filled with good.

29 When thou hidest thy face they are troubled : when thou takest away their breath they die, and are turned again to their dust.

30 When thou lettest thy breath go forth they shall be made : and thou shalt renew the face of the earth.

31 The glorious Majesty of the Lord shall endure for ever : the Lord shall rejoice in his works.

32 The earth shall tremble at the look of him : if he do but touch the hills, they shall smoke.

33 I will sing unto the Lord as long as I live : I will praise my God while I have my being.

34 And so shall my words please him : my joy shall be in the Lord.

35 As for sinners, they shall be consumed out of the earth, and the ungodly shall come to an end : praise thou the Lord, O my soul, praise the Lord.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM CV. Confitemini Domino.

O GIVE thanks unto the Lord, and call upon his Name : tell the people what things he hath done.

2 O let your songs be of him, and praise him : and let your talking be of all his wondrous works.

3 Rejoice in his holy Name : let the heart of them rejoice that seek the Lord.

4 Seek the Lord and his strength : seek his face evermore.

5 Remember the marvellous works that he hath done : his wonders, and the judgements of his mouth.

6 O ye seed of Abraham his servant : ye children of Jacob his chosen.

7 He is the Lord our God : his judgements are in all the world.

8 He hath been always mindful of his covenant and promise : that he made to a thousand generations ;

9 Even the covenant that he made with Abraham : and the oath that he swore unto Isaac ;

10 And appointed the same unto Jacob for a law : and to Israel for an everlasting testament ;

11 Saying. Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan : the lot of your inheritance ;

12 When there were yet but a few of them : and they strangers in the land ;

13 What time as they went from one nation to another : from one kingdom to another people ;

14 He suffered no man to do them wrong : but reproved even kings for their sakes ;

15 Touch not mine Anointed : and do my prophets no harm.

16 Moreover, he called for a dearth upon the land : and destroyed all the provision of bread.

17 But he had sent a man before them : even Joseph, who was sold to be a bond-servant ;

18 Whose feet they hurt in the stocks : the iron entered into his soul ;

19 Until the time came that his cause was known : the word of the Lord tried him.

20 The king sent, and delivered him : the prince of the people let him go free.

21 He made him lord also of his house : and ruler of all his substance ;

22 That he might inform his princes after his will : and teach his senators wisdom.

23 Israel also came into Egypt : and Jacob was a stranger in the land of Ham.

24 And he increased his people exceedingly : and made them stronger than their enemies ;

25 Whose heart turned so, that they hated his people : and dealt untruly with his servants.

26 Then sent he Moses his servant : and Aaron whom he had chosen.

27 And these shewed his tokens among them : and wonders in the land of Ham.

28 He sent darkness, and it was dark : and they were not obedient unto his word.

29 He turned their waters into blood : and slew their fish.

30 Their land brought forth frogs : yea, even in their kings' chambers.

31 He spake the word, and there came all manner of flies : and lice in all their quarters.

32 He gave them hail-stones for rain : and flames of fire in their land.

33 He smote their vines also and fig-trees : and destroyed the trees that were in their coasts.

34 He spake the word, and the grass-hoppers came, and caterpillars innumerable : and did eat up all the grass in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground.

35 He smote all the first-born in their land : even the chief of all their strength.

36 He brought them forth also with silver and gold : there was not one feeble person among their tribes.

37 Egypt was glad at their departing : for they were afraid of them.

38 He spread out a cloud to be a covering : and fire to give light in the night-season.

39 At their desire he brought quails : and he filled them with the bread of heaven.

40 He opened the rock of stone, and the waters flowed out : so that rivers ran in the dry places.

41 For why? he remembered his holy promise : and Abraham his servant.

42 And he brought forth his people with joy : and his chosen with gladness ;

43 And gave them the lands of the heathen : and they took the labours of the people in possession ;

44 That they might keep his statutes : and observe his laws.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM CVI. Confitemini Domino.

O GIVE thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious : and his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Who can express the noble acts of the Lord : or shew forth all his praise ?

3 Blessed are they that always keep judgement : and do righteousness.

4 Remember me, O Lord, according to the favour that thou bearest unto thy people : O visit me with thy salvation ;

5 That I may see the felicity of thy chosen : and rejoice in the gladness of thy people, and give thanks with thine inheritance.

6 We have sinned with our fathers : we have done amiss, and dealt wickedly.

7 Our fathers regarded not thy wonders in Egypt, neither kept they thy great goodness in remembrance : but were disobedient at the sea, even at the Red sea.

8 Nevertheless, he helped them for his Name's sake : that he might make his power to be known.

9 He rebuked the Red sea also, and it was dried up : so he led them through the deep, as through a wilderness.

10 And he saved them from the adversary's hand : and delivered them from the hand of the enemy.

11 As for those that troubled them, the waters overwhelmed them : there was not one of them left.

12 Then believed they his words : and sang praise unto him.

13 But within a while they forgot his works : and would not abide his counsel.

14 But lust came upon them in the wilderness : and they tempted God in the desert.

15 And he gave them their desire : and sent leanness withal into their soul.

16 They angered Moses also in the tents : and Aaron the saint of the Lord.

17 So the earth opened, and swallowed up Dathan : and covered the congregation of Abiram.

18 And the fire was kindled in their company : the flame burnt up the ungodly.

19 They made a calf in Horeb : and worshipped the molten image.

20 Thus they turned their glory : into the similitude of a calf that eateth hay.

21 And they forgot God their Saviour : who had done so great things in Egypt ;

22 Wondrous works in the land of Ham : and fearful things by the Red sea.

23 So he said, he would have destroyed them, had not Moses his chosen stood before him in the gap : to turn away his wrathful indignation, lest he should destroy them.

24 Yea, they thought scorn of that pleasant land : and gave no credence unto his word ;

25 But murmured in their tents : and hearkened not unto the voice of the Lord.

26 Then lift he up his hand against them : to overthrow them in the wilderness ;

27 To cast out their seed among the nations : and to scatter them in the lands.

28 They joined themselves unto Baal-peor : and ate the offerings of the dead.

29 Thus they provoked him to anger with their own inventions : and the plague was great among them.

30 Then stood up Phinees and prayed : and so the plague ceased.

31 And that was counted unto him for righteousness : among all posterities for evermore.

32 They angered him also at the waters of strife : so that he punished Moses for their sakes ;

33 Because they provoked his spirit : so that he spake unadvisedly with his lips.

34 Neither destroyed they the heathen : as the Lord commanded them ;

35 But were mingled among the heathen : and learned their works.

36 Inasmuch that they worshipped their idols, which turned to their own decay : yea, they offered their sons and their daughters unto devils ;

37 And shed innocent blood, even the blood of their sons and of their daughters : whom they offered unto the idols of Canaan ; and the land was defiled with blood.

38 Thus were they stained with their own works : and went a whoring with their own inventions.

39 Therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people : insomuch that he abhorred his own inheritance.

40 And he gave them over into the hand of the heathen : and they that hated them were lords over them.

41 Their enemies oppressed them : and had them in subjection.

42 Many a time did he deliver them : but they rebelled against him with their own inventions, and were brought down in their wickedness.

43 Nevertheless, when he saw their adversity : he heard their complaint.

44 He thought upon his covenant, and pitied them, according unto the multitude of his mercies : yea, he made all those that led them away captive to pity them.

45 Deliver us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the heathen : that we may give thanks unto thy holy Name, and make our boast of thy praise.

46 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting, and world without end : and let all the people say, Amen.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM CVIIL. Confitemini Domino.

O GIVE thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious : and his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let them give thanks whom the Lord hath redeemed : and delivered from the hand of the enemy ;

3 And gathered them out of the lands, from the east, and from the west : from the north, and from the south.

4 They went astray in the wilderness out of the way : and found no city to dwell in ;

5 Hungry and thirsty : their soul fainted in them.

6 So they cried unto the Lord in their trouble : and he delivered them from their distress.

7 He led them forth by the right way : that they might go to the city where they dwelt.

8 O that men would therefore praise the Lord for his goodness : and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men !

9 For he satisfieth the empty soul : and filleth the hungry with goodness.

10 Such as sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death : being fast bound in misery and iron ;

11 Because they rebelled against the words of the Lord : and lightly regarded the counsel of the most Highest ;

12 He also brought down their heart through heaviness : they fell down, and there was none to help them.

13 So when they cried unto the Lord in their trouble : he delivered them out of their distress.

14 For he brought them out of darkness, and out of the shadow of death : and brake their bonds in sunder.

15 O that men would therefore praise the Lord for his goodness : and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men !

16 For he hath broken the gates of brass : and smitten the bars of iron in sunder.

17 Foolish men are plagued for their offence : and because of their wickedness.

Ps. cviii. A Proper Psalm for Ascension Day.

18 Their soul abhorred all manner of meat : and they were even hard at death's door.

19 So when they cried unto the Lord in their trouble : he delivered them out of their distress.

20 He sent his word, and healed them : and they were saved from their destruction.

21 O that men would therefore praise the Lord for his goodness : and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men !

22 That they would offer unto him the sacrifice of thanksgiving : and tell out his works with gladness !

23 They that go down to the sea in ships : and occupy their business in great waters ;

24 These men see the works of the Lord : and his wonders in the deep.

25 For at his word the stormy wind ariseth : which lifteth up the waves thereof.

26 They are carried up to the heaven, and down again to the deep : their soul melteth away because of the trouble.

27 They reel to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man : and are at their wits' end.

28 So when they cry unto the Lord in their trouble : he delivereth them out of their distress.

29 For he maketh the storm to cease : so that the waves thereof are still.

30 Then are they glad, because they are at rest : and so he bringeth them unto the haven where they would be.

31 O that men would therefore praise the Lord for his goodness : and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men !

32 That they would exalt him also in the congregation of the people : and praise him in the seat of the elders !

33 Who turneth the floods into a wilderness : and drieth up the water-springs.

34 A fruitful land maketh he barren : for the wickedness of them that dwell therein.

35 Again, he maketh the wilderness a standing water : and water-springs of a dry ground.

36 And there he setteth the hungry : that they may build them a city to dwell in ;

37 That they may sow their land, and plant vineyards : to yield them fruits of increase.

38 He blesseth them, so that they multiply exceedingly : and suffereth not their cattle to decrease.

39 And again, when they are minished, and brought low : through oppression, through any plague, or trouble ;

40 Though he suffer them to be evil intreated through tyrants : and let them wander out of the way in the wilderness ;

41 Yet helpeth he the poor out of misery : and maketh him households like a flock of sheep.

42 The righteous will consider this, and rejoice : and the mouth of all wickedness shall be stopped.

43 Whoso is wise will ponder these things : and they shall understand the loving-kindness of the Lord.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM CVIII. Paratum cor meum.

O GOD, my heart is ready, my heart is ready : I will sing and give praise with the best member that I have.

2 Awake, thou lute, and harp : I myself will awake right early.

3 I will give thanks unto thee, O Lord, among the people : I will sing praises unto thee among the nations.

4 For thy mercy is greater than the heavens : and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds.

5 Set up thyself, O God, above the heavens : and thy glory above all the earth.

6 That thy beloved may be delivered : let thy right hand save them, and hear thou me.

7 God hath spoken in his holiness : I will rejoice therefore, and divide Sichem, and mete out the valley of Succoth.

8 Gilead is mine, and Manasses is mine : Ephraim also is the strength of my head.

9 Judah is my law-giver, Moab is my wash-pot : over Edom will I cast out my shoe : upon Philistia will I triumph.

10 Who will lead me into the strong city : and who will bring me into Edom ?

11 Hast not thou forsaken us, O God : and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our hosts ?

12 O help us against the enemy : for vain is the help of man.

13 Through God we shall do great acts : and it is he that shall tread down our enemies.

PSALM CIX. Deus laudum.

HOLD not thy tongue, O God of my praise : for the mouth of the ungodly, yea, the mouth of the deceitful is opened upon me.

2 And they have spoken against me with false tongues : they compassed me about also with words of hatred, and fought against me without a cause.

3 For the love that I had unto them, lo, they take now my contrary part : but I give myself unto prayer.

4 Thus have they rewarded me evil for good : and hatred for my good will.

5 Set thou an ungodly man to be ruler over him : and let Satan stand at his right hand.

6 When sentence is given upon him, let him be condemned : and let his prayer be turned into sin.

7 Let his days be few : and let another take his office.

8 Let his children be fatherless : and his wife a widow.

9 Let his children be vagabonds, and beg their bread : let them seek it also out of desolate places.

10 Let the extortioner consume all that he hath : and let the stranger spoil his labour.

11 Let there be no man to pity him : nor to have compassion upon his fatherless children.

12 Let his posterity be destroyed : and in the next generation let his name be clean put out.

13 Let the wickedness of his fathers be had in remembrance in the sight of the Lord : and let not the sin of his mother be done away.

14 Let them alway be before the Lord : that he may root out the memorial of them from off the earth ;

15 And that, because his mind was not to do good : but persecuted the poor helpless

16 His delight was in cursing, and it shall happen unto him : he loved not blessing, therefore shall it be far from him.

17 He clothed himself with cursing, like as with a raiment : and it shall come into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones.

18 Let it be unto him as the cloke that he hath upon him : and as the girdle that he is always girded withal.

19 Let it thus happen from the Lord unto mine enemies : and to those that speak evil against my soul.

20 But deal thou with me, O Lord God, according unto thy Name : for sweet is thy mercy.

21 O deliver me, for I am helpless and poor : and my heart is wounded within me.

22 I go hence like the shadow that departeth : and am driven away as the grasshopper.

23 My knees are weak through fasting : my flesh is dried up for want of fatness.

24 I became also a reproach unto them : they that looked upon me shaked their heads.

25 Help me, O Lord my God : O save me according to thy mercy ;

26 And they shall know, how that this is thy hand : and that thou, Lord, hast done it.

27 Though they curse, yet bless thou : and let them be confounded that rise up against me ; but let thy servant rejoice.

28 Let mine adversaries be clothed with shame : and let them cover themselves with their own confusion, as with a cloke.

29 As for me, I will give great thanks unto the Lord with my mouth : and praise him among the multitude ;

30 For he shall stand at the right hand of the poor : to save his soul from unrighteous judges.

PSALM CX. Dixit Dominus.

THE LORD said unto my Lord : Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool.

2 The Lord shall send the rod of thy power out of Sion : be thou ruler, even in the midst among thine enemies.

3 In the day of thy power shall the people offer thee free-will offerings with an holy worship : the dew of thy birth is of the womb of the morning.

4 The Lord sware, and will not repent : Thou art a Priest for ever after the order of Melchisedech.

5 The Lord upon thy right hand : shall wound even kings in the day of his wrath.

6 He shall judge among the heathen ; he shall fill the places with the dead bodies : and smite in sunder the heads over divers countries.

7 He shall drink of the brook in the way : therefore shall he lift up his head.

PSALM CXI. Confitebor tibi.

I WILL give thanks unto the Lord with my whole heart : secretly among the faithful, and in the congregation.

2 The works of the Lord are great : sought out of all them that have pleasure therein.

3 His work is worthy to be praised, and had in honour : and his righteousness endureth for ever.

4 The merciful and gracious Lord hath so done his marvellous works : that they ought to be had in remembrance.

5 He hath given meat unto them that fear him : he shall ever be mindful of his covenant.

6 He hath shewed his people the power of his works : that he may give them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The works of his hands are verity and judgement : all his commandments are true.

8 They stand fast for ever and ever : and are done in truth and equity.

9 He sent redemption unto his people : he hath commanded his covenant for ever ; holy and reverend is his Name.

10 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom : a good understanding have all they that do thereafter ; the praise of it endureth for ever.

PSALM CXII. Beatus vir.

BLESSED is the man that feareth the Lord : he hath great delight in his commandments.

2 His seed shall be mighty upon earth : the generation of the faithful shall be blessed.

3 Riches and plenteousness shall be in his house : and his righteousness endureth for ever.

4 Unto the godly there ariseth up light in the darkness : he is merciful, loving, and righteous.

5 A good man is merciful, and lendeth : and will guide his words with discretion.

6 For he shall never be moved : and the righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance.

7 He will not be afraid of any evil tidings : for his heart standeth fast, and believeth in the Lord.

8 His heart is established, and will not shrink : until he see his desire upon his enemies.

9 He hath dispersed abroad, and given to the poor : and his righteousness remaineth for ever ; his horn shall be exalted with honour.

10 The ungodly shall see it, and it shall grieve him : he shall gnash with his teeth, and consume away ; the desire of the ungodly shall perish.

PSALM CXIII. Laudate, pueri.

PRAISE the Lord, ye servants : O praise the Name of the Lord.

2 Blessed be the Name of the Lord : from this time forth for evermore.

3 The Lord's Name is praised : from the rising up of the sun unto the going down of the same.

4 The Lord is high above all heathen : and his glory above the heavens.

5 Who is like unto the Lord our God, that hath his dwelling so high : and yet humbleth himself to behold the things that are in heaven and earth ?

6 He taketh up the simple out of the dust : and lifteth the poor out of the mire ;

7 That he may set him with the princes : even with the princes of his people.

8 He maketh the barren woman to keep house : and to be a joyful mother of children.

PSALM CXIV. In exitu Israel.

WHEN Israel came out of Egypt : and the house of Jacob from among the strange people,

2 Judah was his sanctuary : and Israel his dominion.

3 The sea saw that, and fled : Jordan was driven back.

4 The mountains skipped like rams : and the little hills like young sheep.

5 What aileth thee, O thou sea, that thou fleddest : and thou Jordan, that thou wast driven back ?

6 Ye mountains, that ye skipped like rams : and ye little hills, like young sheep ?

7 Tremble, thou earth, at the presence of the Lord : at the presence of the God of Jacob ;

8 Who turned the hard rock into a standing water : and the flint-stone into a springing well.

PSALM CXV. Non nobis, Domine.

NOT unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy Name give the praise : for thy loving mercy, and for thy truth's sake.

2 Wherefore shall the heathen say : Where is now their God ?

3 As for our God, he is in heaven : he hath done whatsoever pleased him.

4 Their idols are silver and gold : even the work of men's hands.

5 They have mouths, and speak not : eyes have they, and see not.

6 They have ears, and hear not : noses have they, and smell not.

7 They have hands, and handle not ; feet have they, and walk not : neither speak they through their throat.

8 They that make them are like unto them : and so are all such as put their trust in them.

9 But thou, house of Israel, trust thou in the Lord : he is their succour and defence.

10 Ye house of Aaron, put your trust in the Lord : he is their helper and defender.

11 Ye that fear the Lord, put your trust in the Lord : he is their helper and defender.

12 The Lord hath been mindful of us, and he shall bless us : even he shall bless the house of Israel, he shall bless the house of Aaron.

13 He shall bless them that fear the Lord : both small and great.

14 The Lord shall increase you more and more : you and your children.

15 Ye are the blessed of the Lord : who made heaven and earth.

16 All the whole heavens are the Lord's : the earth hath he given to the children of men.

17 The dead praise not thee, O Lord : neither all they that go down into silence.

18 But we will praise the Lord : from this time forth for evermore. Praise the Lord.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM CXVI. Dilexi, quoniam.

I AM well pleased : that the Lord hath heard the voice of my prayer ;

2 That he hath inclined his ear unto me :

therefore will I call upon him as long as I live.

3 The snares of death compassed me round about : and the pains of hell gat hold upon me.

4 I shall find trouble and heaviness, and I will call upon the Name of the Lord : O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul.

5 Gracious is the Lord, and righteous : yea, our God is merciful.

6 The Lord preserveth the simple : I was in misery, and he helped me.

7 Turn again then unto thy rest, O my soul : for the Lord hath rewarded thee.

8 And why ? thou hast delivered my soul from death : mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.

9 I will walk before the Lord : in the land of the living.

10 I believed, and therefore will I speak ; but I was sore troubled : I said in my haste, All men are liars.

11 What reward shall I give unto the Lord : for all the benefits that he hath done unto me ?

12 I will receive the cup of salvation : and call upon the Name of the Lord.

13 I will pay my vows now in the presence of all his people : right dear in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.

14 Behold, O Lord, how that I am thy servant : I am thy servant, and the son of thine handmaid ; thou hast broken my bonds in sunder.

15 I will offer to thee the sacrifice of thanksgiving : and will call upon the Name of the Lord.

16 I will pay my vows unto the Lord, in the sight of all his people : in the courts of the Lord's house, even in the midst of thee, O Jerusalem. Praise the Lord.

PSALM CXVII. Laudate Dominum.

PSALM CXVIII. Confitemini Domino.

GIVE thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious : because his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let Israel now confess, that he is gracious : and that his mercy endureth for ever.

3 Let the house of Aaron now confess : that his mercy endureth for ever.

4 Yea, let them now that fear the Lord confess : that his mercy endureth for ever.

5 I called upon the Lord in trouble : and the Lord heard me at large.

6 The Lord is on my side : I will not fear what man doeth unto me.

7 The Lord taketh my part with them that help me : therefore shall I see my desire upon mine enemies.

8 It is better to trust in the Lord : than to put any confidence in man.

9 It is better to trust in the Lord : than to put any confidence in princes.

10 All nations compassed me round about : but in the Name of the Lord will I destroy them.

11 They kept me in on every side, they kept me in, I say, on every side : but in the Name of the Lord will I destroy them.

In the midnight office of the Greek Church Ps. cxix. is sung in three portions, each ending with the Glory and Alleluia. These portions end with vv. 72, 131, 176. The Psalm is called the Amomos, 'Unfiled.' It is also used in the Greek Burial Service.

15 The voice of joy and health is in the dwellings of the righteous : the right hand of the Lord bringeth mighty things to pass.

16 The right hand of the Lord hath the pre-eminence : the right hand of the Lord bringeth mighty things to pass.

17 I shall not die, but live : and declare the works of the Lord.

18 The Lord hath chastened and corrected me : but he hath not given me over unto death.

19 Open me the gates of righteousness ; that I may go into them, and give thanks unto the Lord.

20 This is the gate of the Lord : the righteous shall enter into it.

21 I will thank thee, for thou hast heard me : and art become my salvation.

22 The same stone which the builders refused : is become the head-stone in the corner.

23 This is the Lord's doing : and it is marvellous in our eyes.

24 This is the day which the Lord hath made : we will rejoice and be glad in it.

25 Help me now, O Lord : O Lord, send us now prosperity.

26 Blessed be he that cometh in the Name of the Lord : we have wished you good luck, ye that are of the house of the Lord.

27 God is the Lord who hath shewed us light : bind the sacrifice with cords, yea, even unto the horns of the altar.

28 Thou art my God, and I will thank thee : thou art my God, and I will praise thee.

29 O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious : and his mercy endureth for ever.

59 I called mine own ways to remembrance : and turned my feet unto thy testimonies.

60 I made haste, and prolonged not the time : to keep thy commandments.

61 The congregations of the ungodly have robbed me : but I have not forgotten thy law.

62 At midnight I will rise to give thanks unto thee : because of thy righteous judgements.

63 I am a companion of all them that fear thee : and keep thy commandments.

64 The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercy : O teach me thy statutes.

Bonitatem fecisti.

OLORD, thou hast dealt graciously with thy servant : according unto thy word.

66 O learn me true understanding and knowledge : for I have believed thy commandments.

67 Before I was troubled, I went wrong : but now have I kept thy word.

68 Thou art good and gracious : O teach me thy statutes.

69 The proud have imagined a lie against me : but I will keep thy commandments with my whole heart.

70 Their heart is as fat as brawn : but my delight hath been in thy law.

71 It is good for me that I have been in trouble : that I may learn thy statutes.

72 The law of thy mouth is dearer unto me : than thousands of gold and silver.

Ebening Prayer.Manus tuas fecerunt me.

THY hands have made me and fashioned me : O give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments.

74 They that fear thee will be glad when they see me : because I have put my trust in thy word.

75 I know, O Lord, that thy judgements are right : and that thou of very faithfulness hast caused me to be troubled.

76 O let thy merciful kindness be my comfort : according to thy word unto thy servant.

77 O let thy loving mercies come unto me, that I may live : for thy law is my delight.

78 Let the proud be confounded, for they go wickedly about to destroy me : but I will be occupied in thy commandments.

79 Let such as fear thee, and have known thy testimonies : be turned unto me.

80 O let my heart be sound in thy statutes : that I be not ashamed.

Defecit anima mea.

MY soul hath longed for thy salvation : and I have a good hope because of thy word.

82 Mine eyes long sore for thy word : saying, O when wilt thou comfort me ?

83 For I am become like a bottle in the smoke : yet do I not forget thy statutes.

84 How many are the days of thy servant : when wilt thou be avenged of them that persecute me ?

85 The proud have digged pits for me : which are not after thy law.

86 All thy commandments are true : they persecute me falsely : O be thou my help.

87 They had almost made an end of me upon earth : but I forsook not thy commandments.

88 O quicken me after thy loving-kindness : and so shall I keep the testimonies of thy mouth.

In eternum, Domine.

OLORD, thy word : endureth for ever in heaven.

90 Thy truth also remaineth from one generation to another : thou hast laid the foundation of the earth, and it abideth.

91 They continue this day according to thine ordinance : for all things serve thee.

92 If my delight had not been in thy law : I should have perished in my trouble.

93 I will never forget thy commandments : for with them thou hast quickened me.

94 I am thine, O save me : for I have sought thy commandments.

95 The ungodly laid wait for me to destroy me : but I will consider thy testimonies.

96 I see that all things come to an end : but thy commandment is exceeding broad.

Quomodo dilexi!

LORD, what love have I unto thy law : all the day long is my study in it.

98 Thou through thy commandments hast made me wiser than mine enemies : for they are ever with me.

99 I have more understanding than my teachers : for thy testimonies are my study.

100 I am wiser than the aged : because I keep thy commandments.

101 I have refrained my feet from every evil way : that I may keep thy word.

102 I have not shrunk from thy judgements : for thou teachest me.

103 O how sweet are thy words unto my throat : yea, sweeter than honey unto my mouth.

104 Through thy commandments I get understanding : therefore I hate all evil ways.

Morning Prayer.

Lucerna pedibus meis.

THY word is a lantern unto my feet : and a light unto my paths.

106 I have sworn, and am stedfastly purposed : to keep thy righteous judgements.

107 I am troubled above measure : quicken me, O Lord, according to thy word.

108 Let the free-will offerings of my mouth please thee, O Lord : and teach me thy judgements.

109 My soul is alway in my hand : yet do I not forget thy law.

110 The ungodly have laid a snare for me : but yet I swerved not from thy commandments.

111 Thy testimonies have I claimed as mine heritage for ever : and why ? they are the very joy of my heart.

112 I have applied my heart to fulfil thy statutes alway : even unto the end.

Iniquos odio habui.

IHATE them that imagine evil things : but thy law do I love.

114 Thou art my defence and shield : and my trust is in thy word.

115 Away from me, ye wicked : I will keep the commandments of my God.

116 O stablish me according to thy word, that I may live : and let me not be disappointed of my hope.

117 Hold thou me up, and I shall be safe : yea, my delight shall be ever in thy statutes.

118 Thou hast trodden down all them that depart from thy statutes : for they imagine but deceit.

119 Thou puttest away all the ungodly of the earth like dross : therefore I love thy testimonies.

120 My flesh trembleth for fear of thee : and I am afraid of thy judgements.

Feci iudicium.

IDEAL with the thing that is lawful and right : O give me not over unto mine oppressors.

122 Make thou thy servant to delight in that which is good : that the proud do me no wrong.

123 Mine eyes are wasted away with looking for thy health : and for the word of thy righteousness.

124 O deal with thy servant according unto thy loving mercy : and teach me thy statutes.

125 I am thy servant, O grant me understanding : that I may know thy testimonies.

126 It is time for thee, Lord, to lay to thine hand : for they have destroyed thy law.

127 For I love thy commandments : above gold and precious stone.

128 Therefore hold I straight all thy commandments : and all false ways I utterly abhor.

Mirabilia.

THY testimonies are wonderful : therefore doth my soul keep them.

130 When thy word goeth forth : it giveth light and understanding unto the simple.

131 I opened my mouth, and drew in my breath : for my delight was in thy commandments.

132 O look thou upon me, and be merciful unto me : as thou usest to do unto those that love thy Name.

133 Order my steps in thy word : and so shall no wickedness have dominion over me.

134 O deliver me from the wrongful dealings of men : and so shall I keep thy commandments.

135 Shew the light of thy countenance upon thy servant : and teach me thy statutes.

136 Mine eyes gush out with water : because men keep not thy law.

Iustus es, Domine.

RIGHTEOUS art thou, O Lord : and true is thy judgement.

138 The testimonies that thou hast commanded : are exceeding righteous and true.

139 My zeal hath even consumed me : because mine enemies have forgotten thy words.

140 Thy word is tried to the uttermost : and thy servant loveth it.

141 I am small, and of no reputation : yet do I not forget thy commandments.

142 Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness : and thy law is the truth.

143 Trouble and heaviness have taken hold upon me : yet is my delight in thy commandments.

144 The righteousness of thy testimonies is everlasting : O grant me understanding, and I shall live.

Evening Prayer.

Clamavi in toto corde meo.

ICALL with my whole heart : hear me, O Lord, I will keep thy statutes.

146 Yea, even unto thee do I call : help me, and I shall keep thy testimonies.

147 Early in the morning do I cry unto thee : for in thy word is my trust.

148 Mine eyes prevent the night-watches : that I might be occupied in thy words.

149 Hear my voice, O Lord, according unto thy loving-kindness : quicken me, according as thou art wont.

150 They draw nigh that of malice persecute me : and are far from thy law.

151 Be thou nigh at hand, O Lord : for all thy commandments are true.

152 As concerning thy testimonies, I have known long since : that thou hast grounded them for ever.

Vide humilitatem.

ONSIDER mine adversity, and deliver me : for I do not forget thy law.

Psalms cxxi—cxxxiv. are called Songs of Degrees because they were appointed to be sung on the steps of the Temple between the court of the men and the women; or because they were sung in parts by different classes; or because they were pilgrim songs used on the approach of pilgrims to Jerusalem, cxxi. referring to the first view of the city, cxxii. to arrival at the gates.

Ps. cxxi. is used in the close of the Greek Nocturns.

In the Greek Church the Psalms cxxi.—

cxxxiv. are called Proskytia, πρὸς κύριον, from the first words of Ps. cxxi; they are said at vespers during the 15 weeks preceding Christmas but for cxxxiv., as occurring in Nocturns, cxxxvi. is substituted. They are also said on week days during Lent.

In the Western Church, these fifteen Psalms were originally appointed for every day during Lent; they are still said every Wednesday in that season.

Ps. cxxiii. is sung as a Hymn daily in the Greek Vespers.

154 Avenge thou my cause, and deliver me : quicken me, according to thy word.

155 Health is far from the ungodly : for they regard not thy statutes.

156 Great is thy mercy, O Lord : quicken me, as thou art wont.

157 Many there are that trouble me, and persecute me : yet do I not swerve from thy testimonies.

158 It grieveth me when I see the transgressors : because they keep not thy law.

159 Consider, O Lord, how I love thy commandments : O quicken me, according to thy loving-kindness.

160 Thy word is true from everlasting : all the judgements of thy righteousness endure for evermore.

Principes persecuti sunt.

PRINCES have persecuted me without a cause : but my heart standeth in awe of thy word.

162 I am as glad of thy word : as one that findeth great spoils.

163 As for lies, I hate and abhor them : but thy law do I love.

164 Seven times a day do I praise thee : because of thy righteous judgements.

165 Great is the peace that they have who love thy law : and they are not offended at it.

166 Lord, I have looked for thy saving health : and done after thy commandments.

167 My soul hath kept thy testimonies : and loved them exceedingly.

168 I have kept thy commandments and testimonies : for all my ways are before thee.

Appropinquet deprecatio.

LET my complaint come before thee, O Lord : give me understanding, according to thy word.

170 Let my supplication come before thee : deliver me, according to thy word.

171 My lips shall speak of thy praise : when thou hast taught me thy statutes.

172 Yea, my tongue shall sing of thy word : for all thy commandments are righteous.

173 Let thine hand help me : for I have chosen thy commandments.

174 I have longed for thy saving health, O Lord : and in thy law is my delight.

175 O let my soul live, and it shall praise thee : and thy judgements shall help me.

176 I have gone astray like a sheep that is lost : O seek thy servant, for I do not forget thy commandments.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM CXX. Ad Dominum.

WHEN I was in trouble I called upon the Lord : and he heard me.

2 Deliver my soul, O Lord, from lying lips : and from a deceitful tongue.

3 What reward shall be given or done unto thee, thou false tongue : even mighty and sharp arrows, with hot burning coals.

4 Woe is me, that I am constrained to dwell with Mesech : and to have my habitation among the tents of Kedar.

5 My soul hath long dwelt among them : that are enemies unto peace.

6 I labour for peace, but when I speak unto them thereof : they make them ready to battle.

PSALM CXXI. Levavi oculos.

I WILL lift up mine eyes unto the hills : from whence cometh my help.

2 My help cometh even from the Lord : who hath made heaven and earth.

3 He will not suffer thy foot to be moved : and he that keepeth thee will not sleep.

4 Behold, he that keepeth Israel : shall neither slumber nor sleep.

5 The Lord himself is thy keeper : the Lord is thy defence upon thy right hand ;

6 So that the sun shall not burn thee by day : neither the moon by night.

7 The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil : yea, it is even he that shall keep thy soul.

8 The Lord shall preserve thy going out, and thy coming in : from this time forth for evermore.

PSALM CXXII. Latatus sum.

I WAS glad when they said unto me : We will go into the house of the Lord.

2 Our feet shall stand in thy gates : O Jerusalem.

3 Jerusalem is built as a city : that is at unity in itself.

4 For thither the tribes go up, even the tribes of the Lord : to testify unto Israel, to give thanks unto the Name of the Lord.

5 For there is the seat of judgement : even the seat of the house of David.

6 O pray for the peace of Jerusalem : they shall prosper that love thee.

7 Peace be within thy walls : and plenty within thy palaces.

8 For my brethren and companions' sakes : I will wish thee prosperity.

9 Yea, because of the house of the Lord our God : I will seek to do thee good.

PSALM CXXIII. Ad te levavi oculos meos.

UNTO thee lift I up mine eyes : O thou that dwellest in the heavens.

2 Behold, even as the eyes of servants look unto the hand of their masters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her mistress : even so our eyes wait upon the Lord our God, until he have mercy upon us.

3 Have mercy upon us, O Lord, have mercy upon us : for we are utterly despised.

4 Our soul is filled with the scornful reproof of the wealthy : and with the despitefulness of the proud.

5 Our soul is filled with the scornful reproof of the wealthy : and with the despitefulness of the proud.

6 Our soul is filled with the scornful reproof of the wealthy : and with the despitefulness of the proud.

PSALM CXXIV. Nisi quia Dominus.

IF the Lord himself had not been on our side, now may Israel say : if the Lord himself had not been on our side, when men rose up against us ;

2 They had swallowed us up quick : when they were so wrathfully displeased at us.

3 Yea, the waters had drowned us : and the stream had gone over our soul.

4 The deep waters of the proud : had gone even over our soul.

5 But praised be the Lord : who hath not given us over for a prey unto their teeth.

6 Our soul is escaped even as a bird out of the snare of the fowler : the snare is broken, and we are delivered.

7 Our help standeth in the Name of the Lord : who hath made heaven and earth.

PSALM CXXV. Qui confidunt.

THEY that put their trust in the Lord shall be even as the mount Sion : which may not be removed, but standeth fast for ever.

2 The hills stand about Jerusalem : even so standeth the Lord round about his people, from this time forth for evermore.

3 For the rod of the ungodly cometh not into the lot of the righteous : lest the righteous put their hand unto wickedness.

4 Do well, O Lord : unto those that are good and true of heart.

5 As for such as turn back unto their own wickedness : the Lord shall lead them forth with the evildoers ; but peace shall be upon Israel.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM CXXVI. In convertendo.

WHEN the Lord turned again the captivity of Sion : then were we like unto them that dream.

2 Then was our mouth filled with laughter : and our tongue with joy.

3 Then said they among the heathen : The Lord hath done great things for them.

4 Yea, the Lord hath done great things for us already : whereof we rejoice.

5 Turn our captivity, O Lord : as the rivers in the south.

6 They that sow in tears : shall reap in joy.

7 He that now goeth on his way weeping, and beareth forth good seed : shall doubtless come again with joy, and bring his sheaves with him.

PSALM CXXVII. Nisi Dominus.

EXCEPT the Lord build the house : their labour is but lost that build it.

2 Except the Lord keep the city : the watchman waketh but in vain.

3 It is but lost labour that ye haste to rise up early, and so late take rest, and eat the bread of carefulness : for so he giveth his beloved sleep.

4 Lo, children and the fruit of the womb : are an heritage and gift that cometh of the Lord.

5 Like as the arrows in the hand of the giant : even so are the young children.

6 Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them : they shall not be ashamed when they speak with their enemies in the gate.

PSALM CXXVIII. Beati omnes.

BLESSED are all they that fear the Lord : and walk in his ways.

2 For thou shalt eat the labours of thine hands : O well is thee, and happy shalt thou be.

3 Thy wife shall be as the fruitful vine : upon the walls of thine house.

4 Thy children like the olive-branches : round about thy table.

5 Lo, thus shall the man be blessed : that feareth the Lord.

6 The Lord from out of Sion shall so bless thee : that thou shalt see Jerusalem in prosperity all thy life long.

7 Yea, that thou shalt see thy children's children : and peace upon Israel.

PSALM CXXIX. Sæpe expugnaverunt.

MANY a time have they fought against me from my youth up : may Israel now say.

2 Yea, many a time have they vexed me from my youth up : but they have not prevailed against me.

3 The plowers plowed upon my back : and made long furrows.

4 But the righteous Lord : hath hewn the snares of the ungodly in pieces.

5 Let them be confounded and turned backward : as many as have evil will at Sion.

6 Let them be even as the grass growing upon the house-tops : which withereth afore it be plucked up ;

7 Whereof the mower filleth not his hand : neither he that bindeth up the sheaves his bosom.

8 So that they who go by say not so much as, The Lord prosper you : we wish you good luck in the Name of the Lord.

PSALM CXXX. De profundis.

OUT of the deep have I called unto thee, O Lord : Lord, hear my voice.

2 O let thine ears consider well : the voice of my complaint.

3 If thou, Lord, wilt be extreme to mark what is done amiss : O Lord, who may abide it ?

4 For there is mercy with thee : therefore shalt thou be feared.

5 I look for the Lord ; my soul doth wait for him : in his word is my trust.

6 My soul fleeth unto the Lord : before the morning watch, I say, before the morning watch.

7 O Israel, trust in the Lord, for with the Lord there is mercy : and with him is plentiful redemption.

8 And he shall redeem Israel : from all his sins.

PSALM CXXXI. Domine, non est.

LORD, I am not high-minded : I have no proud looks.

2 I do not exercise myself in great matters : which are too high for me.

3 But I refrain my soul, and keep it low, like as a child that is weaned from his mother : yea, my soul is even as a weaned child.

4 O Israel, trust in the Lord : from this time forth for evermore.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM CXXXII. Memento, Domine.

LORD, remember David : and all his trouble ;

2 How he sware unto the Lord : and vowed a vow unto the Almighty God of Jacob ;

3 I will not come within the tabernacle of mine house : nor climb up into my bed ;

4 I will not suffer mine eyes to sleep, nor mine eye-lids to slumber : neither the temples of my head to take any rest ;

5 Until I find out a place for the temple of the Lord : an habitation for the mighty God of Jacob.

6 Lo, we heard of the same at Ephrata : and found it in the wood.

7 We will go into his tabernacle : and fall low on our knees before his footstool.

8 Arise, O Lord, into thy resting-place : thou, and the ark of thy strength.

9 Let thy priests be clothed with righteousness : and let thy saints sing with joyfulness.

Ps. cxxxiv. was used at the close of the Greek Nocturns, and was also the last Psalm of compline.

Pss. cxxxv. and cxxxvi. said together are called by the Greeks the Polyeleos, from the continual repetition in the latter of the mercy of God.

10 For thy servant David's sake : turn not away the presence of thine Anointed.

11 The Lord hath made a faithful oath unto David : and he shall not shrink from it ;

12 Of the fruit of thy body : shall I set upon thy seat.

13 If thy children will keep my covenant, and my testimonies that I shall learn them : their children also shall sit upon thy seat for evermore.

14 For the Lord hath chosen Sion to be an habitation for himself : he hath longed for her.

15 This shall be my rest for ever : here will I dwell, for I have a delight therein.

16 I will bless her victuals with increase : and will satisfy her poor with bread.

17 I will deck her priests with health : and her saints shall rejoice and sing.

18 There shall I make the horn of David to flourish : I have ordained a lantern for mine Anointed.

19 As for his enemies, I shall clothe them with shame : but upon himself shall his crown flourish.

PSALM CXXXIII. Ecce, quam bonum !

BEHOLD, how good and joyful a thing it is : brethren, to dwell together in unity !

2 It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down unto the beard : even unto Aaron's beard, and went down to the skirts of his clothing.

3 Like as the dew of Hermon : which fell upon the hill of Sion.

4 For there the Lord promised his blessing : and life for evermore.

PSALM CXXXIV. Ecce nunc.

BEHOLD now, praise the Lord : all ye servants of the Lord ;

2 Ye that by night stand in the house of the Lord : even in the courts of the house of our God.

3 Lift up your hands in the sanctuary : and praise the Lord.

4 The Lord that made heaven and earth : give thee blessing out of Sion.

PSALM CXXXV. Laudate Nomen.

O PRAISE the Lord, laud ye the Name of the Lord : praise it, O ye servants of the Lord ;

2 Ye that stand in the house of the Lord : in the courts of the house of our God.

3 O praise the Lord, for the Lord is gracious : O sing praises unto his Name, for it is lovely.

4 For why? the Lord hath chosen Jacob unto himself : and Israel for his own possession.

5 For I know that the Lord is great : and that our Lord is above all gods.

6 Whatsoever the Lord pleased, that did he in heaven, and in earth : and in the sea, and in all deep places.

7 He bringeth forth the clouds from the ends of the world : and sendeth forth lightnings with the rain, bringing the winds out of his treasures.

8 He smote the first-born of Egypt : both of man and beast.

9 He hath sent tokens and wonders into the midst of thee, O thou land of Egypt : upon Pharaoh, and all his servants.

10 He smote divers nations : and slew mighty kings ;

11 Sehon king of the Amorites, and Og the king of Basan : and all the kingdoms of Canaan ;

12 And gave their land to be an heritage : even an heritage unto Israel his people.

13 Thy Name, O Lord, endureth for ever : so doth thy memorial, O Lord, from one generation to another.

14 For the Lord will avenge his people : and be gracious unto his servants.

15 As for the images of the heathen, they are but silver and gold : the work of men's hands.

16 They have mouths, and speak not : eyes have they, but they see not.

17 They have ears, and yet they hear not : neither is there any breath in their mouths.

18 They that make them are like unto them : and so are all they that put their trust in them.

19 Praise the Lord, ye house of Israel : praise the Lord, ye house of Aaron.

20 Praise the Lord, ye house of Levi : ye that fear the Lord, praise the Lord.

21 Praised be the Lord out of Sion : who dwelleth at Jerusalem.

Ebening Prayer.

PSALM CXXXVI. Confitemini.

O GIVE thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious : and his mercy endureth for ever.

2 O give thanks unto the God of all gods : for his mercy endureth for ever.

3 O thank the Lord of all lords : for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 Who only doeth great wonders : for his mercy endureth for ever.

5 Who by his excellent wisdom made the heavens : for his mercy endureth for ever.

6 Who laid out the earth above the waters : for his mercy endureth for ever.

7 Who hath made great lights : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

8 The sun to rule the day : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

9 The moon and the stars to govern the night : for his mercy endureth for ever.

10 Who smote Egypt with their first-born : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

11 And brought out Israel from among them : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

12 With a mighty hand, and stretched out arm : for his mercy endureth for ever.

13 Who divided the Red sea in two parts : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

14 And made Israel to go through the midst of it : for his mercy endureth for ever.

15 But as for Pharaoh and his host, he overthrew them in the Red sea : for his mercy endureth for ever.

16 Who led his people through the wilderness : for his mercy endureth for ever.

17 Who smote great kings : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

18 Yea, and slew mighty kings : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

19 Sehon king of the Amorites : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

20 And Og the king of Basan : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

21 And gave away their land for an heritage : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

Ps. cxxxviii. is the 2nd Psalm in the Mesorion of the 9th hour.

Ps. cxi. is the 3rd Psalm in the Mesorion of the 9th hour.

22 Even for an heritage unto Israel his servant : for his mercy endureth for ever.

23 Who remembered us when we were in trouble : for his mercy endureth for ever ;

24 And hath delivered us from our enemies : for his mercy endureth for ever.

25 Who giveth food to all flesh : for his mercy endureth for ever.

26 O give thanks unto the God of heaven : for his mercy endureth for ever.

27 O give thanks unto the Lord of lords : for his mercy endureth for ever.

PSALM CXXXVII. Super flumina.

BY the waters of Babylon we sat down and wept : when we remembered thee, O Sion.

2 As for our harps, we hanged them up : upon the trees that are therein.

3 For they that led us away captive required of us then a song, and melody, in our heaviness : Sing us one of the songs of Sion.

4 How shall we sing the Lord's song : in a strange land ?

5 If I forget thee, O Jerusalem : let my right hand forget her cunning.

6 If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth : yea, if I prefer not Jerusalem in my mirth.

7 Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem : how they said, Down with it, down with it, even to the ground.

8 O daughter of Babylon, wasted with misery : yea, happy shall he be that rewardeth thee, as thou hast served us.

9 Blessed shall he be that taketh thy children : and throweth them against the stones.

PSALM CXXXVIII. Confitebor tibi.

I WILL give thanks unto thee, O Lord, with my whole heart : even before the gods will I sing praise unto thee.

2 I will worship toward thy holy temple, and praise thy Name, because of thy loving-kindness and truth : for thou hast magnified thy Name, and thy Word, above all things.

3 When I called upon thee, thou heardest me : and enduedst my soul with much strength.

4 All the kings of the earth shall praise thee, O Lord : for they have heard the words of thy mouth.

5 Yea, they shall sing in the ways of the Lord : that great is the glory of the Lord.

6 For though the Lord be high, yet hath he respect unto the lowly : as for the proud, he beholdeth them afar off.

7 Though I walk in the midst of trouble, yet shalt thou refresh me : thou shalt stretch forth thy hand upon the furiousness of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me.

8 The Lord shall make good his loving-kindness toward me : yea, thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever ; despise not then the works of thine own hands.

Morning Prayer.

PSALM CXXXIX. Domine, probasti.

O LORD, thou hast searched me out, and known me : thou knowest my down-sitting, and mine up-rising ; thou understandest my thoughts long before.

2 Thou art about my path, and about my bed : and spiest out all my ways.

3 For lo, there is not a word in my tongue : but thou, O Lord, knowest it altogether.

4 Thou hast fashioned me behind and before : and laid thine hand upon me.

5 Such knowledge is too wonderful and excellent for me : I cannot attain unto it.

6 Whither shall I go then from thy Spirit : or whither shall I go then from thy presence ?

7 If I climb up into heaven, thou art there ; if I go down to hell, thou art there also.

8 If I take the wings of the morning : and remain in the uttermost parts of the sea ;

9 Even there also shall thy hand lead me : and thy right hand shall hold me.

10 If I say, Peradventure the darkness shall cover me : then shall my night be turned to day.

11 Yea, the darkness is no darkness with thee, but the night is as clear as the day : the darkness and light to thee are both alike.

12 For my reins are thine : thou hast covered me in my mother's womb.

13 I will give thanks unto thee, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made : marvellous are thy works, and that my soul knoweth right well.

14 My bones are not hid from thee : though I be made secretly, and fashioned beneath in the earth.

15 Thine eyes did see my substance, yet being imperfect : and in thy book were all my members written ;

16 Which day by day were fashioned : when as yet there was none of them.

17 How dear are thy counsels unto me, O God : O how great is the sum of them !
